

18th February.

Dear John,

Thank you for your letter concerning the local government and Westminster elections.

Unfortunately John you have been wrongfully. There is no way I could be prepared to stand for either of the elections. I am prepared to do some work on the Committee for 1997 and hopefully get more people and younger people involved.

I do not believe we should have people standing just for the sake of exercising the universal vote in Greater London. We should only put up good candidates in constituencies where we can develop a substantial campaign. ✓ believe

Alliance needs lots of good fathers, good literature and sufficient canvassers. However, who am I to say if I am not prepared to work.

We are having our family dinner at the end of March when we shall have interesting discussion. As the maintenance of work for any successful is the difficult time ahead.

Yours.

Sean O'Donnell
