MITCHELL

A few reasons why every one should vote for Mitchell:

Because it is nearest to the center of population.

Because it has one of the finest locations in the state for a capital.

Because it has far the best railroad facilities of any town in the state.

Because it has two public halls particularly well fitted for legislative purposes.

Because its educational advantages are in keeping with the demands of the future capital city.

Because it is on the main trunk lines of the C. M. & St. Paul and C. & N. W. railroads, the leading roads of the northwest.

Because in six months from the date of the location it will have direct rail communication with the Black Hills. This is official.

Because it is below the snow line, and its railroads are therefore comparatively free from blockades during the severest weather.

Because it is in the center of the "corn belt" and will therefore always remain the center of the wealthiest and most thickly settled portion of the state.

Because it has demonstrated during two territorial fairs and on numerous other occasions a general nature that it can accommodate visitors without difficulty.

Because it is the easiest of access from all parts of the state. There are twice as many towns from which a man may ride to Mitchell without changing cars as to any other city.

Because the location of the city is high and dry. It has the best natural drainage of any city within the boundaries of the new state. Its healthfulness is therefore preeminently first class.

Republican State Convention.

A republican state convention for South Dakota is hereby called to assemble in the opera house at Huron on the 27th day of August, 1889, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day to vote in nomination the following named officers...

- Counties: Delegates: Delegates: Aurora, 7; Hutchinson, 7; Bend, 6; Hyde, 4; Brookings, 11; Kingsbury, 12; Buffalo, 8; Lakota, 9; Brule, 6; Lawrence, 9; Bon Homme, 10; Lincoln, 15; Butte, 12; Meade, 11; Campbell, 6; McPherson, 6; Clark, 11; McCook, 7; Codington, 10; Miner, 8; Charles Mix, 9; Lawrence, 9; Clay, 11; Moody, 9; Day, 9; Pennington, 9; Deuel, 6; Roberts, 2; Davison, 9; Potter, 5; Edmond, 8; Spink, 18; Fall River, 3; Sully, 6; Faulk, 11; Turner, 14; Grant, 7; Union, 14; Hamlin, 10; Hand, 11; Yankton, 15; Hanson, 6; Total, 448; Hughes, 6.

Col. D. M. Evans, formerly of the Milbank Index, is said to be now occupying the editorial chair of the Aberdeen News.

It is amusing to note the clever balancing act of the Sioux Falls Press between its capital aspirations and its senatorial yearning.

Every reason that applies to any other town in this capital fight applies to Mitchell equally well, to say nothing of the advantages she possesses which others do not.

Editor Andrews, of the Dakwana Press who is at present enjoying his honeymoon, will find a commission as postmaster awaiting his return, he having just been appointed.

Mitchell has the energy, the resources and the right to make the liveliest capital light of any town in South Dakota. Unity of action will accomplish the very best results along this line.

"Get together" is the advice the democratic organs have been pouring in to the demoralized party since last fall. The citizens of Mitchell have "got together" in the capital fight and propose to stay together until the last ballot is dropped next October.

Now comes Conklin's Dakotian and nominates Don C. Needham of Jerauld county for secretary of state. Don is a republican alliance man, is a successful farmer and stock raiser and has been a newspaper man, so if he should enter the race he could make it right lively for the rest of the boys.

Our esteemed republican friend, Major Edwards of the Fargo Argus, remarks approvingly:

The Mitchell REPUBLICAN is right. There is entirely too much sentimentality about the president being burdened by office seekers. General Harrison was an office seeker himself—he got what he was after—why not let others have a show?

A recent decision of commissioner Stone of the general land office, which we print today, indicates that the policy of the present administration toward the settlers of the northwest is in the strongest possible contrast with that of the Sparks regime. The case in question is one in which the former register and receiver of the local land office disagreed, the first mentioned officer holding close to the letter of the Sparks policy, while his associate ruled in favor of the settler.

It is understood that Edgerton, if he finds his own election impossible, will give way to Pettigrew and accept the United States district judgeship.

The above appears in the Sioux Falls correspondence to several outside papers, notably the Pioneer-Press and the Sioux City Journal, and its intent is apparent on the face of it. No one really believes there is any such arrangement, but it has been so often intimated that Judge Edgerton might be excused for publicly stamping it as false, as he has done repeatedly in private conversation.

The Oklahoma daily Capital of June 11th has the following concerning a well-known Dakotan, who will undoubtedly take an active part in the opening of the reservation:

Major Pickler leaves today for Faulkton, Dakota. No federal officer in Oklahoma is better known than Major Pickler, and certainly no man ranks higher in popularity with the citizens of Guthrie. In his new field of usefulness we hope the Major may meet with the same kind and congenial friends he has been surrounded with here, and he carries with him to his new field of labor the best wishes of The Capital, regardless of party politics.

It's tough to be a candidate for public favor. Delegate Mathews was obliged to go to Washington before the Fourth and missed the soldiers' and sailors' reunion at Brookings; hence, the kickers say he has not shown the veterans proper courtesy. Judge Edgerton traveled all one night, after a hard day's labor at Sioux Falls, to meet an engagement on the same occasion, and some of his critics accuse him of being too anxious to cultivate the soldier vote. Each criticism is as just as the other, and neither ought to have a particle of weight with reasonable men.

Aberdeen News says: The News is informed on the best of authority that Judge Tripp and many leading lawyers at Sioux Falls are of the opinion that the enabling act, under authority of which the constitutional convention has convened, does not require the prohibition article of the constitution to be submitted to vote again; that it has already been adopted as a part of the constitution, and that the election in May ratified the prohibition article with the rest of the instrument. A canvas of the members of the convention shows that nearly two-thirds of them acquiesce in this opinion of Judge Tripp. Should this view prevail it will greatly simplify the issues of the campaign.

The point made is well worth considering, but it seems to us that another vote is to be taken on the constitution this fall, and as it is still within the power of the people to reject that instrument on its resubmission, the amendments must again be voted on.

E. V. Smalley, the observant editor of the Northwest Magazine, made his first visit to South Dakota recently and registers his impressions of a marked contrast between this section and North Dakota as follows:

I used to regard the timber-culture law as a failure and a vehicle for fraud, judging by what I had seen of its workings in North Dakota, where tree claims with flourishing trees upon them are about as rare as white black-birds. I was forced to change my opinion, however, when recently I had occasion to make a journey through South Dakota and through the southwestern counties of Minnesota. Between Mitchell and Sioux Falls and between Sioux Falls and Worthington I saw hundreds of successful tree claim makers making the whole face of the landscape beautiful with their strips and squares of poplar groves. All the native bareness and monotony of the prairie is gone. On many of the plantations the trees have attained a height of from twenty to thirty-five feet.

The joint commission to divide the property of the territory of Dakota between the two states has by far the most difficult task of either of the commissions, and one which will require the utmost diplomacy to carry out successfully. In view of this fact both commissions could hardly have been better chosen.

Medical college for the purpose of undergoing an examination to ascertain the nature of his disease, and to have a surgical operation performed. But the doctors thought that on account of the advanced stage of the tumor, which they decided was the difficulty, and the frail condition of his constitution, it was not safe to undertake the operation, and George returned from Chicago, fully reconciled to the belief that the end would soon come. He leaves a wife and three children. The funeral services took place last Sabbath in the Methodist church and his remains are now at rest in the Mt. Vernon burying ground.

Constitutional Chairmanships. Judge Edgerton has appointed the several committees, with the following excellent selections for chairmen:

Congressional and legislative apportionment, Van Tassel of Sanborn; judiciary, Sterling of Spink; schedule, Hoie of Beadle; names, boundaries and public utility, Dickinson of Day; county and township organizations, Whitlock of Potter; revenue and finance, Goddard of McCook; public accounts and expenditures, Hirsigard of Union; state institutions and public buildings, Young of Lake; mines, mining and water rights, O'Brien of Lawrence; roads, bridges and other internal improvements, Smith of Charles Mix; ex-empiments, Buchler of Hutchinson; rights of married women, Willis of Aurora; banking and currency, Davies of Edmunds; military affairs, Clough of Codington; amendments and revisions of constitution, Bouchler of Moorhead; printing, Humphrey of Faulk; seal, Houlton of Douglas; miscellaneous subjects, Eddy of Miner; compensation of public officers, Williamson of Moody; arrangements and philosophy, Carson of Lawrence; manufacture of agricultural implements, expenses of convention, Huntly of Jerauld; engrossment and enrollment, Hartly of Hand.

The Albany, N. Y., Argus is pretty nearly as rabid as some other Arguses we know of, when it says: The land grabbers have the ear of the administration and are ready for another raid, greater than any before, should their friends gain control of the new states. Let the democratic national committee lose no time, then, in making a bold and persevering fight for Montana, Washington and the two Dakotas. Victory is in their hands if they will only realize the fact.

The land policy of the late democratic administration would afford a magnificent platform on which to make a canvass in the northwestern states indeed it would.

The Farmers' Worst Enemy. Fargo Republican: Any man who attempts to inflame the minds of farmers to extraordinary measures is in reality an enemy. That there are abuses which ought to be corrected no fair man will deny. How best to accomplish this is a matter worthy of serious consideration. Inflammatory utterances by recognized representatives of either of the political parties or would be representatives of the farmers do not tend in this direction.

Misery Loves Company. Bismarck Tribune: Another week of high winds, hot sun and no rains has passed, and the grain is looking correspondingly depressed. What promised to yield an abundant crop a few weeks ago fell off in two days to 75 per cent, and in two weeks about 50 per cent. It is safe to say that not more than a full half crop of small grain will be harvested in North Dakota this fall. Corn is looking excellent and potatoes generally are suffering but little.

The Artesian Project. Huronite: Judge Moody declares that if ever clothed with the full power of a United States senator, he shall advocate liberal appropriations for the development of the Dakota artesian system.

A Great Battle. Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A good reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this peculiar medicine.

A Boy's Ingenuity. Croton, Conn., boasts of a boy who is full of pure Yankee ingenuity. In the past he has been obliged to rise in the morning about 5 o'clock and feed a horse which is kept in the barn near his place of residence. Finding this a little too monotonous and irksome he fulfilled his mission and enjoyed blissful rest simultaneously. He arranged a small box in the upper part of the barn directly over the manger in such way that by pulling a cord the box was tipped or dumped, depositing the grain in the feed box. The other end of the cord was carried through the window of his room and attached to the bedstead.—Boston Herald.

CHICAGO, July 8.—At a meeting held here during the evening, which was attended by the chairman and Simon Thompson, to be a meeting of "Americans" without any hyphen, to denounce the Clan-na-Gael society, C. E. Minor made a speech in which he said that the Irish were not citizens of America at all, but owed their fealty to a republic that he could not find on the map of the world; hence they ought to be deprived of all rights of citizenship in this Republic.

Catholic Prayer Book Revised. BALTIMORE, July 8.—The Roman Catholic prayer book authorized by the third plenary council of Baltimore, which met in 1884, has been completed and placed in the hands of the printer. It will take the place of the various Catholic prayer books now in use. Every page of it in proof sheets was sent to every Catholic bishop and archbishop in the United States for their approval, and as issued it will have the unanimous indorsement of the hierarchy.

Decrease in Circulation. WASHINGTON, July 8.—The treasury department monthly statement of changes in the circulation shows a net decrease of $17,324,701 during the past month. There was a decrease of $13,251,003 in gold certificates, $3,599,298 in national bank notes, $1,810,098 in United States notes, $908,376 in gold coin and $338,950 in standard silver dollars, and an increase of $1,354,635 in silver certificates.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder MOST PERFECT MADE.

Contains No Ammonia, Lime or Alum. "CASE SCHOOL OF APPLIED SCIENCE." CLEVELAND, OHIO.

With my other food analyses, I have just completed a thorough chemical examination of DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER, purchased from retail dealers in this city, and it shows an entire freedom from Ammonia, Alum, Lime and other impurities. Every pound can of PRICE'S BAKING POWDER was found to contain 2,793 cubic inches of carbonic acid gas. This is equivalent, under the conditions of baking, to over ten gallons of the valuable or leavening power of baking powders.
