Dear John,

I am writing to you to say that, in the light of the events of the last few months, I wish to completely withdraw my remarks, insofar as I applied them to you personally, in my letter of resignation some months ago. As you are well aware, I am prone to express my views both bluntly and openly, a fact for which I have no regrets, but I now feel the wish to express my admiration for the way in which you have conducted yourself in the present situation.

Assuring you of my continued support in all matters (I will not be naive enough to suggest that this will always be without argument),

Yours sincerely,

Derek Bell.
