Mr. Cassidy: I think these words were stricken out by the revision committee.

Mr. Parsons: The revision committee did not have the authority to do that.

Mr. Cunniff: I find in looking up this copy it was stricken out by the revision committee.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. President, I think the revision committee exceeded its authority. I think it changes the sense of the meaning of the proposition and that the committee had no right to do it.

Mr. Cassidy: Mr. President, I think the reason it was stricken out is this: There cannot be any session of the legislature to otherwise provide until after this election is held, consequently it is superfluous.

Mr. Parsons: It may be true.

[e947914] Mr. President: [...] Any to section 11?

[e947919] Mr. Short: Mr. President, I have an amendment to offer, as section 12.

[e947922] Mr. President: A new section is offered.

Secretary (reading): Section 12, inserting the name "Morris Goldwater" after the words "Vice President."

Mr. Parsons: I want to immortalize my name by seconding the motion.

[e947928] The motion prevailed.

[e947948] Mr. President: Now, gentlemen of the convention, I believe this is on the third reading—

Mr. Osborn: Mr. President, I haven't the bill as engrossed before me, but in the printed bill which we got several days ago—Proposition 148 I think it was, section 5, subdivision M—I move be stricken out.

Mr. Colter: I second the motion.

Mr. President: Gentlemen of the convention, it is moved and seconded that subdivision M be stricken out. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. President, if these qualifications are stricken out, what will be the qualification for voting at the primary? It is only natural that the persons who vote at the election may vote at the primary. If they are not allowed to vote at the election, why should they be allowed to vote at the primary?

Mr. Osborn: Mr. President, subdivision M repeals section 11 of the bill passed two years ago, known as the Primary Election Law of the Territory of Arizona, and section 11, part 1, reads as follows: "The person shall not be entitled to vote at any primary unless he is a qualified elector of the precinct and duly registered therein and has been a resident of the precinct thirty days next preceding the primary election, providing that no voter whose name does not appear on the Great Register..." etc. Now, Mr. President, this subdivision M repeals this and says that a man must be a qualified elector of the county and can vote in the precinct whether he resides there or not.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. President, I, like the gentleman from Yuma, believe that any man who has a right to vote at the general election should also vote at the primary, and as the Enabling Act provides that the qualification of these electors shall be as laid down in the statutes of 1901, I do not see how that can be by this ordinance be changed.

Mr. Cunniff: Do I understand the gentleman from Maricopa to say that that provision compels a voter to live thirty days in the precinct?

Mr. Osborn: It does.

Mr. Cunniff: As I understand the paragraph he wishes stricken out says that they shall be registered as provided in section 3. That carries the whole thing back to section 3 in the ordinance, and section 3 says that the voter shall have resided in the Territory of Arizona at least twelve months next preceding the day of the election heretofore held for election of delegates to this constitutional convention, and says nothing about the precinct.

Mr. Osborn: Let me call the attention of the gentlemen to the fact that, under the revised statutes of 1901, a qualified elector of a county could vote in any precinct, whether he lives there or not.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to say that Yavapai County will protest against that.

Mr. Osborn: You will protest against everything else.

Mr. Cunniff: I do not think we have protested against everything else; quite the contrary. I hope the gentleman has no hard feelings toward the gentlemen from Yavapai in that way. But in a county like Yavapai, in which the voters move from place to place—in one month will work in one mining camp and another month in another camp—will be a hardship to compel them to go back to the precinct in which they were thirty days before.

Mr. Osborn: If they live in that precinct thirty days before? You cannot gain a residence until you have lost one. In all the counties in this territory, with the exception of the most populous counties, men have been allowed to vote where they have been, because they had a check upon them, but in the most populous counties you are going to give opportunity for fraud.

Mr. Morgan: Navajo County also wants to protest. If that proposition of the gentleman from Maricopa goes into effect it will disfranchise about a third of our citizens,—sheep herders who cannot be in their own precinct.

Mr. Cobb: I would like to ask the gentleman of Navajo which one-third would they disfranchise—those that voted for him or his colleague.

Mr. Morgan: Some voted for one and some for the other. I think I am speaking the sentiments of my colleague from Navajo County when I say we are not in favor of that thing at all.

Mr. Osborn: I want to ask the gentleman if any of them have been disfranchised in the last five years. The law of 1905, if I am not mistaken, was the law which said a man must reside in a precinct thirty days before he was entitled to vote.

Mr. Feeney: Mr. President, I appreciate Mr. Osborn's efforts to have a clean honest ballot, but they have drawn the imaginary state line, and they have drawn the imaginary county line, and they have drawn the imaginary precinct line, and the next thing will be the block line and the residence line. I am tired of having American citizens disfranchised. I want to support every effort for the honest ballot in this state, but I believe you are drawing the line a little too distinctly.

Mr. Standage: Mr. President, I would like to ask you how you would remedy the condition in this county?

Mr. Parsons: Will the gentleman from Maricopa yield to a question? Will you please tell us how it is that Maricopa has a different election law from the balance of the territory?

Mr. Standage: I do not think we have. We simply want some regulation as to this voting. I have seen people try to vote in two different places, and I don't think it is proper. I think there should be some law restricting them.

Mr. Cobb: Mr President, we have passed two propositions here relative to elections for the relief of Yuma County, and I do not see why we should not pass one for the relief of Maricopa County. (applause)

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): This question does not seem to be a question of locality at all. It is a question of whether we want the same qualification for the voters in the primary election as is laid down for the voter in the general election, and the qualification for the voter in the general election is as laid down in the Enabling Act. If we want the same qualification, then this clause is the only one we can use.

Mr. Osborn: I will say to Mr. Cobb that Maricopa County is not asking for a bill to relieve Maricopa County. All Maricopa wants is to have the law left just as it is today, and I want to say to Mr. Parsons that we are not making a law exactly for Maricopa. Maricopa has always complied with the law, but the other counties have not. (applause)

Mr. Lynch: I am not going to get into this discussion for the simple reason that over in Graham County we are not so much interested in where the man is registered, as we are in how he is going to vote. It seems to be that this is much ado about nothing. I anticipate that in Maricopa County they follow the system that we follow—by agreement, a man was permitted to vote in another precinct, and I believe that under this section by agreement hat that could be done without passing a law for the relief of Maricopa County.

Mr. Osborn: I want to say to Mr. Lynch that we are not asking for a law for the relief of Maricopa County, and I am going to appeal to the gentlemen of this convention at this time. I hope they will let the law stand as it is now.

Mr. Cobb: I think the gentleman from Maricopa is correct. The law of 1901 does require that any elector must be a resident of the precinct, and I am satisfied that those who drew this provision for the primary election wish to change that in the primary election. I think that those who vote in the primary election should be residents of the county and precinct for thirty days.

Mr. Doe: I move that citizens of Graham County be disfranchised. (applause)

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I believe all of this discussion is unnecessary. When we read subdivision M and ind that it gives reference to section 3, and section 3 provides that the 1901 law provides that voters must—the qualifications provide for thirty days residence in a precinct, I think the proposition is all right.

991-994)

[e947965] Mr. President: The question comes up on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Osborn, to strike out subdivision M. Those in favor of striking it out will answer "aye" as their names are called, and those opposed answer "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 13 "ayes" and 27 "nays."

Mr. President: The amendment is lost.

[e948467] Roll call showed 24 "ayes" and 7 "nays."

Mr. President: Ordinance Number 2 is adopted.

[e947994] Secretary (reading): Phoenix Arizona, December 8 1910.

Mr. President: Your Committee on Seal begs leave to report and recommend the following section be added to Article XXII, as Section 20. E.E. Ellingwood, Chairman. I concur: Ed. W. Wells.

SEAL OF THE STATE Section 20. The seal of the State shall be of the following design: In the background shall be a range of mountains, with the sun rising behind the peaks thereof and at the right side of the range of mountains there shall be a storage reservoir and a dam, below which in the middle distance are irrigated fields and orchards reaching into the foreground, at the right of which are cattle grazing. To the left in the middle distance on a mountain side is a quartz mill in front of which and in the foreground is a miner standing with pick and shovel. Above this device shall be the motto "Ditat Deus." In a circular band surrounding the whole device shall be inscribed: "Great Seal of the State of Arizona," with the year of admission of the State into the Union.

[e948000] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. President, I move that the report of the Committee on Seal be adopted.

Mr. Bolan: I second the motion.

[e948004] Mr. President: It has been moved and seconded that the report of the Committee on Seal be adopted. Those in favor answer "aye;" opposed answer "no." The "ayes" have it; so ordered. Is there anything more on schedule?

[e948007] Mr. Goldwater: Mr. President, I may be mistaken. Do I understand that the convention has adopted this report and thereby incorporated this as the seal of the State of Arizona?

Mr. President: The motion of the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood, was that the report of the committee be adopted.

[e948010] Mr. Goldwater: I move that the seal of the State of Arizona be as follows: That the present device now on the seal of the Territory of Arizona shall be the seal of the State of Arizona. Around it shall be the following words: "Great Seal of the State of Arizona," with the year of admission of the state into the Union. It seems to me any man who has lived in this territory as long as I have under the present seal can continue to live under it until he dies without hurting himself.

[e948014] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. President, the matter that impressed the committee in the adoption of the device reported was an effort so far as possible to get away from the cactus, Gila monsters and rattlesnakes. The seal of the territory of Arizona was taken from a baking powder can which might be all right, but it seems to me if there is any one thing conspicuous in the territory of Arizona, it is the large storage dam in the background and the irrigated fields, which did not exist at the time of which the gentleman speaks. It seems to me this device mentions the industries and the cattle raising and the mines, and it is appropriate. (applause)

Mr. Goldwater: I do not propose to make any extended remarks, but I want to say this. A gentleman in California named Burbank has made the cactus one of the principal sources of food of the great cattle growing industry which this territory has, and I do not think it well becomes a resident of Arizona, like the gentleman from Cochise, to cast any aspersions on the head of any of the other species of cacti which Arizona is noted for, and which you cannot get away from by putting a d-n [sic] water storage dam on it—I mean a water storage dam on it, which has caused more trouble to this convention and the county of Maricopa than any other benefit which it has ever had. The history of Maricopa County is that no matter how much good comes to it, they will always kick, and the legislation in regard to the recall, which the Democrats have insisted on putting into this constitution, has been caused by the fact that they are afraid they might not have another water storage dam, and thereby have a judge who would not make a decision for fear that he might be recalled. There is nothing on the present seal of the Territory of Arizona that anybody needs to be ashamed of. It is not a baking powder can seal. We have had it for so many years that it does not seem that there is any occasion to change it. Everybody is familiar with it, and it seems to me it is plenty good enough.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. President, I have not the advantage of the gentleman from Yavapai of thirty odd years residence in the territory of Arizona, but within the brief period that I have lived here I have learned this, that during the campaign for the election of delegates to this convention our Republican friends have charged the Democrats with being unduly radical or progressive, and they have tried here to make us believe that conservation is better than progressivism. If the remarks of the gentleman from Yavapai are apropos with respect to the seal, I think the minority in this body should apply the same principle to other parts of our constitution. They ought to say if the old time system of government was good enough for Arizona, why not leave it as it was; and why not simply dispense with the initiative, referendum and recall, and go along in the good old way. It reminded me of the story of the old member of the school board. It was proposed that the old log school be replaced by a new building. "No," objected the old member, "that school house was good enough for my grandfather and my father, and good enough for me and I guess it is good enough for my children." That is about the argument the gentleman from Yavapai is offering. Because cactus was good enough for Arizona in the territorial days, let us continue it. I say we should make a strong demarcation between the territorial days of Arizona and the period of statehood. I think we have as much right to change our seal as the colonists in 1776 had to discard their seal of George III and adopt a new one.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. President, I do not want to discuss any disputed points, but one fact, Mr. President. I think I heard a small voice from the southeast corner of this hall state that as Burbank, the wizard of California, had made the cacti famous, he desired to keep it on the seal. Now, I would like to remind the gentleman that in making the cacti famous he removed therefrom the spine. Therefore, if you keep the same brand of cacti on the seal of the state that was on the seal of the territory you will not have followed the progression of Mr. Burbank, and you have made a mistake, because the Arizona cacti is different from the Burbank variety, so I think we had better change it.

Mr. Lynch: I do not know that I caught the full force of the remarks of the gentleman from Cochise, but if I understand him right, he wants a new seal which is going to remove the spine from Arizona. I do not want any seal which will remove that spine. The other gentleman from Cochise said that we want to get away from the old things. He has not been a resident of the territory long, but I want to say to you that the true Arizonan cannot get away from the old things. You can go back to Illinois and Kansas and Missouri, where all the fields are covered with verdure, but you cannot get away from your love for the scenery here in Arizona, and you want to come back to the land of the cactus again. The desire is a germ that you cannot escape. I would like to see that old cactus back on the seal. The work of nature is better than the work of man. You have the Roosevelt Dam on that seal, but that dam may not be here fifty years from now, but the cactus will not have gone from Arizona.

Mr. Doe: Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman from Cochise with relation to the attitude of the Republicans in this convention, permit me to say that the Republicans have not gone to the extent that they preferred conservation to progression. They have simply said that conservation in several paragraphs would be more apt to make the constitution we are preparing a live instrument than a dead one.

Mr. Osborn: Mr. President, I, too, like my friend from Yavapai, am an old-timer. I love the cactus, and I want to vote that the seal shall be the same as it was years ago under the territorial form of government, but out of deference to some of my friends, and especially to one of my friends from Cochise County, I believe a red flag should be put on top of one of those cacti. (applause)

Mr. Feeney: Mr. President, I asked some of my friends tonight to describe the red color of that flag. They could not do it. That flag symbolized all that I have; all that I have striven for in my effort for liberty and independence. I am not a native of Arizona, but I am a native of the great country that has forever stood under the flag that symbolized liberty and freedom and the brotherhood of man, and that is the Stars and Stripes, and I pay tribute to that flag and that flag alone as an American citizen, and the red flag does not go for me. (applause)

[e948019] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. President, I move that consideration of the committee's report be postponed until tomorrow morning.

Mr. Keegan: I second the motion.

[e948024] Mr. Short: Didn't we adopt the report of the committee?

Mr. President: We adopted the report of the committee, but an amendment was offered.

Mr. Cunniff: It seems to me it is customary when a new state is to be made to give the delegates who are discussing the matter of [a] state seal an opportunity to look at the design that is submitted.

Mr. Ellinwood: I would state that the design was here on the floor this afternoon, although I think this motion is very opportune. It can be here in the morning, and also the old seal can be inspected.

Mr. Goldwater: The old members do not need to inspect the old seal. (applause)

Mr. Standage: Mr. President, I want to make one more and last appeal to Mr. Ellinwood. I have been here some thirty years. I was born here and raised here, and I am glad I was born here. I think a great many things have progressed quite a distance in this convention. One part spoke of the changes that have been made, and of our having such a nice constitution. Let us just call a halt, and not progress too fast, and adopt some of the older ideas. I am very much in favor of the old seal we have always used.

[e948324] Mr. President: I would suggest to the gentleman that we had better adopt all the ordinances except the seal so that part of it can be enrolled. It is quite a lengthy article. If that would meet the approval of the gentlemen of the convention, we will call the roll on the passage of the ordinance with the exception of that part in regard to the seal and that can be taken up in the morning. The secretary will call the roll on the final passage with the exception of that portion which relates to the seal.

[e948329] Roll call showed 33 "ayes" and 7 "nays."

Mr. President: Gentlemen of the convention, Article XXII, Schedule and Miscellaneous, has been adopted, with the exception of the seal.

[e948037] Mr. Feeney: Mr. President, I move the resolution be adopted.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

Mr. President: Call the roll on the adoption of the resolution.

[e948041] Mr. Cunniff: I would like to explain my vote. It seems to me we passed a resolution some time ago to reimburse the postmaster for his additional expense, and it seems to me the business of this convention should be carried on in a business-like way. I am in favor of reimbursing the postmaster to an amount appropriate, but it seems to me the report should be presented in the convention and although I am in favor of making this reimbursement, I think it should be done in a business-like way, and I, therefore, vote "no."

Mr. Short: Mr. President, I do not think it would do for me to explain my vote in a case of this kind. I vote "no."

Mr. President: This is one time that I am going to vote with the Republicans. I vote "aye."

Mr. Vice President: Election Ordinance Number 1 has been adopted.

[e948326] Secretary (reading): “Resolution Number 28 [introduced by Mr. Cunniff of Yavapai]. Resolved that whereas Miss Irene Ellis, Miss Edith Whitaker, Miss Ambra Osborn, Mrs. Frona Williams, worked over time until late at night for fourteen days and Miss Clara Freestone, Mrs. Beatrice W. Scales, Miss M. Alice Berry, Miss Margaret I. O’Sullivan, and Miss Bertha I. Schultz for five nights each, in order that the work of this Convention might be expedited during the two closing weeks of this Convention, the Convention hereby orders that they be paid five dollars for each night of such overtime worked.”

[e948332] Mr. Cunniff: I move that the resolution be adopted.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e948334] The motion prevailed.

[e948336] Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, I have a resolution to offer.

Secretary (reading): “Resolution Number 29. Resolved, that the Printing and Clerks Committee be and is hereby instructed to retain from among the present employees sufficient competent clerks, who shall complete the minutes, engross the constitution and complete the verbatim report at a salary of five dollars per day each, under the direction of the Assistant Secretary of the Convention at a salary of six dollars per day.

Be it further resolved, that there be printed by the Secretary of the Territory 150 copies in leather bound form and 350 copies in pamphlet form of the minutes of this Convention, and each member thereof be furnished with a leather bound copy.”

[e948338] Mr. Feeney: I move the resolution be adopted.

Mr. Short: I second the motion.

[e948339] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, it may or may not be germane to the question, but I would like to move that the salary of the assistant secretary be six dollars per day.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

Mr. Vice President: All in favor say “aye;” contrary-minded “no.” All in favor of the adoption of the resolution as amended will answer “aye;” contrary-minded “no.” The “ayes” have it; so ordered.

[Editor’s Note: The copy of the original resolution already stipulates that the assistant secretary will earn six dollars per day. It is possible that Mr. Winsor meant to say that the clerks should receive, instead of the five dollars per day indicated in the resolution, six dollars per day as well. The Minutes has no record of Mr. Winsor’s amendment and confirms that the salary of the assistant secretary will be six dollars per day.]

[e948340] Mr. Weinberger: This morning there were two members of this convention appointed to overlook the minutes, the journal and the verbatim report and nothing was said about their compensation. It seems to me that if some time is going to be required they ought to be compensated for it.

Mr. Hunt: I spoke to the secretary about that, and he was under the impression that no other member would receive pay; consequently, I appointed two members who live in Phoenix, Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Cassidy.

[e948341] Mr. Coker: Mr. Chairman, I move we adjourn until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

Convention adjourned to 9:30 a.m., December 9, 1910.

life which is to come. And, O Lord, we pray that they may be as patriotic in trying to bring about the adoption of this constitution as they have been in framing it, as careful, as honest, as earnest, as solicitous as they have been for these sixty-one days. And, O Lord, our God, may it be in the hearts of the people to adopt this constitution. While there are some who think there are some things that ought not to have been put in it, and others think there are too many things in it, but we pray Thee, Lord, as according to our different views and interests in this territory these men have come to the conclusion that they have made a conservative constitution, that the people may adopt it. Give these men favor in the sight of the people. Give them favor in the sight of their constituents, and give us all favor with Thee, so that we shall have the approval of God and of men. Our Father, who art in Heaven; hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in Heaven; give us this day our daily bread and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us; Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory, forever. Amen.

Mr. Goldwater: Mr. President, I have no intention of making a speech on this question, but I do have a letter which I have just received and which I will read.

[e948284] Mr. Goldwater: [...] The writer says: "Please ask the convention not to discard the old seal of the Territory of Arizona. It is dear to the old-timers, the pioneers of Arizona. It reminds them of times far different from the present. It reminds them of the many graves filled by men as good and as brave as God ever created—graves unmarked except by the cactus so hateful to the newcomers, but which is Nature's seal on our sunkissed land. The old seal in many ways brings to the mind of the old timers the days of its adoption—the days of stress and danger, of trials and hardships so different from the present time. It recalls to the mind the many friends and acquaintances who, since it was adopted, have 'passed beneath to the curtain green.['] Imagine a picture of an old lady, her frame stooped and bent by age, with wrinkled face, her eyes dim and sunk by age, her hair frosted by years, garbed in old-style, plain clothes, not beautiful to look upon but that picture is of your dear old mother. Who of you would cast it away and replace it with another, even if it were the picture of the most beautiful woman on earth. So it is with the seal. Who of you, looking upon 'Old Glory' as it decorates the President's rostrum, knowing its history, and all that it stands for, would be willing to change the red, white, and blue—the Stars and Stripes—that you might boast of being progressive?"

'After such final passage the Constitution as adopted shall be signed by the President and attested by the Secretary of the Convention, the members shall then sign the same, Provided that no member shall write on the engrossed copy any other words than his signature over the name of the County he represents.'

Resolved that no member shall sign the adopted Constitution in any other manner than herein set forth."

[e948370] [Remarks by Doe of Coconino not found.]

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. President, I would like to say that that is one of the most outrageous statements I have ever heard made. A gentleman who would wish to write on this constitution, "I disapprove," has as much right to do that as to carry that purpose to its logical conclusion, and go through that document which we have adopted and write opposite of every paragraph of which he disapproves that he disapproves of it. There would be just as much propriety in his taking a whole page and explaining all the things in the constitution of which he disapproves and even his reasons for disapproving of this. It seems to me that any Democrat in the convention who disapproves of this point or that point would be as much entitled to write there "I approve of this document, except for Article Number 2 or Article Number 3," and so on. Why, the proposition is nothing short of anarchistic. (applause) The gentleman says that a brutal majority should not prevent his having an opportunity of expressing his disapproval of the constitution. If the gentleman disapproves of this constitution he can express his disapproval definitely and plainly by refusing to affix his name to it.

[Remarks by Doe of Coconino not found.]

1005-1006)

[e948371] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. President, I will go this far; that the gentleman from Coconino has to agree that this convention has not the power to force any man to append his signature to this document, and that the provision in the rules should not be mandatory, and I therefore move that the resolution as presented be amended,—that the word "shall" be stricken out and that the word "may" be inserted.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[Editor's Note: The Minutes indicate that Ellinwood seconded this motion.]

[e948372] Mr. President: You have heard the amendment as offered by the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff. Are you read for the question? Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed will answer "nay." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e948380] Mr. Cunniff: Now it seems to me that any member of this convention may sign the constitution of Arizona, or may not, as he sees fit.

Mr. Doe: As I suggested before, with approval or disapproval, it does not change the situation a particle.

[e948374] Mr. President: The question comes up on the resolution offered by Mr. Goldwater, as amended. Those in favor of the resolution as amended by the gentleman from Yavapai will answer "aye" as their names are called; those opposed will answer "no."

The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 39 "ayes" and 13 "nays."

Mr. President: Gentlemen of the convention, resolution Number 33 has been adopted.

[e948472] Mr. President: [...] Gentlement, the question now comes up on the adoption of the Constitution of Arizona as read today. [The members who favor adoption] will answer "aye" as their names are called; those opposed will answer "nay." The secretary will call the roll for the last time.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. President, I would like the privilege of saying a word before casting my vote. As I understand, there have been over two hundred constitutional conventions in the various states of this Union since the Federal Constitution was adopted, and I think beyond question, if we could discover the fact, there has never been a convention assembled for a period of sixty days in which there has been the harmony and good feeling that has governed this body. We have had some debates here. We have differed, perhaps sharply at time, upon measures which have come before us, but it has been, as it ought to have been, a matter of give and take, and I am sure that each member has accorded to the other good faith; that he was acting from his conscience, and trying to observe the interests of the people of the new state as he saw it. I think on no occasion has the motive of any member of this floor been impugned. There have been many matters on which we have differed, but they have been non-essential, except, perhaps, in one matter which appeals to me. I am sure that I enjoy the friendship of every member here. Not only have I the kindest feeling, but I like every gentleman who occupies a chair in this convention. There has been one matter, and only one thing that prevents my voting for this constitution. I believe, gentlemen, that the recall of the judiciary means the utter destruction of the independence of the judicial system and of the courts. I believe that when you write that into the constitution you are inviting disapproval at Washington. The disapproval at Washington means defeat of statehood. The defeat of statehood will work the utter annihilation of the Democratic party in this territory, and believing this, as I do from the bottom of my heart, —I may be wrong, time alone will tell—but, believing as I do, acting conscientiously as I do, I cast my vote "no."

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to point out that this is the second time the gentleman from Cochise has made a long speech in the middle of a roll call, when according to the rules, the speech could scarcely with propriety be answered.

Mr. President: Gentlemen of the convention, the Constitution of the State of Arizona has been approved by the convention. Gentlemen of the convention, we have the papers here for the final signatures.

[e948384] [Mr. President:] Read the minutes of the afternoon session.

[e948385] Minutes read and approved.

[e948387] Mr. President: Gentleman of the convention, in accordance with Election Ordinance Number 1, I will appoint the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Ingraham, and the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Wood, to canvass the votes.

[e948388] Mr. President: Gentleman of the convention, in accordance with Election Ordinance Number 1, I will appoint the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Ingraham, and the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Wood, to canvass the votes.

[e948395] Mr. Osborn: Mr. President, there was a resolution passed here last night giving additional pay to some of the employees. It has been my idea right along that they should be given additional pay, and I move that the names of Mr. J. C. Evans and E. A. Marshall be added.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e948397] The motion prevailed.

[e948399] Mr. Goldwater: Mr. President, I have a resolution which I desire to offer.

Mr. President: Read the resolution.

Secretary (reading): "Resolution Number 34. [introduced by Goldwater of Yavapai] Resolved that the pen used by the President in signing the adopted Constitution be delivered to the Arizona Historian to be preserved in the official archives of the Territory or State."

Mr. President: You have heard the resolution as read.

[e948401] Mr. Goldwater: I move its adoption.

Mr. Feeney: I second that motion because it is going to be my pen.

[e948402] Mr. President: You have heard the resolution. Those in favor of its adoption answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it; so ordered.

[e948403] Mr. Osborn: What is going to become of the gavel?

Mr. President: I do not know. The attaches will have to get the gavel or they will not get any pay for this week.

[e948406] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. President, I want to introduce a resolution.

Secretary (reading): "Resolution Number 35: Resolved, that the President and the Vice President do now sign the Constitution of the proposed State of Arizona, that the Secretary attest said Constitution, that the roll of the Convention be called by counties and each delegate be invited to affix his signature to said Constitution in triplicate, on condition that said delegate write nothing on the sheet offered for his signature but said signature, and that the Secretary and Acting Governor of the Territory of Arizona be invited to attest said Constitution."

[e948408] Mr. Feeney: I move the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e948421] Mr. President: Those in favor will answer "aye;" those opposed will answer "no." The "ayes" have it; so ordered. Gentlemen of the convention, I am about to sign the official constitution.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. President, I have a very brief resolution that I would like to offer which will not interfere with the work of the desk.

Secretary (reading): "Resolution Number 36 [introduced by Parsons of Cochise] Whereas the members of the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation have performed most faithfully and well the most arduous duties imposed upon them by this Convention, Therefore, Be It Resolved that we tender the members of said Committee a vote of thanks as a slight testimonial of our appreciation of the splendid services rendered by them in the work of this Convention.

[e948415] Mr. President: Those in favor will answer "aye;" those opposed will answer "no." The "ayes" have it; so ordered.

[e948423] Parsons moved adoption.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e948424] Mr. President: Those in favor will answer "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it; so ordered.

[e948427] Mr. Morgan: Mr. President, I move we extend a vote of thanks to our excellent chaplain, Mr. Crutchfield. (applause).

[e948428] Mr. President: Gentlemen of the convention, the gentleman from Mohave, Mr. Morgan, has moved a vote of thanks to our excellent chaplain, the Reverend Crutchfield. Those in favor of that motion will answer "aye;" those opposed will answer "no." The "ayes" have it.

[e948430] Mr. President: Gentlemen of the convention, the document has been signed. As we opened the exercises of the day with the singing of the national anthem, I think it would be only fitting that we close the exercises by singing a verse of "America," and then chaplain will invoke the benediction.

[e948438] Reverend Crutchfield: Our Father, we are about to disband, separate, part, go to our different homes. O Lord, go with every one of these men and all these attaches and these little boys and girls. Do Thou accompany them to their homes. And these men who will have this labor on their hands for these weeks and months, bless them in all their proceedings in life. Dismiss us, Lord, with Thy blessing. Help us to say: Our Father, who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come, They will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the Kingdom, and the Power, and the Glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

[e948440] Mr. Goldwater: Mr. President, I move that this convention do now adjourn without a day.

Mr. Winsor: A second the motion.

[e948442] Mr. Crutchfield: I move to adjourn at the call of the gavel.

[e948443] Mr. Cunniff: May I ask the gentleman's reason for believing that we may have to reassemble?

[e948444] Mr. Crutchfield: I suggest that if we should have to reassemble—I will withdraw my amendment.

[e933339] Mr. Winsor: Mr. President, the committee on rules has a partial report to make, the reason we have not a complete report at this time is because we have failed to secure a full attendance of the members of the committee. I would add that it is the duty of every member of the committee to be present and if the members do not attend their names should be handed to the president of this Convention. Our partial report is as follows:

Phoenix, Arizona, November 21, 1910

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Preamble and Declaration of Rights, begs leave to report it has examined Proposition No. 94 and respectfully recommends that the Proposition herewith submitted be substituted for Proposition No. 94 and that Substitute Proposition be adopted.

That it has examined Proposition No. 104 and respectfully recommends that it do not pass save as to sections 10, 14 and 23 which are embraced in Committee Report.

That it has examined Proposition No. 116 and respectfully recommends that it do not pass for the matter herein contained is covered in Committee report.

That it has examined Proposition No. 98 and respectfully recommends that it do not pass inasmuch as the matter is covered in Committee Report.

That it has examined Proposition No. 95 and respectfully recommends that it do not pass for the reason that the question of preamble has already been settled by the Convention.

JAS. E. CRUTCHFIELD, Chairman.

We concur: P.F. Connelly, Wm. Morgan.

[e940497] Mr. Winsor, Chairman of Committee on Legislative Department, Distribution of Powers and Apportionment, made the following report:

Phoenix, Arizona, November 18, 1910.

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Legislative Department, Distribution of Powers and Apportionment, begs leave to report it has examined Proposition No. 20 and respectfully recommends that said Proposition No. 20 be indefinitely postponed on the grounds of Public Policy.

That it has examined Proposition No. 35 and respectfully recommends that said Proposition No. 35 be indefinitely postponed, inasmuch as the provision proposed adds nothing to the power of the Legislature.

That it has examined Proposition No. 43 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition be amended as follows: insert the word "the" before the word "executive" and insert the word "the" before the word "judicial". And as so amended recommends that the said Proposition be adopted.

That it has examined Proposition No. 45 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 45 be indefinitely postponed.

That it has examined Proposition No. 55 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 55 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as the subject matter thereof is contained in Substitute No. 6.

That it has examined Proposition No. 39 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 39 be indefinitely postponed, inasmuch as the Legislature will have the right to make the provisions included within the said Proposition without a constitutional reservation thereof.

That it has examined Proposition No. 93 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 39 be amended in accordance with the amendments attached and that as so amended said Proposition be adopted.

That it has examined Proposition No. 96 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 96 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as the subject matter thereof is contained in Proposition No. 43.

That it has examined Proposition No. 97 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 97 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as the subject matter of said Proposition is covered in Substitute Proposition No. 4 submitted by this committee.

That it has examined Proposition No. 102 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 102 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as the subject matter thereof is contained in Substitute No. 6.

That it has examined Proposition No. 115 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 115 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as so much of the subject matter thereof as the Committee deems advisable is incorporated in Substitute Proposition No. 6.

That it has examined Proposition No. 131 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 131 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as the subject matter thereof is contained in Substitute Proposition No. 6.

That it has examined Proposition No. 133 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 133 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as the matter contained therein legislative and is now covered though somewhat inadequately by the state.

That it has examined Proposition No. 146 and respectfully recommends that the said Proposition No. 146 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as the subject matter thereof is contained in a Proposition heretofore submitted by the Committee on Judiciary.

[e937490] SUBSTITUTE PROPOSITION No. 18.

Introduced by Committee on Executive, Impeachment and Removal from Office.

A Proposition Relative to Recall of Public Officers.

IT IS HEREBY PROPOSED:

Section 1. Every public officer in the State of Arizona, holding an elective office, either by election or appointment, is subject to recall by the qualified electors of the State, or of the electoral district from which he was elected.

Section 2. A petition demanding a recall of any such officer in any district shall require the signatures of twenty-five per centum, but not more, of the number of electors, who voted in his district at the last preceding general election for all of the candidates for the office held by the incumbent.

Section 3. Said recall petition must contain a general statement of the grounds of such demand, and must be filed in the office in which a petition for nomination to the office held by the incumbent is required to be filed. The signatures to the petition need not all be on one sheet of paper, but each signer must add to his signature the date of his signing said petition, and his place of residence, giving his street and number, if any, should he reside in a town or city. One of the signers of each sheet of such petition, or the person circulating same, is required to make and subscribe an oath on the face of said sheet before a competent officer, that the statements therein made are true, and that the signatures are genuine.

Section 4. If said officer shall offer his resignation it shall be accepted, and the vacancy shall be filled as may be provided by law. If he shall not resign within five days after a petition is filed, a special election shall be ordered to be held, not less than twenty, nor more than thirty days thereafter, to determine whether such officer shall be recalled. On the ballots at said election shall be printed in not more than two hundred words the reasons as set forth in the petition for demanding his recall, and in not more than two hundred words the officer's justification of his course in office. He shall continue to perform the duties of his office until the result of said election shall be officially declared.

Section 5. Unless he otherwise requests, in writing, his name shall be placed as a candidate to succeed himself on the official ballot without nomination.

Other candidates for the office may be nominated to be voted for at said election. The candidate who shall receive the highest number of votes, shall be declared elected for the remainder of the term. Unless the incumbent receives the highest number of votes, he is deemed to be removed from office, upon qualification of his successor. In the event that his successor is not qualified within five days after the result of said election shall have been declared, the said office shall be vacant, and may be filled as provided by law.

Section 6. No such petition shall be circulated against any officer until he has actually held his office for a period of six months, save and except that it may be filed against a senator or representative in the legislature at any time after five days from the beginning of the first session after his election. After one such petition and election, no further recall petition shall be filed against the same officer during the term for which he was elected unless such further petitioners shall first pay into the public treasury which has paid such election expenses, all expenses of the preceding election.

Section 7. The general election laws shall apply to recall election, in so far as applicable. Laws necessary to facilitate the operations of the provisions of this article, shall be enacted, including provision for payment by the public treasury of the reasonable special election campaign expenses of such officer.

13.19 Monday, 21 November 1910, at 09:30 (s16143)

[e939866] Mr. Cunningham, Chairman of Committee on Judiciary made the following report:

Phoenix, Arizona, November 19, 1910.

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Judiciary begs leave to report it has examined Proposition No. 88 and respectfully recommends that said Proposition be amended to read as follows:

"The legislature or the people shall enact an equitable and sufficient employer's liability law or laws for the protection and safety of employers in all hazardous occupations. And recommend that same be adopted."

Your Committee further recommends that in the opinion of the majority of your Committee the above words will meet all necessary requirements and limitations. That section 2 of said Proposition No. 88 with the above Substitutes adopted would be surplusage. That sections 3, 4, and 5 are fully covered by other provisions adopted or under consideration.

Chairman.

We concur: E. E. Ellinwood, A. F. Parsons, J. Weinberger, Fred L. Ingraham, A. C. Baker, Alfred Franklin.

[e940046] Mr. Cunningham, Chairman of Committee on Judiciary, made the following report:

Phoenix, Arizona, November 18, 1910.

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Judiciary begs leave to report it has examined Proposition Number 91 and respectfully recommends that the Proposition be amended by striking out all the words following the word "language" in line three for the reason a majority of your Committee are of the opinion the words stricken out would conflict with the Supreme Law of the land.

A majority of your Committee recommend that as amended that Proposition Number 91 do pass.

D.L. CUNNINGHAM,
Chairman.

Phoenix, Arizona, November 21, 1910.

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Judiciary begs leave to report it has examined Proposition No. 50 as amended and respectfully recommends that said amended Proposition No. 50 be further amended by striking out the last sentence to-wit: the words "any contract or argument to waive any right to recover damages for death or injury shall be void," for the reason said words if adopted in this Constitution would limit the rights of contract and deny to persons injured the equal protection of the law and therefore be in conflict with the Constitution of the United States and take away the liberty of the people if valid.

We further recommend that as amended said Proposition do pass.

D.L. CUNNINGHAM,

Chairman.

We concur: A.C. Baker, J. Weinberger, A.F. Parsons, E.E. Ellinwood, Alfred Franklin, S.S. Keegan.

[Editor's Note: Keegan is named as supporting this report. However, as he was not a member of this committee, the editors have inferred that this is an error and Kingan signed the report instead.]

[e935808] Secretary: There is a petition to be presented this morning.

Mr. President: Read the petition.

Secretary (reading): "To the Representatives of the People of Arizona in Constitutional Convention Assembled. Gentlemen: Knowing the open saloon to be the curse of thousands of our sisters, bringing shame and misery and poverty to them, and knowing also that the open saloon is the cause of three-fourths of the crime, insanity, and poverty in our Territory, and knowing that the awful danger of drunkenness threatens our children so long as the open saloon is allowed to exist in Arizona; and Being convinced that little relief will be afforded if the matter is left to the Legislature because of the notoriously unscrupulous character of the saloon business and its influence with Legislatures, Therefore, we, the women of Arizona, helpless and without the ballot to protect ourselves or our children do hereby respectfully petition you to incorporate in the Constitution as presented to the people and [sic] article forbidding the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the State of Arizona." Signed by 3,200 resident women of the Territory of Arizona.

Mr. President: It will be referred to the committee on suffrage and elections. Reports of standing committees.

[e939932] Mr. Jones, Chairman of Committee on Suffrage and Election, made the following report:

Phoenix, November 18, 1910.

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Suffrage and Election begs leave to report it has examined Proposition Number 42 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed for the reason that the main features therein are embodied in Substitute Proposition Number 21.

That it has examined Proposition Number 46 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed for the reason that the main features therein are embodied in Substitute Proposition Number 21.

That it has examined Proposition Number 128 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed for the reason that it is entirely legislative and should be left to the Legislature.

That it has examined Proposition Number 30 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed for the reason that the main features therein are embodied in Substitute Proposition Number 21.

That it has examined Proposition Number 111 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed for the reason that the main features therein are embodied in Substitute Proposition Number 21.

That it has examined Proposition Number 51 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed for the reason that the main features therein are embodied in Substitute Proposition Number 21.

That it has examined Proposition Number 117 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed for the reason that the main features therein are embodied in Substitute Proposition Number 21.

That it has examined Proposition Number 108 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed.

[e935815] Secretary (reading): ”Phoenix, Arizona, October 28, 1910. Mr. President: Your Committee on Railroads begs leave to report that it has examined Proposition Number 81, and respectfully recommends that it do not pass for the reason that such provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act as are applicable to interstate traffic are embodied in Proposition Number 113; that certain provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act are not applicable to local commerce, and that a delay might result in the creation of a commission in the event that there be a delay in the first legislative enactment provided therefore. F.A. Jones, Chairman; We concur: M.G. Cunniff, C.C. Jacome, E. E. Ellinwood, S.B. Bradner.”

[e935981] Mr. Cunniff: The submission of these reports is a little premature. It was my understanding in going over this proposition that it should not be submitted until the committee's report in full is submitted. Otherwise, I do not see how we can act intelligently. Therefore, I move that the matter be referred to the committee on railroads, so that all propositions reported on and the complete report of the committee may be submitted, at the same time.

Mr. Roberts: I second the motion.

The motion prevailed.

[e944804] WATER AND WATER RIGHTS

“The common law doctrine of riparian water rights within this state shall not hereafter obtain or be of any force or effect in this state.

The water of every river, creek or running stream in this State are hereby declared to be public property, subject, however, to the beneficial use of any person or persons, company or corporation under such reasonable restrictions and regulations as the legislative powers may prescribe.

Beneficial use shall be the basis the measure and the limit of the right to the use of public waters, and priority of appropriation for such use shall give the better right except that in times of scarcity a preference shall be given to the following purposes in the order named, viz: Domestic, stock water, agricultural, mining and manufacturing purposes.

All existing rights to the use of water in this State for beneficial purposes are hereby recognized and confirmed, subject to the limitations herein prescribed in the case of future appropriations and use of water.”

[e939495] Mr. Goldwater, Chairman of Committee on Ordinance, made the following report:

Phoenix, Arizona, November 16, 1910.

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Ordinance begs leave to report it has considered Propositions Nos. 112, 3, 121, 124, and as the substance of the same is incorporated in Proposition No. 119 it recommends indefinite postponement of Propositions Nos. 112, 3, 121, 124. Your Committee also returns Proposition No. 119 and has attached thereto several amendments and recommends that the amendments be adopted and that as amended the proposition be ordered engrossed and have a third reading.

30.2 Tuesday, 25 October 1910, at 14:00 (s15891)

[e935175] Proposition No. 5, referred to Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation.

[Editor's Note: There is some confusion in the sources surrounding which proposition relating to the preamble is amended in the Convention and copied into the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation in this session. The Records state that it is Proposition Number 1 which is referred, however the Minutes record that it is Proposition Number 5. In the morning session of the Convention on 26 October Winsor remarks: 'In the report of the committee of the whole there is a technical error, which might be very confusing. The report states that the committee recommends that Proposition Number 5 be substituted for Number 1. The committee recommends that Proposition Number 5 be adopted and Proposition Number 1 be indefinitely postponed.' (Records, Page 85). For clarity, the editors have chosen to follow the Records' account of the Convention's actions on the afternoon of 25 October, and then model Winsor's corrected version of events in the session on the morning of 26 October. However, the Records do not record the adoption of Baker's motion to refer the proposition in question to the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation, so the description text of this event is drawn from the Minutes, and thus refers to Proposition Number 5.]

Mr. Parsons: Before we leave section 9, I would like to inquire about section 8 on line 25, page 9. As I understood the secretary to read, the words "until the legislature shall otherwise provide," were omitted.

Mr. Cassidy: I think these words were stricken out by the revision committee.

Mr. Parsons: The revision committee did not have authority to do that.

Mr. Cunniff: I find in looking up this copy it was stricken out by the revision committee.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. President, I think the revision committee exceeded its authority. I think it changes the sense of the meaning of the proposition and that the committee had no right to do it.

Mr. Cassidy: Mr. President, I think the reason it was stricken out is this: There cannot be any session of the legislature to otherwise provide until after this election is held, consequently it is superfluous.

Mr. Parsons: It may be true.]

[e935117] Mr. Baker: Now, Mr. President, I move an amendment that Proposition Number 5 be substituted for Proposition Number 1.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e935118] Mr. Chairman: Gentleman of the committee, it has been moved and seconded that Proposition Number 5 be substituted for Proposition Number 1. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Baker: In support of the motion that Proposition Number 5 be substituted for Proposition Number 1, I simply wish to say to the convention that Proposition Number 5 is a brief statement of everything I deem essential, or necessary, for a preamble to a constitution. It strikes me that a preamble ought to be very brief. It does not necessarily have to be long. I have no doubt but that the people of this state expect a brief, a simple, a plain, a short constitution. Therefore, I believe that Proposition Number 5 is all sufficient for practical purposes. I move that Proposition Number 5 be substituted for Proposition Number 1.

Mr. Cunniff: I support and second Judge Baker's motion. In the first place Proposition Number 5 is very brief. In the second place it is smoother, it moves along pleasantly and does not have the jerkiness of Proposition Number 1.

[e935120] Mr Chairman: The question before the house is that Proposition 5 be substituted for Number 1. Those in favor answer "aye," those opposed answer "no." The ayes have it.

[e935122] The motion prevailed and the Committee arose to report.

[e935125] Mr. Cunniff: I move that the committee arise and report.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion that the committee of the whole arise and recommend to the convention that Proposition Number 5 be substituted for Proposition Number 1.

[e936244] Mr. Chairman: The committee will please come to order. Mr. Secretary, what was the business that was referred to the committee of the whole?

Secretary: The report of the Committee on Suffrage and Elections on Proposition Number 21.

[e936047] Mr. Chairman: Read the original Proposition Number 21.

Secretary: Proposition Number 21, introduced by Mr. Baker of Maricopa County, relative to primary elections.

[e936246] Mr. Cunniff: I move that the committee of the whole recommend that the amendment of the Committee on Suffrage and Elections be referred to the printing committee and the usual number of copies ordered printed.

Mr. Tovrea: I second the motion.

[e936247] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I would say in reference to the report of the Committee on Suffrage and Elections, that it is the intention of that report to recommend that all of Proposition Number 21, with the exception of the first line and a half be stricken out, and the proposition adopted as reported to the convention; so there is the injection of only half a line.

[e936248] Mr. Winsor: I move to amend the proposition by inserting the words "for all state, county, municipal, and precinct, officers."

Mr. Baker: I second the motion.

[e936249] Mr. Winsor: I suggest that Judge Baker be given five minutes in which to properly frame the amendment.

Mr. Baker: I could not properly do the matter justice in that time.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the motion. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, the committee considered the matter very carefully, and we concluded that owing to the fact that there are so many small precincts and school districts in the territory, the matter should be left to the legislature.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): The committee went over that proposition very carefully. There are many precincts in the mountains where there is no primary election held. therefore, they would have no names of precinct officers on the ballot.

Mr. Lynch: Further than this, the provision of the amended bill as presented makes it mandatory on the legislature to enact such a law. Now, the term "municipality" is very broad; it would cover practically every subdivision we have. Therefore, your first legislature would be compelled to enact a primary law which would cover all the officers of all these subdivisions.

Mr. Orme: The intention of the committee was to compel the legislature to work out these laws. The committee does not think it right that we should put any legislative matter whatever in the constitution, or as little as possible. Under these conditions, we thought the legislature would have time to work out each and every condition for, according to the recommendation in our report, we compel them to pass a direct primary law.

Mr. Ingraham: The sentiment of the committee seems to be that Proposition Number 21 was unnecessarily long. As I understand it, the report of the committee was drawn upon the supposition that the initiative and referendum law would be provided in this constitution, and that we could rest upon a mere suggestion or direction to the legislature that they enact an adequate direct primary law. If the people are not satisfied with the law int the legislature shall enact, or if the legislature shall fail to make any enactment, it is within the power of the people to cause such law to be made, if they so desire, under the initiative.

[e936251] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Winsor; those in favor will manifest it by saying "aye," those opposed "no." The "nays" have it.

[e936252] Mr. Winsor: I move that what the committee arise, it recommend that the report of the Committee on Suffrage and Elections on Proposition Number 21 be adopted, and that the proposition as so amended, be adopted.

[e936378] Mr. Cunniff: I move that when the committee rise, it recommends that this proposition be adopted.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

Mr. Ellinwood: I wish to say that it seems to me that the provision is not broad enough to get into the constitution. I think that every person who holds an office in the state should be an elector in the precinct in which he holds office.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): The gentleman who has just spoken seems to have overlooked that the police officers of the state are the ones who do the arresting, and take the citizens to jail. I think it is absolutely necessary that these should be qualified electors of the precinct from which they come. We could only make a proviso as to elective officers while this includes appointive officers, such as deputy sheriffs; and they surely should be citizens and electors of the precinct. I think this is a good clause, and should go into the constitution, as it is fundamental that this constitution should lay out the qualifications of its state and county officers. I do not think the proposition should be made as broad as suggested, because that provision would disqualify all of our lady school teachers.

Mr. Ingraham: I would like to inquire from the gentleman from Yavapai if the intention of this proposition is not do [sic] do away with Pinkerton men. If so, I am heartily in favor of it.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): It is the object of this proposition to prohibit citizens of other states from becoming officers of this state. In the northern part of the territory, where I live, they are importing citizens from other states whenever a new sheriff is elected.

Mr. Feeney: I heartily agree with Mr. Ellinwood. I think all officers should come under this category.

[e936380] Mr. Cunningham: I desire to offer as an amendment to the motion that when this committee arises it recommend that the report of the committee upon Proposition Number 61 be referred to the Committee on Executive, Impeachment and Removal from Office, committee number 3.

Mr. Cobb: I second the motion.

[e936381] Mr. Ingraham: I cannot see any reason for this, unless the members desire to avoid the question. What is the use of referring this back and forth from one committee to another.

Mr. Ellinwood: I am free to say that I am not prepared to vote on the proposition now. It ought to be referred so that we can have further consideration of the matter.

Mr. Cunningham: The result of the motion as amended will more than probably be that committee number 3 in its report will specify the qualifications of all the officers, and in that way it will cover the point as well as the qualifications of other officers.

[e936382] Amendment accepted by Mr. Cunniff.

[e936383] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? Roll call showed 40 ayes, 6 nays.

[e936388] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): As chairman of the Committee on Suffrage and Elections, I wish to move that when the committee arises, it report that it is the sense of the committee that the officers to be chosen at the first election shall be nominated by direct primary; that in such direct primary election full provision shall be made whereby an advisory vote of the people shall be taken on candidates for United States Senators.

[e936389] Mr. Cunniff: The committee has considered this subject for the last ten days or so, and I am not clear that we have the power to do this. I think we should have more time to look into our powers, and make the consideration of the report of the committee a special order for the committee of the whole. I move therefore that it become a special order of said committee on Monday.

[e936390] Mr. Winsor: I believe several members of the convention are laboring under the misapprehension that this provision would be included with the constitution. That is not the case; as I understand it, it will simply be included in the election ordinance.

Mr. Moeur: The Enabling Act is quite brief in laying down specifications for the first election of state officers. The substance of it is that the qualifications of electors shall be the same as that under the laws of 1901, but any further regulation of this election is limited. It seems to me that any person who studies the Enabling Act will come to the conclusion that this convention in the election ordinance provides some election laws; that is we must conceded that this election must be conducted in accordance with the rules laid down in the territorial statues for some year, say 1901. Also we must provide in some way, either by nomination of political party in convention assembled, or by petition or by direct primary or in some other way. Now the purpose of this resolution is to get at the opinion of this convention as to save the committee a large amount of work. I would say to the gentlemen who are in favor of postponing this matter, that if we can get an expression of the convention on the matter, we can go ahead and attend to the matter.

Mr. Wells: That is a very important proposition, and one on which the question of constitutionally may arise. We should not hesitate to do all that is right and proper, and I think we should make it a special order for Monday, in order to investigate.

[e936391] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will read the original motion made by Mr. Jones.

[e938119] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the report of the committee read. What is your pleasure?

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to inquire of the gentleman who introduced the proposition whether there is any purpose in mentioning the specific diseases; would it not be better to leave them out, making the proposition read "the introduction and spread of infectious diseases." Would that not cover the ground? I realize that this is an accurate reproduction of the provision in another constitution, but it seems to me that it is unnecessary to name the diseases, which are, as I understand it, infectious diseases.

Mr. Willis: It may not be necessary to name them, but I do not see that it does any harm.

Mr. Parsons: It seems to me as those diseases named in the proposition to be adopted are the most prominent diseases to which stock is subject, and that it is certainly not inappropriate to have them specifically mentioned, so that people may know without having to consult a lawyer, what constitutes infectious diseases. As already shown, this is an exact copy of the constitution of Wyoming, where the stockmen have interests largely identical with those in Arizona. While it might sound better to a person of trained intellect to leave these words out, I think for the benefit of the stockmen that they had better be left in.

Mr. Tuthill: I would like to ask the gentleman from Pinal, what particular necessity there is for a clause like this in the constitution. The present revised statutes seem to cover the case completely. Of course, there may be a very good reason that I know nothing of. If none exists, why encumber the constitution with it.

Mr. Winsor: It seems to me that this direction to the legislature to pass a law which is already on the statute books and in effect, could produce absolutely nothing but confusion, as directing the legislature to do something that is already done, and indicating that in some manner not explained, it should be altered or amended. Now our constitution, except in such cases as are specifically prohibited, will leave with the legislature and the people the authority to pass such laws as they may desire to pass, and it seems to me that if there are amendments desired in the livestock law that that power and right is reserved to the legislature, without any reference to the subject. I think that wherever possible, without working injury to the people of any legitimate industry, that such matters should be left alone. Wherever it is necessary, it is well enough to have a specific recommendation or instruction, but this does not seem to be the case here.

[e938123] Mr. Wills: I move that this proposition be adopted just as it stands.

[e938125] Mr. Cunniff: I move as an amendment that the words "pleuropneumonia, glanders, splenetic or Texas fever" be omitted, likewise the word "other" making the proposition read: "Introduction and spread of infectious diseases."

[e938129] Mr. Winsor: I think for the information of those who want to do what is right about this, that we should have some explanation why this provision is necessary. If it is necessary, let us have the explanation.

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, the idea of the gentleman from Yavapai, as I gather it, is that the enumeration in this constitution of certain diseases would possibly, if there were other diseases, which the livestock men desire to be protected against, preclude the legislature from enacting laws to that effect.

Mr. Webb: I would like to ask whether the introduction of this proposition might keep the legislature from doing things it might do if the constitution is silent. If that be true, we give the legislature greater power by remaining silent than by naming their powers. I have often heard learned gentlemen on this floor, (gentlemen of the bar), say that to mention matters specifically in a law eliminates all other things.

Mr. Ellinwood: My understanding is that under the police power of the state, such laws may always be enacted. There is absolutely no necessity for such a law. I am in favor of this matter simply because the gentleman from Pinal wants it. So far as the language is concerned in naming the specific diseases, or items, are mentioned in a statute, the rule of ejusdem generis prevails, and it can be given no greater latitude than the words used in the statutes. The legislature can do just exactly what the gentleman from Pinal desires; furthermore, you could not prevent the legislature from enacting such a law with an injunction; they do it at every session.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): It is my opinion that while it is highly desirable, this provision should not go into the constitution. There will be just as great necessity for legislation protecting the horticultural interests and persons. If we undertake to do so here, it will simply confuse the legislature.

Mr. Ellinwood: On the line mentioned by the gentleman from Yuma, I would like to say that the present statutes of Arizona cover these matters, and there is both a livestock sanitary board and a sheep sanitary board that have charge of them, and the present laws of Arizona will continue in effect unless we change them.

Mr. Tuthill: I would like to have a single reason why this should be put in the constitution. I would like very much to vote for this provision; I am heartily in accord with anything that will protect the livestock interests, but I do not see any use of shooting one dog with two bullets, if you can kill him with one.

Mr. Cunningham: I will endeavor to answer the question of the gentleman from Yuma. If this provision appears in the constitution, it will require hereafter that such legislation be on the statute books. If it does not appear in the constitution, then the legislature will have the right to eliminate it entirely if it wishes. It is simply to insure permanence.

Mr. Tuthill: Can anyone conceive of a legislature in Arizona repealing any part of this clause in the next 500,000 years?

Mr. Webb: To answer the gentleman from Cochise, I will say that if he will refer to the proposition, he will see that only one-half is mandatory, and the rest is to the effect that the legislature may do it. As to this measure, I think the gentleman who introduced it has no more interest in it than myself. He can certainly be no more ardent for such a law. If it will do any good both the gentleman from Pinal and I want it there. My opinion is that it will do no good.

[e938133] Mr. Webb: [...] I move that when the committee arise, it report to the convention the recommendation that Proposition Number 99 be not passed.

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

[e938135] Mr. Doe: Mr. Chairman, I am opposed to the proposition upon two grounds. First, that it is restrictive in its character upon the power of the legislature; I am heartily in favor of legislation to protect the stock interests, but I think this is a restriction upon what the legislature might do in their behalf, rather than purely for their benefit. I am opposed to all matters that are purely legislative in character, and that have no place in the constitution; they should be left to legislative discretion.

[e938138] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? All in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "aye" have it. The motion is carried. This disposes of business before the committee of the whole.

[e936445] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I move that the recommendation of the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation be adopted.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second that motion.

[e936446] Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, I would like to know the difference between the report of the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation, and the one brought in by the Committee on Suffrage and Elections.

[e936451] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will please read the report of the Committee on Suffrage and Elections and that of the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation.

[e936452] Secretary reads reports.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman from Cochise, and I second his motion.

[e936472] Mr. Winsor: The committee agrees that the constitution should contain a good campaign publicity law, yet we left that this proposition would cover the ground thoroughly. Although this is a legislative matter, we agreed to the proposition as being sufficient, and since it contains the words, "before and after," we still believe that the ground is well covered in the proposition. We must understand that the constitutional convention cannot provide for all these matters in the constitution, but we are the machinery which must frame a fundamental law and the legislature must do the rest. I think we can safely leave this matter to the legislature and to the people.

Mr. Parsons: I think that it should have some designation as to when that time should be. There should be a stated and specific time before and after the elections in which these reports should be made. As this bill now stands I do not see how such reports are to be made, for if there is to be a law requiring a report of the expenditure of money on elections, there should certainly be a limited time in which such reports should be made, therefore, I again move that this report be referred to the Committee on Suffrage and Elections.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): The object of the committee on suffrage and elections in making the report as it now stands has been partly covered by the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Winsor, but I would also add, as chairman of that committee, that if there is to be a publication of the campaign funds so that the people may know what money is begin expended in the campaign, then it will be necessary to make a publication at least two or three days before the election, and that would leave the time open for money to be used to influence the election, and then, too, this first publication would not be the last publication for to include all the expenditures it would be necessary to make publication after the election.

Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me the only way to dispose of this question is to leave it to the legislature to provide for the time of publication.

Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, I have not yet a clear conception as to the proposition and the amendment to the report of the suffrage and elections committee.

Mr. Cunniff: This is the report of the committee on suffrage and elections, is it not? But I will say that it would be well to read the report as it is punctuated and that will possibly explain the proposition in a more satisfactory manner. Now, Mr. Chairman, the phrasing used by the committee on style, revision and compilation has not changed the sense of the proposition submitted by the Committee on Suffrage and Elections. In our own opinion we felt that the bill covered the ground very thoroughly; that it would accomplish the purpose of the bill without any further mandatory phrasing, and that it could safely be left to the legislature with regard to all suggestions as to the time for the publication of the expenditures for campaign purposes. It is in our judgement very accurate and very plain.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I insist that if there is going to be an ordinance incorporated into this constitution with regard to an election and that ordinance contains instructions as to the conduct of elections, or if this convention is going to make provisions for elections, as the proposition now before us, I say that we should adopt such provisions as will apply not only to the first state election but all elections thereafter, and if there is to be no ordinance then all the oratory of yesterday was worse than wasted. If we are to provide a law for the publication of funds, appropriated for campaign use at these elections, I insist that the law should cover the ground perfectly and without the slightest question of doubt in the minds of the legislature, but the proposition does not make such a provision. I ask for an argument against the question of the time for such publication. In all the able remarks and arguments put forth by my worthy colleagues on this question there has not been one argument against the question of time or the limitation of time that should be set forth in this bill.

Mr. Cunniff: This is the report of the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation, and as a committee, we have agreed that this proposition as it now stands is sufficient and covers the ground thoroughly, and that if this convention in its constitution provides the fundamental law, the legislature can comply with this law and make such other provisions as they may deem necessary as to the provisions of such an election law, therefore, I would suggest, that the bill as it has been amended and reported is sufficient and accurate without any further recommendation.

Mr. Kingan: The constitution will not be in force until after the election, not in force until after the proclamation of the President. Will there be an election to which this bill could be applied. I think that it is purely a legislative matter.

Mr. Moeur: Mr. Chairman, I do not know whether the motion of the gentleman has ever been seconded or not, or whether it should be seconded, as I cannot see why he should wish for any particular time, as that will not prevent the expenditure of a million or more dollars in any campaign. The question is do we want the publication of the campaign funds, if so it is sufficient that we provide for the fundamental law and leave the rest to the legislature.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman from Cochise, and I second his motion.

Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I would like an explanation as to how our constitution will apply to the first state election.

Mr. Parsons: I did not ask for an explanation, I asked for an argument, and I insist that attention should be given to this question of time before the proposition is adopted into the constitution.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to hear an explanation from the gentleman from Cochise as to what he would make of the phrasing of the bill?

Mr. Parsons: As to that I would not wish to suggest to the committee, and I do not care just how it is framed, just so that provision is included within the proposition.

Mr. Cunniff: I think that matter should be determined by the special committee on state elections.

Mr. Parsons: Which, the Committee on Ordinance or primary elections? By the good and efficient authority cited here yesterday by Judge Baker, this has nothing to do with general elections, and that committee was to prepare a primary election law. This proposition is a very different matter.

Mr. Kingan: In order to report on this matter, I understand that a special committee will determine the matter of primary elections. I do not understand how they can do so until we are a state.

Mr. Winsor: I think the gentleman from Cochise is laboring under too much confusion. It is the sense of this convention to provide for publicity of contributions to the campaign funds, and we are endeavouring to place such a fundamental law in the constitution. This provision has been submitted and recommended for our adoption. The bill which has been drafted includes all that is necessary for this convention to adopt, and it is absolutely unnecessary to go into legislative matters.

[e936474] Mr. Parsons moved, seconded by Mr. Ellinwood to amend by re-referring Proposition No. 70 to Committee on Suffrage and Election and making Proposition applicable to first State election; lost.

[e936479] Mr. Ellinwood: I move that this be referred to the Committee on Ordinance.

[e936483] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would suggest that the motion of the gentleman from Cochise is foreign to the question. This question has nothing to do with state elections. The motion for the adoption of this report has been made and seconded.

[e936485] Mr. Ingraham: The matter before the convention is not a matter than [sic] can be referred to the Committee on Ordinance as there can be no such law included in the ordinance unless the committee has such instructions from the convention.

[e936491] Mr. Parsons: Now, I rise to a point of order. I understand that the question before this committee of the whole is the report of the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation, with recommendation that it be adopted. I am opposed to the adoption of that report unless it contains some definite time as to when the reports on the money expended in campaigns should be made. There is not time stated in the provisions of this bill, and I think that there should be a time limitation, as the candidates or committees might take sixty days or ninety days, and use their own judgement in the matter and if publicity of funds is to be a law there should be a time set for these reports for the benefit of the people. There has been no argument against a time limitation and I have asked for one and I insist on some argument against it or that it should be included in the proposition.

[e936492] Mr. Cunniff: I understand the argument of the gentleman from Cochise, but I am still of the opinion as are other members of this convention and the Committee on Suffrage and Election that the bill as it now stands is sufficient and covers the ground thoroughly and that we can leave it to the legislature to make such other provisions as to time, how long before or after the election such reports should be made.

[e936493] Mr. Webb: I rise to a point of order. I do not think that the question is being discussed from the right standpoint. The question being discussed is, shall we or shall we not provide for publicity of campaign expenses in the election for the first state officers? The question comes up as to whether this will effect the election of such officers if incorporated into the constitution, and I would say that this question is a matter for the legislature.

[e936494] Mr. Parsons: If this be true that is the very strongest argument in favor of having a clause for the time limitation within this proposition. Any argument against it is simply worthless, for if we are to incorporate such a law in the constitution we want the law clear and definite and accurate and without flaw, such a law as cannot be construed by any legislative body.

Mr. Osborn: The Committee on Suffrage and Elections thought that might safely be left to the legislature.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): The reason we did not go into every detail was because of the belief that the members of the convention would not consider it their duty to work out every law that is legislative in nature, and since we are to provide only for fundamental laws, that we should leave all others to the people or to the legislature.

[e936810] Mr. Cunningham: The effect of the provision in the Constitution would be that if a judge should issue a writ of injunction under certain circumstances, and honestly and earnestly endeavor to enforce the law, he would, without any intent, be guilty of a crime. You would place him in a position to be punished for any absolutely honest error he might make in the discharge of his duty. He could not be heard to defend himself. He would be impeached for passing on a question earnestly, sincerely and honestly. If the case should be carried to the supreme court, and there he should be reversed and that court would find that he had no right to issue an injunction in that case, he would lose his office, while he could not be heard and there would be no trial nor would he be given any opportunity of upholding his action.

Mr. Cunniff: Will the gentleman from Cochise permit a question?

Mr. Cunningham: Certainly.

Mr. Cunniff: Is it not true that under the method of impeachment the judge will have a trial in the state senate?

Mr. Cunningham: Yes, but where will he have any defense to put up. If the supreme Court should hold —

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen in their discussion will please address the chair, and not each other.

Mr. Cunningham: I was only answering the question of the gentleman. Now, I will suggest that other propositions which have been presented to this convention seemed to me to cover the ground intended by this. It is not the intention of the gentleman who has addressed the convention preceding me to make as drastic measure as this one is, and it is no doubt his intention that did the people in the circumstances mentioned should be protected and have their rights adjudicated. The system of laws under which we are living has grown up along the lines of experience from “when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.” At one time when a jury decided a case adversely to what the court and the prosecution thought it should have decided the jury was punished with the punishment that should have been meted to the criminal; — they were punished for the mistake. People have grown beyond that so far that the idea seems horrid to us now to make a jury responsible for any error it may make. It is history, and we certainly would not revert back at this late day to times that we look upon now as barbarian. We certainly could not afford to. We must stand squarely at the front; and it would be nothing but to call back to those former times to hold a man who has no discretion in his power responsible for a mistake in exercising his discretion. No opportunity is given a man, who is held for punishment, to be heard before he is punished. No other law has gone so far, and I hope one never will. This is a free country, and a liberty loving country, and every man has the right to be heard in his defense before he is punished under any circumstances. Such a right is given in Proposition Number 104 introduced by Mr. Ingraham of Yuma.

Under our present injunction proceeding, the judge has the right to exercise his discretion, and the man against whom the injunction is sought has every right that any free liberty-loving man should wish. It is certainly in harmony with the laws we are living under— that have come down to us from our ancestors across the water. Why should we in this twentieth-century borrow from the stone ages a law that a man shall be punished without being given a chance to be heard. Now, all this talk of courts ruining the country is answered by the very words of the gentleman from Yavapai as referred to in some political organization. This country is to be governed by laws, and not by men, and if you set down laws and require that the judge administer the law, he administers the law, not as a man. If you are proposing to have the man answer for malfeasance in office, then you are placing the man in the position on the bench not to issue an injunction under any circumstances until he is mandamusd by the higher court, or he will be removed from office. What kind of an administration of law would you have under these circumstances?

Mr. Moeur: Will the gentleman yield to a question? I would like to know if this Proposition Number 63 will constitutional?

Mr. Cunniff: It will be if we make it so.

Mr. Cunningham: In answer to the gentleman from Cochise, I would like to say that a Proposition Number 104 as introduced by Mr. Ingraham, though an excellent measure, does not touch this matter at all. I would like to say further, that having fun loaded the argument for [sic, of] the gentleman from Cochise with the utmost care, it seems to me that the whole essence of the argument is a plea for special privileges for the court. I believe, gentlemen, in equal rights for all, and special privileges for none, not even the courts.

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, during the past year I have frequently had occasion to read the periodical known as the "Appeal to Reason" and I have found that the main work of the "Appeal to Reason" (the socialist organ) at the present time, is to fight the courts, and I was perfectly astounded to come into this convention of democrats in the Territory of Arizona and find we have members whose whole aim was to attack the integrity of our American courts. I want to say that I am thankful for the fact that over in Graham County I did not have to run for delegate on a socialist platform. (applause) And it seems to me that the gentleman from Yavapai County has been unfortunate in that respect, in that he has been compelled to run on a platform that might well be, as to this proposition, referred back to the "Voice of the People." He points to defects in our system of courts; I know there are defects. I know our courts have gone along for years doing things they ought not to have done in labor disputes. I know the courts have gone their own way in issuing injunctions in these labor disputes, but I want to call your attention that the courts that have done these things are the federal appointive courts, and not the elective courts. You find rare instances where a judge has violated the constitution in reference to injunctions. The gentleman says that this proposition is simply means that if a court violate the constitution the court is subject to impeachment or removal; that does present a judge who violates a constitution is not subject to removal from office and impeachment. If this is the only thing that the gentleman from Yavapai asks we have a full remedy in this matter. As was said by the gentleman from Cochise County, in the olden times we punished the man who made a mistake. This simply means that if a judge makes a mistake in his interpretation of the law or in his interpretation of the constitution, then he is subject to removal from office. I will go further and say that the Chinese in olden times used to have (and may still have) a law that if a physician treated a man and the man died, the physician was put to death.

Mr. Tuthill: They ought to have it yet.

Mr. Lynch: Under this, if a judge decides a case in which a labor question arises, off goes his head if he makes a mistake. What sort of a thing is this to put into a constitution. If the statement of the gentleman from Yavapai is correct, and the only object of this proposition is to prevent judges from violating the constitution, we do not need it. And I, as one of the committee who were called "ornaments of the legal profession" which committee vote was unanimous in their disapproval of the socialistic plank being put into this constitution, wish to say that I certainly shall oppose it.

Mr. Cunniff: I wish to say that there was nothing sarcastic in my remarks.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I desire to say that I yield to no member on this floor in my desire to see the courts of our country administered in such a way that will be most beneficial to all, be he rich or poor, black or white, but I do not think it necessary for me to lend my assistance to the adoption in our organic law of a proposition like this. I know of nothing to warrant the statement made that the court himself knows he is doing wrong. This is a phrase I object to most seriously. Now, gentlemen, who is to determine whether the issuance of an injunction is contrary to the constitution or not; is it to be the judge, or the person against whom the injunction runs, the man whose liberty is being restrained. Under our existing law if a judge in the exercise of his discretion does anything wrongfully or corruptly or in violation of the constitution of the state [or] of the union, he is subject to impeachment, but, as has been stated, he is not subject to summary dismissal without hearing. It is an error of the heart and not the head. I regret to hear one of our most valuable and cultured members arraigning the courts of the country. I believe that men more honorable or of higher ideals do not exist in this country than the men who compose our judiciary. I hope that this will not get into our constitution, for the only result would be to secure the turning down of our constitution, and I, therefore, oppose this measure. (applause).

[e936811] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to offer a substitute to the amendment that the proposition do pass, so that the amendment would read that the proposition be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary.

Mr. Crutchfield: I second this amendment.

[e936812] Mr. Ellinwood: I hope that this amendment will not prevail. I am certain that I speak for the judiciary committee in saying that we do not want that proposition back. The committee was unanimous, and we are as able to pass on it now as any time.

[e936813] Mr. Cunniff: If that is the case, I will revert to my first amendment.

[e936815] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? The amendment proposed by the gentleman from Yavapai is that when this committee arise it recommend that Proposition Number 63 as amended by Number 123 be adopted. All in favor of the amendment will answer "aye;" all opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Cunniff: I beg my distinguished colleague's pardon, and will change my statement to the Democratic delegation from Yavapai County.

Mr. Wells: That is satisfactory.

Secretary: The vote is 18 "ayes," and 32 "nays."

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages

[e936817] Mr. Chairman: [...] The main question is that when the committee arises it recommend that Propositions Numbers 63 and 123 be indefinitely postponed. All in favor of that motion will say “aye;” all opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it.

[e936827] Mr. Cunningham: I move that when the committee arise, it do report to the convention recommending the adoption of Proposition Number 68.

Mr. Weinberger: I second Mr. Cunningham's motion.

[e936828] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move an amendment that when the committee arise it recommend to the convention that it refer Proposition Number 68 to the Committee on Preamble and Declaration of Rights.

Mr. Roberts: I second the motion of Mr. Jones.

[e936829] Mr. Chairman: The main question is that the committee recommend the adoption of the proposition, amended by Mr. Jones that when the committee arise it recommend that the proposition be referred to the Committee on Preamble and Declaration of Rights.

Mr. Weinberger: I would like to inquire the reason of the amendment.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): The reason is that there are several clauses in this proposition that refer to other propositions now in the hands of the committee on preamble, and they should all be considered at one time.

Mr. Cunningham: Now, Mr. Chairman, this provision is one in which all the people of Arizona are interested. It gives a right to prosecute without the ungainly grand jury system in certain circumstances. It is a provision that I have no doubt this convention is almost unanimously in favor of. Its place in the constitution perhaps would be in the bill of rights, and that the committee, if it should be adopted here, would have something to say as to its place in the instrument. I can conceive of no objection to this provision, and I cannot conceive of any reason why we should apply dilatory tactics here. I believe we should pass on motions as we get to them. We are now in the fourth week, and we have not adopted a great many measures. We refer and re-refer matters to committees, to give them an opportunity to work on them. Now unless some gentlemen of the convention will show me why this provision should not become a part of the constitution, I say we should go to work, and work promptly and diligently, and get through with provisions as we go along, so that the contested matters may have the right of way. I insist upon the matter being passed upon now.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Exactly the same proposition is now before the Committee on Preamble. Should that committee pass a measure that is technically opposed to this, or in some way not exactly agreeing with this, it will take up the same amount of time here to pass upon their report on this proposition also.

Mr. Cunniff: If the Committee on Judiciary has examined the proposition now before the preamble committee in connection with this, and has substituted this for all the other forms, it seems to me that we might adopt this now, but if they have not done so, it does not seem the thing to do. Sometimes, "the more haste, the less speed."

Mr. Lynch: I would like to state that we have examined the other propositions, and found them so nearly conforming to this that we saw no reason why this should not pass. It can be amended when the report of the Committee on Preamble and Declaration of Rights comes up. This is not the final passage of the matter, but it pushes it along on the calendar just that much, and it seems to me we should have it out of the way.

[e936830] Mr. Ingraham: I move an amendment to section 2 by adding this sentence: "The court or judge thereof shall upon the petition of 200 resident taxpayers of the county, make such order."

[e936831] Mr. Chairman: I would not regard that motion as bearing on the main motion or amendment.

[e936832] Mr. Chairman: [...] It will come up on the amendment as offered by Mr. Jones, that will be referred to the Committee on Preamble. All in favor of the motion answer "aye;" all opposed "nay." The nays seem to have it.

[e936834] Mr. Parsons: I would like to ask the gentleman from Yuma a question. Is it your idea that a superior judge will not have the right to call a grand jury? Is it an accumulative method? The wording of the section as amended would leave it ambiguous. This should be noticed as it would leave it to the judge to call a grand jury at his own pleasure unless a petition was filed.

Mr. Ingraham: The only construction to place upon this is the accumulative remedy.

[e936835] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, why not say, "Grand juries shall be drawn and summoned only by order of the superior court at said court's discretion, provided that the court or judge thereof must on petition of two hundred resident taxpayers of the county make such order."

[e936836] Mr. Chairman: Does the gentleman from Yuma accept the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai?

Mr. Ingraham: I accept the amendment.

[e936837] Mr. Kingan: It seems to me the number should be arbitrary. Two hundred taxpayers would not work right. For instance in counties like Apache and Mohave, it might be very difficult to get two hundred taxpayers, while in Cochise or Maricopa counties, they might be calling for grand juries all the time.

Mr. Lynch: With the idea of the gentleman from Pima that we should be calling for grand juries all the time, I cannot agree, for if it were left with the people, they would not desire to leave their business for this purpose, and I do not see any reason for fear on that point, but I say that it might be better to make it state a certain percentage. As it is I do not think that this is necessary for it is going back to the old idea that our courts are corrupt. I do not agree with you nor the distinguished gentleman from Yavapai. If the courts are corrupt so also might the taxpayers or a percentage of them be so. I am still of the opinion that the motion should be seconded and voted on by this committee just as it is.

Mr. Chairman: Will the secretary please read the amendment of the gentleman from Yuma?

Secretary (reading): "The court or judge thereof shall on petition of 200 resident taxpayers of said county make such order."

Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I believe the proposition as it now reads is entirely satisfactory. If you will look to section 1, you will find it broad enough, and it seems to me we should leave the details to be provided for by the legislature and not in this convention.

[e936838] Mr. Colter: Mr. Chairman, I think that if the amendment obtains, that it should be made to read a certain percent and not two hundred taxpayers, as I know it might or will be a source of trouble in some counties. If an amendment is in order, I move that the words "two hundred taxpayers," be changed to read "five percent."

[e936839] Mr. Lynch moved to amend by inserting the words, "five per cent of the qualified electors" in lieu of "two hundred resident taxpayers." (accepted by Mr. Ingraham.)

[e936840] Mr. Doe: No time is provided for, and I do not see how a judge can call a grand jury unless the time be provided for, as he might be busy in one county and at the same time be called upon to call a grand jury in another county, and as all you good lawyers know that it is impossible for a judge to arrange his work in the courts to go at the call of some other county. Such measure as this without full instructions will work confusion in the courts.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Is there any more room for amendments; if not, I think we have spent the necessary time on this question and I move the whole matter be re-referred to the appropriate committee.

[e936841] Mr. Chairman: A motion has been made and seconded to refer it to the Committee on Preamble and Declaration of Rights. Will the secretary please read the proposition and then read the amendment.

Secretary: reads Proposition Number 68 and the amendment.

Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The nays have it.

(Editorial)

[e936842] Mr. Chairman: Now the question comes upon the original motion. Gentlemen are you ready for the question?

Mr. Parsons: I understand it is the amendment?

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is lost. The question is: Shall the proposition be adopted? Those in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The ayes have it.

[e936849] Mr. Ellinwood: I move that the following be substituted for section 1. "Section 1. All political power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are formed on their Authority and instituted for their benefit; the faith of the people of Arizona stands pledged to the preservation of a republican form of government, and subject to this limitation only, and they have at all times the inalienable right to alter, reform or abolish their government in such manner as they think it expedient." Now Mr. Chairman, the proposition as recommended by the committee is indeed too broad and that one clause will leave too much power in the hands of the people. We are bound by the Enabling Act to maintain a republican form of government. The language used by the committee is the exact wording of the old constitution of Texas when it was a republic. However, in 1876, when the constitution of Texas was revised, gentlemen of the convention, the language was amended to read as I have offered in my Amendment. This is essential under the Enabling Act.

[e936852] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen you have heard the motion by the gentleman from Cochise, are you ready for the question?

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, as this is only one of the many reports which will come up before the Committee on Preamble, and as there are several others which may come up before the convention, I move that this proposition be referred to that committee until one proposition is decided upon.

[Editor's Note: The Minutes state that Mr. Jones seconded Cunniff's motion but do specify whether the Mr. Jones in question was A.M. Jones of Yavapai County or F.A. Jones of Maricopa County.]

[e936853] Mr. Cassidy: I would like to inquire whether it is the intention of the Committee on Preamble and Declaration of Rights to submit another report, or is this report final? If this is the final report I think we should pass upon it now.

Mr. Chairman: Will the chairman of the Committee on Preamble shed light upon the question?

Mr. Crutchfield: As chairman of the committee I would say that as I have been absent for a week and other members have been away also, we have not had a meeting, however, we had before this time considered a number of propositions and agreed upon in this one as being the best, although they are all very much alike. It is our intention to call a meeting at once and consider others in order that we may make a report at an early date.

Mr. Chairman: Are you getting ready to bring in another report?

Mr. Crutchfield: We expect to cover most of the ground at our next meeting and give a final report on all propositions submitted.

Mr. Cunniff: Is it not the best way to consider all the propositions and then decide upon which seems the most intelligent and most likely to be adopted and report to the convention in this manner. It seems to me that it is certainly a great waste of energy and time to consider them one by one and report them in the same way when they all could be handled at the same time and disposed of at once.

[e936854] Mr. Chairman: The question before the committee of the whole is the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai, to the effect that Proposition Number 98 be re-referred to the Committee on Preamble and Declaration of Rights. Those in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it; so ordered.

[e937147] Secretary reads Mr. Baker's substitute proposition.

[e937151] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I suggest that in the interest of expedition and system that the minority reports which relate to simply one section of the committee proposition be acted upon in order; after which the question shall be upon the substitution of the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Maricopa. That will dispose of all amendments with relation to that section, and we'll leave the complete bill or another of these amendments incorporated therein.

Mr. Hunt: I second the motion.

[e937153] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the suggestion; if there are no objections the chair will consider the motions before the House is that the minority report headed by Mr. Cunniff be taken up, that being the first in the order of printing.

[e937157] Mr. Cunniff: I move that the amendment be substituted for paragraph 8 of the substitute bill.

Mr. Cassidy: I second the motion.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is that the minority report signed by Mr. Cunniff, Mr. Cassidy, and Mr. Weinberger, be inserted in lieu of lines 15-25 on page 8 of the printed copy of the original bill. Are you ready for the question?

language in the original bill is much better, and would cover any body that does any legislating or makes any local regulations.

Mr. Cunniff: I have not the slightest objection at all, nor I think have the other gentlemen who have signed the minority report, to making a change and adding the words "or other municipality." The point is very much deeper than that. As I understand it, the point is that paragraph 8 of the substitute proposition, and also the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, does not indicate clearly what powers are given to cities. We have now in the territory of Arizona in regard to one very important matter a segregation of the city from the county, in regard to legislation on that matter, and it seems to me that solutions of the powers to be given to the counties and cities is one that is sound in principle, and I believe we should carry out the same plan in the state government for Arizona, in regard to the distribution of powers as to cities and counties. In other words, the purpose of this amendment is to provide "home rule" for cities. I do not think we should allow this proposition to go into the constitution of Arizona without a clearer definition of what the subdivisions in the State of Arizona are. Now my idea is set forth in this amendment, but a new idea of government in Arizona as to the kind and amount of power that is given to counties, has been proposed in the Committee on Legislative Department, and the fundamental idea thereof is expressed in the proposition as amended here by the gentleman from Graham. That the idea is that any action taken by the county shall rule the cities as well as the counties. Now, I am very strongly opposed to this substitute proposition of the committee and that of Mr. Baker, because that paragraph does not make clear what is their distribution of powers in that particular. The purport of this amendment is that we should have a segregation of the city from county control. Therefore, the question for the convention to decide is which idea do we wish to have set forth in this constitution, whether the one that is the substitute committee report and also in the report of the gentleman from Maricopa, which seems to follow that committee report in this respect, or this amendment where it is clearly settled. There were two views held by the gentlemen of the legislative committee, as to this, and where there is a difference of opinion among men giving it careful consideration, that paragraph must be susceptible of two interpretations by the various courts. I had this under discussion with the gentleman from Graham and told him that the purpose of our amendment was to the distinction that there should be segregation of cities, and his idea as expressed to me was that as he wished to carry out their theory of government he would bring in a minority report making this scheme of county control even over cities. At least that is the way I understood it.

Mr. Baker: The gentleman is making a distinction without a difference, so far as applied to this amendment. If you will notice the amendment which I have offered to the original bill, which has the same language as used in the original Proposition Number 4, the cities, towns, counties, etc., in all municipal matters are confined in the initiative and referendum to local laws—local special municipal legislation. They could not legislate about general law. No city or town passes general laws. The general laws are enacted by the legislature, by the state at large, and they control the whole state. Now the term, "local special legislation," refers to those matters that the county has a right to make or the district or city has a right to make under power given by the general law. Thus, when you undertake to say in the amendment that you give the same power by the initiative and referendum confirmed to them by law, you have only said that which exists already and must necessarily exist. There is no use in this; it is simply a waste of words. You might as well paint a cow with horns and all, and then write on it, "This is a cow." (laughter) It is absolutely and wholly unnecessary. The original bill limits the use of this legislation to special and local matters, and has nothing to do with general laws.

Mr. Cassidy: I think the gentleman from Yavapai is entirely mistaken as to the scope of this amendment, and I think the gentleman from Maricopa has truly stated the real situation. Paragraph 8 in the Substitute Proposition Number 4 has been changed by the amendment by adding a few words after a certain sentence. Now the gentleman from Maricopa says that paragraph means what it would mean if those words were added. I think this is undoubtedly true, yet I find on discussion of this matter with some members of the committee and of the convention that some of them had the idea that it did not mean what I supposed it meant and that it did not mean what the gentleman from Maricopa supposed it meant. Now, this paragraph reserves the power of the initiative and referendum as to all local, special and municipal legislation. Does this mean that the county, for instance, can legislate only on those matters over which it is given authority by the general law, or does it mean that the county can legislate on all matter on which it is not forbidden by general law. In other words, does it give a government of delegated powers, or a government of reserved powers? Now, gentlemen, there is all the difference in the world. If it is a government of delegated powers, then under this initiative law the county can pass no legislation except as to subjects concerning which it is authorized to legislate by general law. On the other hand, if it means that it is a government of reserved powers, then it means that the county or city can pass legislation on any subject on which it is not forbidden by general law. If this language means a government of reserved powers, it gives every county and every city increased powers within its own limits, and we will have instead of the revised statutes of the State of Arizona, the revised statutes of the County of Maricopa, the County of Yavapai, and other counties of Arizona. Now, I say, if this language is ambiguous or uncertain, and I find that it is uncertain because members of the convention do not agree as to what it means, then now is the time to make it certain, and if it means to authorize counties to legislate only on matters concerning subjects on which they are authorized by general law then why not add those words and make it specific—make it certain. That is all this amendment proposes to do. It simply proposes to make definite and express what the gentleman from Maricopa says it already means. If a picture is painted, and it is meant to be a cow, and if there is any doubt as to whether it is a cow or not, then let us say, "It is a cow." (applause)

Mr. Cunniff: I might add to the words of the gentleman from Maricopa that the trouble is some think it is not a cow, but a sheep.

Mr. Baker: While I oppose the proposition, my original idea is absolutely correct. As we are using the illustration of painters, if you have not ability enough to paint a cow so everyone will know it is a cow, you have no business painting at all. (applause) You are making laws—the greatest kind of laws, and you ought to have the ability to express it so that you do not have to write on it what you meant by it. But outside of these matters, we have back of all of this the other objection I raised to this amendment, that is the limitation of the right of the people to use the initiative and referendum, confining it to cities, towns and counties, while you have other bodies in the county that also have rights, as I have already illustrated, such as school districts, irrigation districts, and other districts that might be formed by the legislature. That is the principal objection I am making.

Mr. Webb: I was misquoted by the gentleman from Yavapai, and while I do not think I was intentionally misquoted, I did not intend to convey to him the meaning he seemed to draw from the very brief and talk we had. I am opposed to the amendment proposed because I think it is without precedent. I do not think you can find in any initiative or referendum law now written nor in any constitution or statute book the language which the gentleman proposes. I think the proposition of the gentleman from Maricopa is taken either from Colorado or Oregon, and mine is from Oklahoma. This is only one reason. Another is that we want to leave too much to the legislature. also it does not provide a different percentage of the voters in a county or district from that required in a city or town. I think the initiative and referendum should be as securely reserved to the different districts as to the state at large.

Mr. Cunniff: I wish to say in answer to the gentleman from Graham, that when the Oklahoma convention took up this matter they had before them the Oregon text, but changed that to suit their local conditions. I say therefore that we should change that Oregon text to meet our local conditions and set forth the idea we wish to have in the constitution of the State of Arizona.

Mr. Cobb: I am inclined to favor the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai if he will add the word "municipality."

Mr. Cunniff: If the gentleman from Graham will make the motion, I will agree. Now, I cannot agree with the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Webb, if it is his idea to make the powers of the towns, cities and counties co-extensive with that of the entire territory. I think we should first change the name from the State of Arizona to the United Municipalities, or the United Republics of Arizona.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I desire to say to the gentleman from Graham [sic, Yavapai] that I have no such thought or intention, nor has this convention the power to do such a thing, but I do not think that power should be co-equal on all matters [upon which] they have the right to legislate.

Mr. Feeney: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask, have the counties the right to legislate? That is the problem that has been bothering me.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, the amendment is word for word like this amendment, except the word "counties" is omitted. That is the one that signed by Mr. Coker, Mr. Feeney and Mr. Morgan, and if we are going to have a discussion on that matter, I think it would be well to have it in connection with this. so that the final vote to may be understood to be a vote on these two, and if anybody wishes to amend this by cutting out the word "counties," I think the discussion should take place at this time. The amendment is exactly the same as the other, except "counties" is entirely cut out, and it seems to me if what the gentleman from Graham said is true, then I am pledged to reserve this power to cities as well as the state at large, but I wanted to make it clear that the counties have such powers reserved to them as are given under the general law and incorporated cities and other municipalities within the county shall have the power to use the initiative and referendum separate from the county.

Mr. Doe: Do I understand that if the amendment is carried that it shuts off a vote on the minority report?

[e937163] Mr. Cobb: In the minority report signed by Cunniff, Weinberger and Cassidy it is proposed to add after the word "counties" in the third line "and all other municipalities;" also, in the fourth line after the word "counties" add "and all other municipalities;" and in the fifth line after the word "counties" add "and all other municipalities."

Mr. Chairman: It is proposed to add after the word "counties" the words "and all other municipalities."

[e937165] Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, on yesterday I was looking up some decisions in Oregon, and I find that the Supreme Court has decided that where initiative powers are given generally to counties, districts and cities, that the word "district," where the district includes incorporated cities and also includes other territory, that the larger will prevail—that the larger includes the smaller, and that where there is a conflict between an incorporated city and the district in which the city is included, the court holds that the district prevails, and that the law as adopted prevails over the entire district, including the limits in which the city is located, and I feel certain that if we use the word "county" here, and have any election on any county subject, that our courts will construe that the law will apply to the whole county, notwithstanding some subdivision in that county may have voted otherwise.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, if this distributes the power under the general law, it is to be understood that nothing of this kind can take its place until the general law, or our paragraph on counties and municipalities, distributes that power and states what matter should be under the county legislation and what would be under the city legislation.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, if I understood correctly, Judge Baker's principal objection to the minority report was because it was not broad enough; it did not include school districts and irrigation districts. Mr. Cobb's motion includes these words, "and all other municipalities."

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Feeney, asked the question— has the county power to legislate on any matter? No member will deny that they have the right to regulate certain things; you may call it what you will. They doubtless will always have that right, and I should say that the initiative and referendum should be as jealously guarded for them as it is guarded for the people in cities and municipalities.

Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, if the initiative and referendum powers be reserved to the people will it be to the people of the smaller subdivision. The decisions of the courts are to that effect that if the majority of the people of a larger subdivision vote on a subject, and a majority vote a certain way, that the majority vote carries regardless of the will of any smaller subdivision within the larger body, and I am afraid that if the word "county" is going to be included within this amendment, that the smaller subdivision will be deprived of the power we are going to give them.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, that distribution of powers is a matter to come up under municipalities, where those matters will be presumably prescribed, and would it not be true that if that is prescribed in that way, then there could not be any such interpretation as the gentleman points as being made.

Mr. Baker: If some provision were made whereby if an election were called within a county, a city or a town. Could at the same time vote upon the same subject, the proposition might be solved. I think the people within the cities or towns within that county should have the right to express their approval or disapproval of any matter that might be brought before the people, and if some provision were made whereby the state [sic, city] or town could at the same time vote upon the subject there would be a solution.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I think there should be definitive provision, either in this constitution or by general law, stating what powers are given to cities. For example, if particular matters be left to the county, the rights of the cities should be properly observed.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, if the position just taken be followed to a logical conclusion, must you not segregate the city from the state. The county is a smaller portion of the state, and matters that come up in counties are local matters, and those local matters that must come up before a county may, possibly be to the detriment of the city or town, but I take it that the people of any subdivision within the state should have the right to express the [sic, their] approval or disapproval of any measure and that the state and each subdivision should control, within its boundaries.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to answer the gentleman from Graham. He says that there are matters on which a county may act that are not matters of legislation. I observed in taking up that matter, in the Oklahoma constitution they varied from the form used in Oregon by adding the words "or action." I would be perfectly willing that that phrase should go in here; that meaning this, that the legislation and the action that are given to counties and are given to cities shall be prescribed in our paragraph or section on counties and municipalities.

Mr. Webb: Do you hold that the same percentage should be required to sign a petition in a county and a city?

Mr. Cunniff: Yes.

Mr. Webb: If that be true, then should not the same be required in the state?

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that this is practically the same proposition in getting a percentage of a county as in a town.

Mr. Roberts: If the people of my county thought that they were to be deprived of the rights that they expected to be reserved to them, there would not have been one member in this convention on our platform. (applause)

Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, for my own benefit, in case the initiative and referendum is extended to the counties and also to cities and towns or municipalities, I would like to have some gentleman of the law, who is a member of this convention, say that [sic, what] the status of the town or city would be which lies partly in one county and partly in another.

[e937169] Mr. Chairman: The question is upon the adoption of the minority substitute as amended by the gentleman from Graham. The amendment of the gentleman from Graham has been accepted, as I understand it. Are you ready for the question?

[Editor's Note: Later in the session, the chairman clarified that Cobb's amendment was accepted by the "gentleman from Yavapai," Mr. Cunniff, whose minority report was under consideration.]

[e937171] Mr. Webb: Roll call.

Mr. Chairman: As many as are in favor of the adoption of the substitute for paragraph 8 of the original bill, when their names are called will answer "aye;" those opposed will answer "no."

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, before this vote is taken I desire to ask some of the better informed brethren in the legal profession here, and also some of the gentlemen who advocated this amendment, a question or two, so that I may be added to thereby vote more intelligently. The question has been presented by Mr. Feeney of Cochise as to whether a county can legislate. Now, I am quite familiar with the fact that in our statutes provisions are made by general law for legislative departments in incorporated cities and towns, and I want to say that I have not found in the copy of the statutes to which I have had access any provision whereby the county is authorized to legislate. What provision is there in our statutes that provides for a legislative body in the county? I think you will all admit that there is none. The gentleman from Yavapai suggest that they have gotten around that in Oklahoma by adding the words "or other action." What do we say with reference to the power the initiative and referendum in our definition by the committee? What have we the right to initiate? Law. Anything else? No. We have the right, as laid down here to simply initiate law. What have we the right to refer to the vote of the people? A law that may have been passed by the legislature of our state, which a given percentage of the voters desire to pass upon. If we agree to say that a county, that is not a legislative department recognized by general law of the state, shall be allowed to exercise the initiative and referendum with reference to matters other than pertaining to the county, then we are not giving counties special preference over the state at large and over subdivisions of the state. If you are going to apply this to counties you must provide for establishing a legislative body in the county. Now, this is the way it presents itself to my mind, and it seems to me that any proposition or amendment that comes in here that give the counties the right to legislate is unsupported by any provision of the law, and instead of giving the state and all its subdivisions an equal chance, it would be allowing the county to do something that the state itself could not do.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, if I am not wrongly informed, the candidates to this convention from Cochise county were pledged, either from the stump or in their platform, to favor the Oregon plan of initiative and referendum. If the gentleman will turn to the Oregon plan he will find that it does include counties.

Mr. Feeney: Mr. Chairman, I would like to point out to the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Parsons, that he will find on page 4277 in the volume of Oklahoma Constitutional Convention, line 7 the phrase, "as to all local legislation or action."

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, if you will turn to page 368 of the revised statutes of this territory, you will find the provision for the board of supervisors: "To make and enforce all such local, police, sanitary, and other regulations as are not in conflict with general laws.” (applause)

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to add if the gentleman from Cochise wishes to move an additional amendment to put in the phrase “or action” I will be very glad to do so.

Mr. Roberts: I came here standing on this progressive platform which assured the people of every county, city and town the right to use the initiative and referendum, and I will go down with it for the people of the state to use this mode of procedure. I do not propose to make any distinction between the people of the cities and the people of the counties.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I want to read from a portion of the Cochise county platform as follows: “Believing in the ability and discretion of the people and that they are capable of self-government, and the closer the law-making power is to the people, the better the results and safer the government, we pledge our candidates for the constitutional convention to use their utmost endeavor to place in the constitution self-executing provisions for the initiative and referendum on all laws and all amendments to the constitution substantially according to what is know as the ‘Oregon Plan.’”

[e937177] Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, I would like also to substitute the following: “The right to perform all other acts and things which may be necessary to the full discharge of the duties of the chief legislative authority of the county government,” which undoubtedly established in the county a legislative right.

[Editor’s Note: It is unclear what Lynch’s amendment was meant to change so the editors have made an approximation.]

[e937179] Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, the objection that is going to be heaped upon this amendment is that by giving the counties these powers the cities and towns within that county are going to be deprived of their powers. You are going to deprive the city and town of its power of home rule, for you are going to give the county the right. I therefore move an amendment to Mr. Cobb’s amendment by striking out the word “county.”

[e937181] Mr. Chairman: Mr Cobb’s is not an amendment. It has been accepted by the gentleman from Yavapai.

[e937184] Mr. Weinberger: Then I move an amendment to the minority report by striking out the word “county.”

Mr. Ellinwood: I second the motion of the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Weinberger.

[e937189] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to point out to Mr. Weinberger that to this phrase “and other municipalities” is accepted also, so I think his amendment would cover the county and also this phrase “or other municipalities,” since the county is a municipality.

Mr. Bolan: Mr. Chairman, I think the same as Mr. Cunniff. In regard to the county, I think that the county, as well as the town, and the state, should all have a say in this initiative and referendum; that is, that the government that this is supposed to give to the cities shall not take all of the power away from the counties.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I think the gentleman from Cochise does not understand, I stand for the very same thing he does.

Mr. Moeur: Mr. Chairman, so far as the cities are concerned, I would like to have them have the power to legislate, but there are a good many things that come into the city that the county has to pay for, and the taxpayer should have some consideration—especially prohibition. (applause) I agree with the gentleman from Maricopa. It seems to me we fail to recognize one thing. The city is a municipality of delegated powers. All the powers are given to it by the general law, and the county is also a government on delegated powers, given to it by general law, and no word or words that we could put into this initiative could change that fact. Now then, if the county has only such powers given to it as are delegated to it, and the city has only such powers given to it as are delegated to it, there is no way in which I could conceive that the interests of the city and the interests of the county could come into conflict. Under our present system, the general law, the very point which I think is in the minds of a great many delegates here is local option, which is governed by general law. In that general law the critics are segregated from the county, and there is no possible way by which a county could legislate so that the cities would not have a separate vote. If that is the stumbling block in the way it seems to me that we might disregard it. The city has its full rights under the general law, laws of equal weight with the laws regulating county affairs, and it seems to me it would not be possible to come into conflict.

Mr. Ellinwood: I second the motion of the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Weinberger.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, as the gentleman from Grah, has just said, those conditions and restrictions are laid down now by law, and if we put other restrictions into this constitution, this constitution will repeal every law that is repugnant to this constitution.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that it was the understanding of the delegates here that this provision in the committee’s report does not actually do that thing, and therefore, in order to remove it from all misunderstanding, this other proposition has been prepared.

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that there is some confusion in the minds of the gentleman. The language of the provision that you are going to prepare, except this amendment offered by the gentleman from Yavapai, is that these counties, cities, and towns, and other municipalities are limited under the constitution itself to municipal legislation for their respective municipalities. That necessarily limits the power of the city, the power of the county, or of any municipality in the county, to only use the initiative and referendum in reference to something that is local to them. Rake the local option law in this county at the present time. The county has the right to exercise it, except in cities. Now then, the prohibition law as it now stands is local to the county everywhere except in the cities. It does not cover cities because cities are separate under the general law. Now as to the local option within these cities. It is to the city local. They have a perfect right to have it or not to have it. The county may separate it from the county but they cannot separate it from the city, but, on the other hand, the city can have it. Now this is my understanding of the proposition.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I beg to say that there are members here in this convention who advocated putting that in there, who take it to mean just the opposite, and so long as any misunderstanding as that can exist I believe it is vital for us to make clear our position on these matters.

[e937198] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the amendment of paragraph 8, and the motion is to strike out the words "county." Are you ready for the question? Mr. Cobb offers an amendment to insert the words "or other municipalities." The other amendment to insert the words "or other municipalities" was accepted and consequently it is not necessary to be put. Your motion is to strike out the word "county." Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Webb: Roll call.

Mr. Chairman: As many as are in favor of the proposition to strike out the word "county" will answer "aye" when their names are called, and those opposed will answer "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 12 "ayes" and 40 "nays."

[e937207] [Editor's Note: Lynch's amendment was not mentioned again.]

(Editorial)

[e937202] Mr. Chairman: The motion of the gentleman from Gila is lost. The question is now on the adoption of the minority report found on page 11; that is the substitution of that in place of paragraph 8, found on page 8, lines 15 to 25. Are you ready for the question? As many as are in favor of the substitution will when their names are called answer "aye;" those opposed, "no."

Roll call showed 11 "ayes" and 41 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

(Editorial)

[e937212] Mr. Cassidy: I move that Mr. Webb's amendment be substituted for paragraph 8 of Substitute Proposition Number 4 of the legislative committee.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

[e937213] Mr. Chairman: I would call attention to the fact that the committee has ruled that the amendments be taken up in their order. The next amendment will be the one signed by Feeney, Coker and Morgan.

[e937215] Mr. Coker: Mr. Chairman, I do not care to urge the adoption of my minority report, and would therefore make a motion that it be withdrawn, with the unanimous consent of the committee.

[e937219] Mr. Ellinwood: I move the adoption of the report of Mr. Coker.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded the minority report found on page 12, signed by Feeney, Coker and Morgan be adopted. Are you ready for the question?

[e937220] [Editor's Note: As Ellinwood moved the adoption of the report, Coker's motion to withdraw the report did not receive unanimous consent.]

[e937223] Mr. Webb: I am opposed to the proposed amendment for the reason that it eliminates all counties and other municipalities, and the platform upon which I was elected pledged me to the support—or pledged me to reserve to the people of these municipalities the right of the initiative and referendum.

Roll call showed 3 "ayes", 45 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e937227] Mr. Webb: I now move that the minority report offered by myself be substituted for the eighth clause in the proposition known as Substitute Proposition Number 4.

Mr. Franklin: I second the motion.

Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded that Mr. Webb's minority report be substituted for paragraph 8. Are you ready for the question?

[e937228] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I offered this amendment for the reason that it reserves as great an initiative and referendum power to the people of the counties, cities and towns, as it is possible to reserve under the greatest reservation of power held by the state at large. I offer it because it follows practically the language of other initiative and referendum laws, upon which the courts have passed, and I offer it for the further purpose that it permits, if in the wisdom of this convention it be deemed best, that a different percentage be fixed for cities and towns.

Mr. Baker: I am opposed to it for the remarkable reason that it says too much and does not say enough. It is useless to repeat the same verbiage and apply [it] to a town and city as separate from a county, unless you want to extend the constitution here something like the Oklahoma constitution— thousands of words in it. It is simply writing useless verbiage, and for that reason it says too much. Then again, one paragraph applies to cities and towns; the next paragraph will apply to counties, but the same rule is applied in each single instance, except the blanks for percentage. There is no use of double work of that kind. Why now follow the language of the original proposition; that is, to every county, city, town or other municipality? You save at least one-half a page of writing. Another objection is that it does not go far enough. It falls short just where the gentleman from Yavapai falls short. It does not cover school districts. It absolutely two towns and counties. The school trustees, I again repeat, would have no benefit from the initiative and referendum. They are excluded from this. I contend that the school Affairs in the county are important matters to which the initiative and referendum; for instances what kind of school house shall be built, and where. These are things which the people should have a voice. For these reasons I am opposed to the amendment.

[e937230] Mr. Chairman: I presume that the gentleman from Graham, having moved that this language be substituted, will accept his own amendment.

Mr. Webb: Yes, he will be glad to.

[e937231] Mr. Lynch: May I ask a question? This states, “and such counties may prescribe the manner of exercising the initiative and referendum power as to their municipal legislation.” Does this mean by the county board or the people at large?

Mr. Webb: I would refer to the law which he himself read a few minutes ago, which does give to counties in Arizona legislative power, and it must provide by whom they are enacted.

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, I want to know if this means that the county board of supervisors can make laws by which the initiative and referendum can be carried into effect, or does it mean the people themselves?

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I am glad to say that I am still honestly of the opinion that among all of the amendments that have been brought, his is nearer correct than some of the others, but I again impress upon the convention that it is simply a repetition and extension of the matter, separating the cities from the towns; that it is a useless use of words. It is repeating the same thing over again, and you might as well put it in the compact form. You will find that done if you will refer to the proposition that I am going to offer, on the last page, or the page before the last, it is expressed in this manner: "Initiative and Referendum powers reserved to the legal voters of every city, town and municipality as to all local, special, and municipal legislation." It puts it in compact form and saves one-half page of writing in your constitution. The same provision would be found in the substitute offered by the legislative committee.

Mr. Webb: I simply desire to say that my objection in doing what the gentleman calls multiplying words was to make it possible to fix a different percentage, which I thought should be fixed. If in the judgment of the convention the same percentage should be required in towns and counties, I have not the slightest objection to eliminating one of these paragraphs and inserting the necessary words in the first paragraph, but I still hold that a different percentage should be required. I still hold there is just as much reason for a different percentage in towns and counties as there is cities and state. Some of our counties are as large as the territory you would have to travel over to get a lawful petition in the state. I will say that on any matter on which the county has a right to act,—matters which they have a right to regulate, the board of supervisors may initiate or the people themselves, I guard their right just as carefully as I would of the state.

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, one question then. In one county you have, for instance, two cities, one 5,000 and 1,000. Do you think the same percentage should apply to both?

Mr. Webb: Yes, I know of no reason why it should not.

Mr. Baker: It would strike me as being unfair. It would put the whole initiative and referendum system out of joint. The point I want to make is the impossibility of making the distinction.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, doesn't the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Maricopa contemplate that the same percentage shall be fixed, not only in large and small towns, but in the county?

Mr. Baker: That is where the trouble will come.

Mr. Webb: All the propositions here have contemplated that the same percentage should be required either from towns or from cities.

(Editorial)

[e937233] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the substitute offered by the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Webb, as amended by him. As many are in favor of the adoption of the substitute will as the roll is called answer "aye;" those opposed will answer no. Will the secretary call the roll?

Roll call showed 14 "ayes" and 38 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e937234] Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost. The question now turns on the report of the entire committee. It is moved and seconded that Proposition Number 4 introduced by Mr. Baker as a substitute for Substitute Proposition Number 4 be adopted. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Baker: I do not propose to occupy but a moment of your time in presenting this amendment. It is a substitute in itself. It will be understood by you gentlemen that if there is any criticism [that] falls from my lips it does not arise from the fact that I am not one of the warmest and truest advocates of the system of initiative and referendum that there is on this platform. I want to say that I absolutely believe in its principles. I believe it initiates a true republican form of government, and will enable the people of this state to hold the government within their control. I want to call the attention of the convention now to the general frame of this amendment I have offered. I submit to you in a general way that it is properly drawn; that it has been expressed in legally accepted language; that it has been passed upon by the courts in some instances, and that it is a bill that I think will be readily understood and appreciated by the people. I do not wish any one here to think for one single moment that it is a creation of my mind for it is not. I do not pretend to have pioneered upon the subject in any way, shape or form. I have accepted that which other law-making bodies have in the past adopted and under which they are living at the present time. The bill is largely a copy of the Colorado law and that body had the advantage of the Oregon law up to the present time. the South Dakota law, the Oklahoma law, the Montana law, the Maine proposition and the Missouri proposition, and I believe they have perfected the matter about as well as it can be perfected. You will notice that the provision in this amendment now leaves the percentage blank. The original proposition as I introduced it call for 8 per cent for the initiative and 5 per cent for the referendum. In this amendment I have withdrawn that proposition and left it blank for this convention to fill in, following along the line of the substitute bill of the Legislative Committee in that respect.

Another distinction is that the power of the people to a statutory law or to initiate a statutory law and the power of the people to initiate a constitutional provision or to alter one, or to amend their constitution. They are put upon the same equal footing. I mean by that that the same percentum to amend the constitution and amended a statutory law [would be required.] This bill does not provide for any distinction between these two matters in that respect. The bill as presented by the Legislative Committee appears to recognize the necessity for some distinction in the percentum between the amendment of your constitution and the amendment of a purely statutory law. I do not wish to consume your time upon that point, but I insist here in behalf of the people of this state that this point is vital. The point is absolutely essential. I hold that it is the right of these people to have the power to amend their constitution with the same percentum that they would amend a statutory law. I can see no reason for the distinction. No man need argue to me that the people are not competent to amend their constitution. I contend that they are intelligent enough, that they will exercise the power with the same discretion that they would in reference to a statutory law. It is not true that the people are going to vote on this constitution as a whole? If they have the ability to pass upon it as a whole, they certainly would have the ability to pass upon any amendment to the constitution. And that is the vital difference between the two bills now. I know that in the history of this country the word "constitution" has such a halo of glory around it that the people stand in fear of it in a certain sense of the word. I am not accustomed to follow the advice of Colonel Roosevelt, not at all, but I do say that of all the advice that has been given to the state of Arizona or New Mexico in the formation of their state constitution, the advice of Colonel Roosevelt is the best yet given, and that is for these two states to make their constitution easily amendable, easily amendable. [sic] I am satisfied he was right in that respect, and this being the distinction between these two bills, I favor the amendment that I am offering.

Now again; there is a clause in the original bill that I do not like a little bit. In the substitute bill as offered by the Legislative Committee, on the last page of that, commencing at the fifth line, you will find this provision: "If two or more conflicting measures or amendments to the constitution shall be approved by the people at the same election, the measure or amendment receiving the greatest number of affirmative votes shall prevail in all particulars in which there is a conflict." A little verbiage criticism there. What is meant by measure or amendment? Do they mean one and the same thing? Is not an amendment to the constitution a measure? Then if that construction should be put upon that clause you would find that if the people passed two conflicting measures the one getting the highest number of votes should prevail. Is there not a serious defect there? The statutory law would not necessarily be limited to the word "measure," and it will enable you to correct a conflict by a constitutional measure. That is mere verbal criticism; it is a matter of construction. But I am after the whole thing. I again repeat that to my mind it is an indictment against the system. You are intimating that the people are going to pass conflicting laws. Why is it necessary to intimate that the people are going to be so weak [sic, weak] that they will foolishly pass two conflicting laws at the same election? I do not like for it to be written in the constitution because it strikes me as a reflection upon them. I would advise you to go back and write in a legislative enactment and when the legislative body shall meet and pass upon it. [sic] I have been informed that the measure came from the statutory law of Oregon. It is not in the constitution of Oregon. I have not had access to the statutes of Oregon in this respect, but even if I were learned in passing upon the matter I should be very much inclined to vote against it even in Oregon. I will admit that in the history of Oregon there was some conflict between two laws on the river, in which two states were interested, both Washington and Oregon, and on account of this conflict these legislators got together and legislated about the control of the fisheries all along the river, but I know of no other instance that is likely to occur. Anyhow, I raise that point against it. There are other parts of the bill that I might criticize. Take on page 1. The first of these reserved powers is the initiative. Is not that a clear statement? Is it not perfectly clear that the first of these powers is the initiative? You have named the child. Is not that sufficient? If you will turn down on the second page you will find this bill saying that "all petitions submitted under the power of the initiative shall be known as "initiative petitions." Why repeat it? Now the bills reported back by the Legislative Committee has a whole raft of detail attached to the operation of the initiative and referendum. You are writing into your constitution minute detail for the operation of the initiative and referendum and thereby tying your hands. Either one of these small details is always purely a subject of legislative matter, and you are writing them into your constitution so as to become fixed, and if you wanted to amend them your legislature could not do it. The only way you could change one of these details would be by amending your constitution. Then, if you are going to require a higher percentage you will be in difficulty sure enough because you have some little bit of detail in your constitution that you find impossible to apply and you cannot get rid of it without getting this increased percentum to amend your constitution. Another provision, "This section of the constitution shall be in all regards as executive." I would like to ask why that clause was written in there when you have gone ahead in other parts of the bill and provided these small details for the operation of the initiative and referendum. That is wholly unnecessary because you have attempted to write down just how it should be done. Now going back to the bill I have offered. I claim no credit for it is not the creation of my brain. I have just simply accepted and taken the provisions that the courts have passed upon that I think are clear.

[e937235] Mr. Goldwater: "Phoenix, Arizona, November 4, 1910. Mr. President: Your Committee of the Whole having had under consideration Substitute Proposition Number 4 and amendments begs to report progress and asks leave to sit again at 2 o'clock. Morris Goldwater, Chairman."

[e937236] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I move the committee of the whole do now arise and report progress and ask permission to resume its session at 2 p.m.
Mr. Ingraham: I second the motion.

[e937237] The motion prevailed.

32.8 Friday, 04 November 1910, at 14:00 (s16030)

[e937154] Mr. Goldwater: The committee of the whole will come to order.

[e937155] Mr. Goldwater: The committee of the whole will come to order.

[e937238] Mr. Goldwater: [...] The question before the committee is the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa, Judge Baker, to substitute his proposition for Substitute Proposition Number 4, as reported by the Committee on Legislative Department, Distribution of Powers and Apportionment.

Mr. Winsor: While it is understood that I will take up the matter of discussing the proposition and criticisms offered this morning by Judge Baker, and, doubtless, I should do so, I feel that it is a physical impossibility for me to enter into a lengthy discussion of the subject, yet I feel that it is my duty as chairman of the committee on legislation to speak in reference to the criticisms offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Baker, for a few moments. The first of his criticisms is directed to the powers reserved to the people, and the difficulty of doing so in the proposition submitted by the committee. The gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Baker, criticized the committee proposition because of the details contained therein. I want to plead guilty of the charge. I want to say also if there is any place where we should go into detail in this constitution it is in the matter of the initiative and referendum. All other matters I am in favor of leaving to the legislature and the people. The people have expressed their wish that a check be placed upon the abuses by the legislature and this is our only opportunity to do so. It has been necessary to have some means of checking the actions of the legislature of Arizona as well as other states and this is the very reason for the agitation for the initiative and referendum. It has been caused by abuses, and I cannot see why we should not have a reasonably complete and effective initiative and referendum law in Arizona. As far as I know the Democratic platform in the last campaign pledged the Democratic candidates and many of the Republicans that the constitution would contain an operative initiative and referendum law and we have no legitimate excuse to fail in our pledges. In this proposition there is provided an operative initiative and referendum and there is no detail that would work a hardship. I agree with the gentleman from Maricopa that we should cast no reflection upon the representatives of the people, but I am in favor of a measure that will prevent action that will cause reflection upon the legislature, therefore, I am in favor of this proposition. The proposition was taken from statutes of the State of Oregon. It has been called to my attention in the last few minutes that one of the proposed amendments is almost identical with that of the legislative committee.

I agree with the gentleman that if we are going to have a proposition that contains these details, that this will make a safe and operative initiative and referendum, such as the people have declared they want, and such a proposition is the only one worthy of our notice. There is but little difference between the other two we had under consideration, but in this one there is sufficient detail to insure a safe and operative initiative and referendum law such as I understand that the Democrats desire to put into the constitution. (applause)

we have given the most careful examination to every point. However in these important questions where there has been a difference, we have not been at all partial to the author or producer, but have considered the merits of all the propositions with the purpose of incorporating the best we found, and with the careful examination and study that has been given these propositions, I am willing to accept this committee report as the best proposition that can be secured and it should be adopted. I can only agree with the gentleman from Yuma with [sic, that] the expectations of the people of Arizona are that we shall have a safe and operative initiative and referendum, containing such details as will guard our legislature, and I see no detail of this measure that is unnecessary. I move an amendment to the proposition of the gentleman from Maricopa that this committee report be substituted for Proposition Number 4.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second that motion.

[e937253] Mr. Chairman: The motion before the committee that is the substitute offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, Judge Baker, be adopted in place of the report of the committee on legislature.

Mr. Cunniff: There was no motion to adopt the committee report.

Mr. Chairman: Mr. Baker's motion means to adopt the committee report which was surely seconded by some member. As to the committee report that should go together with the majority and minority report.

Mr. Baker: Which should go together?

Mr. Chairman: The question comes up on the adoption of Mr. Baker's substitute for Substitute Proposition Number 4. Are you ready for the question?

[e937255] Mr. Webb: I rise to a point of information, if not of order. It seems to me the motion is that made by Mr. Baker, which I seconded, that the substitute offered by Mr. Baker be substituted for the committee Substitute Proposition Number 4, for the reason that the committee has one other proposition as a substitute for Proposition Number 4. The motion should be on the adoption of the substitute for the original Proposition Number 4.

[e937258] Mr. Baker: My intention was to amend the report of the committee. The report of the committee offers a substitute for the original Proposition Number 4. I move to amend the report of the committee by substituting my own proposition for the substitute offered by the committee.

Mr. Winsor: It strikes me that this committee cannot substitute any report or proposition. It can recommend that such and such propositions do or do not pass, but it is not for the committee of the whole to substitute. It can only make recommendations.

[Editor's Note: Winsor's comment clarifies that the Committee of the Whole could not substitute one proposition for another, but rather, could only submit a recommendation to the Convention that a substitution be made.]

[e937260] Mr. Chairman: The question was on the adoption of the substitute for Proposition Number 4.

Mr. Winsor: It strikes me that this committee cannot substitute any report or proposition. It can recommend that such and such propositions do or do not pass, but it is not for the committee of the whole to substitute. It can only make recommendations.

[Editor's Note: Winsor's comment clarifies that the Committee of the Whole could not substitute one proposition for another, but rather, could only submit a recommendation to the Convention that a substitution be made.]

[e937263] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen are you ready for the question? The question is on the recommendation of the committee on the substitute offered by Mr. Baker. All in favor of the proposition will answer "aye;" those opposed will answer "nay" when the roll is called.

[e937282] Mr. Winsor: I move that the substitute by the legislative committee be amended to strike out paragraph 8 in committee Substitute Proposition Number 4, and insert in lieu thereof the provision contained in the amendment thereto, offered by Mr. Baker, taking from line 20 on page 4 down to and including the word "municipalities" on line 8 of page 5.

[e937285] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the question is on the adoption of the report of the legislative committee on the Substitute Proposition. The motion will be to strike out paragraph 8 in committee Substitute Proposition Number 4 and insert in lieu thereof the provision contained in the amendment thereto offered by Judge Baker, taking from line 20 on page 4 down to and including the word "municipalities" on line 8, page 5. Those in favor of the amendment answer "aye," and those opposed "nay," when the roll is called.

[e937286] Mr. Crutchfield: A number of gentlemen did not understand whether [it was] Mr. Baker's original or the substitute they were voting on. I understand that there was a misunderstanding as to which of Mr. Baker's propositions was being inserted.

Mr. Chairman: If there are any gentleman who desire to change their vote they may do so.

[e937289] Mr. Cunniff: I move that the blank on line 9 of Substitute Proposition Number 4 by the legislative committee be inserted by the word "ten,"

[e937295] Mr. Cunniff: I move that the blank on line 9 of Substitute Proposition Number 4 by the legislative committee be inserted by the word "ten," and the blank on line 10 [sic, 13] by the word "five."

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the blank in line 9 of Substitute Proposition Number 4 be filled by the word "ten," and the blank on line 10 [sic, 13] be filled by the word "five." Are you ready for the question?

[Editor's Note: Cunniff later corrected himself, stating that he meant to amend line 13, instead of line 10. This initial confusion seems to continue throughout this set of amendments. While it can be assumed that most of these amendments mean line 13 instead of line 10, it is difficult to know for sure.]

[e937296] Mr. Baker: I move to amend the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai that the blank in line 9 be filled by the word "eight" instead of "ten."

[e937301] Mr. Ellinwood: I move to offer a second amendment that the blank in line 13 be filled with the word 'five' and that the blank in line 10 [sic, 13] be filled by the word 'ten.'

[e937309] Mr. Moeur: In line 9 I want the figure "15"

[e937310] Mr. Moeur: In line 9 I want the figure "15" and in line 10 [sic, 13] the figure "10."

[e937311] Mr. Orme: I am a little slow of comprehension and I do not want to vote until I understand all of the amendments or just what we are voting on. I do not understand what we are to vote on now.

Mr. Chairman: The matter before the house is the filling of the blank percentages in Substitute Proposition Number 4. We will take up the amendments in their order. The gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, moved to fill the blank on line 9 by inserting the word "ten," and by filling the blank on line 13 by inserting the word "five." The motion of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Baker, moved to amend that line 9 should read "eight" and that line 10 [sic, 13] should read "ten."

Mr. Cunniff: I should like to ask has anybody filled in line 10 [sic, 13]?

[e937312] Mr. Ellinwood: I move that line 10 [sic, 13] be filled by the figure or the word "ten."

[e937315] Mr. Wills: I move an amendment to that motion that line 10 [sic, 13] be filled by the figure "20."

[Editor's Note: The Arizona Republican records that "Mr. Wills offered '20 for the initiative", meaning that his amendment was intended for line 9 or 10 instead of 13. This suggests that this amendment may have been meant to fill line 10. However, it remains inconclusive so the editors have modelled the amendment on line 13.]

[e937317] Mr. Cunniff: I should have said line 13, the blank in line 13 should read "five."

[e937320] Mr. Lynch: I move an amendment that the blank in line 9 be filled by inserting the word "twelve"

[e937322] Mr. Lynch: I move an amendment that the blank in line 9 be filled by inserting the word "twelve" and the blank in line 13 be filled by the word "eight."

[e937324] Mr. Cunniff: If in order I would like to ask if there is any motion to fill in line 10? It is premature to take action on line 10 as we have no action on it by the committee, and this line should not be disposed of until we have the details of the amendment.

Mr. Baker: As a matter of information, I would like to understand how we are to vote on this. I understand that the figure "8" is proposed 4 line 9 and figure "12" for the same place, and the figure "five;" we also have 5, 8, 10, 12 and also 15. I would like to know as to the method of voting on this question. Gentleman, I understand that the rule is to commence with the smallest number and so on up the line until all have been voted upon or none adopted.

[e937327] Mr. Cunniff moved to suspend the rules and that the blank line 10 be considered first.

[e937328] Motion lost by standing vote of 29 to 20.

[e937329] Mr. Webb moved to divide the question and take up the blanks in lines 9 and 13 separately; carried.

[e937330] Mr. Webb moved to divide the question and take up the blanks in lines 9 and 13 separately; carried.

[e937333] Mr. Chairman: The question before the house is on filling the blank in line 9. Those in favor of inserting the word "five" in line 9 answer "aye;" those opposed "nay."

Roll call showed 2 "ayes" and 50 "nays."

[e937335] Mr. Baker: I have never had an opportunity to speak on this question which is so important and so vital.

Mr. Chairman: I want to protest against the placing of a high percent. You are going to vote on a most important measure, that of the initiative law, and by putting the figure 8 percent on this constitutional measure you are making an 8 percent initiative and a 5 percent referendum. I cannot conceive of any reason why we do not follow the constitution makers of other states. We are scattered from one end of the territory to the other, engaged in mining, farming and various other industrial pursuits, and that our population does not equal in the whole territory the number in even some of our nearby cities like Los Angeles. If you place a high percentage for the initiative you have favored for the corporation, the rich, and the wealthy, but the people at large you are sacrificing. Why take it alone in the Southern Pacific shops, it would be an easy matter for them to go out and get the percent required, while the people would find it difficult if they were forced to secure the percent you require if you make it a high percent. I think that 8 percent represents the people and anything higher places the initiative in the hands of the corporations, and I beg of you to trust in the people, not the corporations. If you are going to give this power to the people give them the whole hog or give them none. Give them the hide, tallow, meat and all and the full power of the initiative law, and if you give them the figure at 8 percent you will give them the power that they are crying for; if not the law will be killed so far as the people are concerned. An 8 per centum will give to the people the initiative power and 10 percent will kill it.

[e937338] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the question comes up on the filling in of the blank in line 9 with 8 percent. Those in favor of the motion will answer “aye;” those of contrary mind will answer “no” when the roll is called.

Roll call showed 3 “ayes” and 49 “nays.”

[e937341] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen the motion is lost, The next motion is on filling the blank in line 9 with the figure 10. Those in favor will answer “aye;” those opposed “nay.”

Roll call showed 35 “ayes” and 16 “nays” (loud applause).

The motion is carried.

[e937354] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move you that the committee of the whole defer filling of the blanks in line 10 until such time as it can be amended and that the committee of the whole refer it to the Committee on Schedule, Mode of Amending and Miscellaneous.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

[e937360] Mr. Webb: I move that the committee of the whole do now arise and recommend that Substitute Proposition Number 4 as amended do pass, and that the minority reports on the proposition be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

[e937362] Mr. Kingan of Pima county in the committee of the whole while a motion to recommend the adoption of the committee's substitute for the Baker direct legislation measure was pending presented the following logical argument against it on the ground that it was subversive of representative government and was calculated almost certainly to defeat statehood. The address of Mr. Kingan, who is regarded as one of the foremost constitutional lawyers in the southwest, was painstakingly prepared, and it was read by him to the committee. It follows:

I am opposed to this proposal, for the reason that it is of doubtful validity under the enabling act and the constitution of the United States, and will delay, if not defeat, statehood.

By section 20 of the enabling act, it is provided that the constitution to be framed by this body shall be republican in form, and shall not be repugnant to the constitution of the United States.

The federal constitution declares: 'The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government.'-Article IV, Section 4.

A republican form of government has always been distinguished from a democratic form of government. A republican form of government is a government by representation, a government by agents, by delegates; a democratic form of government is a government by the people acting directly and where power is reserved by themselves. A republic is a government by representation, a democracy a government by the people acting directly.

These distinctions were well understood by the founders of this government. No persons ever understood the differences better.

In the tenth paper of "The Federalist," written by Madison is the following: "From this view of the subject it may be concluded that a pure democracy, by which I mean a society consisting of a small number of citizens who assemble and administer the government in person, can admit of no cure for the mischief of faction. A common passion or interest will, in almost every case, be felt by a majority of the whole; a communication and concert results from the form of government itself; and there is nothing to check the inducements to sacrifice the weaker party or an obnoxious individual.

Hence it is that such democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention; have ever been found incompatible with personal security, or the rights of property, and have in general been as short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths. Theocratic politicians, who have patronized this species of government, have erroneously supposed that by reducing mankind to a perfect equality in their political rights, they would at the same time be perfectly equalized and assimilated in their possessions, their opinions, and their passions.

A republic, by which I mean a government in which the scheme of representation takes place, opens a different prospect, and promising the cure for which we are seeking. Let us examine the points in which it varies from pure democracy, and we shall comprehend both the nature of the cure and the efficacy which it must derive from the union.

The two great points of difference between a democracy and a republic are: First, the delegation of the government in the latter, to a small number of citizens elected by the rest; secondly, the greater number of citizens, and greater sphere of country, over which the latter may be extended."

Also, in the twenty-eighth paper of "The Federalist," written by Madison is the following: "What then are the distinctive characters of the republican form? ...If we resort, for a criterion, to the different principles on which different forms of government are established. we may define a republic to be, or at least may bestow that name on, a government which derives all its powers directly or indirectly from the great body of the people, and is administered by persons holding their offices during pleasure, for a limited period, or during good behavior."

Judge Cooley also defines a republican form of government in his work on the constitution of the United States and says: "The Constitution—It is imposed as a duty upon the United States to guarantee to every state in the Union a republican form of government. The requirement sprang from a conviction that government of dissimilar principles and forms were less adapted to a federal union than those which were substantially alike, and that the superintending government ought to possess authority to defend the system as agreed upon against innovations which would bring with them discord and antagonistic principles.

The terms of this provisions presuppose a pre-existing government of a form that is to be guaranteed. As long therefore, as the existing republican forms are continued by the states, they are guaranteed by the federal constitution. Whenever the states may choose to substitute other republican forms, they have a right to do so, and to claim the federal guaranty for the latter. The only restriction imposed upon them is that they shall not exchange republican for anti-republican constitutions.

What is republican—By republican government is understood a government by representatives chosen by the people; and it contrasts on one side with a democracy, in which the people or community as an organized whole wield sovereign powers of government and on the other side rule of one man, as king, emperor, czar, or sultan, or with that of one class of men, as an aristocracy.

Also, Bouvier says speaking of a republican or representative democracy: 'A form of government where the powers of the sovereignty are delegated to a body of men, elected from time to time to exercise them for the benefit of the whole nation'—Bouvier's Institutions, Volume I, page 31.

Mr. Black, in his work on constitutional law, at page 27 says: "The United States is a federal republic. So also each of the states is a republic, and the constitution guarantees to each the continuance of republican government."

And further, he says, on the same page: "The system of government in the United States and in the several states is distinguished from a pure democracy in this respect, that the will of the people is made manifest through representatives chosen by them to administer their affairs and make their laws.'

Also, Judge McClain, for many years an associate justice of the supreme court of Iowa, and a professor on constitutional law, in his book recently published on constitutional law, and discussing the initiative and referendum, whether the exercise of the powers of government by the people through the electoral body is not in violation of the provision in the federal constitution (Article IV, Section 4), that each state shall have a republican form of government necessarily involves the exercise of government by representative officers and bodies and the distribution of the powers among distinct and independent departments."

The framers of the constitution of the United States had before them the constitutions of the thirteen original states; they were familiar with them. These thirteen states came into the Union with their existing constitutions, hence, it must follow that these constitutions provided a republican form of government.

A survey of these constitutions shows that each and all of them provided by government by representation and not by direct act or vote of the people. In regard to the legislative branch of the government and the people to legislate, the following brief summary is submitted.

New Jersey constitution of 1776, in force until 1844. 'Section 1— That the government of this province shall be vested in a governor, legislative council and general assembly.' It then provided by sections 5 and 6 that to the assembly shall have the lawmaking power.

New York Constitution of 1777, in force until after 1801. Legislative power vested in the senate and assembly.

North Carolina Constitution of 1776, in force to 1868. The legislative power in a senate and house of commons.

Pennsylvania constitution of 1776, in force at time of adoption of constitution of the United States. The supreme legislative power is vested in a house of representatives.

Delaware constitution of 1776, continued in force at the time of adoption of the constitution of the United States. The legislative power is vested in "The general assembly of Delaware."

South Carolina Constitution of 1776, in force until 1778, and Constitution of 1778 in force until 1790, and until after the adoption of the constitution of the United States. Under both constitutions the legislative power is vested in a representative body under different names.

Maryland constitution of 1776, in force until 1851. Legislative power vested in “the general assembly of Maryland.”

Massachusetts constitution of 1780, and still in force. Legislative power vested in a senate and house of representatives.

Virginia constitution of 1776, in force until 1830. Legislative power is vested in “the general assembly of Virginia.”

New Hampshire constitution of 1774, in force until 1784, and constitution of 1784 until the adoption of the constitution of the United States. Vests legislative power in a representative body, under different names.

Georgia constitution of 1777, in force at time of adoption of constitution of the United States. Vests the legislative power in a representative body.

Charter-Rhode Island remained under its charter of 1663 until 1842. The legislative power is vested in the general assembly.

The phrase “republican form of government” as used in the constitution, therefore, means a government by representation.

The Supreme Court of the United States, the final authority in all matters touching the constitution, has declared such to be the meaning of the term.

It is true that the United States guarantees to every state a republican form of government. It is also true that no state can pass a bill of attainder, and that no person can be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law. All these several provisions of the Constitution must be construed in connection with the other parts of the instrument and in the light of surrounding circumstances.

The guaranty is of a republican form of government. No particular government is designated as a republican, neither is the exact form to be guaranteed, in any manner especially designated. There, as in other parts of the instrument, we are compelled to resort elsewhere to ascertain what was intended.

The guaranty necessarily implies a duty on the part of the states themselves to provide such a government. All the states had governments when the constitution was adopted. In all the people participated to some extent, through their representatives elected in the manner especially provided. These governments the constitution did not change. They were accepted precisely as they were, and it is, therefore, to be presumed that they were such as it was the duty of the States to protect. Thus we have unmistakable evidence of what was republican in form within the meaning of that term as employed in the constitution—Minor vs. Happersett, 21 Wallace, Page 175.

By the constitution a republican form of government is the guaranty to every state in the Union, and the distinguishing feature of that form is the right of the people to choose their own officers for governmental administration, and pass their own laws in virtue of the legislative power reposed in representative bodies whose legitimate acts may be said to be those of the people themselves; but, while the people are thus the sources of political power, their governments, national and state, have been limited by written constitutions, and they have themselves thereby set bounds to their own power as against the sudden impulses of mere majorities—In re Duncan, 129 U.S. page 461.

In the case of Downes vs. Bidwell, in the opinion of the court date May 27, 1901, the following language is used, speaking of article IV, section 4 of the constitution: “According to the definition of Webster, a government in which the supreme power rests in the whole body of the people and is exercised by representatives elected by them.” —Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. page 279.

There are decisions and expressions of text-writers to the effect that by the term, "republican form of government," it was intended only to guard against monarchical forms of government; but the authorities already cited, and particularly the expressions of the supreme court of the United States, show conclusively that the term, "republican in form," is used in the constitution, in contra distinction to a democracy.

It will be observed that the guaranty of the federal constitution, as to a republican form of government, applies only to the states. There is no prohibition in the constitution, therefore, against direct government in any of the subdivisions or municipalities of the states, the prohibition only extending to the states as political entities. The decisions of the courts of California and Minnesota upon the initiative and referendum, have therefore no place in this discussion, for they relative to local government only.

I take it, therefore, as a settled principal [sic, principle] of constitutional law, that the words, "republican form of government," as used in the constitution, mean a government by representation and not by direct act of the people.

The law-making power is the greatest power in government, and its manner of exercise denotes the form of a government. It follows from what has been said that this power, in a republic, must be exercised by the people through their representatives, for, if the power be exercised directly, the government is not a republic but a democracy.

What then is proposed by this measure?

"The legislative authority of the state shall be vested in a legislature consisting of a senate and a house of representatives, but the people reserve the power to propose laws and amendments to the constitution and to enact or reject the same at the polls, independently of the legislature; and they also reserved for use at their own option the power to approve or reject at the polls any act, or item, section or part of any act, of the legislature.

The veto power of the governor shall not extend to initiative of [sic, or] referendum measures approved by a majority of the qualified electors.

This section shall not be construed to deprive the legislature of the right to enact any measure."

A legislature is established but with limited powers. The legislature may act, but its every act may be undone by the people. It may pass a law, but the law may be repealed at any time by referendum. Laws may be passed by the people acting independently and without the legislature. Practically any law may be enacted without the legislature and any law enacted by the legislature may be repealed by the people without legislative consent. The legislature had, therefore, no real law-making power, for all of its acts may be undone and laws may be passed without its sanction or consent. The real and substantial legislative power is not delegated to it, but it is reserved. It cannot be said that any real power is ever delegated when the granting power reserves to itself, at all times, and in all things, the power to revoke, to undo that which has been done, and to act for itself independently.

The ultimate controlling power of legislation, under this proposal, lies with the people, for under the referendum all acts of the legislature, including repeals by that body, may be referred and completely abrogated.

Under this act, therefore, the legislative power is not delegated, but retained by the people is [sic] to be exercised directly by them. The legislature is a mere form, a body shorn of power. It is not a government by representation, but government directly. Such a form of government is not republican in form, but democratic, and is repugnant to the constitution of the United States.

But, it may be urged that because this proposal provides for a legislature and that this legislature may act and that its acts may become law, that because some shreds of power are left it, that because some shreds of power are left it, that representative government is preserved, and the act is valid. This is the argument of the supreme court of Oregon in passing on the constitutionality of the initiative and referendum in that state. The court says: "The initiative and referendum amendment does not abolish or destroy the republican form of government or substitute another in its place. The representative form of government still [re]mains. The people have simply reserved to themselves a larger share of legislative power."—74 Pacific 716.

This is a surprising statement to find in a law book. The court tacitly admits that republican form government is one by representation, and at the same time says that a law aimed at the destruction of this system is valid, and for the reason that it does not destroy at one blow and whole and entire system. It says in effect: "A republican form of government is a government by representation; a law that would wholly destroy government by representation is invalid, but a law that only destroys half of the representative power is valid."

But, as before set out, the statement of the power of the supreme court of Oregon that only part of the power of the legislature is taken away is not correct, for there is not a law that may be passed by it that may not be repealed without its consent, with some trifling exceptions, and there is not a law that may be proposed that may not be passed without its consent. It is difficult to believe that such a body is the repository of any real power.

The Oregon case, just cited, is now on appeal in the supreme court of the United States.

In the case of Kilbourne vs. Thompson, 103 U.S. page 168, Mr. Justice Miller, at page 190 says: "It is believed to be one of the chief merits of the American system of written constitutional law, that all the power entrusted to government, whether state or national, are divided into three grand departments—the executive, legislative, and the judicial. That the functions appropriate to each of these branches of government shall be vested in a separate body of public servants, and that the perfection of the system requires that the lines which separate and divide these departments shall be broadly and clearly defined. It is also essential to the successful working of this system that the persons entrusted with this power in any one of these branches shall not be permitted to encroach upon the power confided to others, but that each shall by the law of its creation be limited to the exercise of the powers appropriate to its own department and no other."

If it lies in the power of the people of this state, under the constitution of the United States to destroy the legislative [sic, legislature] and take the law-making power into their own hands or retain it in their hands, they must have the same power to destroy the executive and the judiciary. All are forms of republican government, all instances of delegated power of governments by representation. If the law-making power may be destroyed, so may the law-enforcing power and the law-construing power. One is no more sacred than the other. If you say to the legislature, "We reserve the right to undo all that you have done or may do," you may reserve the same right as to the judiciary and the same right as to the executive.

Indeed, it is now proposed to destroy the power of the executive by denying it the power of veto and to seriously impair the judiciary by denying it the power to declare unconstitutional any law passed by the people. This last proposal, if put into effect, destroys the constitution for, if there is no power to declare a law enacted by the people unconstitutional, then every new law will be just as supreme as the constitutional itself, and the constitution would consist, not of the instrument, so-called, but of every law that might be passed. And if there be no judiciary, with power to say which law is supreme, in case of conflict, what is left but that uncertainty which leads to anarchy.

Again, I conceived the initiative and referendum repugnant to the enabling act in another way. By section 24 of the enabling act, the laws of this territory shall remain in force until changed by the legislature, except as changed by the enabling act, or this constitution. The proposed constitution, with the initiative and referendum, does not change the existing laws, but only provides a means or method of legislation by which they may be changed, only the legislature may therefore change the existing laws. They cannot be changed by the referendum, nor can they be repealed by implication by initiating a new law in conflict with them. The initiative and referendum cannot then apply to existing laws, and the broad statement contained in this proposal, that any law may be initiated or referred is not permissible under the enabling act. The clause or phrase of the enabling act just mentioned indicates also that Congress, in passing the enabling act, contemplated that the legislative power should be vested in the legislature.

The constitution of the United State is the supreme law of the land, and the enabling act is supreme so far as we are concerned. I am not now debating the merits or the lack of merits of the initiative or referendum; I am confining myself to the constitutionality of the matter. It is immaterial whether the proposal be good or bad from an economic or political standpoint, if it be bad under the constitution.

As before stated, the case from Oregon involving the constitutionality of the initiative is now on appeal in the supreme court of the United States. The case will not be reached for hearing, I am reliably informed, before a year from this date. The decision of the supreme court will be final. I am well aware that in many instances the decision of what is or what is not republican in form rests with Congress and is a political and not a judicial question, but the manner in which the case now before the supreme court has arisen, involving as it does, rights of property under a law of Oregon initiated and passed by the people and not by the legislature, makes it imperative for the court to pass upon it. With the requirement in the enabling act that the constitution of Arizona shall be republican in form, and not repugnant to the constitution of the United States, with initiative and referendum in the Arizona Constitution, with the constitutionality of that precise and identical matter now a mooted question and pending before the supreme court for final decision, is it likely that the President, himself a lawyer, and for many years a judge, will act on the Arizona constitution until after the Supreme Court shall have passed on it? And should that court hold the initiative and referendum unconstitutional, is it likely that the President will ever approve the Arizona constitution? You are therefore, by inserting this matter in the constitution, delaying, if not ultimately defeating statehood.

With the grave doubt in my mind as to the constitutionality of the proposal and with the conviction, as before stated, that its insertion in the constitution of Arizona will delay, and perhaps entirely defeat statehood, I cannot give this proposal my support.

Judge Edward M. Doe, delegate in the constitutional convention from Coconino county, made a strong appeal for statehood. It was brief and calculated to move those who care more for the admission of Arizona than for the inclusion of pet theories in a constitution which can never be more than waste paper. Judge Doe said:

The initiative and referendum are neither copyrighted nor created by any political party, but without regard to party lines it has been demonstrated that the people of this territory favor them to the extent of demanding their embodiment in the constitution, even though not in accord with the views of the President and of Congress, under the belief that the President and Congress would not dare disapprove a constitution solely by reason of its embodying such popular provisions. It was under such conditions and by reason of such belief that a majority of the members of this convention were instructed in favor of those measures.

During the recent campaign, at least 99 per cent of the voters were unaware of the probable unconstitutionality of those measures. There can be no doubt that the overwhelming majority of the people want statehood, and I cannot but believe, that if made aware of the situation as it exists, they would release instructed delegates from their instructions in that regard.

In the campaign which resulted in our selections as delegates the people of the several counties passed upon the desirability and the advisability of providing for the initiative and referendum in the constitution. The determination of the validity of these measures and the duty of preparing a constitution which shall be in accord with the constitution of the United States and comply with the requirements of the enabling act devolve upon me. I fancy that many of us were not fully advised ourselves, upon this phase of the question until since the close of the campaign, and to those of you who as now advised believe these measures unconstitutional I venture to suggest that you communicate to your constituents the information you now have and ask whether in the light of such information they still desire you to act upon your existing instructions.

That provision of the constitution substitute proposition reading:

“Section 1—The legislative authority of the state shall be vested in a legislature consisting of a senate and a house of representatives, but the people reserve the power to propose laws and amendments to the constitution and to enact or reject the same at the polls, independently of the legislature; and they also reserved for use at their own option the power to approve or reject at the polls any act, or item, section or part of any act, of the legislature.” concisely and unequivocally repudiates the republican or representative form of government guaranteed to all the states by section 4 of article 4 of the constitution of the United States as required in the express provisions of the enabling act.

The primary meaning of the word “democracy” is the Athenian form of government where the governing power is directly exercised by the assembled people. It has, however, lately come to mean a government in which the whole governing power is vested in the people, whether exercised by them directly or through representatives elected by them.

Webster’s definition of a “republic” is “a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and is exercised by representatives elected by them." This definition has been quoted with approval by the supreme court of the United States in Downes vs. Bidwell, 182 United States 279.

The men who framed our constitution were largely men possessed of a broad knowledge of existing form[s] of government and just as well aware of the distinction between a republic and a democracy as between either of those and a monarchical form of government. Had they desired a government in which the people of the states might either exercise governmental powers directly or through representatives exercised by them at their option, they would unquestionably have guaranteed to the states a democratic form of government. Presumably they believed a representative form of government preferable under existing and, so far as they could foresee, future conditions, and used the word "republican" instead of "democratic" advisedly.

The Supreme Court of the United States has said in [In] re Duncan, 139 United States 461: "By the constitution, a republican form of government is guaranteed to every state in the Union, and the distinguishing feature of that form is the right of the people to choose their own officers for governmental administration, and pass their own laws by virtue of the legislative power reposed in representative bodies, whose legitimate acts may be said to be those of the people themselves."

And again in the case of Minor vs. Happersett, 21 Wallace 176, that court said: "It is true that the United States guarantees to every state a republican form of government. It is also true that no state can pass a bill of attainder, and that no person can be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. All these several provisions of the constitution must be construed in connection with the other parts of the instrument, and in the light of surrounding circumstances.

The guarantee necessarily implies a duty on the part of the states themselves to provide such a government. All the states had governments when the constitution was adopted. In all the people participated to some extent, through their representatives elected in the manner especially provided. These governments the constitution did not change. They were accepted precisely as they were, and it is, therefore, to be presumed that they were such as it was the duty of the States to protect. Thus we have unmistakable evidence of what was republican in form within the meaning of that term as employed in the constitution."

The constitutions of the states referred to by the court made no provision for government by the people directly, but were essentially representative and republican in form.

It may be said that these expressions of the court are dicta, but that court even by way of illustration or as a dictum rarely expresses itself save after careful consideration of its expressions. The question of the constitutionality of the initiative and referendum is now pending in that court in the case of State vs. Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph Company, 99 Pacific 421, on appeal from the supreme court of Oregon, and I am advised is Number 197 of the calendar of the court and cannot by any possibility be heard before next spring, and in all probability will not be reached for hearing before next fall, and the decision of the court can scarcely be expected in the present somewhat disorganized condition before the following spring.

The Enabling Act in express terms requires that our constitution shall be republican in form, and it would be ridiculous to assume that the President, himself a great constitutional lawyer, would approve a constitution containing these debatable measures while a case involving the constitutionality of such provisions is pending in the supreme court of the United States and we must look for delay in the president's approval of such a constitution until at least a year from next spring, and in the event the decision is announced after the adjournment of Congress, then the required joint approval of the president and Congress will be delayed for upwards of two years. If that decision be adverse, disapproval will follow as a matter of course. That it will be adverse, I believe to have been clearly foreshadowed by the existing expressions of the court. In such event the people will hear no excuse from those who have followed their instructions inconsiderately given. Results alone count. It has been said that the voice of the people resembles the voice of God. Let me again urge you to submit the question fairly to your constituents and asked to be released from your present instructions. Failing in this, and acting upon your present instructions, I prophesy you will find the wrath of a disappointed people wondrously like the wrath of God and sooner felt.

[e937366] Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, I move a reconsideration of the motion of the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Winsor, to strike out the words beginning on line 15 to and including the words on line 25 of Substitute Proposition Number 4 introduced by the legislative committee, and insert in lieu thereof the words beginning on line 20 to and including line 25 on page 4, and the words beginning on line 1 to and including line 10 on page 5 of the amendment to substitute Proposition Number 4 introduced by Mr. Baker of Maricopa.

Mr. Chairman: Do you want to put in the same thing again?

Mr. Franklin: Yes sir.

[e937371] Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, without that this takes precedence.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, may I ask for information? Is the idea of this order that we may incorporate the words "and other municipalities?" That was the only difference.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Maricopa will have to repeat that or put it in writing. The chair is not able to follow him.

Mr. Franklin: I move for a reconsideration of the motion of the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Winsor, to strike out the words beginning on line 15 to and including the words on line 25 on page 8 of Substitute Proposition Number 4, introduced by the committee on legislative department, and insert in lieu thereof the words beginning on line 20 to and including the words on line 25, page 4 and the words beginning on line 1 and including the words on line 10 on page 5 of the amendment to Substitute Proposition Number 4, introduced by Mr. Baker of Maricopa County.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I suggest that the gentleman move for a reconsideration of the vote by which the gentleman from Yuma was lost.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I have made a careful examination of this matter and shall simply oppose any such motion as that.

Mr. Chairman: If the chair understands the matter right, the gentleman from Maricopa moves to amend the motion that was lost. What do you want to do, reconsider that and put it in something else?

Mr. Franklin: Yes, sir.

Mr. Ellinwood: Is not a motion before the house?

Mr. Chairman: Yes, but the gentleman, as I understand it, withdrew his motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 208-209)

[e937378] Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded that the motion to amend Substitute Proposition Number 4, which was lost to be reconsidered. All those in favor of reconsidering the motion will answer "aye" when their names are called; those opposed "no." Will the secretary call the roll?

Roll call showed 26 "ayes" and 26 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e937380] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move that this committee arise and report progress, and recommend that this discussion be resumed tomorrow morning as soon after 9:30 o'clock as convenient.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second that motion.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the committee arise to report progress.

[e937382] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I desire to amend the motion to this effect, that we do now arise and report to the convention that Substitute Proposition Number 4 as amended, do pass, and that further consideration of all minority reports on Proposition Number 4 be indefinitely postponed.

[e937383] Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the minority should have a full and complete hearing.

Mr. Webb: I desire to say in answer to the gentleman from Maricopa, that under our rules there is just as much freedom in the convention as in the committee of the whole.

Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai and amended by the gentleman from Graham. The original motion is that the committee do arise and report progress, and as leave to sit again tomorrow morning, which the gentleman from Graham amends by asking that the committee do arise and recommend that Substitute Proposition Number 4 do pass and that further consideration of all minority reports and other propositions attached thereto be indefinitely postponed. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that we have left part of this proposition incomplete. There is no provision with reference to the percentage of voters that should be required. As I understand his motion the proposition would be adopted as a part of our constitution with a blank it as to the percentage. It seems to me we can ill afford to do that.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, the question raised by the gentleman from Cochise was disposed of by a former motion. However I presume that my motion should have been changed to the effect that further consideration of the filling of that space be left until another matter which is before the committee be brought up, and be attended to at the same time.

Mr. Chairman: That motion was never put.

[e937386] Mr. Webb: I would change my motion to this: That the committee do now arise and report back to the house, recommend that further consideration of Substitute Proposition Number 4 be postponed until the committee of the whole has before it, or until such time as is referred to the committee of the whole the report of the cCommittee [sic] on Schedule, Mode of Amending and Miscellaneous, and that further consideration of the minority report on Proposition Number 4 be indefinitely postponed.

[e937387] [Editor's Note: Under the Rules, Webb was within his right to amend his own motion.]

[e937389] Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I am opposed to this because we are putting this matter off for an indefinite period. We ought to settle this initiative and referendum and settle it at this time and connectively. [sic] We have been several days upon the discussion of this matter already, and I am very much in favor of giving the minority in this convention tomorrow a full opportunity to be thoroughly and completely heard.

Mr. Chairman: There is no disposition to prevent discussion. The motion made by the gentleman from Yavapai was that when the committee do arise it do so and so. Anyway the motion of the gentleman from yavapai is that when the committee does arise it report progress and ask leave to sit again tomorrow. The gentleman from Graham offers an amendment that when the committee does arise it recommend that Substitute Proposition Number 4 be accepted with the amendments thereto, and that further consideration of the amendment for the purpose of filling the blanks be postponed until the committee of the whole has before it the report of the committee on schedule, mode of amending and miscellaneous.

Mr. Wills: I second the motion in the first place, but there is no second to the motion of Mr. Webb.

[e937392] Mr. Chairman: In that case the question is on the gentleman from Yavapai's motion that when the committee arise it report process and ask leave to sit again tomorrow morning.

[e937393] Mr. Chairman: In that case the question is on the gentleman from Yavapai's motion that when the committee arise it report process and ask leave to sit again tomorrow morning. Are you ready for the question? As many as are in favor say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

[e937395] Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, I notice there are two blanks on page 8 in reference to the local initiative and referendum, which have not been filled. Is a motion in order to fill these blanks at this time?

Mr. Chairman: A motion is in order if you want to make it.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910)

[e937396] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I move you that the committee do arise.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e937397] Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded that the committee do arise and report progress. Those in favor say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

[e937406] Mr. Cooper: Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Pima, Mr. Cooper.

Mr. Cooper: I would like at this time in justice to myself, to offer a brief explanation of the attitude I assume on this proposition, and why at this time I am constrained to vote against it. I distinctly understand and fully realize that at present I am not lined up on the popular side of this measure. I wish to say, however, that I am not seeking popularity, but I am seeking to satisfy my own conscience and to carry out by my conduct what I consistently believe to be the best method, and the only method at present, of securing what we have struggled for so long—statehood for Arizona. I want to say at the same time that I do not oppose the very broadest and fullest measure of the rights of the people to govern themselves. I want to say that I am as highly in favor of the freedom of the people of these United States and of this Territory of Arizona as any man who sits in this convention or who lives within the boundaries of this territory.

I do not intend to discuss the merits or demerits of the initiative and referendum—whether or not it is valuable as a means to secure what the people desire in the matter of legislation, but shall confine my remarks entirely to what, in my humble judgement, will be its effect, if incorporated in our constitution, upon our chances for early admission to statehood; and, gentlemen, do not understand that I am assuming to arrogate to myself any superior knowledge, but shall endeavor simply to express my personal views, based upon what I sincerely believe to be plain and logical reasoning from the facts before us.

I have a most distinct and vivid recollection that shortly after my advent to this great territory some twenty years ago, I was very strongly impressed with the fact that the people of Arizona were fervent and sincere in their desire for statehood. In fact, the first campaign after my arrival seemed to be based on that one issue, and that alone. Nothing else was worthy of discussion; and if my memory serves me correctly in every congressional campaign since that time, the loudest cry has been for immediate statehood for Arizona, singly and alone. I have heard many most eloquent appeals made to the voters for their support for this priceless boon. I have seen many, many times, in my mind's eye, the emblem of these great United States beautified and glorified by the addition of the bright new star of Arizona. I have heretofore believed and do now believe, that these appeals were sincere, and that the people of Arizona did and do now want statehood, and that they want it now. I fervently believe that if the people of this territory had been informed as to the doubtful constitutionality of this proposition during the late campaign, possibly events today might have a different trend.

I can show by one instance that I have always been consistently and sincerely in favor of statehood. I simply desire to recall that in 1906, in the face of inevitable defeat I accepted the nomination for Congress at the hands of the Republican party, and I think the sacrifices I made at that time warrant me in the statement that I do not think my loyalty to this can be questioned any more.

But, gentlemen, the fear I have that if this measure be adopted as a part of our constitution at this time, it will result if not in the entire failure of our effort at admission, or at least in indefinite delay, has driven me to the point where I cannot conscientiously cast my vote in its favor.

You have been told, and I take it for granted, that no gentleman here doubts the truth of the statement, that a number of respectable courts have already declared that a constitution containing these provisions is not “republican in form” as contemplated by the Constitution of the United States, and as demanded from the people of this territory by the Enabling Act.

All the legal definitions of a “republican form of government” as the term is used in the Constitution of the United States, are against these measures. The universal opinion of text writers on constitutional interpretation has been announced as opposed to them.

With all these facts before us, can there be any necessity for still urging that these measures be adopted now and made a part of this constitution at this time? Adopted as amendments to the constitution of Oregon, the initiative and referendum have resulted in an appeal from the supreme court of that state to the court of highest appeal in the United States, and that appeal is now pending there. It involves the very question of constitutionality, and as that court is now more than two years behind with its business it must be the inevitable conclusion that the question will not be settled for an indefinite time.

Does any gentleman present believe that the President of these United States, eminent constitutional lawyer that he is, will approve our constitution, if it contains these measures, before the Supreme Court has determined this constitutional question? For one, I do not.

For more than half a century the highest hope of Arizona's citizens, from the brave pioneers, who faced death in a thousand forms, to the growing children of this territory today, has been the achievement of statehood with all its attendant blessings. Shall we, as representatives of them all, now jeopardize the solitary opportunity ever afforded to us for the realization of that hope, by assuming the risk that must necessarily be involved in this action? Can we not patiently bear for a little longer the "ills we have" rather than take a single chance of destroying this first and only opportunity we have ever had? Surely after sixty years without the initiative and referendum, we can still live for a little, free from any fatal results from misplaced confidence in our legislatures, and allow this very doubtful question to be forever settled.

Why not submit a constitution free from a single feature that will render our admission questionable; and if after we have been crowned with statehood, and the Supreme Court has placed the seal of approval on this form of government, the people desire it, adopt it by amendment as has been done in other states? I say unto you: "Seek ye first statehood, then shall all these things be given unto you."

The suggestion of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Baker, that this constitution be made easily amendable, I think should be the controlling one with this convention, and with that in view there can be no doubt as to our admission. If this were the last time we had the opportunity to express the sentiments and wishes of this people as to our form of government, then this constitution might be ... [words missing.]

Mr. Wood: In answer to the suggestion of the distinguished gentleman from Coconino County, Judge Doe, that we write to our constituents and find out if they will not relieve us from our campaign pledges, I will state that only two days ago I received a letter from a gentleman in Yavapai County relating to this—a gentleman who is in touch with more taxpayers in Yavapai County than any other man there—in fact the county treasurer of Yavapai County. He comes in touch with every taxpayer either personally or through letter one or more times every year, and knows the feeling of the taxpayers in that county better than any other man. In his letter to me, he wrote among other things the following:

"You do not need any props to hold you steady but you will be pleased, I am sure, to learn that the people of Yavapai County know that you are honest and may be depended upon under all circumstances to stand by your platform, regardless of all adverse criticism that may be offered by Republicans or Republican newspapers. You know why you and the rest of this convention were chosen to represent the great majority of this territory. You will live up to your pledges to the letter, and if any greater reward than the satisfaction of duty well done is yours, this will be amply sufficient. No greater reward, in fact, may come to any man." Now, Mr. Chairman, I personally heard the President of the United States in his speech in Prescott before hundreds of people, in his advice as to what kind of a constitution Arizona should write, say: "Make your constitution as progressive as you wish, but do not legislate therein," and if that is not an answer to whether or not it will be accepted, I do not know an answer. (applause)

[e937411] Mr. Ellinwood: As I view this substitute proposition as it is now before the committee, it embodies the best initiative and referendum law that I know of now in force, with perhaps one exception. I therefore move to strike out the words on page 6 of the substitute in line 13: "The legislature or" and on page 9 in line 19 and 20 "or any measure referred to the people by the legislature." I find that one of the chief criticisms of the system of referendum—a criticism that is made by all writers who oppose the system—is that this power of referendum ought not to be vested in the legislature itself. The people have the right by petition upon the proper percentage to repeal any law enacted by the legislature, but when you permit the legislative body itself to refer back the people some law, you have the people passing continually upon laws which ought in the first place to be passed by the legislature itself.

Suppose a proposition comes before the legislature and you have in full effect your initiative and referendum, you can by referendum repeal any law that they propose, yet the politician in the legislature, the man who does not want to make a record one way or the other (say on the repeal of the ranger law or a local option law;) who does not want to go on the record either as opposing it or not, will pass it on to the people. He will pass that up to the people. There are hundreds of laws proposed to vote on which members of the legislature feel will impair their records, and they refuse to vote on anything that will impair their records, and they refuse to vote on anything that will disturb their standing condition in their own locality, so they pass it up to the people. My opinion is that every member of the legislature should be required to vote one way or the other. If a member votes for the law, and it is a good measure, there is no need of the referendum, and you do not have the expense of an election, because the legislature has passed the bill and it is the kind of law the people want. If, on the other hand, the members vote against a good measure, you have the power of the initiative to put it in force and effect. This criticism has been universal in every state where this law is in effect. With this exception this substitute is the best I have as yet seen written in any statute book, and I therefore move this amendment.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I wish to second the motion of the gentleman from Cochise.

(Editorial)

[e937414] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I wish to second the motion of the gentleman from Cochise. If there is one thing we are endeavoring to do, it is to place responsibility on public officers to carry out to the full the idea that public office is a private trust. This matter of permitting the legislature to refer matters to the people is one way for the legislature to get out of responsibility. I heartily subscribe to every word the gentleman from Cochise has spoken on the subject.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I heartily concur in the amendment offered by the gentleman, and it will be seen by reading on page 6 a little further down in that provision, on line 15, the words 'enacted by the legislature.' I think this change makes the reading of the section better.

Mr. Chairman: The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Cochise to amend this substitute.

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I do not understand the proposition. I will admit that I never have been in love with the language used by the legislative committee in presenting this matter, and I have never been thoroughly convinced that it is the best language, but I am satisfied if you strike out this right of the legislature to refer to a matter to the people, you make a grave mistake. I do not know of a single constitution with the initiative and referendum, but has this exact language, giving the legislature the power to refer to the people. I do not see any reason why we should depart from this position that all others have taken. I do not understand why this legislature should not have the right to refer the matter to the people. They practically do that under the local option. The legislature simply refers the matter actually and practically to the people. That is the effect of the local option law, and bond issues, and all other legislation of like nature, and it strikes me that this should remain exactly as it is. I do not understand why the friends of this measure are thus amending, and it will have to be explained to me better.

Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, if I could interpret the provisions of this paragraph as the gentleman from Cochise evidently does, I think I should be compelled to agree with him; he seems to take the ground that the legislature would have the power under this provision to refer matters to the people without the legislature having taken action thereon or the members of the legislature having been compelled to place themselves on the record either in favor or against it. A careful reading of the third paragraph of page 6 shows that the legislature may only refer to the people such measures as shall have been enacted by the legislature. I can really see no objection to giving the legislature the power to refer such matters to the people.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the answer to the gentleman from Yuma is the statement itself. If the legislature have acted, why refer it to the people? The people can take care of themselves after the proposition is written as a law. If they have enacted and made it a law, and it is a wise law, there is no reason for the action on the part of the people. If it is unwise, they have the power themselves to repeal it by the referendum. Answering the gentleman from Maricopa that this is written in the several constitutions of other states in similar language, we should recall that the initiative and referendum is of recent origin. That it is written in most of the constitutions is beyond question, but in every constitution where it has been written it has been subject to the severe criticism of the people living under the law and the authors writing on the subject; and this is one of the reasons why the initiative and referendum has been so much criticized, namely that it fails to place any responsibility on the legislature. I say when you have gotten up a law as splendid as this, we should be progressive enough not to write in our constitution that which is so much criticized in the constitutions of other states. It seems to me you give the legislature under this an opportunity to shirk; the people can take care of themselves, after the legislature has passed a law unwisely.

Mr. Baker: Will the gentleman from Cochise kindly cite me a single book containing this criticism on the initiative and referendum. I have paid close attention to this question for the past five or six months.

Mr. Ellinwood: During the noon hour I will hand the gentleman from Maricopa a volume on the referendum in America, where this criticism is made in every constitution which has the referendum.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, it seems the position of the gentleman from Cochise involves him in an absurdity. It seems to me to place in this initiative and referendum a provision that five percent of the people may call a referendum and then say that a majority of the legislature representing the entire state shall not have the same power that five percent of the people have, is an extreme absurdity.

Mr. Ellinwood: If they enact this law, they will not have to call the referendum. If it is a bad law, the people will get the five percent.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): The question of wise or unwise laws might give rise to honest difference of opinion. I can conceive of a legislature being honestly divided on a question, and deem it quite proper to have the people decide. I should like to have the amendment defeated.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? Call the roll.

Mr. Doe: This is a matter in which I think the majority of the Republican members have no responsibility, being as they are opposed to the initiative and referendum being put in the constitution at this time. We would simply be compelled to vote on a matter that is of no consequence to us. It seems to me that the responsibility of this matter should devolve on the majority who favor the initiative and referendum in order that we may not be a disturbing element. What I request is that those who do not care to vote on this question be absolved from doing so.

Mr. Ellinwood: This is the very position you will find the legislature to be in. (applause) When a measure comes up, they will want to dodge it. (applause)

Mr. Cooper: Mr. Chairman, I do not want to dodge it. I want to vote on everything.

Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, I heartily concur with Mr. Ellinwood's amendment, and I am satisfied that there will be a great many members of the legislature by whom this means of escape would be used. They would refer to the people matters which the legislature could settle, and settle probably satisfactorily to the people.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I would like to ask the gentleman from Cochise if this act would prevent the people from passing a constitutional amendment.

Mr. Ellinwood: The committee on amendments will take care of that.

[e937415] Roll call showed 32 "ayes" and 20 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e937419] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, there is in this bill what appears to me is an omission that ought to be corrected. The significance of this has been pointed out by the senior member from Maricopa. I think that all who are now favor of this substitute proposition will endorse this amendment. I move to amend by striking out the word "and" on line 17, page 8, where it first occurs, and insert after the word "county" where it first occurs, the words "and all other municipalities." In line 18, strike out "and" where it first occurs, and after the word "counties" the words "and municipalities." In line 20 strike out the word "and" and insert after "counties" the words "and all other municipalities." In line 25, add after the word county "county" the words "or other municipalities," and strike out "or" the last word in line 24.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion to amend.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 217-218)

[e937420] Mr. Coker: I move you further to amend by adding the words on page 8 in the 18th line after the words "counties and municipalities" this amendment: "Provided that said incorporated city, town or municipality less than a county, shall not be controlled in such local matters in its respective limits, by any other larger governmental body in the county or by the county."

Mr. Cunniff: I second that motion.

[e937422] Mr. Moeur: I object to the amendment of the gentleman from Pinal because I think it works a hardship on the counties, and I hope every member in this convention will vote against it.

Mr. Webb: I wish to say particularly that I believe the last amendment is in direct violation to the pledges made by myself, and nearly all, if not all, the majority members of this convention, in that it defeats local self-government.

Mr. Baker: I would like to say that if this goes into the measure, it defeats the initiative and referendum, and you might as well put it out of the convention hall.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): In my opinion, the convention would make a serious mistake to put this in the bill. Under it, every county could secede from the state, and each ward in a city could have self-government. It is illogical and un-American, and should not be passed.

[e937429] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Pinal will answer "aye" when the roll is called; those opposed will answer "no." Call the roll.

[e937431] Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried. The question now comes up on the motion offered by the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Webb, that paragraph 8 on page 8 be amended on lines 17, 18, 19, 20, and 25 by adding the words "or other municipality."

Mr. Webb: I desire to say that the purpose of my amendment has been entirely changed and reversed by the amendment which has just been made to my amendment. Therefore, I am now opposed to my amendment. I ask for a division of the question. I want it divided at the point where my amendment ended.

[e937432] Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that the question of dividing the amendment is out of order.

[e937433] Mr. Ingraham: It seems to me that we have arrived at the very peculiar position that if a county shall vote for a certain police measure it is now up to every town, every school district, every irrigation district, every municipality whatsoever in that county to say "No you don't; not over me." It seems to me that this is clearly a question of local self-government, and home rule.

Mr. Colter: It seems to me that we have lost sight of the initiative and referendum, and run into local option.

Mr. Cobb: I just want to say to the gentleman who are trying to kill local option that they will succeed in killing whisky in the entire state.

Mr. Feeney: I want to tell the gentleman from Graham County that my vote was not passed [sic, cast] for any such purpose. I want absolute home rule in incorporated cities and other municipalities, but this does not resolve itself into a fight on the liquor question. I will not stay under cover, but come out in the open and say that I am against prohibition.

Mr. Roberts: I want to say that this thing will absolutely destroy the will of the majority to rule except in the state as a whole or the smallest district.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 218-219)

[e937440] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Graham as amended by Mr. Coker. As many as are in favor of the adoption will answer "aye," contrary-minded "no."

Mr. Short: In explanation of my vote I would like to say that these amendments are not what I would like to see, but I am so heartily in favor of home rule that I vote "aye."

Roll call showed 26 "ayes" and 26 "nays." (applause)

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e937443] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I now in good faith again submit the amendment as first offered by me, that we may have an opportunity of voting on that alone.

[e937447] Mr. Coker: Again in equal good faith I offer my amendment.

[e937450] Mr. Moeur: I would like to offer an amendment to the amendment the—

[e937452] Mr. Crutchfield: I move that the committee arise and report progress, and ask for a further consideration on Monday morning.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

[e937455] Mr. Cunniff: I see no reason for that.

Mr. Crutchfield: I see a very serious reason why we cannot decide this question dispassionately this morning.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 219)

[e937456] Mr. Chairman: Call the roll on the question as to whether the committee shall arise and report progress and ask leave to sit again Monday morning. Those in favor answer "aye;" contrary minded "no."

Mr. Cunniff: It is a shame that this initiative and referendum, the most important matter [we] have, should get tangled up like this.

Roll call showed 17 "ayes" and 35 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 219)

[e937458] Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I wish to move that this question be recommended back to the house and referred to the Committee on Counties and Municipalities.

unknowingly, by the gentlemen to do an injustice both to this state and to every county in it, and to outrage the sentiment of a large number of the people in Arizona. I do not impugn the motives of the gentlemen who are making this proposition, and I am not inclined to say whether or not they are aware of the results that will come from the passage of this bill at this time or the adoption of this amendment, but, sir, there is a sentiment among the people of Arizona that will not allow a continuance of what has been so well known in Arizona since the last legislature as the segregation measure, and it is proposed, sir, that every city, yes, and every ward in a city, and every municipality, (and I cannot tell just what the legal gentlemen mean when they saw [sic, say] municipality every time,) but I understand that it will apply even to the smallest voting precinct, or, if not that, at least allowing the wards of incorporated cities to so control a city that a nuisance may be maintained in a single ward; that people may establish in an incorporated city a fortification that shall be impregnable against any state, or if not against the state, against the entire county, and outrage, the sentiment of the county, and maintain in the midst of a county something that will be a blot upon its name. I am sure, sir, that a large number of the people of this territory who sincerely desire statehood, and are anxious to adopt the constitution which we shall frame, will find themselves forced by their conscience, as well as by their sense of right, to vote with the enemies of statehood, against the adoption of a constitution that perpetuates a system and plan of government which I think by a mistake and probably by an error was put upon this state by the last legislature. And so I am sure that it will be unjust to the people of Arizona who desire statehood, and who are anxious for the perpetuation of home rule but who deny the right of a set of bandits which this law might allow, to entrench themselves and vote contrary to this and maintain a den of robbers in the midst of any county and stand impregnable against the votes of that county or the officials of that county. I am here in my place today to ask this convention, this committee of the whole of this convention, to do the fair and right thing; to give us all the opportunity to carry out our honest convictions and our earnest purposes, without forcing upon us the necessity of opposing the sentiments both in our hearts and in the hearts of our fellowmen. I do not want any contradictions in our motives in voting. We should like to have this matter entirely fair, and if this constitutional convention wishes to put itself upon the record upon this question unclouded by any other issue, we are perfectly willing to do it, and stand before the people upon unclouded by any other issue. But it is not fair to us as members of this convention; it is not fair to the people of Arizona, nor to the people who elected us here and who have trust and confidence in us; it is not fair that this matter should be voted upon under a cloud, or under any other semblance than the plain simple thing. We ought to know exactly what we mean ourselves, and we ought to vote in such a way on such a question that the people will understand what we are voting for, and will understand our stand upon each one of its phases.

Now, the proposition is to destroy the right of the county to direct its own affairs in many things, to allow the initiative and referendum, which we acknowledge as worthy and excellent principles of government and referendum,—allow these to be applied to a small precinct so that that small precinct within itself can abrogate the will of the majority and violate the law and set up a county for itself, or an independent sovereignty, and will provide that anything—and to me especially and to those who have been in the thick of this fight in Arizona, it provides upon one particular phase which we are all thinking of now, the question of prohibition. It provides a means of forcing the will of the people. You probably know of instances whereby a little handful of people have obtained a corporation for their village, and have maintained it regardless of the right and the facts, and by getting a certain number of voters, by swearing to a certain number of inhabitants, have acquired a corporation which enables them to stand out against the will of the majority, and prevent the operation of true and honorable legislation. Or, on the other hand, whether it may be attributed as true and honorable, as the legislation which the majority demand. It provides, as will allow, for the denial of the right of the people when they wish to frame a law, or to establish a regulation for their county. It prohibits them from making a regulation that will operate all over their county.

Another illustration of the ill effects of such a proposition. Suppose it were necessary for a certain section that a certain ranger law be passed, and that a certain county needed to have within itself the men who would properly prevent crime and deter offenders, and then suppose that some little section of that county should be reinforced by the presence of lawbreakers, and they establish themselves there, and bring their pals in, and get their crowd in with them and control that section, and they can stand entrenched in their castle, against the rest of the county and the rest of the state, and be a band of robbers in the midst of a peaceable people, and destroy and threaten the peace and welfare of the people around them. This is a possible case. It is certainly a possible operation of such a law, and those gentlemen who propose to vote for such a measure vote to guarantee to a band of men, if enough of them get together to form a municipality, to stand out against law and order and principle and right, and so I trust that this measure will not be passed; that this amendment will not prevail; that this endeavor to perpetuate a law that our people have recognized as wrong, and which they have cried out against, -I trust that it will not prevail; that those of us here who stand pledged to the sacredness of the home will not allow a cry of home rule to prevent us from voting to remove from the reach of the home those influences that are intended to destroy it, and that have put and purpose [sic, propose] to entrench an influence in the shadow of our homes that shall destroy the possibility of our maintaining a happy, contented, peaceable, moral, sober home. Therefore, I am opposed to the proposition.

Mr. Cunniff: In the first place, Mr. Chairman, I wish to say that there has been no disposition to inject into this proposition the spirit which the gentleman from Maricopa has in a very quiet and placid way stated. Neither I nor those who were favoring this amendment had any such intention. For my part, I have not been desirous of injecting any such spirit, and I deprecate the injection of anything into it; therefore, I most heartily agree with the foundation that the gentleman from Maricopa has laid in his discussion, although I do not agree for a moment, with the structure which he has put upon the foundation. Since this matter was discussed by the legislative committee at the first treatment of it, I fought that paragraph step by step from the very beginning for the reason that it has become sharper and clearer every day, that it is impossible to tell from that paragraph what it means, and efforts have been made first on one side and then on the other to amend so that it would mean something- an effort to make that vague and obscure paragraph mean something has led us into this unfortunate and undignified tangle, because certain delegates, it seems to me, have wanted it changed to mean something else. As I have maintained from the beginning, it is impossible intelligently to incorporate a paragraph of this kind into this constitution until we have taken up the subject that us under the care of the committee on counties and municipalities and districts and other subdivisions, so that when we reserve this power of the initiative and referendum to these counties and districts and incorporated cities we may know what we are doing. I submit we are acting absolutely in the dark in reserving certain powers without any idea of what these powers are—whether powers of legislation, of action, of administration, or what they are, and therefore I am in hearty agreement with the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa that we postpone all consideration of this particular paragraph which has caused all the trouble, until we have considered what the Committee on Counties and Municipalities is bringing in, and any discussion and any debate that may be had on this subject that has been injected into our deliberations what may be had on that matter rather than on this most vital and most important of all points for consideration—the initiative and referendum.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, the gentleman from Yavapai has very dispassionately discussed this question, and I agree heartily with him that the wise course to pursue is to leave this question for another time, but a moment ago the gentleman was not so dispassionate. He arose and said that he thought it a shame that this matter had been injected into this question at this time. I agree with that. I think it is a mistake, and the gentleman I think rather implied that I, or those voting the way I saw fit to vote, were responsible for injecting it. I think the gentleman will retract that, if such was his intention.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, there was no such intention on my part.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, as a member of the committee which provided the proposition, I did it in good faith. As interpreted by some members of this convention it might possibly be construed to repeal the segregation law. I insisted that a vote be taken upon that motion. It was divided with a vote of almost or quite three to one. I had no feelings in the matter at all. From that moment it became ancient history, and I had no thought of injecting it into this discussion. The amendment I offered is simply to correct an omission which I think most of us grant was an omission, and it was against my wishes that the question that I supposed was settled yesterday should be again injected today. I supposed it was satisfactorily to those who voted yesterday. I would now urge that further consideration, at least of the amendment offered to the amendment, be postponed and referred to the Committee on Counties and Municipalities, or held in abeyance until the report committee is heard.

Mr. Doe: Mr. Chairman, I believe I am capable of forming my own mind on this question. I therefore do not care for a committee to formulate for me what my vote shall be. I have always been in favor of the New England system of direct government of small bodies of people. I still favor that. I favor direct government in its most absolute and ultimate form by small communities. I care nothing about the question of prohibition, but I favor the ultimate extent of direct government as applied to small subdivisions upon their direct or local affairs.

Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, in answer to the remarks of the gentleman from Coconino, I wish to say that it is utterly impossible to disassociate the interests of a county in Arizona from its cities. The tax payers pay tax payers. A large percentum of any county in Arizona are consumed by the cities. I am willing to say, upon my meagre information, that the expenditure of the taxes in a county, outside of incorporated cities, is but small indeed compared to the expenditure of the taxes upon the courts. Thousands and thousands of dollars of county tax money is paid out every year in the courts to determine the guilt or innocence of men who have committed crimes directly traceable to city influence, and it is not fair to the taxpaying county to segregate—to allow the city to be segregated in matters that so closely determine crime and the use of its money, and that is not right to allow a city to use up the taxes and tax money of honest, earnest hard working countrymen, for the decision and determination of its cases which originate almost entirely within the city. And so I believe upon that question I can vote, but I do not believe that this question is free from entangling influence. Undoubtedly, Mr. Chairman, there is in the minds of the people here, no matter who injected it, this question, and the effect upon the part of the gentlemen to prevent an adjournment seems to me to indicate that they have in their minds the purpose, under the influence of this past condition, to pass this measure which shall rivet upon the constitution of this state a clause which I do not desire. The counties will have to be given their appropriate powers. There are certain things that naturally belong to a city in a division of powers and distribution of rights. Incorporated cities have certain rights that belong to them, and I have no hesitancy in saying that there are many cases in which the larger unit should not control the smaller, and in the effort to apply the entire portion of the initiative and referendum law, or to limit it by his amendment, is not right, and I do not believe that a majority of this convention will do so. I believe that the majority of this convention would prefer to vote upon a clear-cut issue, and if the question of prohibition is to be brought up they are perfectly willing to vote upon the question of the regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquors by the county or municipality. They are willing to vote upon that question separate, but they do not care to have an effort made to carry the entire principle applying to all of the various forms of the initiative and referendum, and so I do not believe that the remarks of the gentleman from Coconino apply to my position at all. I am glad to find myself and the gentleman from Yavapai on the same side of the question, We desire that the committee rise and report progress and refer this matter, or defer it, until the reports of the committee on powers of counties and municipalities [are presented.]

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, may I ask what is the motion?

Mr. Chairman: The chair will state right now it seems to have changed since it started. The original motion on which the chair allowed this debate was that the committee arise and recommend that the matter be re-referred to committee number 6. It now seems to have changed, and it is to be deferred until some other committee makes a report.

Mr. Cunniff: Do I understand the gentlemen withdrew their motions?

Mr. Chairman: The other motion took precedence over the motion to amend.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 219-224)

[e937468] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I ask permission of the gentleman from Maricopa to amend to this effect, that when the committee arises it report progress and recommend that the paragraph under discussion, paragraph number 8 of Substitute Proposition Number 4, be postponed—the consideration of it be postponed and put on the calendar of the whole, to be taken up at such time as the Committee on Counties and Municipalities reports. I would suggest that that would include that we go on with the discussion of this initiative and referendum proposition. Will the gentleman from Maricopa accept?

[e937470] Mr. Crutchfield: I am willing to accept providing it does not fix with an ironcast rule that we should defer this matter to the will of that committee. They might defer it until an inopportune time, but I am willing if proper consideration is given.

[e937473] Mr. Cunniff: Would the gentleman accept this amendment if this consideration of paragraph 8 be postponed.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, as I understand it, the motion is for the consideration of the amendment offered by myself to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa,

Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, was the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai seconded?

Mr. Crutchfield: I seconded it.

Mr. Chairman: The question before the committee is that further consideration of the amendment to paragraph 8 be postponed.

Mr. Cassidy: I want to ask a question of the gentleman who introduced the amendment, Mr. Coker. I would like to ask him whether if a county should vote on the question of issuing bonds and a city in that county should vote against the issuance of those bonds, would the city have to bear any part of the bonds?

Mr. Coker: Bear their proportion of the county taxes.

Mr. Cunniff: The question is on the postponement of the consideration of the amendment to paragraph 8.

[e937474] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the postponement of further consideration of the amendment to paragraph 8. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor say "aye;" those opposed "no."

Roll call showed 31 "ayes" and 21 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e937481] Mr. Cunniff: I move you that the committee rise and report progress, and that it recommend that Substitute Proposition Number 4 as amended be passed.

Mr. Roberts: I second the motion.

[e937482] Mr. Webb: I think the gentleman who made the motion will accept as a substitute that the committee do now rise and report progress.

[e937483] Mr. Cunniff: I accept that amendment.

[e937484] Mr. Winsor moved to amend by adding that the Committee ask leave to sit again on Monday morning, November 7, 1910.

[e937505] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. What is your pleasure gentlemen?

[e937515] Mr. Roberts moved, seconded by Mr. Connelly, that the Committee recommend the adoption of paragraph eight in Substitute Proposition No. 4 as recommended by the majority report of the Committee on Legislative Department, Distribution of Powers and Apportionment.

[e937762] [Editor's Note: This proposal is never voted on.]

(Editorial)

[e937527] Mr. Coker: Mr. Chairman, I move the adoption of the following amendment to paragraph 8 of Substitute Proposition Number 4: "The initiative and referendum powers reserved to the people by this section are hereby further reserved to the qualified electors of every country incorporated city or town, and school district, as to all local special and municipal legislation of every character in or for their respective municipalities; provided that said cities, towns, or districts, shall not be controlled in such local or special legislation, by any larger governmental division within the county." In line 20 strike out word "and counties".

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e937528] Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I ask for a point of order. A motion has already prevailed in this convention that further consideration of paragraph be deferred or postponed until after the report of the Committee on Counties and Municipalities. By reference to the minutes of the committee I think that will be found true and therefore this motion is out of order.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second that motion.

[e937529] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to state that the gentleman from Graham would not have it that way. That was the way I made the motion, but the gentleman from Graham made a point that this amendment be deferred and that is the way the matter went. The consideration of these amendments was deferred, I did not want it that way but that is the way the gentleman from Graham wanted it.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second that motion.

Mr. Roberts: I would like to know if that cuts out action on the original motion.

Mr. Coker: There was no second to the original motion.

Mr. Chairman: I understand not.

Mr. Connelly: I would second that motion, Mr. Chairman.

[e937545] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready to for a vote upon the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Crutchfield? Those in favor of the motion will signify by saying "aye"; those opposed "no", as the roll is called.

Roll call showed 21 "ayes" and 29 "nays".

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the motion is lost. The matter before the house now is the amendment of Mr. Coker, the gentleman from Pinal.

[e937613] Mr. Goldwater took his seat.

[e937616] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I would like to have it read for my own information. I did not get it very clearly.

[e937617] Mr. Chairman: The clerk will read the amendment.
Amendment read.

[e937618] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman: I think if we could get typewritten copies of the amendment it would greatly assist the members. We will need them before we can intelligently act upon one or town other matters in connection with this subject. It certainly requires some study and consideration. It is hard to vote intelligently on a matter of such vital importance without having opportunity to study it.

[e937623] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, this seems to me to be a very important matter, and we do not want to make a mistake. It seems to me that no one can object to deferring this until the typewriters can strike off copies and let us digest it thoroughly and act on it intelligently. I would move an amendment that the question be deferred until that can be done, and it should be done just as quickly as possible.

Mr. Chairman: Does the motion of Mr. Jones receive a second?

Mr. Winsor: I second that motion.

the cities, this subject is local, and as to the counties this subject is local, and this amendment only gives the respective subdivisions power to act independent of each other on any local or special matter. Hence, I have always voted for it in that light or in that view, Mr. Chairman. Now then, what are you going to write passed by the legislature shall give the county the control over the city about any matter at all, and it is absolutely necessary that the county should have control over the city. Numerous instances could be given why the county must necessarily have the power over the cities; not about local option, but about taxation, road districts, this or that thing. You are going to deprive the counties of the power that is recognized by the general law. You would have a segregation here, that would tear the two governments asunder, nearly. The original bill is clear and distinct, and this amendment confuses things so that, as I have already said, it would not be six months, if it were such a law, before every member would be ashamed of it. I am opposed to the amendment.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I want to appeal in connection with this matter to the Democratic members of the convention. The Republican members could consistently vote in a manner that would confuse and nullify any initiative and referendum measure we put up. They are opposed to the initiative and referendum. You can tell from the vote that my statement is true, and I want to appeal to the Democrats to stand on a measure that is fair and right and disregard any question of whisky or prohibition.

Mr. Curtis: I wish to say, Mr. Chairman, that I am in favor of the initiative and referendum.

Mr. Doe: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask Mr. Baker one question. Is it your opinion, Mr. Baker, that if this amendment passes it would interfere with the exercise of the powers of county government?

Mr. Baker: I do not quite understand.

Mr. Doe: I am asking you if it is your opinion as a lawyer that this amendment would prevent a county from levying taxes for county purposes for other similar purposes.

Mr. Baker: I so understand, because it says that the county shall not have anything to do with the cities in any way.

Mr. Doe: Then it is your position that a town or city could levy taxes for a city but the county could not levy county taxes.

Mr. Baker: I am afraid the amendment would go to that extent.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to point out to the gentleman from Maricopa that in the amendment offered the same phrasing is used that was used in the section that is in the substitute report, and that section in the substitute report is word for word (with one or two slight changes by the elimination of unnecessary words and the addition of other words) the very phrasing that was used by the gentleman from Maricopa in his own proposition. It was embodied in this committee report directly upon the proposition of the gentleman from Maricopa and a word added was a word that was added on motion of the gentleman from Maricopa. The trouble we have got into is due to the steady insistence of putting through paragraph 8, and the trouble with paragraph 8 is that it not only reserves such power as the gentleman from Maricopa wishes to have reserved to counties, but it also adds to counties a power that the counties do not possess today, -at least in the opinion of many members of this convention. (applause) Now, the gentleman has pointed out at times in the committee and, if I recollect correctly, on the floor, that this provision in the bill did not repeal the segregation legislation that has been passed in Arizona. I read Friday evening a decision from a court in Oregon on this very phrasing, in which it stated that the county dud have supervision and did control the city, and since that doubt remains about the possibility of a court interpreting this as giving power to counties to control the cities, - so long as this paragraph retains that ambiguity I shall oppose it. The suggestions that have been offered so far to cure the ambiguity have been the suggestions offered by the gentleman from Pinal and one amendment I offered at one time. Those gentlemen who have been supporting paragraph 9 have not supplied any positive method of consistent effort to keep that paragraph in there just as it lies.

[e937633] Mr. Cobb: I move to amend by striking out all of paragraph 8 and inserting the amendment offered by Weinberger, Cassidy and Cunniff, the minority report.

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion.

[e937636] Mr. Chairman: I would ask Mr. Cobb what was your intention: to amend Mr. Coker's amendment, or to amend the original proposition?

Mr. Cobb: I offer it as an amendment to Mr. Coker's amendment.

[e937669] Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman from Graham accept the amendment?

Mr. Cobb: I will withdraw my amendment and accept the substitute offered by Mr. Cunniff.

[e937670] Mr. Chairman: Does the substitute receive support?

Mr. Lynch: I do not know whether I want to second it or not.

Mr. Chairman: I will ask the clerk to read the amendment.

Secretary (reading): "The initiative and referendum powers reserved to the people by this section are hereby further reserved to the qualified electors of every county, incorporated city, town, or other municipal legislation (sic) in and for such county, incorporated city, town or other municipality in which such county, incorporated city, town or municipality shall be empowered by this constitution or by general law to enact; provided that, until otherwise prescribed by law, no incorporated city, town or other municipality smaller than a county shall be subject to any further control or regulation in its local affairs by any larger political division within which it may be included than such incorporated city, town or other municipality is subject to at the time of adoption of this constitution. The manner of exercising such powers shall be prescribed by general law except that incorporated cities, towns, and other municipalities may provide for the manner of exercising such powers within the prescription of general laws. Fifteen per centum of the qualified electors shall have the right to propose any measure by the initiative, and ten per centum shall have the right to order the referendum, in any incorporated city, town or municipality.”

[e937671] Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, I did not understand this amendment when I offered to withdraw mine. (applause) If my second did not agree, the amendment which I offered before will stand.

[e937678] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman from Graham in what way it differs from the other.

Mr. Chairman: The question before the committee, gentleman, is the original motion of Mr. Cobb as a substitute to Mr. Coker’s amendment to the majority report of the committee on Proposition Number 4.

Mr. Bolan: Mr. Chairman, I would like a little light on this subject. I think this amendment as originally read was amended by the insertion of a new line or word. I would like to understand if we are voting on the words added, or on the original as sent to the printer.

Mr. Chairman: Yes, as I understand it. That, gentleman, as I understand it, is the minority report on page 11. Those in favor of Mr. Cobb’s motion, as their names are called will answer “aye;” those opposed “no.”

[e937682] Mr. Webb: I ask unanimous consent to be excused from voting. Saturday afternoon I received a telegram calling me home on important business, and Mr. Tovrea received a similar telegram. Neither of us liked to leave. We agreed that if either of us were able to get back today that we would not vote, as he was on one side and I on the other. So I would like to be excused from voting, but I ask that the record show that he would vote “no” and I would vote “aye” had we both been present.

[e937685] Mr. Webb paired with Mr. Tovrea.

[e937689] Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried. The question now is the adoption of the Coker amendment as it is substituted by Mr. Cobb's amendment. Those in favor of the Coker amendment, this substitute having been made thereof, will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed, "no." The "ayes" have it.

[e937737] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I move the committee of the whole now arise and recommend that Substitute Proposition as amended do pass, and that consideration of the blanks left therein be postponed until the report of the Committee on Counties and Municipalities is before the committee.

Mr. Webb: I second that motion.

[e937705] Mr. Baker: Before that motion is put I would like to make another motion. A vote was taken here on Saturday wherein the right of the legislature was taken away—the right of the legislature to refer a law to the people. The people, in the proposition as it stands now, have a right by the referendum petition to have a law of the legislature referred to them, but the legislature is restricted as to that power.

[e937739] Mr. Winsor: I withdraw my motion that the committee arise.

[e937708] Mr. Baker: Upon that proposition I voted in the negative. I desire to move that we reconsider the action in which the amendment offered by Mr. Ellinwood was adopted, being the striking out on page 6 of the majority report of the legislative committee on Substitute Number 4 in line 13, therein the words "the legislature or."

Mr. Jones: I second the motion.

[e937712] Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded that the committee reconsider its action in which the amendment moved by Mr. Ellinwood was adopted, that amendment being, as the chair recollects it, the striking out of the words on page 6 of the majority report of the legislative committee on Substitute Proposition Number 4 in line 13 therein, "the legislature or."

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I desire to say that so far as I know, every initiative and referendum law passed by the other states up to the present time contain the provision of allowing the legislature to refer a law to the people. I do not understand the reason why when we are following along the same lines as the Oregon system, - why we should make a deviation from these lines. I do not think we should take away the right of the legislature to refer a law to the approval or rejection of the people.

Mr. Ellinwood: I recognize that this question to reconsider is not debatable. I discussed the matter at length on Saturday, and I think the members present understand my views.

Mr. Chairman: The chair will read from the minutes in order to get before the convention the question: "It was moved to amend Substitute Proposition Number 4 by striking out on page 6, line 13, the words 'legislature or' and on lines 19 and 20 page 9 the words 'or any measure referred to the people by the legislature,' and that is the motion that you are now asked to reconsider. Those in favor of the motion to reconsider—

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I think the senior member from Maricopa probably would change his mind if the chair would rule that the matter may properly come before the committee now on a new motion without a motion to reconsider, and that a motion would be in order that the language he desires inserted should be inserted. There certainly is no rule now that would prevent the senior member from Maricopa moving that the proposition under consideration be amended by permitting the legislature to refer any measure to the people.

[e937714] Motion carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Baker, Bolan, Bradner, Cassidy, Cobb, Colter, Connelly, Crutchfield, Cunningham, Curtis, Feeney, Franklin, Ingraham, Jones, F.A., Kinney, Langdon, Lynch, Moeur, Orme, Osborn, Parsons, Roberts, Short, Sims, R.B., Simms, Mit, Standage, Webb, Weinberger, Winsor, Mr. President. Total 30.

[e937716] Mr. Webb: That leaves the motion of Mr. Ellinwood that these words be stricken out, before the house. I now ask for a roll call on this question.

Mr. Ellinwood: I will have some data here with which I can probably further enlighten the members on this subject, and I will withdraw the motion, with the consent of my second, and make the motion again at a later date.

Mr. Cunniff: I withdraw my second.

Mr. Chairman: Mr. Ellinwood, the chair is in doubt whether you have the right to withdraw the motion to amend.

Mr. Cunniff: I second that motion.

[e937727] Mr. Webb: I simply desire to suggest that the secretary be careful to show that the motion of Mr. Ellinwood prevailed on Saturday, that it has not been voted down today, and that the report of the committee of the whole to the convention did not include it in any way. I suggest that this record be made clear that the motion prevailed and was not reconsidered.

Mr. Baker: [...] I second the motion of the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Webb.

[e937855] Mr. Ellinwood: For the reason that it will make the constitution so cumbersome, and also from the fact that only twenty-one out of all states have their boundaries set forth in their constitutions and since we cannot take from nor add to one square inch of the area of the new state I think that it is useless to include such matter in the constitution.

Mr. Baker: I do not understand the gentleman from Cochise. You say that it embraces that which the state would not be entitled to.

Mr. Ellinwood: I say that including the boundaries in the constitution does not add nor take from the boundaries, but that it is merely a declaration.

Mr. Baker: I am in favor of including this proposition in the constitution for the reason that after a careful examination of these boundaries, an since finding them as they are now as being satisfactory, that we should set forth the same in our constitution and since they are not available to the public in any other way, I believe that they should be in the constitution in order that the people of this state should have them at their service at any time. I second the motion of the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Webb.

[e937964] Mr. Baker: I move that further consideration of this proposition may be postponed until we have had an opportunity to study this matter, and Mr. Chairman, I further move that it be made a special order of business on Thursday morning.

Mr. Osborn: I second that motion.

[e937965] Mr. Baker: I would state that my reason for making this motion is that I do not believe that this convention is ready to pass upon so important a matter without further concurring [sic, conferring] with one another and I do not think that we are prepared to pass upon it this morning.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that this matter is so important that it should not be postponed, and too if we are ever going to act upon it we should do it now and not be continually postponing matters. This report was printed and returned on Saturday and if we so not consider it now, I would like to know when we will so long as this fair last. What are we going to do? We should have no delay in these matters and here we have been postponing matters in this convention hall until we have but very little accomplished in the real work of such matters as come before the convention or committees of the whole, and I say that if we are ever going to do anything let us do it now. There will be other fairs, or at least, we hope so, and I can see no sense in postponing such important matters for anything of that kind. We are here for business and I urge that we act upon this matter now.

Mr. Baker: I am glad that the gentleman feels as he does with regard to this subject. If there has been any delay it has been on his part, for is he not one of the chairmen of committee work? I have never been to the fair myself, and do not know when I shall go, and it is not my desire to have the question postponed for the purpose of going to the fair, but simply because I think that we should confer with one another before taking any further action on the proposition.

Mr. Parsons: I agree fully with my colleague, Mr. Cunningham, with respect to getting down to business on all matters coming before the committee of the whole, or the convention, as far as possible, but in this matter I agree with the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Baker, as I feel that we should confer with one another, and until we do, we are not ready to pass upon the proposition. For this reason I move we adopt the motion offered by Mr. Baker, and I think that this proposition will without doubt bring forth as much oratory as did the proposition on the initiative and referendum, and I think it should, therefore I feel certain that we are not ready to discuss the matter as it should be.

Mr. Cunningham: I do not wish to speak to a question of special privilege before this committee, but I have been arraigned by the gentleman from Maricopa, and I desire to say that I have always been on hand and ready to do work of the committee, of which I am the chairman, and the only reason why we have been delayed in our work is because we have been unable to get a quorum present, and it is not a subject for discussion upon this floor; at the present time, but it is certainly a fitting time to act upon the proposition reported here for the committee of the whole this morning. Mr. Chairman, as soon as it as learned that the salary of the judges was fixed then there arose the question of having the matter postponed, and the question of the salary of the judges is the role reason for this action. Now, Mr. Chairman, I see the necessity for taking action this morning and not delaying matters any further, and I urge that we do not waste any more time. We have been dilatory enough and when there is an opportunity to work I think we should work. There has been much said as to the courts and their postponement of cases and they have been arraigned in this convention hall on account of dilatory action upon cases. I have been pressed by mu clients when such action was deferred and I have never considered that the courts were wrong in so doing, and it is just so in this case, I think that all willful dilatory action should be arraigned in this convention hall, therefore, I do insist that this not be postponed for Thursday morning, but that it be considered right now, this is the time to pass upon it.

[e937966] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll, and those in favor of the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa, that this proposition be made a special order for Thursday morning, will answer "aye;" those opposed will answer "any."

Roll call showed 20 "ayes" and 28 "nays."

Mr. ChairmanL The motion is lost. What is your pleasure?

[e937967] Mr. Parsons: I would like the report read again.

Mr. Chairman: The secretary will please read the report for the benefit of the gentleman from Cochise.

Secretary (reading): Report on Substitute Proposition Number 18 of executive impeachment and removal from office committee, and minority reports.

[e937968] Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I move you that the majority report be adopted.

Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

[e937969] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move to substitute the minority report of H.R. Wood and Albert M. Jones and that it be adopted.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. Chairman, I second that motion.

[e937970] Mr. Cunningham: I move that the minority report offered by myself be adopted.

Mr. Coker: I second that motion.

[e937971] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Is this the vote on the amendment to the amendment?

Mr. Chairman: The first vote will be on the minority report offered by Mr. Cunningham.

Mr. Webb: The only objection I have on the report of the gentleman from Cochise is that it is only a skeleton. Seriously and candidly, I cannot see how we are to redeem our pledges if that report were adopted. If there is any time that we can go into the details of legislative matter it is in the proposition of the recall, and I say that we should legislative [sic, legislate] on this matter and let us go into the details if necessary and give the people just what they are anticipating. To give them what they are expecting means that we must legislate.

Mr. Weinberger: I will say that the majority report of the committee reproduces the Oregon recall almost verbatim, the only present available recall, and I believe all the members are familiar with that recall. The proposition is brief and we have not gone into a detailed to any great amount, much being left for the legislature. That proposition provides for a petition and before an election of a successor. If we do not adopt this proposition we cannot have a recall as contemplated by Mr. Cunningham for it is not sufficient at any part as to the legislative portion that it embraces

Mr. Cunningham: I think the answer to that question raised by the gentleman from Graham is had in the explanation of the gentleman from Gila. The gentleman from Gila says the minority report what require considerable legislation before it could be operative; secondly the gentleman from Graham thinks that it would require much legislation, which the convention should supply before it could be operative. Now, Mr. Chairman, and the gentleman, of the convention, the report of the majority of the committee requires this: One of the signers of each sheet of the petition must take into OB 4 some of us are competent administer oaths, swearing that the statements therein made are true and that the signatures are true. This proceeding is neither practicable nor possible, and to get the petition properly before the people would not be at all probable. Now can you recall if the provisions are that every sheet must be sworn to before an officer? You cannot do that. It is nothing more or less than to have the effect. The chances are that the sheet would contain twenty names. You could not put this into the hands of the public unless the names and signatures were true. You would never get around a proposition of that kind. As far as the conditions of line 12 we have this provision: (reading)... Unless the names were printed thereon I do not believe that anyone would read it and this would not be a practicable method of getting the matter before the public. It seems to me that it is entirely out of the question and absolutely no good, and I am opposed to that kind of recall. If the reason given by the gentlemen that they are so desirous of fulfilling their pledges and are willing to give unto the people any sort of a recall that places it out of the hands of the people altogether, it is just like the old Romans who posted their laws so high that it could not be read and then they were subject to the law when they could not even know the law. This is not an honest process of the law, therefore if you desire to carry out your pledges, gentlemen, you must give them a practical law or you can never have a recall. The provisions are such that any man cannot get the matter before the people

The provisions that I have offered are not perfect, and I do not think that it is possible to get a perfect law. If you can have a self-executive [sic, self-executing] proposition so it will be operative without legislation that is the measure to adopt. The next best is to get a constitutional provision that will place limitation upon the legislature. Place such limitations only as will ensure the people safe legislation without any abuses of their authority, and such is the proposition that I have offered. You have heard it stated that the proposition offered by the majority of the committee follows the Oregon plan. I would take time to read it but I am sure all the members are familiar with it as it is much quoted here. Now, gentleman, take the Oregon constitution, there you will find provisions as near as possible as can be put into one offered as a substitute. It limits in just the same manner as the Oregon constitution limits, (reading) ... The Oregon constitution places the limit no less than 25 percent and it can be made higher if we choose to make it so, and that is the one great point that seems to make it more practicable than any other submitted.

Mr. Parsons: My colleague has called attention to the very feature of this amendment that I want to object to, because it is in direct violation to the principles enunciated in the Cochise County platform, which provides: "Believing that all officers should be responsible to the voters who choose them and that no man should hold office after he fails to represent the sentiments of his constituents, we favor the recall of delinquent officers on twenty-five percent." This limits and fixes it at twenty-five per cent, but the gentleman says his measure is better one than the one introduced by the committee, which complies with our platform, which says it shall not exceed twenty-five percent. By opposing it, he goes directly contrary to the instructions we received when we were delegated to come here, and for this reason alone I am opposed to the adoption of his proposition.

[e937973] [Editor's Note: As the Committee continued to discuss and vote upon Baker's motion to postpone, it is clear that the motion to reconsider was agreed.]

(Editorial)

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, I am under the impression that a motion which has already been voted down cannot be made again unless some business has intervened and then disposed of. If I am wrong, I would be glad to know it.

Mr. Webb: Technically, the statement of the chair is correct but it is never enforced if the chair has reason to believe that the motion is made in good faith, and I maintain now that I make it in good faith, because I believe the best interest of all of us demand that we should take a little time for consideration of this question. I believe otherwise a large part of the time will be wasted in idle discussion, as it has been this morning, for every few of us know what we want.

Mr. Chairman: Does the gentleman from Graham mean that the discussion has been idle on his part as well as the others?

Mr. Webb: I am afraid it us, unless this matter is postponed.

Mr. Moeur: If this is put off it will still be idly discussed. Let us get through with it. If we wait, we will find on Thursday there will be forty amendments to this, and every man will have a proposition of his own (applause).

Mr. Ellinwood: I am opposed to this motion, for the reason that the place to concur is right on this floor. I am opposed to caucuses. You have not the members of this convention together, and if there is anything to be done, let it be done right here on the floor. I shall vote against the measure.

Mr. Baker: I should like to ask if the gentleman is not opposed to the recall.

Mr. Ellinwood: As to the recall of the judges, I am opposed; but as to the recall of executive officers I shall vote for it.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 245-246)

[e937976] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? All in favor of the motion will answer "aye" when their names are called. All opposed "no."

[e937982] Mr. Cunningham raised the point of order that two-thirds vote was necessary to carry motion. Chair ruled only majority vote necessary.

[e937536] Mr. Webb: I move that the committee of the whole do now arise and report back to the convention that it has examined Proposition Number 69, and recommend that the report of the committee be adopted and Proposition Number 69 be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Cobb: I second the motion.

[e937548] Mr. Winsor: If that should be done, it would be pretty late in the session to leave this convention without a proposition covering this subject. If I understand the rules, the proposition will have to be reintroduced, or a similar one presented, if Proposition Number 69 is indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Cunningham: I think ...

Mr. Chairman: Mr. Winsor still has the floor.

Mr. Winsor: I am eager to hear what Mr. Cunningham has to say, but I wish to finish. I would like to know if it is the desire of the committee that we postpone indefinitely the proposition providing for the court system.

Mr. Webb: I think the misapprehension of the gentleman from Yuma is this: that the committee intended to offer a substitute, whereas they are recommending one bill covering this matter.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the motion.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa) [:] I do not like to see any proposition sidetracked until we can have the other propositions pertaining to the same subject before us, and the recommendation of any committee to indefinitely postpone a proposition until we have a substitute proposition before us with which to make comparisons we cannot vote on this intelligently.

Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion.

Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I desire to call the attention of the convention to the last section of Number 69. I presume that in this matter I shall defer entirely to the opinion of my friends in the legal profession, but section 22 calls attention to a cause of unrest and dissatisfaction with the courts, and whether it is possible or not to remedy that dissatisfaction and remove the cause I am not prepared to say, but I am certain that much of the dissatisfaction with the courts results from the enumeration here, or indications at least, in this section 22. The determining of cases, or remanding them back for mere informalities that could be easily corrected—that could be amended—mere technicalities. The general principle that is alive in the breast of every American citizen is the demand for justice, and some of the objections and arguments of my friends of the legal profession did not appear to me. More than that they strengthen me in my opinion. For instance, one of them said that he believed in keeping just such a thing as this in a part of our judicial system; that it gave opportunity for lawyers who had studied law and knew law to have a case against a man who, though he might have justice and right, did not have enough sense to get up the proper bill to carry through the proper case into the supreme court. It rather established me in my opinion that something should be done; that this mistake that I believe has been a mistake upon the part of our courts should be corrected by constitutional measure. The reading of this section is that “the pleadings and proceedings in the courts shall be as provided by law, but no appeal shall ever be dismissed for informality, irregularity, or error in taking the same, if such informality, irregularity, or error can by amendment or otherwise be corrected; and the appellate courts can shall have the power and be charged with the duty to cause such corrections to be made; and no cause shall ever be reversed for error where upon the whole case it shall appear that substantial justice has been done.” It may be that in an extreme, and I am not prepared to define the section as a whole, but I believe that this constitutional convention ought by some means provide against that error which has been a part of our judicial system. I cannot appreciate nor sympathize with the sentiment of the gentleman that the courts must be held entirely sacred and that nothing that has ever been acknowledged among them should be touched at all; that precedent and that large body of laws that has been handed down should be counted as inviolate and not be touched. There is a growing demand among our people that plain, simple, old-time, honest justice be the prime requisite and the principal thing to be desired by the courts of law, and that technicalities be waived as much as possible. This sentiment is the sentiment I acknowledge that sometimes brings on revolutions, but nevertheless, when a revolution is due it is going to come, and I believe that a reformation is better than a revolution, and that it would be well for a reformation to take place at this point. And I believe that this matter ought not to be postponed indefinitely until something is done upon this question; a special committee is appointed, or the sense of this convention is expressed to the judicial department upon the subject; therefore, I am opposed to indefinite postponement of Proposition Number 69 until something further is done.

Mr. Chairman: The chair begs leave to state that the revolution is on.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I want to say that I am in hearty sympathy with the part of the remarks of the gentleman from Maricopa, but I can conceive of no reason why we should cumber our records here with this entire proposition Number 69 consisting of 22 sections, when the gentleman favors nothing more in the proposition but the spirit of the 22nd section. Now, the fact that we indefinitely postponed this does not prevent the gentleman from Maricopa or any other gentleman, amending the proposition which has been recommended by the committee at any time. It may be amended and the matter that the gentleman advocates may be incorporated in it at any time, so I can conceive of no reason why we should encumber our records with this entire proposition.

Mr. Moeur: I do not think we can consider the proposition until we have a substitute for it. I shall vote against the postponement until we have a substitute for it.

Mr. Chairman: The chair begs leave to state my sympathy is with the gentleman from Maricopa. We can always get the letter but we cannot get the spirit.

[e937549] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the motion that is before the house, that this be postponed until such time as we have a report of the judiciary committee before us.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

[e937550] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the amendment to postpone until such time as the report of the judiciary committee is under consideration of the committee of the whole will say "aye;" those opposed "no," as the roll is called.

Roll call showed 17 "ayes" and 28 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e937551] Mr. Chairman: [...] The original motion to indefinitely postpone will come before the committee. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor of the motion to indefinitely postpone will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

[e937552] Mr. Webb: That motion included that the committee arise and report to the convention that they had considered Proposition 69 and recommended that the report of the committee be adopted, and Proposition Number 69 be indefinitely postponed.

[e938004] Mr. Hunt: Mr. Chairman, I move that when the committee arise it recommend that the majority report of the committee do pass.

Mr. Kinney: I second that motion.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that when the committee do rise that the majority report do pass. Are you ready for the question?

[e938005] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the motion of the gentleman from Gila, and that the report offered by Mr. Jones and Mr. Wood be substituted.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is to the effect that the minority report offered by Mr. Jones and Mr. Wood be substituted in place of the majority report.

Mr. Cunningham: I desire to second the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai. While I do not fully agree with the minority, I would like to withdraw the minority report offered by myself and second the motion to adopt the report offered by Mr. Wood and Mr. Jones.

[e938006] Mr. Cunningham: I desire to second the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai. While I do not fully agree with the minority, I would like to withdraw the minority report offered by myself and second the motion to adopt the report offered by Mr. Wood and Mr. Jones.

[e938014] Mr. Chairman: The gentleman can take such action as he desires with the report offered by Mr. Jones and Mr. Wood, but the other report must be disposed of in the order of business. The question before the committee is to substitute the report offered by Mr. Jones and Mr. Wood in place of the majority report.

[e938012] Mr. Webb: Gentleman, I am opposed to the report of the gentleman from Cochise because it is only a skeleton and it is not a recall that the people, our constituents, are desirous of having placed into this constitution. In the interests of justice and fairness I appeal to you to adopt only such measures as will bring the matter of recall before the people in a most clear and defined manner. If any officer has corrupted his office and a petition of twenty-five percent of the voters are signed against him and giving such charges as show that he is deserving of removal from office, his vacancy should be declared by the people and his successor should be put upon the ballot for the people to vote upon just as any other officer that is elected to office. The gentlemen from Yavapai have provided for a recall which will bring the matter before the public in the most expedient manner, and also in a manner that there can be no discrimination as to a successor politically. The party that the incumbent officer represented can have a man of his own party as a successor and thus relieve the recall of any political intrigues and as [such] is the nearest measure to direct legislation of any proposition given us in a recall, therefore, I am in favor of the minority report offered by Messrs. Jones and Wood.

Mr. Cunningham: The objections of the gentleman to the substitute have not been based upon anything provided in the measure. It has been an argument of a popular measure. One provision substitute provides for one system and the majority for another, and I should be in favor of the recall that will be most operative. I will point out the serious objection to the report of the majority of the committee, in section 2: (reading) "A petition demanding a recall of any such officer in any district shall require the signatures of twenty-five percentum but not more, of the number of electors, who voted in his district at the last preceding general election for all of the candidates for the office held by the incumbent." This is twenty-five percentum of the actual number should be had on the petition before it becomes operative and will determine who should vote for the officer. Gentlemen that would be an in-operative recall because it would be impossible to go from Arizona to Alaska to get electors. On line 1, page 2, there are further objections: (reading) "One of the signers of each sheet of such petition, or the person circulating same, is required to make and subscribe an oath on the face of said sheet before a competent officer, that the statements therein made are true, and that the signatures are genuine."

Now gentlemen I cannot see how this can be an operative measure and I seriously object to it on that account. I have pointed out before that this measure could not be operative and would also read further on line 12 of the majority report: (reading) "One of the ballots at said election shall be printed in not more than two hundred words the reasons as set forth in the petition for demanding his recall, and in not more than two hundred words the officer's justification of his course in office. He shall continue to perform the duties of his office until the result of the special election shall be officially declared."

I would say, do you expect to have that petition read? If you do there should be some means to have it read by the people and not place it high upon a post where it can never have the gaze of the people.

Now of the two reports now being considered by the committee I would say that the minority report offered by Mr. Jones and Mr. Wood would be the most consistent and most desirable by the people for it is the most acceptable with reference to being operative and practicable and if we are going to adopt a recall I would suggest and vote for the most practicable and objective of the two.

Mr. Cunniff: The main objection to the majority report is the legislative detail and it is from the point that we have maintained our defense of the minority. I see nothing repugnant in the method of filling vacancies in a similar manner as they are filled when a man dies or resigns and they are filled by law, but if we are to have a recall incorporated into the statehood constitution our prime object should be to get one that will be self-operating and provide for the removal and election of successor in the most reasonable length of time and without the slightest occasion to drag political questions into the matter of a law that should be most free from political intrigues; and as far as the practicability of the recall in other states we have reference to Los Angeles and I would also cite you to San Bernardino and in Oregon where the measure has been tested and I like my worth[y] colleagues here from Yavapai County, think that the minority report as offered by Mr. Jones and Mr. Wood not only substantiates the practicability of the recall but it is the nearest measure that can be adopted and redeem our pledges here with regard to a great law that has been the cry of the people in their demand for progressive measures.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, does not the very next phrase explain that, "or of the electoral district from which he was elected"?

Mr. Cunniff: Yes, it says all that there. In other words, putting it in the power of the qualified electors of the state to recall a man. It seems to me by careful analysis of this proposition, this minority proposition, it gives a sound operative plan of recall, and does not even preclude the adoption by the law-making power of this other plan, for it does not preclude the adoption by the law-making power of any other plan—a plan of local election followed by special election to fill the office, or, for example: in the case of the recall of the mayor of a municipality, and election provision providing that a new mayor shall be elected by the city council, or any other manner of filling vacancies, and it seems to me then that this minority report having the merit of not having in it unnecessary legislative detail and at the same time providing a sound, operative manner of recall, is a far better proposition for us to adopt.

Mr. Weinberger: [Unbound manuscript found inserted in one copy of the journal.] Mr. Chairman, with respect to the majority report, I will say that the committee worked very faithfully for several weeks in getting this in the proper form and the committee took into consideration the recall as used by Oregon, by Los Angeles and other cities. The system which is included within the majority report is in operation in about twenty cities and one state, and the system which the minority advocates is in operation in only one small city. It seems to me that if we take the experiences of others who have used this system it will tell us that this is the best system. In 1903 Los Angeles adopted it and in 1905 Seattle adopted it, and in 1908 Oregon adopted it, and the Oregon system is similar to that of Los Angeles, and this is similar to Los Angeles and Oregon. The Los Angeles system has been in operation for a number of years, and if other cities have followed that system and if a state has adopted that system I believe that ought to tell us that that is a good system. Answering the criticisms of the gentleman from Cochise, a careful reading of section 2 will show that the gentleman is in error. "A petition demanding a recall of any such officer in any district shall require the signatures of 25 per centum, but not more, of the number of electors who voted in his district at the last preceding general election for all of the candidates for the office held by the incumbent." That does not say 25 per cent of the electors, but it says of the number of electors. I believe that in itself is an answer to his criticism. Now with respect to the criticism of line 1 on page 3: "One of the signers of each sheet of such petition, or the person circulating same, is required to make and subscribe an oath," etc. The criticism is to the effect that it will make this provision inoperative. I want to say that it is a serious matter to file a petition against an officer, and a man who signs that petition ought to be first satisfied that there is some ground for the statements made in the accusations against him; that the officer sought to be recalled should be safeguarded in every possible way. While I myself do not agree that he should swear that the statements are true, this section might be amended that the statements are true to the best of his knowledge and belief. That is not an indictment against the entire system. In other words, every petition ought to be in such a form that we will be sure that there is no fraud. We want to know positively that every petition to be signed and sworn to properly there will be bogus petitions circulated against an officer. With respect to the criticism as to the statements appearing on the ballots, that is a matter of detail. It is immaterial whether you put these statements on the ballots or not. Something ought to appear, either on the sample ballot or the ballot itself, showing what the election is about. Those matters, as I say, can be corrected, but I advocate the system as is recorded by the majority report, because it is a system which has been tried and which has proven successful.

[Author uncertain. Filed at this point in one copy of the verbatim reports, but may actually be the missing remarks of Lynch who was with the minority.] Now, this is true, as the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Parsons, says. This plan is in use in Los Angeles, but it is also true, I am informed, that this plan proposed in the minority report is in use in San Bernardino and has been in use in San Bernardino in the city government there. Now I am in hearty agreement with my colleagues from Yavapai, that what we are going to set down in this constitution is a provision for a recall, and whereas the proposition as submitted by the majority report might be an excellent scheme of recall in a community where political matter do not sway the judgement of voters on election day. [sic] We are not concerned by the proposition of an election carried on by electors in a non-partisan frame of mind, but if, under this majority plan, a man were elected to an office by eight or ten votes, and a recall petition was circulated, it might even be circulated by the committee of the opposing party; it is obvious that the candidate who was up as a contestant for the office with the incumbent will be the candidate put on the ticket against him. So that the recall as proposed by this plan will not be merely a recall but it will be a new election, and it seems to us that that is not giving ordinary justice to a man against whom a recall is filed. That man is not necessarily the kind of a man that Mr. Parsons has pointed out as being derelict in his duty. A charge has been made against him by twenty-five percent of the people. I will point out further in regard to the majority report, in paragraph one, that there is not the same accuracy of expression of ideas that is contained in the minority report. It says: "Every public officer in the State of Arizona, holding an elective office, either by election or appointment, is subject to recall by the qualified electors of the State, or of the electoral district from which he was elected." Now that is now the provision that the gentlemen of the minority report wish to set down, and when such officers who are elected by the whole state shall be removed by the qualified electors of the state, and when who are elected to office from [words missing] shall be subject to recall by the electors of that political subdivision.

Mr. Crutchfield: [words missing] ... the gentlemen one or two objections to the minority report. It proposes an entirely different system of recall from the majority, namely, one in which the incumbent shall stand for recall without the opportunity of running again, I suppose, at least that he shall be recalled without putting anybody against him at all, when it may be there are quite a large number of people who are anxious for a recall, probably from personal reasons, who are from both political parties. Maybe there are half a dozen men of his own party who desire to run for the office, and an equal number from the other party. They can easily combine their forces and influence to recall a man unjustly. A large number of those who voted against him from the opposing party would naturally vote for his recall. Probably all that had voted against him originally would vote for his recall. Then a large number of those who voted for him, but desire some other man, would join in the recall, and it would work an injustice. Any man who had a recall petition of twenty-five percent against him would also have a good majority against him to recall him. So I believe it is a system full of holes. It is not worthy of the great state that we have under consideration—a system that is locked and interlocked with politics. While we cannot alleviate all possible objections, I believe the majority proposition in its spirit, at least, obviates much of the objection that this system of recall would have; therefore, I am opposed to the minority report.

Mr. Feeney: Mr. Chairman, as a participant in the first recall election in the United States, in Los Angeles, we could have obtained 250 affidavits to swear that the gentleman who represented us was guilty as charged. The recall in Los Angeles has been tested in the courts and not found wanting. As for any electors outside of the 6th ward none signed the petition. When the threat of the recall was used the second time it took over a year to prove that the mayor was derelict in his duty, and when shown that it had been proven he was given an opportunity to resign. There is nothing to fear on the part of the gentleman's report.

[Remarks of Lynch of Graham not found.]

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, a very thoughtful political observer, Overhauser, who has printed a book on the initiative and referendum, makes this sound remark, that in the adoption of political policies and machineries in any republic or in any form of government, those are soundest and most likely to work out successfully that have been proven from the experiences of the people who are living under that form of government and those are dangerous that are innovations that have been brought in from some other country where there is a different form of government. The initiative and referendum which we have adopted already in this convention is a mere extension of the New England town meeting form of government. It is the same thing that has existed in this government since the beginning. The recall is simply extending to the people the power of the impeachment which has been in our government ever since the beginning, and I submit that with the mere exception of making the people the impeaching body, as the House of Representatives is in our impeachment system, and making the people the court instead of making the Senate the court is all we do in this recall proposition, and there is absolutely no indictment in it of any kind, but I do submit that this proposition that has been adopted in some cities and has been proposed and used in some cities but has had no experience in any state,— that is an innovation, and is a form of election of which we have no prototype in our political history, and I submit I am in hearty agreement with the gentleman from Graham that the thing, under our public system of government, is essentially not practical and not a wise form of recall which we should adopt.

[Remarks by Short of Yuma not located.]

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, does the gentleman from Yuma seriously think that if that were the case no Republican would be in office?

Mr. Parsons: I desire to call attention to one statement made by the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Lynch, in which he said that paragraph 5, or section 5, of the majority report made it necessary for the incumbent, against whom the complaint was made to go into the primaries and work for his nomination, and this section expressly says unless he shall order it otherwise his name shall go on the ballot. On the other hand, it says that other candidates for the office may be nominated to be voted for at said election. It seems to be that no consideration—

Mr. Lynch: Was not the statement made in this way, that he would be compelled to go into the primary in his own party to defeat any other member of his own party, who wanted to go on the ticket against him and that his name would be on the ballot, though he must necessarily defend himself in his own party.

Mr. Parsons: Would he not have to do that if he were elected to the office?

Mr. Chairman: The chair will entertain a motion whereby the committee do now arise.

Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, there is no question that we will have a general primary law which will provide for the nomination of candidates for all elective offices. In the event that a Republican was in office and a recall petition had been signed for his recall—

A member: Question.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, Mr. Cobb has the floor.

Mr. Cobb: If you don't wish to hear me I won't speak.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 260-266)

[e938021] Mr. Chairman: The motion made by the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Hunt, was that when the committee arise it recommend that the majority report be adopted and the bill do pass, with the minority report signed by Mr. Wood and Mr. Jones. All those in favor of the adoption of the amendment will signify by saying "aye," and those opposed "no" when their names are called. The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 21 "ayes" and 27 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The "nays" have it. The question is upon the original motion, shall the majority report be adopted and shall the committee when it do arise recommend that the substitute proposition offered by the committee be adopted.

[e938023] Mr. Orme: Mr. Chairman, I wish to move an amendment to the majority report in the second line of section 1 after the letters "na" the words "other than the judiciary" be added.

Mr. Colter: I second that motion.

Mr. Chairman: Moved by Mr. Orme that in the second line of section 1, after the letters "na" there shall be inserted the words "other than the judiciary."

[e938028] Mr. Ellinwood: I wish to move a further amendment that after the letters "na" in the second line the words be inserted "except a supreme or superior court judge."

[e938034] Mr. Orme: I accept the amendment.

Mr. Chairman: The amendment accepted by the gentleman from Maricopa and the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise is that the words "except a supreme court or superior court judge," be inserted after the letters "na." The gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Short.

[e938038] Mr. Short: I move that the committee do now arise and report progress and ask leave to sit again.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion

Roll call showed 18 "ayes" and 30 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

(Editorial)

[e938053] Mr. Franklin: I move an amendment to the majority report beginning at the end of line 16 on page 4 of the majority report, change that sentence to read as follows: "Provided that the right to recall public officers in incorporated cities and towns is reserved to the qualified electors of such cities and towns and shall be exercised in the manner provided in the charters and laws of such cities and towns."

Mr. Chairman: The question will be upon the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin.

[e938055] Mr. Weinberger: I want to say just one word. If this amendment is adopted, we will have no operative recall as to our municipal officers. It seems to me that if the recall is necessary at all, it is necessary for the local officers. If this is adopted, the powers of the people in cities will be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Franklin: I do not wish to say very much about this, but it will be at once seen from this proposition that it will be the most difficult matter in the world to give a fair and just percentage for all incorporated cities and towns of this territory owing to their varying population and the varying conditions that confront them. I therefore think, on the theory of "home rule" that the gentlemen here have advocated so strongly, we should leave it to the people and let them fix their own method. I think this amendment is a proper measure, and therefore advocate it.

Mr. Cassidy: I think it very doubtful if the amendment made by the gentleman from Maricopa would have the effect of changing the percentage as to cities and towns. This proposition absolutely fixes the percentage in the second paragraph as to all public officers. I think the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa would not have the effect he thinks it will.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I am in hearty agreement with the gentleman from Gila. It seems to me, though I am one of those in favor of "home rule" that the proposition provides all that is necessary without the amendment.

[e938057] Mr. Chairman: As many as favor the amendment will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "nays" have it, and the amendment is lost.

[e938064] Mr. Webb: Gentlemen, I desire to offer the following amendment to the majority proposition. That all of section 1 be stricken out, and in lieu thereof be inserted from line 1 to the word "office" where it occurs in line 5 of the minority report signed by Wood and Jones. I do it for this reason, that I think one is absolutely clear and the other slightly clouded. The purpose of each is the same, but the language of the minority report is very much clearer.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e938065] Mr. Weinberger: Let us look at this amendment as proposed. It requires passage "by a majority vote." In the majority proposition all that is necessary is for the man to receive a majority vote of all the candidates. It seems to me this is inconsistent with that theory of a vote.

Mr. Parsons: The objection raised by the gentleman from Gila is certainly one of a serious character, and if it prevails if we are to require, as he says here, a majority of all the electors of the political subdivision, it may be a difficult matter to determine. I think the wording of the section in the majority report is preferable, and therefore I favor it.

Mr. Webb: The amendment was very hurriedly made. I was not satisfied with section 1 of the majority report. I am now convinced that neither one of them is good. I will therefore withdraw the motion, and offer the amendment a little later.

[e938067] Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman who seconded the motion allow it to be withdrawn?

Mr. Cunniff: Most assuredly.

[e938071] Mr. Ellinwood moved to amend by inserting at the end of line 5, page 2, after the letters "ed" the words, "provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to a supreme or superior court judge."

[e938073] Mr. Ingraham raised a point of order...

[e938075] Mr. Ingraham raised a point of order; sustained by the Chair.

[e938078] Mr. Roberts: I move that after the word "officer" on page 3, line 4, the words "that the statements therein made are true and" be stricken out and the reading may be made "that the signatures are genuine."

Mr. Short: I second the motion.

[e938080] Mr. Roberts: Mr. Chairman, I want to say that the present provision requires the gentlemen circulating the petition to swear that the accusations are true, and also that the justification as presented by the officers is true, either of which he does not care to swear to, and in the nature of things this would hinder the petition. I think if it be left to read "that the signatures are genuine" is sufficient and all that should be required.

Mr. Webb: I think the gentleman from Cochise is laboring under a misapprehension of the meaning of this provision.

Mr. Lynch: The position taken by the gentleman from Graham is unquestionably correct. The first part of section 3 refers to the recall petition, and the statement required to be signed is the face of the sheet to which the signatures are attached.

Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, as a signer of this majority report, I desire to say that my first impression was that of the position taken by the gentleman from Graham County, that the only thing required of the party signing this affidavit, or oath, was that the signatures are genuine, but on reading it more closely I find it does not say that. It says that the statement contained in the petition must be true. You can see by the different ways this is construed by the members of the convention, I think, that it is liable to misconstruction. I think if we eradicate these words, it will make the matter perfectly plain.

[e938084] Mr. Cunniff: I move as an amendment to the amendment that the portion of section 3 beginning with the words "the" at the end of line 15 on page 1, down to the end of that paragraph or section, be stricken out, and the section in the minority report signed by Wood and Jones on the last page thereof, being the next to the last paragraph of that minority report be substituted in place thereof. The point is that the gentlemen wish to provide as to the methods of petitions and by simply referring to the form of petition required in the initiative and referendum we save repetition, in the constitution, and get rid of the objection pointed out.

Mr. Chairman: The motion made by the gentleman from Cochise is to the effect that the words contained in line 4 of page 3 "that the statements are true and" be stricken out; amended by Mr. Cunniff to strike out beginning with the word "the" at the end of line 15 on page 1, down to the end of that paragraph of the minority report signed by Wood and Jones. The question will be upon the adoption of the amendment to the amendment.

268-269)

[e938088] Mr. Short: I am opposed to the amendment for the reason that the committee had this particular matter up, and thrashed it out thoroughly; went into detail, and then made this provision specific, so that it could not be misunderstood, as the provisions for the initiative and referendum petition must be differently construed from the intended meaning, I do not believe the amendment is a good thing, and it may possible change the meaning.

Mr. Lynch: If the gentleman will permit a question, I would like to know if any two members of that committee agreed as to the meaning of section 3? You say you made it perfectly clear.

Mr. Short: I know of no disagreement. With the amendment as offered by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Roberts, I believe it is absolutely correct.

Mr. Weinberger: I will read the provisions in the initiative proposition, and you will see readily that the details of this provision will not apply.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to ask the gentleman from Gila if a provision adopted in all practical respects like the initiative petition would not cover exactly the ground.

Mr. Weinberger: I say as long as we are providing for a measure, let us do it exactly. You will have to leave a great deal for inference if you adopt this initiative.

Mr. Cunniff: I beg to say that unless this thing is amended in some way, I shall have to vote against this whole bill; of course, as the gentleman says, it is impossible for the petitioner to swear that the statements are true.

Mr. Webb: Just one word. If the proposition of the gentleman from Cochise is adopted, it will leave no safeguard for the petition. I shall have to vote against it.

[e938093] Amendment lost by the following vote:

Ayes—Bolan, Cassidy, Cobb, Coker, Colter, Cunniff, Goldwater, Hutchinson, Jones, A. M., Jones, F. A., Lynch, Moeur, Moore, Morgan, Tuthill, Webb, Wells, Wood. Total 18.

Nays—Baker, Bradner, Connelly, Cooper, Crutchfield, Cunningham, Curtis, Ellinwood, Feeney, Franklin, Ingraham, Jacome, Keegan, Kingan, Kinney, Langdon, Lovin, Orme, Osborn, Parsons, Roberts, Scott, Short, Sims, R. B., Simms, Mit, Standage, Tovrea, Weinberger, Winsor, Mr. President. Total 30.

Excused—Doe, Pusch, White, Wills.

Mr. Weinberger: I second the motion.

Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion. As many as are in favor of such a report will signify by saying "aye" as their names are called; those opposed "no."

[e938152] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. We have under consideration in the order of business this morning Proposition Number 82, Substitute Proposition Number 82 [...]

[e938269] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. Chairman, I move you that Substitute Proposition Number 82, the majority report of the committee, and also the minority report of the committee, be made a special order for the committee of the whole for Monday morning.

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

(Editorial, Page 271)

[e938280] Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, I second the motion. I would state that the reason I second the motion is that Judge Doe, a member of this convention, is on the supreme court, which is now in session, and he asked that it be left over if possible, for the reason that he has some statements to make to the convention with reference to his district.

Mr. Weinberger: I am in favor of putting this over until Monday morning because four or five members of the judiciary committee are absent and I would like to see them present when this matter is taken up.

Mr. Cunningham: I can see no reason to put this matter over to Monday. This committee has already been criticized for putting over its business, and the only reason I see that this matter has not been considered is on account of the fair; everybody is attending the fair, not paying any attention to this matter. This proposition, it is true, has not been examined, but there are some other reasons. I do not care to try to take advantage of that however, but it seems to me that if we continue to put things over we may as well put over the convention for a year or so. We cannot get anything done if business is put over repeatedly— delayed continually. I am very sorry indeed that private business has caused members of this committee be away from here and not in attendance on the duties of the convention, but they are not here, and I feel that we should attend to this business and get through with it some time this winter.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I would like to ask the gentleman from Cochise if he expects the delegates to have this before them ten or fifteen minutes and then act on it intelligently. I understood that the committee worked on this a long time and are satisfied with it, and it may be satisfactory to all of us, but I cannot conceive how any man here who has not studied this can pass on it intelligently without some consideration— without time to look it over.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I would like to make the same remark that the gentleman from Maricopa has made— that the first time I saw this proposition was about five minutes ago, and I do not think the gentlemen of this convention have had time to consider the proposition. I therefore think that we should have more time.

Mr. Lynch: I would also suggest to the chairman of the judiciary committee that on the calendar of the day we have plenty to occupy us today and the next day without consideration of this. It is not only a long measure but a technical measure.

Mr. Cunningham: I would like to answer the gentleman from Graham, I take it for granted that there are other propositions following this that will take the same course.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): No, sir, not from me.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 271-272)

[e938308] Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the motion to the effect that this proposition be made a special order for tomorrow morning.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e938325] Mr. Parsons: If the amendment should prevail it would put the committee, it seems to me, in the position of denying to an eminent member of the Arizona bar, and one of our judges...

Mr. Lynch: He will be here tomorrow.

Mr. Parsons: Then I will suspend my remarks.

[e938336] Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I move a further amendment so as to avoid the objection. I move an amendment that it be placed as a special business for 2 o'clock tomorrow. That will give the eminent member opportunity to be here. In the afternoon the supreme court sessions do not hold, and 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon will give every opportunity to the eminent member of this convention to be here.

Mr. Winsor: I second that motion.

[e938340] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? The amendment to the amendment— was there a second?

Mr. Winsor: I second that motion.

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is to the effect that the consideration in the committee of the whole of Substitute Number 82, also in Proposition Number 82, be suspended and come up as a special order of business tomorrow at 2 p.m.

Are you ready for the question? All those in favor will answer "aye" when their names are called; those opposed will answer "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Webb: I would suggest that it would be much quicker and more satisfactory to the clerks if a rising vote would do just as well.

A member: Let us have a roll call.

Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that the roll be called.

Roll call showed 14 "ayes" and 27 "nays."

[e938382] Mr. Chairman: [...] Now the question comes on the amendment to the original motion. I believe we could avoid a little delay in this voting if Mr. Lynch would agree to the amendment offered by Mr. Jones of Maricopa. The amendment to the original motion is that consideration of Proposition Number 82 be postponed until tomorrow morning and come up as a special order of business in the committee of the whole. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor of this amendment will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The original motion now. Do you want to vote on that Mr. Jones?

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): No sir.

Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the motion as amended by Mr. Cassidy of Maricopa reading that Proposition Number 82 and Substitute Proposition Number 82, that is the judiciary committee's report, be made a special order for tomorrow morning signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The chair is in doubt.

Mr. Webb: Rising vote.

Mr. Chairman: Call the roll. All those in favor as their names are called will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no."

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, do I understand this question is for the consideration of this proposition Monday morning?

Mr. Chairman: Tomorrow morning. The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 25 "ayes" and 16 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried. Proposition Number 28 and Substitute Proposition Number 82 will come up tomorrow morning as special business in the committee of the whole.

[e938390] Mr. Hunt: The gentlemen of the convention seem to be in somewhat of an ill mood this morning. We have been honoured by the Copper Queen Band which has come out here to serenade us, and I move we take a recess for a few minutes to hear them.

[e938394] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the motion signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

273-274)

[e938417] On reconvening, Mr. Cunniff moved, seconded by Mr. Feeney, that the committee extend a vote of thanks to the Copper Queen band for music furnished during the recess; carried by a rising vote.

273-274)

[e938439] Mr. Chairman: What is your pleasure?

Mr. Hunt: Mr. Chairman, I move you that we take up Proposition Number 143.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

[e938440] The motion prevailed.

Mr. Cunningham: I second the motion.

[e938539] Mr. Osborn: Let us have it read and the committee reports thereon.

[e938545] Secretary (reading): "Phoenix, Arizona, November 5, 1910. Mr. President: Your Committee on Suffrage and Election begs leave to report it has examined Proposition Number 143 and respectfully recommends that it be indefinitely postponed. Albert M. Jones, Chairman. We concur: Lamar Cobb, Alfred Kinney, Henry Lovin, John Langdon."

"Mr. President: We the undersigned minority of your Committee on Suffrage and Election begs leave to report that it has examined Proposition Number 143 and respectfully recommends that the following substitute be adopted, and that Proposition be indefinitely postponed. Fred L. Ingraham, Sidney P. Osborn, John P. Orme, Benjamin B. Moeur, James Scott."

[e938640] Mr. Cunningham: I would like to inquire for information if this report and substitute bill were printed.

Mr. Webb: It seems to me that these two propositions differ very little. I would like to ask what the difference is between the original and the proposed substitute.

Mr. Ingraham: The only difference worthy of consideration is this: In looking over the Connelly proposition, the majority were of the opinion that it might be construed to extend the franchise to more than the mover of the proposition intended. It might be construed to give the franchise to children, and to avoid any such construction we drew this amendment, to be submitted at the election, that both male and female citizens shall be equally entitled to all religious and political rights and privileges. The meaning is practically the same except for the possible misconstruction. Further, there shall be no denial of the elective franchise on account of sex. The rest of the proposition is the same.

Mr. Hunt: You make this mandatory on the first legislature; they will not have to obey that mandate.

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, just the same as in the original proposition.

Mr. Hunt: We say to the first legislature "You shall do so and so" but they need not do it, they do not have to do it.

Mr. Ingraham: The same objection would apply to the Connelly proposition. It is hardly to be supposed that the legislature will refuse to do this after the convention has taken action on it, if the action should be favorable; and besides, we have already adopted a direct legislative measure by which the people can do it, if the legislature refuses. The people have the power to propose an amendment.

Mr. Kingan: I would like to have an answer to that question also. I do not think the gentleman from Yuma has answered the gentleman from Gila. I would like to have the question answered.

Mr. Cunniff: In answer to the gentleman from Gila, there have been various propositions introduced here, and I think one or two have been passed that put mandates on the legislature. It is quite true that any mandate directed to the legislature in this constitution may or may not be obeyed. The other day we adopted the initiative and referendum and yesterday, the recall, and the idea of putting mandates on the legislature in the constitution is that we have provided a method for seeing that the legislature does obey the mandate, but it seems to me in reference to this proposition that most of the mandates proposed to the legislature are mandates for which there is so strong a popular demand that the legislature cannot refuse to obey the mandate. I would say that the proposition before us is one of an entirely different character, and the objection of the gentleman from Gila is well made. There is no popular demand for anything of that sort and therefore the mandate may or may not be obeyed.

[e938645] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, what is your further pleasure on this proposition?

Mr. Webb: I move that when the committee arise it report to the convention a recommendation that the substitute offered by the minority members of the Committee on Suffrage and Election for Proposition Number 143 do pass.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

[e938652] Mr. Cunningham: I offer the amendment that all part of committee substitute proposition be stricken out after and including the word "provided, however," and that the remaining part of that substitute preceding those words be adopted.

[e938660] Mr. Roberts: I move as an amendment to the amendment that the first word in line 5 be stricken out.

[e938680] Mr. Cunniff: Thus far in the deliberations of this convention I have seen no proposition introduced that seems to me worthy of separate submission that is not worthy of being placed in the constitution. I wish to say now that if no matter is introduced later of a nature that seems to warrant it separate submission, I am utterly and unreservedly opposed to any action on the part of this convention to provide any matter for any separate submission. I think that anything we do here that we believe in—that we believe should be done—should be incorporated in the constitution. It seems to me that this matter should properly have been submitted to the committee on separate submission, and it seems to me further that there is a certain propaganda in the interest of those having the affirmative side of this matter, a settled and certain course to stir up a social revolution in Arizona by extending the privilege of suffrage to the ladies. Now my own opposition to woman suffrage is not due to the poor opinion I have of women, but rather the contrary. I have too high an opinion to have the suffrage extended to them, first, that I opposed to any proposition of this kind or description, and second, because I am opposed to adopting any matter for separate submission here. I hope the original motion to indefinitely postpone will prevail.

Mr. Cunningham: It became my pleasure to attend a part of a meeting of committees held upon this question since this constitutional convention has been in session. While in attendance I heard several able speeches along the lines of equal suffrage—many very able speeches. Among them was one that would fit my feeling in this matter absolutely, if I had no other opinions regarding it. My private opinions are but small in comparison with those of the people of Arizona. I heard the statement there and I have no reason to doubt its truth, that in every country—county, a certain political party had tickets in the field that made one of its strongest planks of their platform, equal suffrage; that that matter was fought out among the people of Arizona, that it was fought with able orators, and the assistance of able women orators; that as a result of that election, as a result of that fight, as a result of that argument submitted to the people, not one man was elected to this constitutional convention on that platform. Have not the people of Arizona expressed to use [sic] gentlemen of the convention, that it is not wanted at this time as a part of the constitution? Is not that the best argument, although we might be favorable before? I have no doubt that this was the case in Cochise County, and every other county, and every member of this constitutional convention within the sound of my voice, and even those who are absent, were opposed on this platform by candidates of an opposing ticket. The effort was made to defeat every member that hears me, but with what result? The people of Arizona have spoken in no mistakable terms. Republicans and Democrats were opposed, but they were elected. The people have spoken in terms we cannot fail to recognize for one moment, and now we are called upon to place before them the very provision the people have said, “we do not want.” Can we afford to do it?

Mr. Osborn: The men have spoken and the women have not. That is exactly what we want now; let them have the right.

Mr. Webb: In answer to my friend from Yavapai county, as to the statement he made that any proposition that was worthy of separate submission ought of right to go in the constitution proper, I do not think that questions have arisen on which I need advice, questions of policy, not questions that are clear for one to determine as to what is right and wrong, upon which the people have not spoken—the gentleman from Cochise to the contrary notwithstanding—on which they have not spoken unclouded by other issues. I say there are other questions worthy of separate submission. There are questions which I do not claim the right to answer for my constituents—questions which I say the people who sent here should answer for me. Now as to the remarks of the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Cunningham, that this was the issue, (and from his remarks I gather he thought it a clear cut issue) the gentleman was mistaken. I know there are members of this convention who received the earnest and enthusiastic support of advocates of woman suffrage. I believe all such, at least, owe it to the people to give them an opportunity to speak on the question. Now as to the question of going into the merits and demerits, it is useless. It has been discussed very much. I know you could not be changed by argument, but I do ask you to let the matter be submitted. One of the arguments I have heard most frequently used is that the women themselves do not want suffrage, that a majority of them frankly confess they do not. I am perfectly willing to leave it to the women as in the amendment as in the amendment of Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Cunniff: I wish to ask the gentleman from Graham a question. He says that this matter was not before the people in an unclouded way and I would like to ask, why not? Now, just a moment. We had [a] Democratic convention in Yavapai county to nominate candidates for this convention for the Democratic party, and in the platform committee of that convention (in which I sat) there was absolutely no suggestion made as to either of the matters that have been proposed for separate submission, either prohibition or women's suffrage. Among those delegates gathered from every part of the county, not one delegate suggested that either of these matters be submitted. There was absolute silence, absolutely no suggestion this be incorporated was presented on the floor of that convention, and therefore it seems to me there was no demand for these things worthy of consideration, and no effort made to get them out so that they were unclouded.

Mr. Webb: In answer to the gentleman from Yavapai, I would say that the platform of the dominant parties whose candidates were elected were silent on the question which certainly left it clouded. It is also true that one small party declared in favor of women's suffrage, but it was a small party, and received very little of the support of those in favor of women's suffrage.

Mr. Cunningham: I would like to ask the gentleman from Graham, has the party which put this in its platform elected any delegates to this convention?

Mr. Webb: No sir. I would like to add that the advocates of the question in Graham county did not support that ticket for the reason that they believed there were advocates of woman suffrage on other tickets.

Mr. Cunningham: Did they not vote for the party whose platform was silent in preference to that party advocating it?

Mr. Lynch: I would like to ask him if in the convention of Democrats, which nominates the five present delegates from Graham county, this woman suffrage was not rejected by a vote of 89 to 25. Did not the Republican party have a clause in their platform asking for separate submission of this question to the people in Graham county?

Mr. Webb: In answer to the first question, "yes" except that he is mistaken somewhat on the vote, only a little however; but I want to say that it was a question of policy again with many of them in that convention, whether it was wise to put it in or whether it would bring votes to the candidates who stood on that platform, and I want to say that nearly half of the votes in that convention were controlled by one or two men by proxy. As to the second question, the Republicans did do this, and if it was not an evasion, gentlemen of the minority, what was it? They said we favor the first state legislature submitting the matter to the vote of the people.

Mr. Parsons: I want to know if the chair rules that Mr. Tovrea's motion was out of order, because the motion has not been put.

Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that the original motion of Mr. Tovrea with the two amendments is before the house.

Mr. Moeur: In dealing with this separate submissions question, it does not seem to me it makes any difference what any political party has said or done. The question is, is it right for the women to have suffrage as a separate question? The delegates from Maricopa county declared that they would advocate submitting it as a separate proposition in the constitutional convention. It makes no difference whether one party or the other recommend it, I believe in it, and I shall vote for it, first, last and all the time.

Mr. Orme: I would like to hear from Mr. Connelly, who proposed the question. He is like the boy the goat ran over. He "hasn't anything to say."

[e938701] Mr. Franklin: As there seems to be a little confusion as to the status of this motion, and in view of the fact that the committee on separate submission has now pending before it propositions of a similar nature, on which they will very shortly make a report, I move that Proposition Number 143 and the Substitute Proposition Number 143 be postponed until the receipt of the report from the committee on separate submission and that they all be taken up in their regular order.

[e938704] Mr. Chairman: The motion is out of order.

[e938762] Mr. Franklin: The motion is not out of order because a motion to postpone to a time certain takes precedence over a motion to indefinitely postpone.

[e938709] Mr. Ingraham: I rise to another point of order. I do not believe the motion of Mr. Tovrea was in order, for the reason the report of the committee was not before this committee of the whole at the time the motion was made. The secretary was at that time reading the title of the minority report, or even majority report before this convention at the time that motion was made.

[e938726] Mr. Webb: In support of the contention of the gentleman from Yuma, I desire to say that that was my understanding, and my motion was made as an original motion, and I believe the secretary accepted it as such. I call for the reading of the minutes on that point.

Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that Mr. Webb's motion was made as an amendment. I am perfectly satisfied and know I am correct in making this statement.

[e938739] Mr. Chairman: [...] As far as the motion of Mr. Tovrea is concerned, the chair is in doubt whether to state that the report of the committee was read before the motion was made.

[e938768] Mr. Cunniff: At the same time I asked the chair to rule whether the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa is not the one before the committee.

Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that a motion to postpone is always in order.

Mr. Webb: Before passing on that I would like to be heard. Mr. Franklin raises the point that the motion before the house was for indefinite postponement, while his motion was to postpone for a time certain, but his motion does not provide for a definite time.

Mr. Franklin: I beg to differ. Is there no definite time in which the order of business comes before the convention? After the report takes its regular order in the committee of the whole the day after.

Mr. Webb: What makes it so indefinite is the failure of the committee to report on it. It has had it over thirty days now.

Mr. Franklin: The answer is very clear. The motion of the gentleman from Cochise, is for an indefinite postponement; that of course means no time. The motion I made is to postpone to a time certain, a time to be fixed by the rules governing this body. You do not have to state the particular hour or day; a time certain is one that can be fixed by some rule.

Mr. Webb: The gentleman says that the rules of the convention provide that the committee shall report on a proposition within eight days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays. That being the rule which the gentleman relies upon to make the time definite. This proposition has been in the hands of the committee for certainly three times the eight days, and it seems to me it makes it a very indefinite time.

Mr. Franklin: I will answer by saying that the gentleman from Graham is one of the most promiscuous and prominent members on that committee on separate submission.

[e938793] Mr. Chairman: The chair is somewhat in doubt in regard to this question and unless we can get further light, I think he will have to rule that Mr. Franklin's motion is out of order. All those in favor of the postponement of Proposition Number 143 until the committee on separate submission makes its report will signify by answering "aye" as the roll is called; those opposed "no."

Roll call showed 11 "ayes" and 31 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

Mr. Webb: If I understand the gentleman from Yavapai correctly, he seems to comprehend that the question will be submitted at some general election.

Mr. Ellinwood: As has been said, this is a question upon which a great deal of discussion has been had. I have before me a copy of the debates of the constitutional convention of the State of New York held sixteen years ago, in 1894. This matter was then before this constitutional convention, and what was said at that time because of the great authority from which it comes, and because of the excellent manner in which it was said, I wish to read to this convention, and because further it accords entirely with my views on the subject, and when I have finished reading this there is nothing more that I could say on the subject. I quote from Senator Root, of the State of New York, in which he said upon this question:

“Mr. President, the courtesy of the chairman of the suffrage committee has accorded to me fifteen minutes of this time. I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the State, and to every man and every woman in the State. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women would have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simple a means of government; and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be better government than by the suffrage of men alone. The question is, therefore, a question of expediency, and the question of expediency upon this subject is not a question of tyranny, as the gentleman from Cattaraugus has said, but a question of liberty, a question of the preservation of the preservation [sic] of free constitutional government, of law, order, peace and prosperity.

Into my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority of woman. There could not, sir, for I rejoice in the tradition and in the memory and the possession of a home where woman reigns with acknowledged superiority in all the nobler, and the higher attributes that by common, by universal, consent, determine rank among the highest of the children of God. No, sir. It is not that woman is inferior to man, but it is that woman is different from man; that in the distribution of powers, of capacities, of qualities, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain functions in the economy of nature and society, and women adapted to the performance of other functions.

Mr. President, I have said that I thought suffrage would be a loss for women. I think so because suffrage implies not merely the casting of a ballot, the gentle and peaceful fall of the snowflake, but suffrage if it means anything, means entering upon the field of political life, and politics is modified war. In politics there is struggle, strife, contention, bitterness, heartburning, excitement, agitation, everything which is adverse to the true character of women. Woman rules to-day by the sweet and noble influence of her character. Put woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons which control the world, and she takes into her hands, feeble and nerveless for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to wield. Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission, as the heaven is removed from the earth. Government, Mr. President, is protection. The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness, of protecting our person, our property, our homes, our wives and our children, against foreign aggression, against civil dissension, against mobs and riots rearing their fearful heads within this peaceful land during the very sessions of this convention. Against crime and disorder, and all the army of evil, civil society wages its war, and government is the method of protection, protection of us all. The trouble, Mr. President, is not in the principles which underlie government. Men and women alike acknowledge them and would enforce them, honor and truth, and justice and liberty; the difficulty is to frame the measure, to direct the battle, to tell where and how the blows are to be struck, and when the defenses are to be erected.

Mr. President, in the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgement, sir, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of men and women both. We all of us, sir, see the pettiness of our lives. We all see how poor a thing is the best that we can do. We all at times long to share the fortunes of others, to leave our tiresome round of duty and to engage in their affairs. What others may do seems to us nobler, more important, more conspicuous than the little things of our own lives. It is a great mistake, sir, it is a fatal mistake that these excellent women make when they conceive that the functions of men are superior to theirs and seek to usurp them. The true government is in the family. The true throne is in the household. The highest exercise of power is that which forms the conscience, influences the will, controls the impulses of men, and there to-day women is supreme and woman rules the world."

Mr. Ingraham: We have heard quoted the words of Senator Root. I would like to ask the gentleman if self-government is a privilege or a right.

Mr. Ellinwood: It is a privilege under the Constitution of the United States, not a right.

Mr. Colter: This has resolved itself into a question of justice, a mere question as to whether we should have woman suffrage or not, and we are going to leave this to arbitration; and the people are the arbitrators. How could there be anything more fair and just than this? (applause)

Mr. Parsons: I want to call attention briefly to the question raised by the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Jones, and try to make that clear. He stated that there would be one election for both the state officers and on this special question, on the latter of which both males and females might vote. If we submit this proposition, are we not in effect writing into the constitution now female suffrage. We certainly are, and every other word in this constitution that fixes suffrage as confined to male citizens over the age of 21 years is absolutely inconsistent with this proposition allowing women to vote on a very important matter, and if there were no other reason I should oppose the amendment and vote for postponement. It does not make any difference what my private opinion is. I have always been in favor of woman suffrage, and were I here to cast the vote of A.F. Parsons it would be different, but I am here representing a constituency that has expressed itself as opposed to female suffrage, and I am therefore in favor of indefinite postponement of the matter.

Mr. Cassidy: I wish to call the attention of the committee of the whole to a little news item which I found in the Los Angeles Daily Times of yesterday. The telegraphic head is "Seattle, Washington, November 9th" and it says the woman suffrage amendment becomes law as soon as the governor receives the official count and proclaims that the amendment has been ratified. Some 150,000 women will at once become qualified voters. This is in the State of Washington. Now, Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that if ever there was a live question in the country, it seems it is this question of woman suffrage. That is certainly shown by the interest taken in the State of Washington and in other states. I am in favor of submitting to the people of Arizona for their approval or their rejection any question—I do not care what it is—whenever there is a widespread demand among the people for such legislation. I am in favor of submitting it to the majority of the people as this minority report provides, and if they do not want it, then they of course will not vote for it, and no harm is done. Personally I am in favor of the minority report, and will vote for it, but even if I were opposed to woman suffrage I would still be in favor of submitting the question to the people. (applause) Now the gentleman from Cochise has read here a speech by Senator Root in the New York Constitutional Convention—a very able speech on one side of this question—but in the same volume there are other speeches, Mr. Chairman, on the other side of the question. Among those who advocated woman suffrage in that convention was Mr. Edward Lauterback, one of the ablest lawyers in New York City. Many of the people in this town, and among the delegates, know who he is. If I read his speech you would find he makes just as strong [an] argument on his side as was made by Senator Root on this occasion. Mr. Chairman, I believe it nothing more than fair and right that we should submit to the people of Arizona for their decision this question upon which so much interest has been taken. We have such a demand among our people for submission and I believe if we do we will only be doing what is our duty to do in this convention. Now, as far as the delegates from Maricopa County are concerned, in our platform we provided that the question of woman suffrage should be submitted to the people.

[e938802] Mr. Chairman: There is a motion that the committee arise and report progress. All those in favor will make it known by rising to their feet. All those opposed, likewise.

[e938807] Rising vote showed 17 in favor and 21 against.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e938814] Mr. Cunniff: It seems to me we are passing on the woman suffrage subject in a situation where we do not have the matter directly before us. We are passing on separate submission, and I would make an answer to the gentleman from Apache County, who said what would be more fair than that proposition. The gentlemen urging separate submission are urging that it be submitted to the present electorate of Arizona, [sic. This is not what he means. Statement should be to submit the matter to a vote of all over minimum voting age, men and women,] and I will point out what is unfair about that. It would be adding to the male electorate the votes of ladies who are desirous of getting woman suffrage, for it is not to be expected that the women who oppose it would take any interest or get out and vote. This would do away with the probable majority of male electors who are opposed to woman suffrage, and therefore it seems to be an utterly unfair proposition. If it was suggested that the proposition be submitted to the women of the State of Arizona, so that we might get their opinion on the subject, there might be some element of fairness, but practically speaking it is merely a method of adding the votes of the women who are favorable to the minority of men who are favorable. This method will not secure an expression of the opinion of the men and of the women. It will secure the expression of the men and of the women who are favorable. I think the majority of women are not favorable, or absolutely indifferent. This thing will be put through not by the whole vote but by that section of the electorate.

Mr. Webb: In answer to the gentleman who has just spoken and also Mr. Parsons who raised the point that the passage of this proposition as it now read would be equivalent to incorporating this in the constitution. I presume he based that statement on the same grounds as Mr. Cunniff. I want to say that from the zeal shown by the opponents of woman suffrage, they could be safely trusted to get the ladies opposed to it out to the polls. They, it seems to me, are just as ardent in opposing and [sic, as] any advocates of woman suffrage are in defending it. I confess that the woman to whom I owe the most; for whom I do the most, does not favor it, but that does not make any difference. I think, as the gentleman from Apache County that it is a matter of public policy, a question for the people to settle, and I say an opportunity should be given them, and I cannot see how ardent advocates of the initiative and referendum can oppose this submission. (applause) It is invoking the referendum, and nothing more. It is giving the ladies no advantage in the matter. The gentleman from Yavapai says the women are opposed to it; I think they are equally divided, and I think it is fair they should vote. If I knew a majority of the good women of Arizona were opposed to it, I would not advocate it, but I believe a majority are for it, and I will certainly cast my vote in favor.

Mr. Parsons: Do you know of any law by which the women of Arizona could vote on this question? Do you know of any statute by which they are entitled to vote on it?

Mr. Webb: No sir.

Mr. Parsons: Is there any law upon our statute books under which women can vote on any proposition except school questions? Then if we incorporate in the constitution this provision will we not be giving by express terms the right to the women to vote?

Mr. Webb: This is only one particular election and we have the same right as some former legislatures had in allowing them to vote on school questions.

Mr. Weinberger: I would like to have the report read.

Mr. Franklin: I would like to have the report and the minority report both read.

Secretary: reads reports.

Mr. Ingraham: It does not say the first state legislature. The word "first" is stricken out.

Secretary: The word is stricken out but dimly.

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, the gentleman has said that this is a question of expediency, and has said it on this floor again and again, that it is an expedient proposition that we submit this question back to the people of Arizona for a vote. I want to deny that it is a question of expediency. If it is a question which, as has been stated by the gentleman from Cochise, tends to the destruction of our pledges which we have brought up here in sanctity and in purity, I say it is not a question of expediency. I say it is a question of responsibility of these delegates, and there is no expediency about it. There is no question of whether it ought to be submitted to the people, or whether the people do or do not get it; it is a question, is it right, and I want to say if it is right, it is right to go into the constitution right now, and I want to say to the gentlemen who are advocating shirking their responsibility and asking that they send the proposition back to the people to be voted upon, how many will go as far as I will go? I say I will vote against this proposition, but if you put this question to the convention, shall we have equal suffrage. I will vote for it. Will you do that? How many of you will do that? Why are you afraid of the responsibility here? It certainly cannot be that. I object to that proposition going back to the people. I object to the constitutional question that is raised by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Parsons, which will present a conflict in your constitution so either one or the other must fail. If your suffrage is confined to males it cannot be extended to females on any question. I vote for woman's suffrage—I voted for it when it was adopted by the people of Colorado, and I have never regretted it, and I will vote for it now if it comes up to me as a voter, but I will not vote to send it back to the people upon a separate vote.

Mr. Colter: Mr. Chairman, I would like to reply to the gentleman from Graham that this is a ground-hog case, and why I say it is a ground-hog case is because this body has turned out on this particular question not to be a representative body of the people, and by putting it up to the people I think it would be fairly decided.

Mr. Kingan: Mr. Chairman, I am glad that Mr. Lynch has the courage to rise upon this floor and say that he was not afraid of assuming the responsibility of a delegate to this convention. I am not afraid of assuming that responsibility. We are here to act, not to shirk or shift responsibility on somebody else. If you are going to refer this question to the people why don't you refer every question to the people that we are here to pass on. We have been sent here to frame a constitution; let us do it. Do not shirk the responsibility that we have assumed. Let us act. If we act wrongly the people will condemn us, but let us act for ourselves and not try to shirk or shift the responsibility on somebody else.

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, in reply to the gentleman from Pima County, I will tell him that there is not a question which comes before this convention which will not be referred to the people of Arizona, (applause) and more than that, there is not a question that comes before this convention that after it is referred to the people and adopted by the people of Arizona and ratified by their will, that does not go to a hostile President and a hostile Congress for their approval. I want to maintain my position on this question. I was sent here by a pledge to the people of Maricopa County that I would submit this question to the people of the state of Arizona by a vote. I did not tell them that I would submit to the legislature, at some indefinite time, but I told these people that I would submit it along with this constitution at the same time to be voted on, and if the will of the people of Arizona saw fit to place woman's suffrage in this constitution it then became part and parcel of it. If they did not, it was no part of the constitution. That I maintain now. That is the stand I shall take and I shall keep. I am opposed to this minority report where it does not act in the spirit of the letter of my promise. I am an advocate of the submission of this question of woman's suffrage to the people because I am pledged to it, and because I think it is right. We are not, as we say, taking any right away from anybody, but, as every lawyer knows, when we extend this we are extending a privilege and not denying a right.

[e938824] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? The secretary will read the question.

Secretary: What is the question?

Mr. Chairman: Mr. Robert's motion was ruled out of order as being three amendments to an original motion.

Secretary: The motion is the motion of Mr. Cunningham to amend by striking out everything after the word "years" beginning with the words "provided however," seconded by Mr. Kingan.

Mr. Kingan: Mr. Chairman, what does the gentleman from Cochise mean by holding office? That changes the whole tenor of the business.

Mr. Chairman: Explain for the benefit of Mr. Kingan of Pima.

Mr. Winsor: I would like to hear the proposition read as it would appear if amended.

Secretary (reading): "Section 1. The right of suffrage and holding office in the State of Arizona shall be exercised only by male citizens of the United States over the age of twenty one years;"

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, that will leave the proposition, as I understand it, by striking out under my proposed amendment, as it has been read by the secretary.

Mr. Cunniff: Does he mean all public officers?

Mr. Ellinwood: Whatever may be the views of the members, I hope this amendment will be voted down, for the reason I understand the Committee on Suffrage and Election has a proposition covering this entire matter of qualification of voters, and it will be covered at that time. I do not think we should adopt a part of the report.

[e938829] Mr. Chairman: The question has been read by the secretary. All those in favor of amending this proposition by striking out from the substitute amendment everything after the word "provided," will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The motion is lost.

[e938834] Mr. Franklin: I move you the committee do now arise and report progress.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

[e938836] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the committee now arise and report progress. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor will signify by saying "aye," contrary "no." The chair is in doubt. The chair will call for a rising vote. All those in favor of the committee arising and reporting progress will arise. All those opposed.

Rising vote showed 20 in favor and 30 against.

[e938843] Mr. Chairman: [...] The next question that will come before the committee of the whole is on Mr. Webb's amendment. You have heard the question. All those in favor of this substitute proposition will answer "aye" as their names are called; those opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 15 "ayes" and 28 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 287)

[e938841] Mr. Chairman: [...] The motion comes up on the original motion of Mr. Tovrea of Cochise on the indefinite postponement of Proposition Number 143. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor of indefinite postponement will answer "aye" as their names are called; those opposed will answer "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 28 "ayes" and 14 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e939405] Mr. Webb: I move the convention do now arise and report progress to the convention.

[e939408] Mr. Cunniff: I move to amend that motion to the effect that the committee now rise and report progress and recommend that the proposition under consideration, number 143, and all the reports thereon be indefinitely postponed.

[e939411] Mr. Chairman: Will you accept that amendment?

Mr. Webb: No sir. My motion I submit covers the entire matter as the gentleman would have it covered. If we arise and report progress we will report that the committee of the whole favors indefinite postponement, but I am not going to be in the position of moving that it be done.

Mr. Winsor: You speak of rising and reporting progress. I am in favor of remaining in session and making progress on the other propositions that are before this committee of the whole.

[e938096] Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I move that when the committee of the whole arises it report progress that it recommend the adoption of committee Substitute Proposition Number 82.

[e938099] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order. Under the rules the proposition must be taken up by sections, and they have not been said by the secretary.

[e938102] Mr. Chairman: The point of order is well taken, and the chair will ask that the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Cunningham, wait until the bill is read.

[e938111] Secretary (reading): "Mr. President: Your Committee on Judiciary begs leave to report it has examined Proposition Number 82, and respectfully recommends that Proposition Number 82 be indefinitely postponed inasmuch as your committee has prepared a substitute proposition do pass."

"The undersigned minority of the standing Committee on Judiciary recommend the adoption of the following substitute proposition for majority committee report, committee Substitute Proposition Number 82. H.R. Wood, Morris Goldwater, Edward M. Doe."

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move that consideration of this measure be postponed until Monday morning.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, I second the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai.

[e938114] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, it has been moved and seconded that further consideration of this proposition be postponed until Monday morning.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, this is one of the most technical questions to be considered and one that requires much careful and deep study, and I consider it such a serious question that only those of more than ordinary comprehension can be prepared to vote upon it. For that reason I desire to have more time in which to consider it, in order that when I come to vote upon it I may do so honestly and intelligently, and to speak for the entire delegation from Yavapai county, I would state that we are unanimously in favor of postponing consideration of the question until Monday morning. I frankly confess that I have not a thorough understanding of the measure, and since it is of the same importance as the initiative and referendum, I think that we should devote as much time for careful thought and study and it certainly requires more than this; therefore, I desire to postpone further consideration of the measure.

Mr. Doe: Mr. Chairman, I heartily agree with the gentleman from Yavapai in this matter for the question at issue is one of the very important matters to be considered, and we cannot afford to take any hasty action upon this measure. This is an amendment to a long tried system and as it is entirely new we must not take action upon it until every member has an understanding of it to his satisfaction as to its virtues or its merits and demerits and every member should go into the details before attempting to pass upon it. If any member should go into the details before attempting to pass upon it. If any member or any number of members are in doubt as to it being all right or are not familiar with the system, which is a radical system, I would suggest that they make a more careful and very thorough before voting upon the measure.

[e938118] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order. The gentlemen is not speaking to the question, but is speaking of the merits of the proposition. The question to postpone is before the committee.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 290-291)

[e938122] [Editor's Note: No formal decision is taken on this point of order, but as delegates confine themselves to discussion of the motion we can assume it was well taken.]

(Editorial)

[e938128] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, might I ask the gentleman from Cochise a question?

Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman from Cochise yield to a question from the gentleman from Yavapai?

Mr. Cunningham: The gentleman from Cochise will yield.

Mr. Cunniff: I understand that you say that the proposition has been ready for four days, yet we have had the printed copies upon our desks but twenty-four hours?

Mr. Cunningham: Had it not been for the fair they would have been ready before. If the members here will give any plausible reason why this should be postponed I should not seriously object, but since we have had communications from all over the territory advising that this measure be adopted, and there has been ample information given upon it not only from this convention but from almost every county, the only county objecting at all was Yavapai, and if any member is not informed upon the measure it is his own fault and why should we delay this matter when the valuable time of the convention is so limited? I have raised my voice in the convention hall many times for speedy work and for the consideration of matters without unnecessary delays and to get down to work, and I am pleading the same cause when I ask that this matter be not postponed. It is an absolute waste of time to postpone these matters when they are ready for action and I say let us get down to work upon them at once without delay.

Mr. Cunniff: The gentleman from Cochise does not seem to understand what I said.

Mr. Cunningham: I understand you well, as well as anyone could.

Mr. Cunniff: It is not only myself and the Yavapai delegation who would ask for this postponement of the proposition, but many members who do not understand the measure and desire further time in which to consider the technical points of the question, and there are some of us who have no more than ordinary comprehension and intelligence upon such questions, and therefore we require some time to devote to careful study upon such measures before taking action upon them. We hesitate to vote upon a question which has been before us so short a time. We are not awaiting any further information from any source, but just simply for time to give this our careful consideration.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): The gentleman from Cochise and all the lawyers are familiar with this measure, but there are a number here, in fact a majority, who are not lawyers and are not as familiar with such measures, and who have not given this matter sufficient study, and therefore to do justice to ourselves as well as to the proposition we ask for further consideration.

Mr. Doe: I desire to raise my voice against hasty consideration of this measure, and to say that if any member is not prepared to vote on it, that he should be given time for consideration and I desire to call the attention of the convention that it would be well for all to give the measure study and deep thought. I am sure that it is the sincere purpose of the gentleman who desire the question postponed to give it careful and thoughtful and honest consideration and I am, myself, in favor of doing the same.

Mr. Franklin: In view of the fact that the gentlemen, or some of the members are wishing more light upon the subject, and further study of the measure, I would suggest that they could get the desired information by a discussion of the proposition in this committee, and I would suggest that the proper time for information and study is right now, while the question is before the committee. I am certain that such knowledge as is desired can be gotten by these discussions by both the members of the legal profession as well as others, and I am opposed to postponing the proposition for consideration to any date later than the time it was to be discussed and considered by this committee.

Mr. Cunniff: I should like to know who, whether he is a member of the legal profession or not, has had time to consider this measure carefully and render a vote upon it when it has been here but twenty-four hours, and we have had no opportunity during that time which could have been or that has been devoted to the study of this proposition.

[e938137] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the question is on the postponement of the consideration of Proposition Number 82 until Monday morning. Those in favor of the motion will answer "aye;" those opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 24 "ayes" and 20 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried and the proposition will be considered Monday morning.

[e938141] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move that we proceed to the consideration of Proposition Number 62.

[e938143] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections the committee will proceed to the consideration of Proposition 62. What is your pleasure?

Mr. Short: I would like to know what you would term a school trustee, or a notary public, and what is their compensation? I have been a trustee a number of years and I did not know that there was any compensation. If there is I would like to know what it is.

Mr. Ingraham: I say that is the point. I should like to suggest that some amendment be made to define the officers and what they are and the compensation or salary allowed them.

Mr. Short: Do you say that school trustees and notaries public are state officers?

Mr. Chairman: Will the gentlemen please address their remarks to the chair.

Mr. Ingraham: That is my question. Are notaries public state officers?

Mr. Short: The matter was discussed in the committee and a unanimous decision was reached to the effect that they were not state officers, but we had no instructions to decide the other question and I do not place any definition upon the office of the justice of the peace. I do not think our decision applies to the justice of the peace or any other officer. In section 2, or the same section at least, something is omitted with reference to the salary of the sheriff.

Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I would say that the reason that this part of the proposition was eliminated was because we felt that it was purely a legislative matter, and that the legislature should provide the services and salary of that office. The constitution should not enter into the details of those matters but should leave it to the legislature to make provisions for carrying into effect the fundamental laws herein provided for by the constitution.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I think that the report of the committee should include the justice of the peace and should provide for the office, and that is one office that is often the greatest field of work and especially in larger cities and towns, which require much time and attention by that officer; therefore, I think that provision should be made for this office.

Mr. Parsons: I have to take issue from the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Weinberger. This is a matter to be determined by the legislature, but where there are fees allowed by law it is a part of the official perquisites, and if this is arranged by law it must be done by the legislature.

Mr. Baker: If it is a question of state officers or county officers that you are trying to determine we can only quote from the statutes that are in effect in the territory now. The statutes show that the following are county officers: probate judge, district attorney, sheriff, treasurer, assessor, tax collector, recorder surveyor, school superintendent, clerk of the probate court, supervisors, and clerk of the board supervisors. These are designated by the revised statutes.

292-293)

[e938220] Mr. Orme: Mr. Chairman, I move you that an amendment be made to the committee proposition, that justices of the peace be included. The reason for this being that in the larger cities and towns that this is the most expensive court we have. The records show that in Cochise county the justice courts cost \ $68,000 per year and in Maricopa county \ $32,000. In Phoenix the precinct officers receives more pay than the supreme [court] judge. It is the most expensive part of the official machinery.

Mr. Chairman: Is that your amendment, Mr. Orme? Will you please restate it?

Mr. Orme: I move to amend the committee report by including the office of the justice of the peace.

293-294)

[e938222] Mr. Doe: I agree with the gentleman from Cochise. It seems to me that the fixing of these offices and officers is a matter for the legislature. There are always great changes taking place and salaries are changed, either raised or lowered by the legislature, according to the requirements of the age, and it is useless to place a measure like this with definite officers and their fixed salaries into our fundamental laws. This is a matter of legislation and should be determined by that body.

Mr. Weinberger: While I am in favor of justices of the peace being paid a salary rather than a fee, if there was a definite and fixed salary for that office, it would mean a nice fat salary to some justices who had nothing in the world to do and others who were overworked would be limited in accordance.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the amendment of Mr. Orme is to the effect that justices of the peace be included in section 1.

Mr. Ingraham: In regard to the amendment, I will say I am in favor of the general plan, but I am not in favor of the details. On page 146. The gentlemen will notice that Proposition Number 144 has that designated constables in precincts where the number of votes shall exceed 400 shall receive a salary fixed by the legislature. Where the votes are less in number then the fee system is recommended. It is a very difficult matter to fix the salaries of justices of the peace in the constitution as there is such a difference in their work; for instance in the larger towns and cities the justice of the peace has more work than any other officer of the lower court while in some places there will only be two or three cases in a year and sometimes none at all. The only way to solve the problem with regard to regulating the salary [is to have it] fixed according to the number of population.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): There would be some difficulty in fixing the salary in the manner explained by the gentleman from Yuma, as in the towns along the main lines of the railroad there is a moving population and in such instances it seems to me that the only way would be the fee system.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, are you ready for the question?

Mr. Franklin: I would explain that when the question came before the committee it was discussed very thoroughly and it was thought best to provide by law that in the incorporated cities and towns, the justices of the peace should be allowed a salary and in the smaller town the fee system could be used, but the justices who were paid by salary could not accept any money by fee.

Mr. Short: I would like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Orme, if this amendment should include school trustees?

Mr. Orme: School trustees are not precinct officers.

Mr. Short: That is the question, I would like to know what they are.

Mr. Orme: The gentleman from Yuma should know as he is a lawyer.

Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, that is the first time I was ever accused of being a lawyer or belonging to the legal profession.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 294-295)

[e938230] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll on the amendment of Mr. Orme.

Roll call showed 20 "ayes" and 22 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is lost.

[e938242] Mr. Kingan: It seems to me that in this matter there is a great deal omitted that should be included or explained in this proposition and I see no opportunity for an amendment which I am preparing to offer.

Mr. Chairman: Please reduce it to writing.

Mr. Kingan (reading): Section 1. "All state and county officer[s] (except notaries public) and all justices of the peace and constables within cities and towns, shall be paid fixed and definite salaries, and they shall receive no fees for their own use." The rest of it seems to me is purely for the legislature to determine. The abuses in regard to the justices of the peace I believe have largely arisen in towns and cities. I do not know of any instances of abuse in the county districts. I therefore move, Mr. Chairman, to amend section 1 of this proposition to read as follows: "All state and county officers and all justices of the peace within cities and towns shall be paid fixed and definite salaries," and all the rest of the proposition be stricken out.

Mr. Hunt: I desire to second the amendment.

[e938306] Mr. Ingraham: I wish to amend the amendment by adding the words "provided that this section shall not apply to notaries public."

Mr. Parsons: What was the amendment?

Mr. Ingraham: Adding the words to the amendment of Mr. Kingan, "provided that this section shall not apply to notaries public." The reason for this is that the notaries public must be either state or county officers, and I do not believe it is the intention of any of the gentlemen to have a fixed salary for notaries public.

[e938311] Mr. Wells: Mr. President, in the definition of county officers that we have had given to us today a notary public is a county officer because his jurisdiction is confined to that county. I think if Mr. Kingan would include that as part of the amendment it would be well.

[e938322] Mr. Baker: I would ask the gentleman from Pima county if he would accept another amendment and add the word "constables." I am informed that the constables of this city earn from $400 to $600 a month in the way of fees in making arrests and subpoenaing witnesses. The evil of excessive fees arises with the constables just as much as with the justices of the peace of cities and towns, and I move that the word "constables" be added.

[e938323] Mr. Kingan: I accept.

[e938331] Mr. Franklin: It might be doubtful under the phraseology of this amendment of the gentleman from Pima that the legislature would be prohibited from adding fees to these definite and fixed salaries. I would ask the gentleman from Pima if he would accept a further amendment, "and they shall receive no fees for their own use."

[e938335] Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman from Pima, Mr. Kingan, accept the amendment?

Mr. Kingan: I would like just a moment to write this out.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I want to say to the gentleman that I do not think that has any application. It is simply a limitation on the legislature that they shall be paid salaries instead of fees. It does not mean that every constable shall receive a salary. He may not be given any compensation. It simply means that if he receives compensation it shall be a salary. This does not say incorporated cities and towns, so it will apply to all towns whether incorporated or not.

Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, when you say that all state and county officers, justices of the peace and constables shall be paid fixed and definite salaries, I do not see how you can construe it to mean anything else.

Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I see another flaw in that amendment so far as justices of the peace are concerned. They are not justices of the peace within the city and town, but within the precinct, and their jurisdiction extends without the precinct. The same applies insofar as constables are concerned. Here you are saying that justices of the peace and constables shall receive fixed and definite salaries, and it seems to me that it is ambiguous.

Mr. Kingan: Mr. Chairman, I cannot see any ambiguity there. It seems to me that any justice's precinct, which is within the boundaries of any city or town, shall come under this amendment. Any justice of the peace whose precinct includes that town—of course he is not sitting for the town, but where the precinct is within the town he shall not receive fees, but shall receive a salary.

Mr. Lynch: I would like to call the attention of the gentleman from Pima to this fact that the word "town" includes not only incorporated towns but unincorporated towns. Under that statement of facts I doubt if there is a justice's precinct within the territory of Arizona which does not include some town. Is not that a fact? I cannot recall one in Graham county or Greenlee county, which does not embrace within its boundaries some small town. Practically every justice of the peace within the territory of Arizona would be on a salary basis under the amendment as it now stands.

Mr. Chairman: The question is on the amendment as offered by the gentleman from Pima, Mr. Kingan.

Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the best method of procedure is to adopt this report as it was made by the committee, and leave this matter of justices of the peace and constables to be determined when these other propositions relating to these subjects are before the committee. It seems to me that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pima is rather obscure in some respects because justice of the peace' precincts not only include a town but also include a large territory surrounding the city in many cases, and when you say justices of the peace in a city shall receive a definite salary, what do you mean? Do you mean a justice of the peace whose precinct includes a city? If that is what you mean then that is what you should say, but if we say a justice of the peace in a city or town shall receive a definite salary we mean he shall receive a definite salary if he makes his office inside of the city. He could get around this provision by immediately moving his office of the city limits and still retaining it within his precinct, if this is what it means. I think the best plan of procedure is to adopt this proposition as submitted by the committee and leave this matter of constables and justices of the peace to be determined when the distinct proposition on that subject comes up, as it will come up.

[e938357] Mr. Franklin: I think there is a sufficient framework here in the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pima to enable the legislature to fix this subject definitely so that we will get to the idea we want, and that is that these officers shall have salaries and not fees. I am in favor of the amendment provided, but I want to offer another amendment to the amendment, and that is that following the amendment of the gentleman from Pima we add these words "and they shall receive no fee for their services."

Mr. Hunt: I second that amendment.

[e938359] Mr. Chairman: You have the amendment. Are you ready for the question? All in favor will say "aye;" contrary minded, "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

[e938373] Mr. Chairman: [...] The question now is on the amendment of the gentleman from Pima, Mr. Kingan. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Parsons: I want to ask if that is to take place of the whole proposition?

Mr. Doe: Mr. Chairman, in answer to the objection of the inconvenience that would arise in regard to justices of the peace who might reside in small villages, I understand that to be one of the objections. Now it seems to me that might be obviated by a classification which the legislature may adopt, according to the population.

Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, I am satisfied that the way the amendment reads is not what the gentleman from Pima intended. It says "except notaries public and justices of the peace and constables, be paid fixed salaries," and I am satisfied that is not what the gentleman intends. My understanding was he wanted to include in the officers receiving fixed and definite salaries those of justices of the peace and constables. That means exactly the opposite thing.

[e938388] Mr. Kingan: Mr. Chairman, I would say that the way that amendment reads is this: "All state and county officers [except notaries public] and all justices of the peace and constables within cities and towns shall be paid fixed and definite salaries, and they shall receive no fees for their own use."

[Editor's Note: At this point, Mr. Kingan finally reduces his substitute to writing. This actually has the effect of superseding Mr. Franklin's amendment to add "and they shall receive no fees for their services," which was adopted by the Convention, using Franklin's earlier suggested wording, "and they shall receive no fees for their own use" instead. The Minutes tidy up this process by recording the remaining portion of Mr Kingan's substitute first, followed by an amendment by Mr. Franklin to add "and they shall receive no fees for their own use".]

Mr. Short: I second the motion.

[e938547] Mr. Orme: Mr. Chairman, I am heartily in favor of this proposition, having been a supervisor for a number of years. Prior to the time that we had a public examiner, we have about four treasurers in the territory, who were behind in their accounts. We had a great deal of trouble. Every surety company withdrew from the bonds of every treasurer in the territory. It was utterly impossible to get anything but personal bonds. After we provided for a public examiner the surety companies all came back. They received their reports and we had no trouble, but the guarantee companies at that time would receive sworn statements from the supervisors every thirty days, which they did without any trouble. When we have no examiner every county official is more or less negligent. The board has to compel him to put in his report the first of the month, at least most of them, and I think it is one of the most important offices. I think it would save the state more money than any other office that we could create.

Mr. Baker: I am in favor of this proposition. I think we ought to have a state examiner. I think such an office is a very valuable one to any people, but I want it understood so far as I am concerned, that I do not put my faith in this proposition upon the fact that guarantee companies at one time retired from these bonds and at another time came back. If they did come back they have never yet paid a single cent on the defaulting officers so far as I know; so I do not pin my faith to the fact that they come back here, but I am in favor of the proposition.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I am heartily in favor of this proposition, but there is one phrase about which I am uncertain as to the meaning. In line 5, in speaking of the corporations in which the candidates for state examiner shall be not interested, it says: "who is not a stockholder, officer, trustee, assignee or employee of any banking, monied or savings institution." I would like to call interest to the word "monied." Just what the meaning of that expression in this connection is it seems to me indefinite. Now if it means having money, that would be a pretty sweeping restriction.

[e938557] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move as an amendment to the motion that Proposition Number 125 be considered that it be postponed and considered at the same time we consider Proposition Number 33, being a substitute proposition of the Committee on Executive, which takes into consideration all executive officers of the state, and I think it would be well to consider this public examiner along with those others.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e938563] Mr. Winsor: I am very much opposed to the notion to postpone consideration of this proposition. It has nothing whatever to do with consideration of the other executive officers of the state. It is a subject separate and distinct, and we can consider it right now as well as we can at any other time, and I am getting very tired of our habit of procrastination.

Mr. Orme: I am opposed to putting this off. It is a distinct officer, and I am heartily in favor of passing on it now.

Mr. Weinberger: I want to say this was reported out of the executive committee, and it was reported at the same time that Proposition Number 33 was reported, and if they had any connection certainly this proposition would have been included in the committee's substitute report. I believe this matter is separate from that report, and it is before us, and we ought to consider it.

[e938566] Motion of Mr. Jones of Yavapai, that when the Committee does arise it recommend that consideration of of Proposition No. 125 be postponed until Substitute Proposition No. 33 is before the Committee; lost.

[e938574] Mr. Moeur: I move we strike out the word "monied" in line 5 and adopt the proposition as read.

Mr. Ingraham: I second the motion.

[e938575] The motion failed.

[e938577] Mr. Moeur: I move that Proposition Number 125 be amended by striking out the word "monied" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "trust" in line 5.

Mr. Ingraham: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 300-301)

[e938580] Mr. Coker: I move as an amendment to the amendment that all of that portion of paragraph 1 after the word "accountant" on line 1 be stricken out down to and including the word "thereof" on line 6. It seems to me that is purely a legislative matter.

[e938583] Mr. Winsor: It would not tell what this officer was at all.

Mr. Weinberger: I will say that the committee tried to tear this apart like Mr. Coker, and failed to do so. If you eliminate anything from this section you destroy the very object for which it has been proposed, and I believe there is no legislation within this section.

[e938587] Mr. Coker: I withdraw the motion.

[e938590] Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, I think the first paragraph does not state what the person is appointed for. It says we shall appoint a person who is an accountant. Section 2 goes on with the official duties of the state examiner, but the first section does not state there is a state examiner.

Mr. Short: The heading of the proposition says "A proposition relative to the creation of the office of state examiner."

Mr. Lynch: Let me state that the heading of the proposition "relative to the creating of the office of state examiner," does not go into the proposition, and when our constitution is completed you will have nothing to indicate what you are appointing.

[e938594] Mr. Doe: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the amendment by inserting in the 7th line after the word "Senate" the words "as Public Examiner."

[e938598] Mr. Winsor: I believe we could get a little better sense out of that if you would insert after the "thereof" in line 6, the words "to be known as state examiner."

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I agree heartily with the gentleman from Graham. The main feature in any proposition is that it shall state the purpose for which it has been adopted. The purpose should be stated however brief.

Mr. Winsor: The second paragraph states the duties of the office of the state examiner.

Mr. Cunniff: It states the duties but not the purpose of the office.

[e938601] Mr. Cunniff: It states the duties but not the purpose of the office. I move that this proposition be referred to the committee that reported on it in order that proper correction may be made.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e938603] Mr. Winsor: If we get the sense of this proposition we can trust the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation to so arrange it as to be acceptable to the convention. I think we should get what we are after here and pass on it.

Mr. Weinberger: I agree that with the adoption of the amendment of Mr. Doe the sense will be complete.

Mr. Cunniff: It does not seem so to me. It would be a very simple matter to have the committee put in the clause that is necessary.

Mr. Chairman: What committee?

Mr. Cunniff: The committee that reported; the Committee on Executive, Impeachment and Removal from Office.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 301-302)

[e938617] Mr. Doe: I ask leave to withdraw my amendment and second the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai.

[e938690] Mr. Chairman: The point of order is well taken, because there is nothing before the committee except this proposition.

[e938723] Mr. Cunningham: I move that when this committee arises it report to the convention and recommend that this measure be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e938735] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that when this committee do arise and report back to the convention that it recommend that this measure be indefinitely postponed.

Roll call showed 27 "ayes" and 16 "nays."

[e938737] Mr. Cunniff: I should like to explain my vote on that proposition. I am in sympathy with the position of the gentleman who introduced it, but the proposition as here introduced goes altogether too far. The decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Danbury Hatters case would interfere with this proposition. I do not think it would be constitutional, and therefore I oppose the proposition as it stands.

Mr. Feeney: I would like to inform the gentleman from Yavapai that the decision of the supreme court of California goes in the other direction.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to explain that the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States overrides that of the supreme court of California.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e938801] Mr. Cunningham: I offer an amendment to that motion, that when this committee arise, it report a recommendation that the report of the committee be adopted, and that Proposition Number 135 be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Weinberger: I second that motion.

[e938808] Mr. Lynch: I wish to explain that to the statement of the proposition is simply a statement of the law as it exists today. This is a statutory matter, and inasmuch as the statute covers it exactly as it stands (without including the word "rightfully" which has no place there) we see no reason for cumbering the constitution with the proposition.

Mr. Baker: This proposition is purely and distinctly legislative in its character, and I do not think has any place in a fixed constitution. As we stand at the present time, we have what is known as the "community" system in this territory, New Mexico, California, and Washington at least, while the principal system in the Union follow the old common law doctrine in regard to respective rights as far as property is concerned, except where they have changed or modified the common law system as regards husband and wife. Each one of these propositions may possibly find adherents in this new state. I think it ought to be left wholly and entirely with the legislature to arrange the respective rights of husbands and wives to property. So far as my personal views are concerned, there is no doubt in my mind but what [sic, that] the wife should absolutely retain all her property rights that she acquired or possessed prior to marriage, and that all she would acquire thereafter by gift, bequeath or descent, but if this proposition should go in the constitution we should have no community system or any other system, and in my estimation you would have rights to property unsettled. The statute says the wife is to have "all property which she may after become rightfully entitled to." What does it mean? "All property she may become rightfully entitled to." Now under the community system she is rightfully entitled to one-half anyhow. Now say a woman owned 160 acres of land prior to marriage. That is her separate property under the community law of this state, but the husband and wife go into a joint partnership for their labor. They acquire $10.00 or $20.00. What part is the wife "rightfully entitled to?" What standard have you? What will the courts say? The husband will say I did the hard work and I am entitled to two-thirds, or 99%. The wife will answer you were loafing around in the village, while I was running the farm, and I am fully entitled to all. My idea is that it is purely legislative, and you had better leave it to the legislature to act upon wholly and entirely.

Mr. Parsons: I desire to add just one word to what the gentleman from Maricopa has said in explanation of why I signed and support the report of the committee. This is certainly a legislative matter, and our statute now expresses it more clearly than it is expressed in the proposed section to be incorporated in our constitution. It settles the question without invoking the court. It is not a question as to what a woman is lawfully or rightfully entitled to. I therefore am in favor of the report of the committee.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to say in answer to the gentleman from Yuma that I took the same position on the matter of juvenile courts as I did on this matter. However, that adverse report mentioned by the gentleman was only the report of the judiciary committee, and I do not think the convention is going to report adversely upon it. I trust this convention will have the spirit to refuse to accept the committee report on this subject as well as on this question.

Mr. Chairman: The question is on the amendment to the original motion that when this committee arises to report to the convention a recommendation that this proposition be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to add a few words to this debate. Our community system, and I say this for the laymen who are present, is taken from the Justinian code. It came in first to Louisiana. From there this idea of the community property system, which was considered more equitable than that of the common law, was carried to the state of Texas, and from Texas to California, Washington and Arizona. All of these statutes use the identical language contained in the statutes of Arizona and give to a man all the property he owned prior to marriage, and to the woman all she owned prior to marriage and all she acquired thereafter by gift, devise or descent. These statutes have been interpreted from time to time by the courts, and we know something of the meaning of the language contained in these statutes. It seems to me to amend the statute as it has existed for all these years in this statute would certainly add confusion to the law as it now exists. I find as the gentleman from Yavapai says, that this provision in the language he has used, is found under the title of "Miscellaneous" in the State of North Dakota, but I for one do not know what the language means when it says that the wife after marriage shall have that property to which after marriage she becomes rightfully entitled. I am free to confess I cannot even guess what the court would do. I say as it exists in our statute it is definite, it has been interpreted, and the wife has been accorded full protection, and then some, and it seems to me to attempt to amend the decisions of the courts and statutes would be as gross an error as to attempt to amend the Ten Commandments.

Mr. Cunniff: I should like to say that the Ten Commandments might be expanded, and these statutes of Arizona may well be expanded to the extent of the North Dakota statutes.

[e938811] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion with the amendment that when the committee arises it recommend that Proposition Number 135 be indefinitely postponed. All those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" all those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and it is so ordered.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 305-306)

[e938821] Mr. Chairman: [...] The committee will report back a recommendation that the proposition be indefinitely postponed.

[e938840] Mr. Short: It has been intimated by members of the judiciary committee that provision in the judiciary substitute has been made for some provisions of this kind. I have failed to find it, but I move that this proposition be postponed to be considered with Substitute Proposition Number 82.

[e938851] Mr. Weinberger: I move to amend that Proposition Number 140 relative to the same matter be also postponed until the report of the committee on judiciary is before the convention.

[e938856] Mr. Ingraham: As far as I have observed, the judiciary committee has brought in no proposition that touches these points in any matter whatsoever. I do not think anything we be gained by postponing them until the consideration of other matters which have no relation to them. However, I see it is now 12 o'clock and I will make a motion that the committee do now arise and report progress.

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion.

[e938618] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order.

[e938619] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. The secretary will read the first proposition for consideration.

[e938635] Secretary: The proposition is Number 82 and majority and minority recommendations thereon.

[e938639] Mr. Winsor: In order to expedite this business, I move you that the proposition be considered section by section, in accordance with our rules and that in the case of any section to which there appears to be no objection it be considered as adopted by the committee of the whole.

Mr. Short: I second the motion.

[e938644] The motion prevailed.

[e938646] Mr. Cunniff: There is a minority report.

Mr. Chairman: There is a minority substitute. Do the gentlemen of the convention desire to hear the minority substitute?

Mr. Cunniff: I ask that the minority substitute report be read.

[e938650] Secretary: reads report.

Mr. Chairman: Go slowly, please.

Secretary: All right.

[e938717] Mr. Cunniff: I rise for the purpose of making a motion, but a little explanation will help to make clear the point of the motion. A careful examination of these reports shows nothing more clearly than this: that the majority report is a very capable piece of work but the substitute report does not by any means cover the ground that is covered in the majority report, and therefore a motion to substitute the minority report for the majority report would not be wise for the reason that even if that were adopted it would be taking features out that are covered in the majority report; therefore, the motion that I shall make is to this effect: in order that the text may be clear in regard to the consideration of the majority report section by section, so that the point may be made at once, I make a motion to this effect that when the committee do arise it report to the convention a recommendation that the scheme of court organization in the minority report shall be substituted for the scheme of court organization presented in the majority report; that the majority report be re-referred to the committee on judiciary so that they may incorporate this district court plan and probate court plan in place of the plan that the majority of the committee have reported.

[e938719] Mr. Cunniff: [...] I will make a further explanation: I think that this will expedite matters if I explain the whole matter right now. I have a resolution adopted at a called meeting of the Northern Arizona Bar Association on October 21, 1910, to this effect: "Be it resolved: That it is the sense of the members of this Association and that this Association respectfully recommends to the Arizona Constitutional Convention now assembled: First, That the Constitution of the new state of Arizona shall provide for separate nisi prius and appellate courts conforming as far as is practical to the present system of justice, probate, district and supreme courts. Second. That there shall be an appellate court known as the supreme court of the State of Arizona, which shall consist of three judges, which number may be increased by the legislature to not exceeding five. Third. That the state of Arizona shall be divided into five judicial districts as at present, which number may be increased by the legislature when considered advisable by it, and that in each of such districts there shall be one district judge to be elected by the qualified electors of such district, who shall preside over a nisi prius court corresponding to the present district court. Fourth. That the term of the nisi prius shall be not less than four years and that the terms of the supreme judges shall be not less than six years. Fifth. That the judges of the supreme court shall be elected from the state at large and that at the first state election three judges of the supreme court shall be elected for terms of two, four, and six years. That the judge of the supreme court who receives the highest vote shall hold office for six years, the second highest for four years and the third highest for two years, and the justice holding for two years shall be chief justice of the supreme court during that period. Sixth. That informations for all criminal offenses may be filed by the district attorney and prosecution thereunder to the same extent as by indictment. Seventh. That copies of this resolution be properly certified to by the President and Secretary, respectively, of this Association and sent to the Yavapai Delegation in the Constitutional Convention with the request that the plan herein outlined be embodied in a definite proposition as such submitted to the Constitutional Convention for its approval and adoption."

(Editorial, Pages 311-312)

[e938725] Mr. Cunningham moved to amend that the court scheme as contained in the majority report be adopted as outlined.

[e938746] Mr. Ellinwood moved to amend that the scheme of the majority be adopted subject to such amendments as may be adopted by the Committee of the Whole.

[e938749] (accepted by Mr. Cunningham.)

[e938798] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the report of the committee be re-referred to the Committee on Judiciary with instructions to substitute the scheme embodied in the minority report for that embodied in the majority report. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Chairman: The motion originally put and carried was that we proceed to consider the majority report by sections. The request then to have the minority report read was complied with, and the chair will rule, if there is no objection, that we will now proceed to the reading of the majority report by sections, and that these other propositions are out of order.

Mr. Cunniff: I beg to point out that if it is read section by section it simply consists of endless propositions for amendment by putting in the district court instead of the supreme [sic,] courts.

Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole has already decided to do that very thing by the motion as carried.

Mr. Wells: Proceeding according to the motion would deprive consideration of the substitute entirely because if the majority report is to be taken section by section that precludes any consideration of the other whatever. The motion made by my colleague is to consider these two schemes. The scheme that is suggested by the substitute is one that we have practiced under for forty-six years.

Mr. Cunniff: Will the gentleman yield to a question? I submit that this motion I have made and as amended by Mr. Cunningham is in order.

Mr. Wells: We would like to have them considered together and not bar the substitute from being considered by proceeding under the present motion. I think we ought to have them considered together if at all.

Mr. Chairman: Just a moment. Will the secretary read the first section of the majority report?

Secretary reads section.

Mr. Chairman: This is under discussion as to the system of courts, which is before the convention—

Mr. Cunniff: I would ask if the chair will not rule that the motion of mine is in order and bearing on that phrase “superior court” in the first section.

Mr. Chairman: Your motion, Mr. Cunniff—

Mr. Cunniff: Yes, sir.

Mr. Cobb: I think the solution of this question is to consider the first motion as carried and read the majority report in full. Then we will have both.

Mr. Ellinwood: I think this matter can be reached in accordance with the desire of the gentleman from Yavapai.

[e938832] Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, for my information I would like to have the scheme of the judiciary Substitute Proposition Number 82 read in full.

[e938838] Mr. Cobb: As I understand you ruled all of these motions out of order. I move to reconsider the vote which was first taken, that is, that was passed, calling for reading the minority report in full.

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

[e938839] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that we reconsider the first vote by which it was decided to consider Proposition Number 82 by paragraphs. Call the roll Mr. Secretary.

Roll call showed 37 "ayes" and 10 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e938850] Mr. Winsor withdrew the original motion.

[e938852] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move you that section 1 in the minority report be substituted for section 1 in the majority report.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e938853] Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, I would suggest to the gentleman from Yavapai, that the whole proposition be read so that we can get a full and complete understanding.

[e938854] Mr. Cunniff: I accept that suggestion.

[e938868] Mr. Chairman: Gentleman, you have heard the reading of the reports. The question now comes before the house, the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, "to substitute section 1 in the minority report for section 1 in the majority report."

Mr. Baker: I hope that this measure will not prevail; I will briefly state my reasons. The provisions of this substitute are that they substitute the district and supreme court system for the superior court system. The question now is one or two systems, in either the majority or minority reports concerning the judiciary. The superior court system is this: there is given to the superior court the same jurisdiction that the supreme courts have in the Territory. That means we provide for a double appeal, which often occurs, and with much cost and expense to the territory. If a party is dissatisfied he appeals from the justice of the peace to the district court. If the opposite party is not then satisfied he then appeals to the supreme court. In the other system you have two courts operating in the county at the expense of the taxpayers. One court can very easily perform at a less expense to the taxpayer than two courts. This is my reason for favoring the superior court system.

Mr. Cunniff: Will the gentleman from Maricopa yield to a question?

Mr. Baker: Why yes, if I am able to answer the question.

Mr. Cunniff: Has the gentleman from Maricopa figured out the expense in both courts?

Mr. Baker: No, I have not figured out this cost or expense nor can any man do so, but I have figured out the expense as near as a man can, and have made comparisons as near as one could.

Mr. Wells: Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Wells.

Mr. Wells: As to the expense to the tax payers I wish to make a suggestion: in the larger counties there are always good and efficient lawyers who can act as district attorneys and just as good as one would want, but you are going to encumber the smaller counties with the burden of such courts. If you will do so, you will not administer justice. In the cases to infants, children and widows and orphans. Take them into the superior courts where the interests and time is taken up by the larger interests, the attorneys will lose sight of the very interests that should protect them most. You take the illustration where courts whose duty it is to see that the widows, orphans and children are protected the larger interests consume the time and there is nothing but injustice to them rather than protection. I know it is said that the district courts are dilatory, but the superior court would be more so. If there are good and efficient lawyers in the probate court or supreme court then they will get more consideration than they could ever have in the superior court. An independent probate court will do more to protect such interests than any superior court will ever have time to do. I speak with reference to my own county. We have superior judges there but their duties are such that he leaves to the probate court all these matters, and the probate court has charge of the matter and whose duty it is to look into the interests of these people. I do not see any difference in the two systems, but I believe in independent jurisdiction of the probate court [rather] than the superior or any other court of record.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Parsons.

Mr. Parsons: While I have the greatest respect for the opinions of the gentleman from Yavapai, I really cannot agree with him with respect to the matter of these courts. I feel that the good fortune that has come to these people who have left such matters to the probate courts has been due to the environments in the county he is living in where the people favor the judges of the county court and a probate court looking into these matters[s] for the widows and orphans, but if he had lived in such places as those where I have practiced he would look with more favor upon the superior courts. In Cochise county where I have lived for the last six or seven years and in Nebraska where I have practiced for many years before, the average county judge is no more competent to administer in these affairs than the justice of the peace. In most cases the judge has his home, a comfortable home, in one part of the county or some county of his district and he is thinking more about the discomfortures and of catching a train home than he is of the work of his office. I believe that a resident judge can render such additional service and that his services can be of much more value than the occasional visit of some judge who is not a resident nor has the same interest in the people as the resident judge would have, but I believe that these judges must be more than the ordinary or average judge that we find in the offices today. If you had some matter of great importance, with whom would you care to leave it? With the man who has the ability to and a knowledge of the legal profession and can with justice and fairness make the decision, or the man who is incapable and unfair because he has not the proper knowledge to act in this capacity. In our own county, I refer to the Honorable Judge Doan, who realizes fully the great importance of such matters and would not leave them to the probate court lest the probate court leave them to the district clerk and thus come into the hands of most incapable judges. If you do not happen to have a competent county court clerk you do not get anything done. If you do not get justice in the county court why then you appeal to the superior court. They appeal to the higher courts ordinarily? [sic] Why appeal from probate court to the district court and from the district to the supreme court. A system such as this does not offer the protection that such matter[s] of importance should have. I know that the interests of the people are far safer in the hands of the district court than in the hands of the court who does not have neither the time nor the ability to decide and rules in such matters where life and property are at stake.

Mr. Wells: Will the gentleman from Cochise yield to a question from me?

Mr. Parsons: I yield to your question.

Mr. Wells: What is the proportionate number of cases appealed from the probate to the supreme or district courts? In my experience there have been comparatively few.

Mr. Parsons: Almost every case which involved \ $500 or more has been appealed to the district court. And I say, Mr. Chairman, why should we hesitate to adopt a system that is recommended by nine of the members of the committee, and those nine of the ten are attorneys.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, can the gentleman explain why there is no more justice in Cochise county?

Mr. Parsons: I am not the judge, and you will have to go back to the people. This committee ought to be able to adopt a report such as has been recommended here with such amendments as the convention may wish to offer, but we do hope that this committee will not adopt the minority report.

Mr. Cooper: Mr. Chairman, I would like to say something on the matter of probate courts. I have the honor of being probate judge and I have seen the objectionable features of this court in every phase. I agree with the gentleman from Cochise in the matter of probate courts for there are few of the counties of the territory who have judges and attorneys or district attorneys who are capable of administering in these matters, and this is not meant for any reflection upon our able body of men of the legal profession. I would also add that the majority of county clerks or district court clerks are inefficient to attend to the work of the probate court, therefore I am in favor of the system recommended by the majority report.

Mr. Wells: May I ask the gentleman a question?

Mr. Cooper: I yield to the question.

Mr. Wells: I would ask whose duty is it to attend to the matters of the probate court?

Mr. Cooper: The probate court should look after all such matters as are appealed from the justice courts which is only a two fiddle arrangement and people coming to court with such haste that they leave all matters to the district clerk and the law. The duties are so many and so varied that he does not work without extra pay, and he besides being a probate court immediately becomes district attorney, or prosecuting attorney after which he becomes the judge of his own work and in this I can see no justice at all; therefore I am certainly in favor of the district court system and opposed to the probate court.

Mr. Doe: I am not prepared to discuss the Washington system and its successful workings to any extent, but I do not think Arizona can afford to adopt any method employed by California, for it will profit us nothing since it has already proved unsatisfactory in the state and I do not see how the superior court system can in any way supplant a system that has been so long tried and proven for so many, many decades, and it seems to me that we are wading into water that is much too deep to try to adopt a system that has not been proven only unsatisfactory in such instances as where it has been tried. [sic]

In speaking of the judges and their work and expenses, I think that there should be some provision made for traveling expenses since the cost of living had greatly increased and when a judge is called away from home so much of his time to attend to his duties as judge he spends about six or eight months away from home and all this time provides for his home and his own living away from that home and all other necessary traveling expenses there is but the most meager sum left to him thus making it justifiable for him to practice law outside of his time engaged in court for this extra cost and also justifying him in demanding that his traveling expenses be allowed by law. If his salary were such that it could cover this necessary expense then it would be unnecessary to ask for the provision but when his salary is so limited and his expenses so great and being added to every year there comes the necessity for the demand for traveling expenses. I think this should be given careful consideration for it should not be permitted that the judge of the various districts to have to beg for the mere pittance of a salary which is rightfully his to be added to that provided by law, but that the cost should be considered and the provisions made without having the matter come before the legislature if this convention adopts the measures which provide for the salaries of the judges. I make this a suggestion to this body before it is finally passed upon and I hope that it will be given consideration by the members.

Mr. Moeur: Mr. Chairman, I am in favor of the superior court system if it will enable us to get rid of a Republican probate judge who has been regularly elected for the last ten years and will be for the next ten if something radical is not done. (laughter)

Mr. Lynch: [words missing] ... county or district for I never expect to run for any such office, but I am speaking from a sincere motive within my heart and with the view of defending our system of courts which is in my mind the better system that [sic, than] the one now pending in this committee. The system of courts and their courts of appeal are a long tried system and any matter can receive justice in the courts as they stand now from the smallest involved to the largest interests ever known to be involved and life and death have their own protection in these courts as well as the interests of estates, the widows, orphans and the children. My plea is one in behalf of the system that I am so familiar with and one that I know is tried and proven and one that has been so long adopted universally throughout the land, and of [sic, for] this reason I hope that the pending measure will not pass."

Mr. Ingraham: I desire to speak not only my own personal belief upon the question of the courts, but that of my worthy constituents. The people of Yuma county have universally taken up the matter and are almost ready to rise in arms against the present system of courts. They have been so aroused and there has come to the members of this convention a letter of appeal from the Yuma Bar Association which I will quote from and I will also read a paragraph from as well as I desire to impress it strongly upon the minds of this committee the very importance of the question of a change in the system of the courts.

[letter was read but is not in the records]

It seems to me that we cannot afford to disregard the wishes of the people in these matters when the people from all over the territory, Yavapai County excepted, have expressed their wishes in this matter and when the legal profession in this territory, a goodly representation of whom have here given this proposition their careful consideration and study and have returned this report with such recommendations. I have the most confidence in these men who have rendered their report and have seen fit to adopt this measure and I cannot think that there is any necessity to waver in this matter. I can find nothing of record which proves that the California or Washington systems are not satisfactory and I am certain that we need not fear anything disastrous would come in changing a system has become so universally distasteful as the present system has and when the great majority of our legal profession membership have seen fit to adopt the superior [court] system. I favor the adoption of the report with only such amendments as the convention sees fit to offer, and the fact that only one county, that of Yavapai, opposes the superior court system, is not sufficient reason for its defeat. Perhaps they have been so fortunate in their court system affairs that they expect all counties to profit by their good fortune. It seems that their record is rare and [there] cannot be found another like it, but this is not sufficient to make the people who have become so thoroughly disgusted with the present system to wish to continue it under any circumstances.

Mr. Cunniff: I did not take the position I maintained upon that score.

Mr. Ingraham: I said perhaps, in my remarks, I did not make it only as a[n] opposition. To those lawyers who reside in the larger counties this letter says, we ask them to consider: If a lawyer in Yuma County desires to have a client released on habeas corpus proceedings, he must necessarily go 250 miles to Tucson to have a hearing, and if he has an injunction proceeding he is almost necessarily compelled to go the same distance to the same place if anything definite is to be accomplished. That any such thing as a trial of a case in Yuma County with the care and circumspection given to similar cases in Prescott, Tucson, or Phoenix, is almost unknown. That as a matter of fact the trial of the case at all is the highest degree uncertain, and because of the uncertainty our clients easily surrender to unjust claims rather than take the foregoing chances. That our cases are practically all set down for the same day. Every case a lawyer had, and every lawyer at the bar, must be ready in all cases for the same day and hour. We do not know when the judge gets there, whether he will sit there three days or a week or longer. Therefore, every case we expect to try that term we must have ready for the first three days, or stand ready to sacrifice the interests of our client, and every witness in case must be in perpetual attendance in the court from the time it opens until the judge decides he has stayed long enough in the outside county and wants to get home, and it is needless to say the same conditions will not exist in the new state. It obtains today in Colorado, and it obtained for over thirty years in California until the Constitutional Convention of 1879 abolished it. They have had the same system since 1879 in California that the majority of the judiciary committee is advocating in its substitute proposition now. Gentlemen, I consider this the most important and most serious matter that has come before the convention. I will not except anything because the speedy and adequate adjudication of cases is the most important thing in the administration of the law. I wish you think this matter over not only from the standard of litigants who [bring] many money questions in the courts, but consider it from the standpoint of men who lie in jail accused of crime. They are supposed to be innocent until they are proved guilty. Yet they lie in Yuma during the summer months in jail under the most unsanitary conditions. They lie there six months awaiting the action of the grand jury. Under the system proposed by the judiciary committee they could be tried within a week, and if there was any delay it would be sought by themselves, to secure witnesses, etc. I say that from the standpoint of litigants who have property rights to litigate and also from the standpoint of men who are accused of crime, this is most important.

Mr. Wood: First, in answer to the gentleman from Maricopa County, Mr. Baker, in relation to the comparative cost. Although the majority provides for ten low-salaried judges, the total of the judges' salaries under that report is $51,500, against five judges at $5,000 under the minority report, making $25,000— a difference of $26,500, or $1300 more than sufficient to provide fourteen probate judges at $1800 each, one for each county. Now in relation to the matter of probate courts, it is well known that the law of wills has been distinct and separate for centuries, and this law from motives of economy, seems intentionally to provide separate courts for litigants to transact their business, they being forced into such litigation by circumstances over which they have no control, namely by death, and the large majority of these litigants being widows and orphans left with a small amount of property which must be adjudicated in order to pass title in the same manner as those having larger property interests, it is only reasonable and just that they be permitted to transact their business in as speedy and economical manner as can be provided. This cannot be provided in a court of general jurisdiction administered for general purposes and through entirely different forms and methods, but in the probate court, which has exclusive jurisdiction over the estate from start to finish, and can work with greater dispatch than courts of general jurisdiction, and guard the estate against waste and extravagance and save much money for heirs and creditors better than the courts of general jurisdiction, not through any fault in the presiding judge but through physical incapacity to perform the duties under the conditions which prevail. In the administration of each estate there is a large amount of minute and detail work which affects not only the financial interest of those concerned, but also the title to real and personal estate, and this must be done not only strictly in accordance with the statutory provisions, but it must have the personal supervision of the judge before he can issue the proper decree. The California system of administration of estates is notoriously extravagant, and has been the subject of scandal. In relation to attorneys being probate judges, I will state that I have the statistics of one probate judge's office where in twenty-four years under the judgeship of four attorneys learned in the law there were 38 estates lost, strayed or (I will not supply the word). If we could be assured that every attorney would be as well equipped and honest as the gentlemen of the bar represented in this convention, it would be different, but attorneys as a class, like others, are human.

Mr. Kingan: I only want to take up a moment. I was originally in favor of the district court system, but after I had investigated the matter thoroughly and had gone over the whole matter I became absolutely convinced that the superior court system was more convenient and less expensive. Now it seems to me that those two factors, the convenience and expense, are the two controlling factors in this question. Now, further, there has been a comparison made this morning between judges of the probate court and judges of the supreme [sic, superior] court, their respective capacities and their respective honesty. It seems to me this is entirely aside from the question and has nothing to do with this matter. I think we will all admit that as a class the district court or the superior courts are superior in their knowledge of the law and in their capacity to transact business to the probate courts. I think every lawyer who has had any experience will freely admit that. Now as to convenience: It is certainly more convenient to have a judge in your own county at all times than to have him in some other county if you want an attachment or if you want an injunction. You want it then, or not at all. If the judge is in some other county you may lose the very thing you want; it may be too late. If a man be arrested, charged with crime, he should be tried speedily; he should not lie in the jail waiting for the district court. As to the question of expense: In my county (Pima County) the jails are full for months and months with criminals waiting for trial. They must be kept, and the cost of this runs into thousands and thousands of dollars. I am told the same thing is true in Cochise, in Maricopa, in Yuma County, and in all other counties in the territory; and this expense amounts to a great deal more than the superior court. This entirely aside from the fact that every man is entitled to a speedy trial as a matter of justice, and he should not be kept in the jail months and months until the convenience of the court, a matter more important than a few paltry dollars. The Bar of Pima County has investigated this matter as well as the Northern Bar Association, and they are unanimous in favor of the superior court system. I believe all the southern counties are, and I am heartily in favor of it.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I would like to ask if the change from the probate to the superior court system does not necessarily carry with it compulsory employment of an attorney by each estate.

Mr. Ingraham: It is not necessary for any client in the district now to employ an attorney unless he so wishes and the same rule would hold in the superior court. We are not changing the law in that regard.

[e938267] [Editor's note: The Committee of the Whole considered section 1 of Substitute Proposition Number 82.]

(Editorial)

[e938271] Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I move that section 1 of the committees [sic] Substitute Proposition Number 82 be reported by this committee and recommended for adoption by the convention.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

[e938272] The motion prevailed.

[e938276] Mr. Chairman: What is your further will? The secretary will read section 2.

Secretary read section 2.

[e938279] Mr. Chairman: Are there any objections to that section as read?

Mr. Cunningham: I move it be adopted.

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion.

[e938284] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask some of the gentleman to explain just what is meant by "non-judicial days." My interpretation would be days that the court is not in session, but this proposition states the court shall be in session on all days except on holidays. Now there seems to be some distinction without a difference.

Mr. Cunningham: I would say that "non-judicial days" would be interpreted as Sundays and holidays.

Mr. Lynch: The statutes at present determine what are non-judicial days.

Mr. Cunningham: I move the adoption of section 2.

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion.

[e938287] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move to amend lines 9, 10 and 11 to read in this manner, commencing “The number of judges may be increased to five or diminished to three by law,” eliminating the balance of that. That will place some restriction on the number of judges; “from time to time” seems to be superfluous, and making the maximum and minimum number will eliminate two lines.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e938295] Mr. Short: If Mr. Jones would accept an amendment, I think I could shorten that a great deal by making line 11 read “shall at all times be construed of not less than three nor more than five judges.”

Mr. Chairman: Do you accept the amendment, Mr. Jones?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910)

[e938297] Mr. Jones: That would lengthen the section and would not accomplish any more than I have accomplished. I will send it up in writing.

Mr. Lynch: I want to object for the same reason. I will state that in Colorado they had a provision similar to this, and they were compelled to increase the number to six by creating a court of appeals and later were compelled to abandon the court of appeals and increase the number of the supreme court judges from three to five. The clause as it stands now cannot work any hardship. If we need seven judges let us trust in the legislature to give us seven judges. I am opposed on the further ground that I cannot see the reason why amendments as to petty details that do not change the meaning of the proposition would be considered by the convention. I confess there are a number of things in this substitute that I do not like, and I believe there are ways of presenting the matter that are better, but I certainly am willing to defer to the judgement of the judiciary committee—to the majority of that committee and accept what they in their judgement have seen fit to present, for the reason that where I differ from them on minor details, and I claim that this is an absolutely minor detail. What is wrong in letting the legislature increase the number of judges to five, and if necessary increase the number to seven? If you have too many judges they could easily decrease it again. Let us not tie the legislature up.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): It seems to me that the legislature is tied up pretty tight in this proposition in some respects. The very purpose of my motion is to make the maximum number of judges and not leave it to the discretion of the legislature, which has done some very peculiar things. I think when the time comes we can increase them, and the people should have something to say about the increase.

[e938301] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "nays" have it; so ordered.

[e938303] Mr. Chairman: [...] The intent of the motion of Mr. Winsor is that if a paragraph was not amended it would stand approved for adoption when the committee arise, without any further action.

[e938305] Mr. Chairman [...] The next section is number 3. What is the will of the committee?

[e938310] Mr. Cunniff: It seems awkward to me to elect the first three judges for terms of two years. It seems to me that as we elect all the other state officers at that time, we might as well elect the judges. I would like to inquire if there seems to be any necessity for so doing.

Mr. Cunningham: I think that some member of the committee has an amendment to offer on this matter, and I suppose it will be offered and it will probably clear up the objection that the gentleman from Yavapai now has.

[e938313] Mr. Baker: I offer an amendment to section 3 at line 15 so that it shall read: "term of office shall be coterminous with that of the governor of the state elected at the same time." That is by adding after the word "state" on line 15 the words "elected at the same time, and the one receiving the highest number of votes shall be chief justice." With the further amendment to line 15, "Thereafter, and at the first general state election held under the constitution of this state." As I understand the Enabling Act provides that an election shall be held under the Enabling Act, under the proclamation of the governor for all state officers, and of course it will be necessary to elect your supreme court at that time. Then when that election is returned or reported to the President, and he subsequently issues his proclamation, we are then a state acting under the constitution that we may pass here. This provision, as I understand it, is simply to provide for the election of those three judges at that indeterminate time, that these officers may hold until the election under the constitution and then to provide thereafter for an election of the judges or of other officers under your general state election under the constitution.

Mr. Ellinwood: I second the motion.

Mr. Chairman: The amendment offered by Judge Baker and seconded by Mr. Ellinwood,— if I do not state it correctly, Mr. Baker, please correct me, is to insert on line 15, page 2, after the word “state” the words “elected at the same time and the one receiving the highest number of votes shall be the chief justice at the first general election held under the constitution,” and cut out—

Mr. Baker: “Their terms of office shall be co-terminous with the governor of the state.” After the word state add these words “elected at the same time and the one receiving the highest number of votes shall be the chief justice.” Now, thereafter and at the first general state election held under the constitution of this state,” adding the words “thereafter and” before the word “at” on line 16 and the words “under the constitution of this” after the word “held” in line 16, striking out the word “in.”

[e938314] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment will signify by the usual sign, those opposed the same. The motion is carried.

[e938317] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection the secretary will add the word ”for” after the word ”one” on line 3.

[e938319] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move the following amendment, on line 22, page 3, substitute after “remaining judges of said court,” the words “governor shall appoint.” As corrected it would read like this “whenever for any reason any judge shall be disqualified from action in any case brought before said court, the governor shall appoint one of the superior judges to sit with him in the hearing of said cause.” I am not an attorney and I may not have any right to criticize this proposition, but this occurs to me in this connection, that if two judges of the supreme court appoint a man to sit with them, that man would be an unusual fellow if he did not agree with those two judges. Of course, we cannot expect that they would appoint a man who would not agree with them, and it is human nature for such a man to agree with them. To remove any possible criticism that might result toward the two members making the appointment, I think the governor should have the appointing power.

[e938324] Mr. Cunniff: I would like to move an amendment to Mr. Jones’ amendment; that is, that the word “call” in line 35 [sic, 23] be stricken out and the words “choose by lot” be inserted in its place.

[...]

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the amendment.

[e938327] Mr. Cunningham: I do not understand how the governor could choose by lot, and not only that, but the objection that Mr. Jones has made to this provision, it strikes me, is hardly worthy of making a change here. It is possible that it might get to be so that a great deal more harm could result by the governor appointing the man than any other kind of appointment. It seems to me that the court itself should choose some member of the superior bench to occupy the seat upon the supreme bench rather than for the governor to appoint that man. I think the amendments are entirely uncalled for.

Mr. Cunniff: I wish to suggest that my amendment is different from Mr. Jones' amendment by having the court choose one from superior court judges by lot.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the amendment.

Mr. Doe: I think that when Mr. Jones is familiar with the habits of lawyers he would not make that objection. I think the form of the present proposition is preferable to the amendment for this reason. The judges of the supreme court will become acquainted with their relative ability. I think their ability would be known to the court, and if there was a question of law, they would naturally want to select the ablest man. I think it is highly desirable that their superior knowledge should fit them better than any other person for the selection of that man.

Mr. Lynch: I think possibly that this one suggestion might clear the question. The question might be one in which the governor himself would be an interested party. It could not be one in which the remaining judges would be interested, therefore the remaining judges would be disinterested parties and the governor might be interested. It seems to me that that would perfectly clear the matter.

Mr. Cunniff: I want to point out that the amendment I proposed eliminates the possibility of interested parties. If the names were all put in a hat there would be no means of knowing what man would be called to sit on the bench. It seems to me that is the soundest way.

Mr. Parsons: I think if the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai should prevail that it might possibly happen that the very judge before whom the case was tried—it might be that his name be drawn as one of the judges to sit, and I do not think that would be reasonable. I further think that his amendment is not germane for the reason that the two questions conflict. The proposition of the gentleman from Maricopa is to have the governor instead of the judges select the judge who shall preside on the supreme court over the hearing of the case under the circumstances. That must be settled first before the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai could apply, because he is determining this question now, offering an amendment before the question is settled whether the governor or the court is to prevail, and I think we should settle this question first. I am in hearty accord with the remarks of the gentleman from Coconino and the others who have spoken in favor of the judges making the selection.

Mr. Chairman: The amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Jones, was that on line 22 beginning with the word where it says "The remaining judges of said court," it shall read "The governor shall appoint, etc."

[e938329] Mr. Cunniff: To simplify matters I will withdraw my amendment.

[e938333] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e938337] Mr. Cunniff: I move the word "call" be stricken out and the words "choose by lot" be inserted.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

(Editorial)

[e938341] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment, signify by the usual sign; those opposed the same. The motion is lost.

[e938344] Mr. Ellinwood: I wish to refer to line 13. This, I understand, is a matter that was overlooked by the committee in preparing the bill.

Mr. Chairman: What page, Mr. Ellinwood?

Mr. Ellinwood: Page 3. In answer to the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, would like to state that that is the uniform system, the same as replenishing the United States Senate, so that all of the terms of the judges may not expire at the same time. It would happen, undoubtedly, if that were the case, that many causes before the court would be argued and the terms of the entire court would expire. On the incoming of the new court a complete argument would have to be made, so this system contemplates, that after the first three judges are elected and they choose their term by lot, that one judge is to be elected for a term of two years, one for a term of four years, and one for a term of six years after the first term.

Mr. Cunniff: The only point was, why the first term should be for two years.

[e938347] Mr. Ellinwood: Then in line 13, I move to amend after the word "election" to insert the following: "one judge shall be elected every two years thereafter at the general election and the term of the judge (singular in place of plural) shall be etc."

Mr. Baker: I second the motion.

first regular state election, beginning on the first of January, after that we have got something definite to begin with. At that time all of the supreme court is elected—three judges—and then it is provided that of these three they shall choose by lot one for six, one for four, and one for two years. Then we have a fixed time with which to start. Now, after that, this plan as here outlined says every two years a judge will be elected, therefore, as it now reads, a judge will be elected every two years.

Mr. Ellinwood: Will you point me to a paragraph that says that one judge shall be elected every two years, after this scheme has been incorporated?

Mr. Kingan: Let us begin, if you please, after the first part of the three judges; they shall hold office until the first of January following the regular state election, as provided in paragraph 3, section 3. Now, that court after it is elected, one judge will hold office for six years, one for four years and [one] for two years. Now, on line 13, on page 3, it says that after that first election the judges shall be elected for six years after the first of January next succeeding their election. Putting the two together unquestionably makes it work out exactly. I have worked it out on a piece of paper here.

Mr. Ellinwood: Would it not be better to work it out in the constitution so that one would not have to take a piece of paper to figure it out.

Mr. Kingan: It may be that it will be necessary for some persons to take a piece of paper to work it out—(applause) it is perfectly clear Mr. Ellinwood, that you are mistaken.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, it is not clear to me at all. This scheme provides for the expiration of the term after having the first judges chosen and taking their terms by lot, but it seems to me that after the first state election there should be a positive provision here that thereafter one judge be elected every two years at the general election, so that he who runs may read.

Mr. Franklin: I quite agree with the gentleman from Pima county, Mr. Kingan, that the terms of this substitute are very plain and that the adoption of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise county will make it obscure. "At the first general state election held under the constitution of this state, at which a governor is voted for, three judges of the supreme court shall be elected." Now, after those are elected, they are classified by lot, one for a term of six years, one for a term of four years, and one for two years. Thereafter all judges elected shall hold office for six years. Under the provision of this bill there would be but one judge elected every two years and his term is for a period of six years. It seems to me that the provision is perfectly plain, and if we adopt the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise we will make it obscure.

Mr. Cunniff: I am in hearty agreement with the gentleman from Cochise. I do not think that this measure states anywhere that one judge shall be elected every two years. The insertion of that is absolutely necessary.

Mr. Cobb: I would like to inquire if the amendment to section 3 in line 16 beginning with "thereafter," was that the amendment that was adopted? Then if "thereafter and at the first general state election" we will elect three judges at every election for governor. Read the whole sentence and you will see we elect three judges every time.

Mr. Chairman: Read the first section.

Mr. Cobb: It says "thereafter at all general state elections three judges shall be elected."

Mr. Parsons: I want to call the gentleman from Graham's attention to the fact that this amendment does not read as he interprets it. It says “thereafter and at the first general state election held under the constitution of this State at which the governor is voted for three judges shall be elected and the judges shall be classified by lot so that one shall hold office for six years, one for four, and one for two.” I want to go back a little bit further than the gentleman from Pima did, and begin at the beginning of that section. “Judges shall be elected at the general election to be held under the provisions of the Enabling Act.” It does not say how many, and that will be the number determined upon. It means three, of course. Their terms shall be co-terminous with the governor elected at the same time, and the one receiving the highest number of votes shall be the chief justice. That settles the question of the first for the very reason stated by the gentleman from Pima, that we do not know at what time the State will be admitted, but that whatever that term may be—whether it be for the full two years, or a fraction of two years, or one, or a fraction of one before the next general election of a governor, those three judges elected shall serve for that time. Then after that, “thereafter,” as is expressed here, at the first general state election held under the constitution of this state—that would not be under the Enabling Act. That would be our first general election. Three judges of the supreme court shall be elected, and the judges shall be classified by lots so that one shall hold office for six years, one for four, and one for two. Now it is contended that because we do not expressly state in this proposition that there will be a judge elected every two years it is defective. When we say there are three judges, one for six years, one for four, and one for two, how are we going to keep them up unless we do elect one every two years?

Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, I think the gentleman did not read that sentence right. “Thereafter and at the first general state election.” Why put that “and” in there?

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, if the gentleman from Graham county will remember his lessons in grammar he will know that the words “and at the first general state election thereafter” means just the same as “thereafter and at the first general state election.”

(Editorial)

[e938352] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I think the fact that the gentleman here most learned in the law disagree on the subject is the best argument in favor of making some change in this. I move the further amendment in line 3 on page 3 which will make that paragraph read like this: “After the first state election one judge shall be elected—”

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): “After the first state election one judge shall be elected every two years whose term shall be for six years.” If there can be any doubt about that then someone else offer something.

[e938354] Mr. Baker: I rise to a point of order. There is one amendment before the committee, and we will be confused by two or three different amendments. We should dispose of one amendment on each line, and not have two amendments on different lines.

[e938356] Mr. Chairman: You are still talking about the same line and I rule that the amendments would be in order.

Mr. Cunniff: If the gentleman from Pima can understand that sentence as amended he has a bright mind. This thing is muddled up by that "thereafter and." If the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise is put in it it [sic] will be perfectly clear.

Mr. Lynch: I will state that the judiciary committee aimed to furnish information on the subject but not comprehension. (applause)

[e938361] Mr. Chairman: The question before the committee is on the amendment of Mr. Ellinwood on line 13 after the word "election" insert "one judge shall be elected every two years thereafter at the general state election and" and the amendment of Mr. Jones of Maricopa, "one judge shall be elected every two years whose term shall be six years from and after the first, etc." The first question is on the amendment of Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): If you will allow me I will withdraw my motion.

(Editorial)

[e938363] Mr. Winsor: I move that the word "and" as it now appears on line 16 following the word "thereafter" be stricken out.

[e938364] Mr. Chairman: The question before the house is on line 13, and we will dispose of that first, and if you wish to offer an amendment to the section on line 2, very well.

[e938365] Mr. Chairman: The question before the house is on line 13, and we will dispose of that first, and if you wish to offer an amendment to the section on line 2, very well. Those in favor of the amendment as offered will rise.

Rising vote showed 25 "ayes" and 22 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e938368] Mr. Winsor: I move that the word "and" as it appears on line 16, on page 2, following the word "thereafter" be stricken out.

Mr. Short: I second the motion.

[e938369] The motion prevailed.

[e938375] Mr. Ingraham: I move an amendment to line 18 on page 3 after the word "shall" near the end of the line by the insertion of the following words "if possible under the general election laws." My reason for this, Mr. Chairman, is this: In case of the vacancy within a few days before a general election, it might not be possible under the election laws to comply with the provisions to hold an election, and if it were made at the next succeeding general election that would be illegal, and the incumbent appointed by the governor would hold office for four years, or possible six. The amendment is aimed at the point if a vacancy occur just preceding the election, so that the necessary notice and publication could not be made.

Mr. Parsons: I second the amendment.

[e938377] Mr. Lynch: This amendment is also another case of splitting hairs. If it is not possible to hold the election, the office will be filled by the governor, and as amended this does not give any right to hold the election until the next general election, and therefore he is to hold until his successor is elected and qualified.

[e938379] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? Those in favor of the amendment will signify by the usual sign; those opposed. The motion is lost.

[e938385] Mr. Doe: I move to amend section 2 [sic, 3] by inserting in line 34 [sic, 24], on page 3, the following words "who shall receive his necessary traveling expenses including board and lodging, while absent from the county of residence for such purposes, the same to be audited and paid as provided by law." I might say in explanation that judges under the provisions of this bill who receive $3500 a year might find it a serious hardship to go up to the capital for the purpose of remaining perhaps a month, paying their hotel bills at Phoenix rates, and their passage at Arizona railroad rates, and I think it should be proper that their necessary expenses should be paid.

Mr. Kingan: I second the motion.

[e938386] Mr. Cunniff: It seems to me this is not a proper provision in the constitution, but is purely a legislative matter. I am in favor of the position of the gentleman, but object to its insertion in the constitution.

334-335)

[e938391] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment, answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "nays" have it, and the motion is lost.

[e938397] Mr. Parsons: I move we reconsider the vote on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Coconino, Mr. Doe.

Mr. Doe: I second the motion.

[e938400] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the reconsideration, will signify by the usual sign; those opposed "no." I believe it will be impossible to get a two-thirds vote.

[e938402] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move an amendment to section 3, line 19, after the words "general election" insert "whenever it is possible to do so under general election law."

[e938404] Mr. Chairman: I rule that motion out of order.

[e938408] Mr. Cunningham: I move section 3 be adopted.

[e938410] Mr. Chairman: That is not necessary.

[e938411] Mr. Chairman: [...] If there are no further amendments, paragraph 3 will be considered adopted, and we will pass on to section 4.

[e938421] Mr. Kingan: I move that after the word "mandamus" on line 16, page 4, the secretary be authorized to add a comma. That merely makes clear the intended meaning.

[e938424] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections the chairman will make the insertion of the comma.

[e938426] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 5 is now before us.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910)

[e938429] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 5 is now before us. What is the will of the committee with this section?

[e938431] Mr. Franklin: I was a member of the judiciary committee, but there is a provision in section 5 which is new to me, and I do not quite understand it. "The judgements, decrees, orders, etc., shall be equally effectual as if all the judges had presided at said session." I do not understand what is the purpose of that.

Mr. Lynch: I might suggest the reason for it is that in the California system there are often two judges in one county who divide the work into two departments. The purpose of this is to legalize the work of one judge, making the work of one department legal without the concurrence of the other judge in the same county.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

335-336)

[e938436] Mr. Doe: Mr. Chairman, this cannot affect, if carried out, any of the other counties in any way except that if the state pays one half of the salaries, as the bill proposes, the saving would be affected for the state as well as the individual counties affected.

[e938438] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion. Those in favor? Those opposed? The motion is carried.

[e938454] Mr. Baker: On line 23, after the word "state" I offer as an amendment the insertion of the following words: "elected at the same time." The purpose is to put the other officers on an equality with the governor and make their terms of office co-terminous.

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion.

[e938459] The motion prevailed.

[e938461] Mr. Ingraham: I notice that on the last line of page 5 concerning judges of the superior court the statement is made that they should hold office until their successors are elected and qualified. I would like to ask if the same provision ought not to be made as to supreme judges on line 15, page 3. Although we have passed section 3 and an amendment is out of order, it seems to me that we ought to make some qualification as to the supreme judges' term of office, unless the present provision is considered sufficient by the legal talent of the committee.

Mr. Webb: Unanimous consent will be given if that is necessary to be inserted; I would ask for unanimous consent.

[e938462] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection, we will revert to page 3 and insert the amendment of the gentleman, "and they shall hold office until their successors are elected and qualified" in line 15 on page 3.

[e938474] Mr. Hunt: I would suggest you amend section 5 by inserting the words "supreme court."

[e938478] Mr. Kingan: I do not think that sentence is intelligible the way it now reads.

Mr. Cunniff: I should suggest that it is a mere matter of English, and the committee on style, revision and compilation will amend that.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 336-337)

[e938481] [Editor's Note: Hunt's amendment was not discussed further.]

(Editorial)

[e938497] Mr. Franklin: I move you that the provisions of this bill as they are printed upon lines 13, 14, and 15 be adopted without any of the interlineal changes.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 337)

[e938501] Mr. Chairman: We have already adopted an amendment to this section.

[e938503] Mr. Chairman: [...] There was unanimous consent that we revert to this section 3. All in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Yuma will signify by the usual sign; contrary minded "no." The "ayes" have it, and the motion is carried.

[e938506] [Editor's Note: With the adoption of Ingraham's amendment, Section 3 was considered adopted as amended.]

(Editorial)

[e938508] Mr. Chairman: [...] Is there any further amendment to section 5? If not, it will be considered adopted.

[e938511] Mr. Chairman: [...] What is your pleasure with section 6?

[e938515] Mr. Cunningham: On line 16 after the word "misdemeanor" on page 6, should be inserted the word "not" to meet with the sense of the judiciary committee, to make it read "and other misdemeanors not provided for by law."

[e938533] Mr. Lynch: At the same time the word “The” on the last line of page 7 should be stricken out, and “their” be substituted.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

[Editor’s Note: It is unclear where this amendment was meant to be made.]

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 337)

[e938537] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The motion is carried.

[e938544] Mr. Chairman: [...] All in favor of the motion of the gentleman from Graham will signify by the usual sign; all opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it, and the motion is carried.

[e938550] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I would like to ask for information from some member of the committee. Refer to lines 10-14 on page 7. Is the meaning that a man has to be in custody or in jail before he can sue out the writ of prohibition or mandamus? That is what it says here.

Mr. Lynch: After the word “prohibition” should appear a comma, and then it would refer only to habeas corpus.

[e938553] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection, a comma will be introduced without formal action.

[e938555] [Editor’s note: Crutchfield’s recommendation to insert Proposition Number 140 in section 6 of substitute Proposition Number 82 suggests that Proposition Number 140 was before the Committee of the Whole. To show this, the editors have copied the proposition into the committee session.]

(Editorial)

[e938561] Mr. Crutchfield: I desire to amend the paragraph by adding between lines 2 and 3 on page 7, Proposition Number 140, relating to juvenile courts.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the amendment.

[e938564] Mr. Weinberger: While I am heartily in favor of establishing juvenile courts or laws pertaining to juveniles, I would state that the Session Laws of 1907 has a very elaborate system concerning this matter, which covers it fully. Of course this will be in force and effect when the constitution is adopted, but the same other laws, and it seems to me that for the sake of brevity it is unnecessary to insert this in the constitution.

Mr. Short: I desire to differ with the gentleman from Gila county in regard to this matter as to the provision in the statutes covering this juvenile proposition. It is covered by the statute, but I do not believe it is covered fully. It is left to the discretion of the court, while Proposition Number 140 makes it mandatory.

Mr. Cunniff: The constitution is not only a document which states boundaries, restrictions and limitations, it is also a declaration of policy and principle, and this thing ought to go in.

Mr. Kingan: I would call the attention of the gentleman from Maricopa to the advisability of inserting it at this place, for he will have the juvenile court sandwiched in between provisions relating to the superior courts, so this is not the proper place if you are going to insert it at all. Also, it will be contrary to section 1 already adopted, which provides that jurisdiction shall be vested in certain courts such as supreme and justice courts.

Mr. Crutchfield: I am perfectly willing to add the words "juvenile courts" in section 2.

337-338)

[e938570] Mr. Cunniff: I move a further amendment that this be inserted at the end of section 6.

[e938572] Mr. Crutchfield: That is acceptable; it is immaterial as to the place.

[e938573] Mr. Lynch: This would be repugnant to the other causes of the judiciary proposition, and for this reason I would suggest that the gentleman defer action on this, and bring it up at a separate time and put it in a separate clause covering it.

Mr. Crutchfield: I desire to protest. I am unwilling to leave out of our constitution the guaranty that our minor offenders should be tried in chambers, and I am unwilling to accept the assurance of the gentlemen that they will vote for it at some other time. I believe it belongs here, though its exact location makes no difference.

Mr. Doe: I am entirely in accord with the gentleman who wishes to establish the juvenile court, but I simply think there is a different way to accomplish it. At present everything that would be done by the juvenile court is done by the district courts in chambers, and I think the people are satisfied and the present system is working well. I know that every one of the judges at present in the matter of juvenile offenders conforms to the idea of this proposition.

Mr. Crutchfield: This may be true under the present excellent judiciary, but there might be a time when the judge would not do so unless it were made mandatory on him. I think it ought to be made mandatory on the judge.

[e938578] Mr. Ellinwood: I think there is some misapprehension here. I have given the matter a great deal of attention and I yield to none my loyalty to the position of the gentleman from Maricopa. The statute of 1907 was my handiwork, and I spent considerable time to have it enacted. It does not create a new court, but it imposes on the district court the jurisdiction of juvenile offenders. I will read the first paragraph. I think all that is necessary is to confer on the superior court the further power to exercise jurisdiction in juvenile proceedings. I will move you as an amendment to the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa, that on line 20 of page 6 there be added the words "the superior court shall also have and possess exclusive original jurisdiction in all proceedings which may be brought before them affecting the treatment and control of the dependent, neglected, incorrigible and delinquent children under the age of 16 years." I think 16 is young enough. Eighteen is too old. We have some desperate criminals over the age of 18.

Mr. Cunningham: I second the amendment.

(Editorial)

[e938579] Mr. Ellinwood: A great many statutes were taken into consideration when this was passed, and it is taken largely from Pennsylvania and Colorado.

[e938581] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the original motion that Proposition Number 140 be inserted at the end of section 6, and the further amendment of the gentleman from Cochise to adopt the provision of the Session Laws of 1907 in regard to juvenile courts. Those in favor of the amendment will signify by rising; those opposed, by the same sign. The "ayes" have 23, the "nays" 18. The motion is carried.

[e938584] Mr. Wells: The proposition has not been disposed of yet. I must say that the gentleman from Maricopa has been energetic in pressing this measure and he has been promised that when Proposition Number 82 came up for consideration, his proposition would be taken care of. Now, I am sure we all feel interested in this matter very much, and it if cannot be included in Proposition Number 82, let us have an independent proposition covering the proposition, but let us do it right.

Mr. Doe: I do not see how a proposition embodying the sentiments of the gentleman from Maricopa can possibly be incorporated in the constitution. Every citizen is guaranteed by the constitution of the United States the right of trial by jury.

Mr. Chairman: Proposition Number 140 is not before us. It is on the calendar and will come up later. We do not seem to be getting anywhere. Those in favor of the amendment will signify by saying "aye" as their names are called; those opposed "no."

Mr. Wells: May I ask a question? Does passing on this amendment interfere with further consideration of Proposition Number 140?

Mr. Chairman: Not at all. Proposition Number 140 is on the calendar of the committee of the whole.

Mr. Crutchfield: I should like to ask unanimous consent to have a roll call on each of these propositions, the original Number 140, and Mr. Ellinwood's amendment.

Mr. Colter: I would like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa if the effect of the Ellinwood amendment destroys his purpose?

Mr. Crutchfield: I think so.

Mr. Ellinwood: Not at all. It does not affect the matter.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 339)

[e938586] Roll call showed 7 “ayes” and 40 “nays.”

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 339)

[e938589] Mr. Roberts: I move a reconsideration of the Ellinwood amendment.

Mr. Wills: I second the motion.

[e938591] Mr. Lynch: I arise to a point of order. A reconsideration cannot take place until other business has been disposed of.

[e938592] Mr. Chairman: The chair is at a loss.

Mr. Webb: I would like to ask for information upon which side the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Roberts, voted?

Mr. Roberts: I voted “no.”

[e938593] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that the motion now before the house is the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Crutchfield.

[e938597] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that the motion now before the house is the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Crutchfield.

[e938607] Mr. Crutchfield moved to amend at the end of line twenty page six by inserting the following: “In addition to the powers above provided for the superior court shall have jurisdiction over juvenile offenders. No minor offender or delinquent child over the age of eighteen years shall be tried in the regular criminal court but all such cases shall be tried in chamber by the judge of said court.”

[e938609] Mr. Sims: Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment to the effect that the word “eighteen” be stricken out and the word “sixteen” be substituted.

Mr. Ellinwood: I second that motion.

[e938611] Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, does this take away the right of trial by jury?

Mr. Cunniff: No, but Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask if this amendment is on the original amendment? This original motion has already two amendments.

Mr. Crutchfield: A motion to substitute figures is not an original motion.

[e938615] Mr. Chairman: Does the gentleman from Maricopa accept that amendment offered by the gentleman from Yavapai?

Mr. Crutchfield: I will accept it if the convention will.

[e938622] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, to insert this matter after section 6.

Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, I do not like to go on record as voting against the juvenile bill, but I think I shall have to do so unless something is done so that I can understand it, and I should like to have something more clear submitted by the committee before I am compelled to vote.

[Editor's Note: The Committee was confused as to what amendment was under consideration at this point. Crutchfield's amendment to insert Proposition 140 after Section 6 of Substitute Proposition Number 82 had failed. Crutchfield had, however, moved a similar amendment to Ellinwood's amendment, and that, presumably, is the amendment the Chairman meant here.]

[e938642] [Editor's Note: This blank document has been created in order to mimic the process of the Committee of the Whole proposing and considering individual recommendations relating to Proposition Number 140.]

(Editorial)

[e938648] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move that this matter be referred to the Committee on Judiciary, so that they can sift it out and give us something that we can comprehend and understand to pass an intelligent vote.

Mr. Osborn: I second that motion.

[e938653] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that [the] proposition be re-referred to the judiciary committee—

Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order. The question is not on the juvenile court, I do not think that this committee can act upon the matter.

[e938655] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that it is well within the powers of this committee to act upon this question.

[e938656] Mr. Doe: I do not think the gentleman from Maricopa can accomplish the purpose of his amendment, and I think that the amendment is out of order in the discussion of the question before the committee.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I think the gentleman from Coconino is under a misapprehension. I think that the question and the amendment should be decided now, and that it is in its proper place.

[e938659] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I arise to a point of order. It has been ruled upon this floor that if the amendment is referred to a committee, it takes the whole proposition. If you refer this amendment to the committee you must send back the whole of Proposition Number 82.

340-341)

[e938662] [Editor's Note: The point of order was discussed no further.]

(Editorial)

[e938665] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of referring Proposition Number 140 and amendments thereto, to the Committee on Judiciary, will answer "aye;" those opposed—

Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I would like to hear some expressions from the judiciary committee. Some of the members of that committee refuse to reconsider the matter.

[e938668] Mr. Cunningham: I arise to a point of order. The question is one the amendment of Proposition Number 82. I think the Committee on Judiciary are all agreed on that matter, but I call for the question upon the amendment.

[e938670] [Editor's Note: The point of order was discussed no further.]

(Editorial)

[e938671] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the amendment to the effect that the question be referred to the committee on legislation.

[e938675] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the amendment to the amendment that the proposition be referred to the legislative committee. Those in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The motion is carried, it is so ordered.

[e938677] [Editor's Note: When the Committee made a final decision on their recommendation the report was implicitly adopted.]

(Editorial)

[e938682] [Editor's Note: The Committee's report was referred to the Convention.]

(Editorial)

[e938684] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee do now arise and report progress.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e938691] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the amendment to the amendment that the proposition be referred to the legislative committee. Those in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The motion is carried, it is so ordered.

32.18 Tuesday, 15 November 1910, at 09:30 (s16096)

[e938345] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen of the committee, we have before us Substitute Proposition Number 82. Discussion is in order on Section 6.

[e938696] Mr. Winsor: I move that section 6 be approved as amended.

[e938697] Mr. Chairman: A motion is not necessary. It will stand approved as amended.

[e938700] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Before we pass section 6, Mr. Chairman, in line 16 and 17, it speaks of forcible entry and detainer by giving the superior court jurisdiction over such cases. I would like to ask some of the attorneys if that phrase covers unlawful or wrongful detainer, and if it is their desire to give the superior court jurisdiction over unlawful or wrongful detainer. I am told that an action in forcible entry and detainer is rather uncommon, but that an action in unlawful detainer is a common cause, and it very often involves property where the rental rate is nominal. The reason I ask that question is because I have had some experience in the courts of Arizona, trying to get action under this forcible entry and detainer. The justice of the peace did not know whether he had jurisdiction or not and the superior court does not want it because the amount is so small. It seems to me that the question of unlawful detainer, such as a tenant holding property after his rights are exhausted, should properly come with the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace. Otherwise, you might have a case where a man having possession of property in Parker would force those witnesses to go to Yuma, 350 miles, to retain possession of the property, where the amount involved in rental was nominal.

Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman of the bar elucidate to the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Jones?

Mr. Lynch: I would suggest to the gentleman from Maricopa that the fact that the superior court is given jurisdiction in actions of forcible entry and detainer does not exclude the justice court from having that same jurisdiction. The jurisdiction here given is not exclusive.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): That is just the question I wanted to bring up, because that shows that this proposition is susceptible of some amendment because the justice court disclaimed jurisdiction, and was upheld by the superior court in that case I have in mind, and the result was where the amount involved was only $40.00 the loss sustained by the plaintiff amounted to $1,000.

Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa if there was not a title involved, and if that was the reason the justice of the peace could not exercise jurisdiction.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): There was no title involved. It was a question of possession of property that was retained by a tenant who declined to give up the premises. It was retained purely to eliminate competition and keep another man from going into business in the town. If there was ever a miscarriage of justice it was in that case. As I understand it the purpose of this proposition is to clear up matters of that kind. All the attorneys I talked with differed about it. They claimed there should be some provision to cover a wrongful detainer, and if you read the provision as here made applicable to justices of the peace you will see that they have no provision, such as the gentleman from Graham suggested, but that they are not given jurisdiction over cases on which the superior court has jurisdiction. Cannot we have some of the attorneys here give an explanation of that? It is not a proposition of criticizing this unnecessarily –

Mr. Doe: Our statutes fully cover this question.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): That is quite true, but does [the] statute provide for unlawful or wrongful detainer? Who has jurisdiction?

Mr. Doe: The justice of the peace has present jurisdiction.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): There is a question we have before us right now. The justice of the peace claimed he did not have jurisdiction and the judge claimed he did not have jurisdiction.

Mr. Cunningham: I do not think we should take up the time of this convention discussion some legal question that has been interesting some member of this convention. This matter is clear enough here. It seems perfectly well stated and simply because some question of law has theretofore been troubling some member, I do not think they should take up the time of the convention in arguing these questions.

Mr. Chairman: The chair will decide that being no motion to amend –

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I make a motion to amend.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion. We are trying to agree intelligently, in the light and in the open.

Mr. Chairman: You had better wait until we get the motion, Mr. Cunniff.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 343-344)

[e938702] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move you, Mr. Chairman, that we substitute in this proposition, line 5, 6, and 7, as it appears in Proposition Number 69, on page 6. I would like to say something in answer to the gentleman from Cochise. I am not bring up these questions because I was interested in the case. I was not interested in this particular case. I merely followed the case to have some knowledge of it. I have never been interested in a law suit at any time, but I have been told by lawyers that this proposition here, Number 82, as it originally stood is a proposition to encourage litigation, and that is not what the laymen of this territory want.

Mr. Chairman: Mr. Jones you move to insert just what lines?

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Proposition Number 69. I will make this motion and when we discuss the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace I will make another motion to insert this in that place. I will make a motion in connection with section 6, that we are discussing, striking out in lines 16 and 17 the words, "of actions of forcible entry and detainer." Section 6, page 6 of the proposition we are discussing.

Mr. Chairman: Is there a second to that motion?

Mr. Cunniff: I second that motion.

[e938705] Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I think this matter is well covered by the statute, and I will read it for the information of the gentleman from Maricopa:

"2668. (Section 1) If any person shall make en entry into any lands, tenements or other real property, except in cases where entry is given by law, or shall make such entry by force, or if any person shall willfully and without force hold over any lands, tenements, or other real property after the termination of the time for which such lands, tenements or other real property where let to him, or to the person under whom he claims. [sic ,] after demand made, in writing, for the possession thereof, by the person or persons entitled to such possession, such person shall be adjudged guilty of forcible entry and detainer, or of forcible detainer, as the case may be," and another section states:

"2673. (Section 5) Any justice of the peace of the precinct where the property is situated, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine any case arising under this title. If there be no justice of the peace within the precinct, then the nearest justice of the peace shall have jurisdiction."

Mr. Ingraham: I beg to point out to the convention that section 9 of the proposition we are now considering repeals that statute.

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, if you carry the motion, here is the result. You have case of forcible detainer where a man has occupied property, whose rental value was \ $5.00; he keeps it for three months. He cannot get recourse.

Mr. Franklin: I know it is a very well defined idea among a great many people that lawyers like to encourage litigation. Now, that is a thought that we want to discourage. As every lawyer knows, who is worthy of the name, lawyers strive to have the law made plain, and a lawyer is only successful, and he only has clients, who has good clients, when he is capable of telling them what the law is. I hope this amendment will not prevail, for there seems to be a transportation of terms. It involves it in great obscurity and I dare say if this amendment is adopted the lawyers for a period of five years after this constitution is adopted will be litigating over this very point. Every lawyer knows what forcible entry and detainer is, and when the time comes he can explain what the remedy is. I hope, gentlemen, that you will not inject that into this constitution. When you say "or wrongful or unlawful," that makes it obscure in my opinion.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? The amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa to strike out on lines 16 and 17 the words "of actions of forcible entry and detainer."

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Before you put that I would like to say it is my intention to provide for that in the justice courts.

Mr. Ingraham: This is the point that I raise in the committee and it involves this feature. For instance, in Yuma county, we have large districts on the A. & C. Railway, in the northern part of the county. Persons who come to the county seat have to come through Phoenix in a round about course. Now, we will suppose that a man has a little $5.00 shack, and some poor family gets into that shack. He cannot get them out without going to Yuma, and bringing suit into the superior court. This proposition destroys the jurisdiction of the justice court to try such little cases as that. If the present laws were in force he could go before the justice in his own town and settle the matter. The matter would be settled right there at home, but with this amendment which wipes out the present statute, he must go to the county seat, to litigate that little matter. It is not right. The reasons why I say that the present statute is repealed are these: The jurisdiction of the justice courts –

Mr. Kingan: May I ask the gentleman from Yuma a question. Please refer to section 6.

Mr. Ingraham: I was just going to say that section 6 repeals the present statute.

Mr. Kingan: Section 6, line 10, "These superior courts shall have original jurisdiction." What does that mean?

Mr. Ingraham: It means that the superior court shall have original jurisdiction, but some other court may also have original jurisdiction.

Mr. Kingan: May that not be the justice court?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes. In section 9, the justice courts are discussed. In line 2, on page 8, relating to the justice court, the statement is made that "the powers, duties and jurisdiction of justice of the peace, shall be determined by law, provided that such jurisdiction of any court of record, and provided that justices of the peace may be made police justices of incorporated cities and towns." Now, my contention is that that covers the whole field of justice court jurisdiction. It must wipe out the present statutes, and they have no jurisdiction until the powers, duties and jurisdiction shall be determined by law. It is certainly conclusive that the statute has been repealed.

Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to ask a question. Would it not serve the purpose better when we reach section 9 to confer concurrent jurisdiction upon the justices of the peace?

Mr. Ingraham: That would be a proper solution.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 345-346)

[e938706] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I withdraw the motion with the consent of my second.

[e938710] Mr. Chairman: Section 6 is passed without further comment.

[e938711] Mr. Chairman: Section 6 is passed without further comment.

[e938708] Mr. Chairman: Section 6 is passed without further comment.

[e938350] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 7 is next.

[e938351] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 7 is next. Any objections to paragraph 7? It is approved.

[e938353] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 8 is next, are there any objections?

[e938355] Mr. Weinberger: I move to amend that section by striking out the word "sixty," and substituting therefore the word "ninety."

Mr. Coker: I second the amendment.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages
346-347)

[e938360] Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded to strike out the word "sixty" where it occurs in line 21, and substitute therefore the word "ninety."

Mr. Connelly: I would amend by striking out the word "sixty" and put in the word "thirty."

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

Mr. Chairman: You have heard the two amendment. Those in favor of the amendment inserting the word "thirty" in lieu of the word "sixty" will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no," as the roll is called.

[e938362] Mr. Connelly: Mr reason for asking for the insertion of the word "thirty" instead of "sixty" is that the time may be extended by the governor. If you put ninety days in then he can go for ninety days, then come back for a day or two and go again for ninety days. I think thirty days is enough, and if he wants it extended the governor can extend it for him.

Mr. Doe: I do know that no supreme court judge would remain in Phoenix for the summer. I think very few people who can get away stay here during the hottest months of the year and I see no reason why they should not leave for a trip somewhere if they wish. They could stay at home and neglect their duties if they wanted to, but I do not think that you will elect a man who will be so regardless of any sense of duty that he will neglect his duty. I think it is absurd to suppose that kind of a man will be elected.

[e938366] Mr. Connelly moved to amend by striking out in line twenty-one, page seven the word 'sixty' and inserting in lieu thereof the word 'thirty'. Lost by the following vote:

Ayes—Bolan, Cassidy, Connelly, Cunniff, Feeney, Ingraham, Jones, A. M., Jones, F. A., Kinney, Moeur, Moore, Morgan, Orme, Osborn, Scott, Short, Sims, R. B., Winsor, Wood. Mr. President. Total 20.

Nays—Baker, Bradner, Cobb, Coker, Colter, Cooper, Crutchfield, Cunningham, Curtis, Doe, Ellinwood, Franklin, Goldwater, Hutchinson, Keegan, Kingan, Langdon, Lovin, Lynch, Parsons, Simms, Mit., Standage, Tovrea, Tuthill, Webb. Weinberger, White, Wells, Wills. Total 29.

Absent—Pusch, Roberts.

Excused—Jacome.

(The Minutes of the Arizona Constitutional Convention, Page 177)

[e938370] Mr. Chairman: Amendment is lost. those in favor of the original amendment to substitute the word "ninety" in place of the word "sixty" signify by saying "aye." The motion is lost.

[e938372] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any further amendments to section 8? If there is nothing further the section will be considered passed. It is passed.

[e938376] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 9.

[e938384] Mr. Ellinwood: I move to insert at the end of line 5, page 8, after the word "towns" the following: "And provided further that justices of the peace shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the superior court in cases of forcible entry and detainer."

[e938387] Mr. Weinberger: Regardless of the amount in controversy?

Mr. Ellinwood: Sure.

Mr. Weinberger: The amount in controversy may be \ $500.00, and the justice of the peace can have no jurisdiction.

Mr. Ellinwood: You can have the amount in there, if you wish.

[e938393] Mr. Lynch moved, seconded by Mr. Jones of Maricopa, to amend by inserting in line four, page eight after the word "record" the following: "except that said justices shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the superior court in cases of forcible entry and detainer, where the rental value does not exceed twenty-five dollars per month, and where the whole amount of damages claimed does not exceed two hundred dollars."

(The Minutes of the Arizona Constitutional Convention, Page 177)

[e938395] Mr. Ellinwood: That is what I have added and I accept that clause.

Mr. Chairman: Will you send that up in writing?

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the amendment, Mr. Chairman.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 348)

[e938399] Mr. Wood: Mr. Chairman, I move to further amend the amendment by making "25.00 per month" read "100.00 per month."

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 348)

[e938403] Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman from Graham care to accept that amendment?

Mr. Lynch: I will certainly not accept that amendment.

Mr. Wood: I am introducing that amendment for the \ $100.00 but the total can be limited to \ $200.00 and cover cover [sic, over] a period of two months at \ $100 each or runs for five months, at \ $100, he is entitled to the jurisdiction of the district court.

Mr. Lynch: I will accept the amendment at \ $50.00 per month.

Mr. Wood: I insist on \ $100.00.

Mr. Lynch: Allow me to call the attention of the convention to what \ $100.00 means. It simply means that if the rental value is \ $100.00, that regardless of any jurisdiction or amount the case can be brought in the district court. No man is going to sue another man until the house has been occupied at least one, two or three months. The result might be that a man might have to recover at \ $100.00 and it might be six months before a suit could be brought. The justice court gets jurisdiction together with damages. I think \ $25.00 is ample.

Mr. Cunningham: I would like to ask the gentleman from Graham a question. If this proposition carries does it limit the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace to \ $200.00?

Mr. Lynch: It does Mr. Chairman. It not only places limits, but it gives the justice court jurisdiction.

Mr. Cunningham: I do not so read the amendment.

Mr. Kingan: My only object in speaking again is that I firmly believe that the section as it now reads in this proposal is entirely clear and satisfactory and that by adding amendment to it simply muddles it and makes it unintelligible. The district court by section 6 is given original jurisdiction in certain matters, and among others there are forcible or unlawful entry and detainer. That means that the court has original jurisdiction and that the action may be stated there. Section 9 says "the number of justices to be elected in incorporated cities, towns and precincts, and powers, duties, etc."

Now, if the justice court be given jurisdiction in forcible entry and detainer, that certainly does encroach upon the original jurisdiction of the district court. The same is true of misdemeanors, if the constitution be given that the justice court could not try a misdemeanor, because the district court be given original jurisdiction. State courts have original jurisdiction. It is not contended for a moment that either encroaches upon the jurisdiction of that other. It simply means they have original jurisdiction. The sections do not contradict each other. Doubtless the legislature when it deals with this matter will do the same thing again. It seems to me we are encumbering this act by these amendments. It is not contradictory in the least.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Lynch: I simply accepted this amendment for the reason that I did not see that there was anything gained by trying to stir up strife between the lawyers here.

[e938406] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the two amendments. Those in favor of that of the gentleman from Yavapai to insert the words "one hundred dollars" in lieu of the words "twenty-five dollars" in the original amendment, will answer "aye," those opposed answer "no." The chair will rule that the nays have it.

[e938414] Amendment of Mr. Lynch carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Bolan, Bradner, Cassidy, Coker, Colter, Connelly, Crutchfield, Cunningham, Curtis, Ellinwood, Feeney, Ingraham, Jones, F.A., Keegan, Kinney, Lovin, Moeur, Morgan, Parsons, Scott, Short, Sims, R.B., Simms, Mit, Wells, Wills, Winsor, Mr. President. Total 27.

Nays—Baker, Cobb, Cooper, Cunniff, Doe, Franklin, Goldwater, Hutchinson, Jones, A.M., Kingan, Langdon, Lynch, Moore, Orme, Osborn, Pusch, Standage, Tuthill, Webb, Weinberger, White, Wood. Total 22.

Absent—Roberts, Tovrea.

Excused—Jacome.

[Editor's Note: Though the Minutes says this vote was on Lynch's amendment, it was on Ellinwood's amendment as amended by Lynch.]

(The Minutes of the Arizona Constitutional Convention, Pages 177-178)

[e938416] Mr. Cunniff: On page 8, I move that lines 6, 7 and 8 be stricken out.
Mr. Franklin: I second the motion.

[e938419] Mr. Cunniff: The other day we passed a proposition to Substitute Number 62 reading as follows: "All state and county officers, except notaries public and all justices of the peace shall be paid fixed and definite salaries and they shall receive no fees for their own use;" therefore it is unnecessary to put this clause here.

[e938422] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment to strike out all of lines 6, 7 and 8, signify by the usual sign. Carried.

[e938423] Mr. Feeney: It says in here "provided that justices of the peace may be police justices of incorporated towns and cities and their jurisdiction will be determined by law." Does that mean that the present law that now exists would apply. I would like to know.

Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I would say that the same laws apply now that would apply—

Mr. Feeney: To deny the right of trial by jury. Yesterday we were very anxious that minors should be tried by jury, and I believe now is the time to provide that police justices shall try by jury.

[e938427] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I move that in line 3, page 8, before the word "jurisdiction" where it last occurs in that line, the word "exclusive" be inserted, so that it shall read "shall not infringe upon the exclusive jurisdiction of any court of record."

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second that motion.

[e938430] Mr. Parsons: It seems to me that amendment as proposed would be unique at least. If the jurisdiction is exclusive, as stated, how are you going to make it more than that? I think "exclusive" is as nearly superlative as you can have. If it is exclusive, that settles it without any further amendment. You cannot trench upon it, if the word means what Webster defines it to mean. I therefore think the amendment is entirely useless.

[e938432] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment to insert the word "exclusive" before the last word on line 3 will signify by saying "aye;" contrary minded "no." The chair is in doubt. Those in favor will signify by rising. Those opposed by a similar sign. The "ayes" have 17, the "nays" 28. The motion is lost.

[e938433] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any further corrections to this section? If not, it will be considered as passed. It is passed.

[e938435] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 10 is next.

[e938441] Mr. Wells moved to amend section 10, line seventeen, page eight by inserting after the word "Pima" the word "Yavapai;" line eighteen strike out the letter "s" at the end of the word "judges" and after the word "of" insert the word "the"; line nineteen strike out the letter "s" in the word "courts", change the word "counties" to "county" strike out the words "and Yavapai" and the word "each"

[e938445] Mr. Moeur: I move to amend by changing the salaries of the supreme court judges from \ $7,000 to \ $5,000. I think the salaries are too high.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e938447] Mr. Cunniff: [...] May I ask my colleague to defer his motion until we have attended to some other matters, and then we can take it up.

Mr. Wells: Certainly.

[e938449] Mr. Ingraham: I move you an amendment to read \ $6,000.

Mr. Parsons: I second the amendment.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that it be amended to read \ $5,000 instead of \ $7,000, and further amended to read \ $6,000.

[e938451] Mr. Moeur: I accept the amendment of \ $6,000.

Mr. Cunniff: I will not accept the withdrawal. As I moved the motion, it will have to stand.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question on the \ $6,000 amendment?

Mr. Franklin: I rise to a question of information. When there are two amendments involved, under the rules do we vote on the lesser amount first?

Mr. Winsor: That is only where you are filling blanks.

Mr. Chairman: I think we are not filling blanks. As I remember the rule, it refers to filling blanks only. The chair will so rule.

Mr. Ingraham: I would like to hear the opinion of attorneys who have had more experience than some of us. It seems to me an important matter.

Mr. Moeur: I think those men who expect to draw the salaries would naturally ask for larger salaries.

Mr. Feeney: I am not an attorney, but I disapprove of cutting wages.

Mr. Cunniff: Of course, one reason for fixing good salaries is to get good men. In view of the committee bringing in a report that the governor shall receive \ $5,000, it seems there is no reason why a judge should get \ $2,000 more. The sacrifices a supreme court judge would have to make are not more than those of the governor, nor does he have to work more steadily and persistently than the governor would have to work. It being the opinion of the executive committee that \$5,000 is a satisfactory salary for the governor, I hope the convention will so decide, as I see no reason why the supreme court judges should get more.

Mr. Parsons: When this matter was discussed in the committee, I advocated fixing the salary at \$6,000. I do not believe that in starting the new state we want to make it top heavy by making salaries too large, but I believe it will be false economy to make the salaries of the court of last resort too small to secure the best class of talent and ability. I do not believe there is an attorney present who will disagree with this proposition, that any man who is really competent to grace the supreme bench of Arizona will make a sacrifice if he accepts the position at even \$10,000, but I believe there are men of eminent ability who, for the honor connected with it, for the congenial class of employment, would accept it for \$6,000, and I believe the people would be satisfied to pay \$6,000, but if we go above that they will say we have been too generous with somebody else's money; and therefore I favor fixing it at \$6,000.

Mr. Cunniff: I want to point out a slight indelicacy in these proceedings. Usually in legislative bodies a rule prevails that members of the body shall not raise the salary of any office that shall be subsequently held by any of them. You recall the difficulty Secretary Root got into by accepting an office, the salary of which was raised by a body of which he was a member. With some ten or twelve future supreme judges on the judiciary committee, it is difficult for us to pass upon this.

Mr. Lynch: We can more readily appreciate the remarks of the gentleman when we know that the executive committee, with possibly 12 or 13 aspirants for the governorship, fixed the salary at \$5,000.

[e938457] Mr. Ingraham moved to amend line sixteen, page eight to strike out the word "seven" and insert in lieu thereof the word "six"; carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Baker, Cassidy, Colter, Crutchfield, Cunniff, Franklin, Goldwater, Ingraham, Jones, F.A., Keegan, Kinney, Lovin, Moeur, Moore, Morgan, Orme, Osborn, Parsons, Scott, Simms, MIt, Standage, Tovrea, Webb, Weinberger, Wills, Wood, Mr. President. Total 27.

Nays—Bolan, Bradner, Cobb, Coker, Connelly, Cooper, Cunningham Curtis, Doe, Ellinwood, Feeney, Hutchinson, Jones, A.M., Kingan, Langdon, Lynch, Pusch, Short, Sims, R.B., Tuthill, White, Wells, Winsor. Total 23.

Absent—Roberts.

Excused—Jacome.

[e938460] Mr. Ellinwood: As I understand it, section 10 is amended to read \$6,000. Is it subject to a further amendment, as I move you to amend it to read \$6,500.

Mr. Bolan: I second that motion.

[e938465] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): There are a great many here who would like to see the \$5,000 question voted on. If that is possible, I move an amendment to the amendment that will read \$5,000.

[e938467] Mr. Kingan: You have the anomaly of an amendment to an amendment reading just like the original motion.

Mr. Cunniff: As I understand it, we have the motion of the gentleman from Cochise to amend to \$6,500, and

Mr. Jones of Maricopa has offered an amendment that the words \$5,000 be put in place of \$6,500. That is only the original motion, and two amendments.

Mr. Weinberger: I hope this committee votes this down for the reason it is for the interest of everyone in Arizona that we have competent talent on the Arizona bench, and we all know you cannot get good talent for \$5,000. It will be a sacrifice to accept it even at \$6,000 or \$7,000. New Mexico has recently voted to make their salaries \$6,000.

Mr. Wills: I recently voted for \$6,000, but I am going to vote to put it up at \$7,000.

Mr. Chairman: The chair is in doubt whether Mr. Jones' amendment is a second or a third amendment.

Mr. Lynch: The original motion before the house is a motion for the adoption of \$7,000, appearing in the printed bill. It is amended now by motion to \$6,000 and a further amendment by motion to \$6,500. Now they want to amend it to \$5,000.

Mr. Cunniff: I submit there was no motion for the \$7,000.

[e938475] Mr. Chairman: We will first pass on Mr. Ellinwood's amendment, and then you can move to make it \$5,000 afterwards.

[e938471] Mr. Ellinwood moved to amend by inserting in line sixteen, page eight the words "six thousand five hundred" in lieu of the words "six." Amendment lost by the following vote.

Ayes—Baker, Bolan, Bradner, Cobb, Coker, Cooper, Cunningham, Curtis, Doe, Ellinwood, Feeney, Franklin, Hutchinson, Inraham, Kingan, Langdon, Lynch, Osborn, Pusch, Short, Tuthill, White, Wells, Wills, Winsor. Total 25.

Nays—Cassidy, Colter, Connelly, Crutchfield, Cunniff, Goldwater, Jones, A. M., Jones, F. A., Keegan, Kinney, Lovin, Moeur, Moore, Morgan, Orme, Parsons, Scott, Sims, R. B., Simms, Mit, Standage, Tovrea, Webb, Weinberger, Wood, Mr. President. Total 25.

Absent—Roberts.

Excused—Jacome.

(The Minutes of the Arizona Constitutional Convention, Pages 178-179)

[e938482] Mr. Cunniff: I move this provision be amended to read \$5,000.

[e938483] Mr. Feeney: I object to the reduction of wages, of judges. We do not want them to be paid on the side by corporations.

Mr. Cunniff: We are not reducing; we are fixing the scale.

[e938488] Mr. Cunniff moved to amend line, sixteen, page eight by inserting the word "five" in lieu of the word "six"; lost by the following vote:

Ayes—Cassidy, Connelly, Cunniff, Jones, A. M., Jones, F. A., Moeur, Moore, Morgan, Wood. Total 9.

Nays—Baker, Bolan, Bradner, Cobb, Coker, Colter, Cooper, Crutchfield, Cunningham, Curtis, Doe, Ellinwood, Feeney, Franklin, Goldwater, Hutchinson, Ingraham, Keegan, Kingan, Kinney, Langdon, Lovin, Lynch, Orme, Osborn, Parsons, Pusch, Scott, Short, Sims, R. B., Simms, Mit, Standage, Tovrea, Tuthill, Webb, Weinberger, White, Wells, Wills, Winsor, Mr. President. Total 41.

Absent—Roberts.

Excused—Jacome.

[e938491] Mr. Chairman: [...] The question now before the committee is the final adoption of the motion with the words \ $6,000. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" contrary minded "no." The motion is carried.

[Editor's Note: This vote is on Moeur's amendment (for \ $5000) as amended by Ellinwood (for \ $6000).]

[e938494] Mr. Wood: I move to amend section 10, making the sentence commencing on line 13 as follows: "The salary of each of the supreme court judges shall be paid by the county or counties for which he is elected."

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

[e938496] Mr. Wood: The reason for doing this is that under the present wording it forces the larger counties to pay the salaries of the judges in the other counties, and I do not believe any county will be the recipient of charity.

Mr. Cunniff: It seems to me it was brought out in the debate yesterday that the superior court system was satisfactory to the southern counties in the territory, and not satisfactory to the northern counties, and it also brought out that we should meet in a spirit of accommodation in regard to having a system satisfactory to the northern and southern counties. We made an amendment that the counties of Coconino, Apache and Navajo were to be combined, and if this is satisfactory to the small counties it seems to me a satisfactory solution of the matter.

Mr. Lynch: Just a word. The system is identical with that of California and Washington. The purpose is that the superior judge is a state officer and he can be taken away from his office to another district, and it was for the purpose of equalizing the degree of taxation in proportion to the amount of work in each county. I think it is a good provision, and ought to stand.

Mr. Orme: I am heartily in favor of this amendment. A few of the counties pay a very heavy expense in supporting the government. This county (Maricopa) is assessed at \ $18,000,000 and Cochise at about \ $19,000,000; and Yavapai almost as large. I would like to know why we should be compelled to pay for the court in these smaller counties. If one-half of the cost is to be paid by the state, it would cost this county \ $3,000 more a year at least than if the one-half was paid by the counties.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): It is the smaller counties which want courts of their own, and they should be willing to pay for it.

Mr. Cunniff: The gentleman says that this is in force in Washington and California. The same thing was said concerning Oregon a day or two ago. We are not making a constitution for Oregon, Washington, or California, and if this is satisfactory to the smaller counties and they are willing to pay for it, that is all that is required.

Mr. Colter: We threw three counties together yesterday for the purpose of economy. I see no reason why the state should not pay one-half of the salaries, if they do state work.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 352-353)

[e938510] Mr. Parsons: They will be state officers. In Nebraska we have fifteen districts composed of a number of counties, but the salaries of the district judge are paid the same as the salary of state officers, and the counties are not saddled with even one-half of it. The property in the state pays the expense of the state officers. The gentleman from Maricopa says we are saddled with a very heavy tax because we have a large assessment of property. Any time Maricopa wants to unload I think Mohave will be willing to take it and pay taxes on it. I believe the taxes in the state should pay the expenses of state officers, and I offer an amendment that the salaries of the superior judges be paid by the state.

Mr. Short: I second the amendment.

[e938514] Mr. Parsons moved to amend by inserting the following in lieu of the sentence on lines thirteen, fourteen, and fifteen, page eight,: "The salary of each of the superior court judges shall be paid by the state." Carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Cobb, Coker, Colter, Connelly, Cooper, Curtis, Does, Feeney, Hutchinson, Ingraham, Kingan, Kinney, Lovin, Lynch, Morgan, Parsons, Pusch, Scott, Short, Sims, R. B., Simms, Mit, Tuthill, Webb, White, Wells, Wills, Mr. President. Total 27.

Nays—Baker, Bolan, Bradner, Cassidy, Crutchfield, Cunniff, Cunningham, Ellinwood, Franklin, Goldwater, Jones, A. M., Jones, F. A., Keegan, Langdon, Moeur, Moore, Orme, Osborn, Standage, Tovrea, Weinberger, Winsor, Wood. Total 23.

Excused—Jacome.

Absent—Roberts.

[e938519] Mr. Doe: The members of the convention from the three northern counties, Apache, Coconino and Navajo, after correspondence with the leading taxpayers, are unanimously of the opinion that a savings may be effected to the territory and better service be secured in these counties by making such amendments as may be necessary to combine the three counties with one judge instead of two, and instead of paying the two judges \ $7,500, that we pay one judge \ $5,000; and in view of the fact that he will have to be traveling about two-thirds of his time and therefore incur a great expense, he should be paid his necessary traveling expenses, placing him in the same position as the judges in the superior courts for one county. The expenses would certainly be less than \ $500 and this would effect a saving to the state of \ $2,000 or the difference between \ $7,500 and \ $5,500. And I might further add that it is inadvisable to put the compensation so low that owing to conditions in those counties it would be impossible to get anybody that would be at all satisfactory. I move, therefore, that on line 23, page 8, insert "Coconino" after the words "counties of" and substitute the word "five" for "four" on line 24, same page. After the words "per annum" insert "and his necessary traveling expenses including board and lodging while absent from the county of his residence while in the discharge of his official duties in such county," and insert in line 1, page 9 after the word "county" the words "and all his traveling expenses allowed by law."

[e938523] Mr. Parsons: I desire to ask the gentleman from Coconino a question. Do you want to include in that also to strike out the word "Coconino" on the same page, line 21?

[e938525] Mr. Doe: That is my intention. I accept the amendment[.]

[e938860] Mr. Doe: That is my intention. I accept the amendment; I further move that there be stricken out the words commencing with the words "in case" on line 24 of page 8, and running to the end of that section.

[Editor's Note: The Committee later reconsider this amendment, therefore it has been modelled as its own amendment to prevent errors.]

[e938536] Mr. Crutchfield: I believe a good deal of time would be saved if the section were recommitted, inasmuch as the entire system is changed and it would require so much change we could hardly do it in open session.

Mr. Coker: If this is going to be recommitted, I would suggest that this be recommitted and that the salaries be not fixed arbitrarily as now fixed. That is when the smaller counties develop and increase, the salaries of the judges should be made to increase automatically in the proportion in which the smaller counties develop.

Mr. Chairman: There is no motion before the house except the amendment offered by the gentleman from Coconino.

[e938542] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I offer an amendment to the amendment, to strike out all words beginning in line 16, "The judge of" and strike out the balance of the paragraph, and substitute this: "Salaries of the superior court shall be fixed by law, provided the judges first salary shall date from the time they qualify for office." My purpose is that I believe the question of salary is for the legislature, and we should not go into it but should give an opportunity for the legislature to fix the salaries as the people want them.

[e938546] Mr. Short: In case that amendment should prevail, I should like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa what arrangement should be made for paying and fixing salaries until such time as the legislature takes action.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): That is provided for in the bill.

Mr. Cunningham: The amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa is not in order, as we have already have an amendment before us, and upon a different matter entirely from the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa.

Mr. Chairman: The question is upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa.

[e938549] Mr. Doe: The gentleman can make his amendment just as well after my amendment is disposed of, and I would ask him to withdraw it until my motion is disposed of.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I agree to that.

[e938552] Mr. Chairman: The question is upon the amendment of the gentleman from Coconino. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Weinberger: I want to offer an amendment of only three or four words. I want to insert "until otherwise provided by law."

[e938554] Mr. Chairman: That amendment has absolutely nothing to do with the provision of the judges for these three counties.

Mr. Weinberger: I will wait until later.

[e938904] [Editor's Note: Doe's secondary amendment is implicitly accepted when his original amendment is passed.]

(Editorial)

[e938556] Mr. Doe moved to amend line twenty-three, page eight by inserting the word "Coconino" after the words "counties of"; line twenty-four by striking out the word "four" and inserting the word "five"; line twenty-four by inserting after the word "annum" the words "and his necessary traveling expenses including board and lodging while absent from the county of his residence in the discharge of his official duties within said counties"; in line twenty-one strike out the word "Coconino" and in line twenty-four beginning with the words "In case" strike out the remainder of section 10; carried.

[e938928] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I offer the following amendment: Beginning on line 16 commencing with the words "The judges of" the balance of that paragraph is stricken out, and in its place is introduced the following: "The salary of superior judges shall be fixed by law provided the salaries of judges first elected shall date from the time they qualify for office."

[e938932] Mr. Weinberger: I believe that will leave the judges without any salary, at least those who are first put on the bench. If the gentleman will accept the amendment I had in mind a little while ago, the legislature will have the right to provide for them. On line 16 insert these words "until otherwise provided by law," after the word "dollars."

Mr. Short: I second the amendment of the gentleman from Gila.

[e938933] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I accept the amendment.

[Editor's Note: By accepting Weinberger's amendment, Jones effectively withdrew his own.]

[e939451] Mr. Coker: I wish to offer an amendment to the amendment. On line 24 insert these words "but in no case shall the salaries of the superior judge be fixed at an amount less than herein named."

[e938602] Mr. Goldwater: I submit that this is not an amendment, it is a separate proposition Mr. Chairman.

[e938604] Mr. Chairman: The motion of the gentleman from Pinal is in order.

[e939458] [Editor's Note: By asking for a division of the question, Winsor was asking that Coker's amendment be proposed separately from Weinberger's original amendment. In order to achieve this, Coker's amendment must be dropped and added separately in the model.]

[e938628] [Editor's Note: By asking for a division of the question, Winsor was asking that Coker's amendment be proposed separately from Weinberger's original amendment. In order to achieve this, Coker's amendment must be dropped and added separately in the model.]

(Editorial)

[e938952] Mr. Chairman: The question comes upon the amendment of the gentleman from Gila.

Mr. Franklin: Now, I hope this amendment will not prevail, for this reason: We had a long discussion of the subject in the judiciary committee, and we discussed the matter of the non-partisanship of judges and we have tried as best we could to take the judges out of politics. If the salaries are left to the legislature, the judges—as human nature is frail—will be continually trying to get their salaries raised or prevent their being lowered. We want to place them out of politics. I do not think they ought to be subject to the legislature at all.

Mr. Weinberger: As Maricopa County has a population of over 34,000, and Gila 16,000 and Yavapai 15,000, suppose that Gila or Yavapai county should be fortunate enough to have an increase to 30,000 or 34,000, it would be unjust on those counties to pay their judges $4,000 and the other judges $5,000 as provided by this action at the present time, and the idea is this, that the legislature will probably arrange some schedule according to population upon which to base the salaries of the judges.

Mr. Moeur: I believe it is just as impossible to keep these judges out of politics, as to get them into Heaven.

Mr. Wells: In the shuffle, I do not want you to lose sight of my amendment. I want it understood that Yavapai county wants a judgeship at $5,000 and when the time arrives I want to make that motion.

[e939489] Mr. Chairman: The question before the house is on the substitution or insertion—the amendment of the gentleman from Gila. Those in favor will signify by the usual sign; opposed "no." The "ayes" have it...

[e938634] Carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Baker, Bolan, Bradner, Coker, Colter, Cooper, Cunningham, Curtis, Doe, Ellinwood, Feeney, Hutchinson, Keegan, Kingan, Langdon, Lovin, Lynch, Morgan, Osborn, Parsons, Pusch, Scott, Simms, Mit., Tuthill, Weinberger, White, Wells, Wills, Mr. President. Total 29.

[e938637] Mr. Short: I move we arise and report progress.

Mr. Lovin: I second the motion.

The President resumed the chair.

32.19 Tuesday, 15 November 1910, at 14:00 (s16103)

[e938741] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order.

[e938743] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order.

[e938753] Mr. Cunniff moved to amend line thirteen, page eight by inserting after the word "state" the following: "The salary of each of the superior court judges shall be paid by the county or counties for which he is elected."

[Editor's Note: The Records conflict with the Minutes here, stating that Cunniff said 'I move the adoption of the amendment on page 8, which was introduced this morning relative to the county paying all the salary of its superior judges. It was not acted on this morning', referring to Wood's amendment. However, as Parson's amendment changed Wood's amendment, adopting the original amendment would not have the affect desired by Cunniff. Therefore, the editors have assumed that the Minutes are more accurate and have used Cunniff's amendment to restore Wood's amendment to its original state.]

[e938756] Mr. Parsons: I rise to a point of order. That question has been settled and disposed of. The same question was before the committee when we were last in session and I do not think it is in order now.

[e938757] Mr. Cunniff: I submit that the amendment has never been acted upon. The amendment was accepted this morning but this matter has not been acted upon.

Mr. Parsons: The acceptance of the amendment was equivalent to affirmative action by the committee and I submit the gentleman is in error.

Mr. Cunniff: I submit that as long as we are considering a proposition, it is subject to amendment either in its original form or as amended, and until the paragraph has been carried it is subject to new form of amendment.

[e938759] Mr. Chairman: The amendment is in order. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Parsons: Now it may seem to the gentlemen of the convention at first blush that this is all there is of it, and I understand from several sources that it is being said of me that I will go home and find the taxpayers of Cochise county censuring me. I want to see whether they will or not. The gentleman says he thinks these courts are purely county matters and that the county should pay for it. Then I want to say, are the taxpayers of Cochise county and Maricopa county and Yavapai county willing and ready to pay the expenses of maintaining the prisoners that their judges send out of [sic, to] the state penitentiary? If they are and you will give me the figures, I will show you that I will wipe out the difference between the $5,000 and the $3,000. I am here to fight for what is fair and equitable, and for paying state officers out of state taxes, but I want to say that the little county of Apache that sends only two prisoners a year to the penitentiary ought not to be taxed for supporting the three or four hundred that are sent from Cochise, Maricopa and Yavapai. If you want this I will get an amendment in here, and I believe the fair minded men of this convention will stay with me, and if you put your amendment through we will take on an amendment that you pay for the support of the prisoners that you send. (applause) On with your dance.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? Those in favor of the amendment will answer "aye" as their names are called.

Mr. Winsor: I would like to call attention to the fact that in the event of the adoption of the amendment now proposed, it would leave the paragraph in a very incomplete form. This morning, being of a certain frame of mind, the committee of the whole decided that the state should pay the salaries of the superior judges, and carrying out that idea struck out the last sentence of the paragraph relating thereto, which provides for the paying of the traveling expenses by the county. Now, if this amendment could be adopted and each county would be required to pay for the superior judge there would then be no provision for anybody to pay the traveling expenses of a judge. There should be some provision for that.

357-358)

[e938772] Mr. Franklin: I move to amend the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, by inserting on page 8, line 13, the following, beginning after the word "state" so that it shall read "one-half of the salary of each of the superior judges shall be paid by the state, and the other one-half by the county, or counties from which he is elected."

Mr. Baker: I second that motion.

[e938775] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion, are you ready for the question? Those in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa, which will make the provision read practically as it was in the original, will signify by saying "aye." Those opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Parsons: I rise to a point of information. Do I understand that that is the motion—the motion now before the committee of the whole is to have the salaries of the judges paid half by the counties, and half by the state? It seems to me the matter is entirely out of order. We have passed one resolution that the state shall pay it. Now you have another one. You have both in effect. What are you going to do about it? As I understand, the chairman held that that kind of amendment was not in order.

[e938777] Mr. Chairman: The amendment provides to strike out, which they have a right to do. The motion is in order.

[e938785] Carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Baker, Bolan, Bradner, Cassidy, Cobb, Coker, Cooper, Crutchfield, Cunningham, Doe, Ellinwood, Feeney, Franklin, Goldwater, Hutchinson, Ingraham, Keegan, Kingan, Kinney, Langdon, Lynch, Moeur, Orme, Osborn, Roberts, Simms, Mit., Standage, Tovrea, Webb, Weinberger, White, Wells, Winsor, Mr. President. [e938789] [Editor's Note: By deciding on Franklin's amendment the Committee appears to also implicitly adopt Cunniff's and Wood's.]

(Editorial)

Mr. Cunningham: I second the motion.

[e938803] The motion prevailed.

[e939497] Mr. Chairman: The vote on the original proposition to strike out those words will now be retaken. Those in favor will vote "aye," those opposed "no." The motion is lost and that clause is not stricken out of the bill as it now stands.

[e939505] Mr. Wells: I move that after the word "Pima" the word "Yavapai" shall be inserted, and that the section be further modified to have the word "judge" in line 18, and "judges" and the word "courts" in line 19, read "court" and strike out the word "each" after "shall."

[e939506] Mr. Keegan: Mr. Chairman, I move that the amendment made by the gentleman from Yavapai be amended to read "Yavapai and Gila" on line 17 and that line 19 be made to read "Yavapai and Gila."

Mr. Chairman: If you make it read "Yavapai and Gila" on both lines 17 and 19 you will make it contradictory.

Mr. Wells: Strike out the words "the judges shall receive..., etc."

[e939509] Mr. Hunt: I think I am conversant with Gila county and the views of that county in regard to this matter, and they have come to the conclusion that $4,000 is enough for the superior judge in our county, and as a large taxpayer in our county I protest against raising the salary of the judge in our county to $5,000.

Mr. Weinberger: I also agree with the gentleman from Gila. I think the counties of Yavapai and Gila are being well treated by having a judge at $4,000 a year. We could not allow this amendment to go without a further amendment to include Gila county because Yavapai would have a judge who was receiving \$5,000 and Gila would have a judge receiving \$4,000. The population of Yavapai is 15,996 and the population of Gila is 16,780. At that \$4,000 is enough for each one of these counties and I will vote against the amendment.

Mr. Parsons: What difference does it make to the taxpayers of Gila county what Yavapai pays, if the county is going to pay the judge's salary?

Mr. Weinberger: It makes some difference to the people of the state. I second the amendment to the amendment by the gentleman from Gila.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 359-360)

[e939510] Mr. Chairman: The amendment of the gentleman from Gila is to insert the word "Gila" in addition to the word "Yavapai" in line 17, and to strike out everything beginning with "the judge of the superior court, etc., shall not receive." Are you ready for the question? Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The chair will rule that the amendment is lost unless roll call is called for.

[e939511] Mr. Chairman: [...] Those in favor of the original amendment to insert the word "Yavapai" after the word "Pima," and make such changes as will make it readable, will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." Standing vote. Those in favor will signify by rising. Those opposed will rise. The amendment is carried.

[e939513] Mr. Parsons offered an amendment to be added to the end of section 10, page nine, relative to payment by counties of expense of convicts at penitentiary.

[Editor's Note: The Minutes do not specify the text of the amendment.]

[e939514] Chair ruled amendment out of order.

[e939515] Mr. Parsons, took exception to ruling of the Chair and appealed to the house. Chairman called Mr. Sims of Cochise to the Chair.

[e939516] Ruling of the Chair sustained by the following vote:

Ayes—Baker, Bradner, Cassidy, Cobb, Cooper, Crutchfield, Cunningham, Curtis, Feeney, Franklin, Goldwater, Hutchinson, Ingraham, Jones, A.M., Jones, F.A., Keegan, Kingan, Kinney, Langdon, Lynch, Moeur, Moore, Orme, Osborn, Roberts, Scott, Short, Sims, R.B., Simms, Mit, Standage, Tovrea, Webb, Weinberger, White, Wells, Winsor, Wood, Mr. President. Total 38.

Nays—Coker, Colter, Connelly, Cunniff, Lovin, Morgan, Parsons, Pusch, Wills. Total 9.

Absent—Bolan, Doe, Ellinwood.

Excused—Jacome, Tuthill.

[Editor's Note: Because the vote to uphold the Chair's decision was a vote to reject the consideration of Parsons' amendment, the votes that the Minutes labels as "ayes" have been represented in this event as "nays" and vice versa.]

[e939517] Mr. Cunniff: I would like to point out what appears to me to be a typographical error. On page 9 at the end of line 3 that word "at" is left out.

[e939518] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection that word will be put in there.

[e939520] Mr. Colter moved to amend line twenty-one, page eight by striking out the word "Coconino," all of line twenty-two and all of line twenty-four to the word "in."

[Editor's Note: The lines Colter wished to strike out are unclear.]

[e939522] [Editor's Note: This blank document has been created in order to mimic the process of the Committee of the Whole proposing and considering individual recommendations relating to Substitute Proposition Number 82.]

(Editorial)

[e939524] Mr. Winsor moved to amend that the Committee recommend to change the reading of section 10 to provide separate superior courts for the counties of Navajo, Coconino and Apache, the superior judge in each to receive an annual salary of thirty-five hundred dollars, same to be re-referred to Committee on Style, Revision, and Compilation for purpose of having such provisions inserted in the Proposition.

[e939526] Mr. Chairman: Your amendment, Mr. Weinberger.

Mr. Weinberger: My amendment is to insert the words "five hundred" after the word "thousand" in line 20.

[e939527] Mr. Chairman: There is one amendment before the committee that the provision be made for a superior judge in each of the counties mentioned at a salary of $3,500 per annum. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order on such an amendment. It is too indefinite and too ambiguous, and in the present form if it should be put I would be compelled to vote no. I do not know what provisions the committee on style, revision and compilation are going to put in there. I believe it should be the sense of this convention, if we take it in that light, to let this section 10 go to the printer and be returned so that we can have a definite understanding of its provisions, and then take it up and make these provisions suitable to the gentleman. I am perfectly agreeable to that.

[e939536] Mr. Weinberger: I withdraw my amendment.

Mr. Franklin: The very matter of putting it in the hands of somebody else seems to me indefinite. I have never heard of an amendment being put in that way. As I say, I would like to vote for this if it is the proper thing.

Mr. Webb: I would agree with the gentleman from Maricopa that it would be indefinite if it were a final passing upon it, but it is not final, and will be re-submitted for our approval.

[e939530] Mr. Doe: If it be in order, I desire to make an amendment, that the provision be that the superior courts be established in the counties of Coconino, Navajo, and Yavapai and Apache, and that the judge in the county of Coconino be $6,500. That would only make a difference of $1,500, one-half to be paid by the county. The fact is, to my certain knowledge, no one could be obtained for less, and as I expect to resume the practice of law I do not want to not practice law and I do not think any of the others would want to practice law before a judge who was getting less than 6,500. While the present motion involves the further expenditure of $5,000, I have no objections to it for the counties of Apache and Navajo, but so far as Coconino is concerned, I do not want to see a competent judge and one who cannot be secured for less than $6,500. If we can add $5,000 by carrying the motion as made to the total expense, I think it is only going a little further to allow Coconino to get the same sort of material.

(Editorial)

[e939531] Mr. Chairman: Do you accept that amendment?

Mr. Winsor: No sir.

Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Coconino will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e939532] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Coconino will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is lost. Those in favor of the original amendment of the gentleman from Yuma will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is carried.

[e939535] Amendment accepted by Mr. Coker and carried.

[Editor's Note: The account of Mr. Colter's amendment, described on page 182 of the Minutes, is unclear. The editors have inferred that Colter's amendment was dropped as a result of Winsor's amendment being carried and that "Mr. Coker" referenced in this excerpt refers to Colter's amendment from earlier. Regardless, this amendment was not mentioned in the Record and is clearly not adopted in the Minutes.]

(Editorial)

[e939538] [Editor's Note: With the adoption of Winsor's recommendation, Franklin's point of order was dropped.]

(Editorial)

[e939540] Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I will submit my amendment. Insert the words "five hundred" after the word "thousand" on line 20, so it will read "four thousand five hundred."

Mr. Hunt: I second the motion.

(Editorial)

[e939541] The motion prevailed.

[e939542] Mr. Chairman: Are there any further amendments? If there are no further amendments this section is considered passed, and we will consider section 11.

[e938960] Mr. Chairman: Are there any further amendments? If there are no further amendments this section is considered passed, and we will consider section 11.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages

[e939543] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any objections to that paragraph as read? If not, it will stand approved.

361-362)

[e939544] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 12. Any objections or amendments to paragraph 12? If there are none, it will stand as approved. It is approved as read.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 361-362)

[e939545] Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to make a suggestion as to line 11. "No judge of a court of record shall practice law in any court of this State." I guess that ought to be "in this state," because unless the change is made it would permit a judge to practice in the federal court. I will move you that the word "of" be changed to "in."

Mr. Sims: I second the motion.

[e939546] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is carried.

[e939547] Section 12 approved as amended.

[e939548] [Editor's Note: The Committee of the Whole took up Section 13.]

(Editorial)

[e939550] Mr. Baker: I offer an amendment to paragraph 13, line 15, after the word "been" that these words shall be added "a judge of or."

Mr. Doe: I second the motion.

Mr. Baker: So as to make the section read: "No person shall be eligible to the office of judge of a court of record, unless he shall have been a judge of or admitted to practice in the supreme court of this state or of the territory of Arizona.

[e939551] Mr. Doe: I agree with that for the reason that my attention has been called to the fact that judges in this territory who have been in this territory longer than it required would be deprived.

Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): In connection with that whole paragraph I would like to ask the committee the purpose of providing qualifications for five years or two years. What is the purpose of that? Is that to prevent—for instance, if some very competent person would come in here and we would want him for judge, is that to prevent him from being elected?

Mr. Cunningham: In answer to the gentleman from Maricopa I would say it was considered by the committee that it would be necessary for a lawyer, although he may have been a prominent member of the bar in some other state in the east, to be here that length of time to become acquainted with our laws. It is not to keep him from being elected, but as our system of laws and the matters that surround us in this country are so different to those matters handled in the eastern states, it would be necessary for him to have some experience along those lines as to give good satisfaction, and that was the only purpose of putting that qualification in there.

[e939552] Mr. Chairman: You heard the amendment. Are you ready for the question? Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The amendment is carried. Any further amendments?

[e939553] Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to ask Judge Baker if it is desirable to amend line 21 the same as was the superior courts "a judge of or." This is open to the same objection.

Mr. Baker: No, I do not think so, because the exigency has arisen concerning the supreme court and it could not possibly exist until you elect your superior judges and the qualifications are the superior judges shall be so and so.

362-363)

[e939554] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move an amendment to lines 16 and 17, where "five years" appears to make it "three years" in both paragraphs of section 13.

Mr. Cobb: I second it.

[e939555] Mr. Chairman: The amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa is that on lines 16 and 17 where the word "five" appears, change "five" to "three" in both cases. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e939565] [Editor's Note: The Committee of the Whole took up Section 18.]

[e939566] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): There does not seem to be any provision for the salary of the court clerk before the legislature meets.

Mr. Lynch: The question raised is good; there is no provision for the clerk of the court until such time as the legislature does provide. He would have to be paid under the system, as it now stands. We do not believe it would be possible for us to provide a scheme or system of salaries such as would be perfectly accepted by the convention inside of six years.

Mr. Moeur: The county clerk, and county recorder, are combined in a number of states. For example Texas. Why not combine them here?

Mr. Lynch: That proposition was also before us. When you consider that the recorder in Cochise county often has six or seven deputies working steadily in his office, you can readily see that the recorder of Cochise county cannot attend to the work of the court; and therefore, we deemed it advisable to leave it to the legislature.

Mr. Short: I understand that the fee system for our clerks of the district court is a very bad one, and it seems to me we might arrange a salary to be paid to the clerk until provided by law, and not retain the fee system.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I understand that we intend to do away with the fee system entirely, and therefore, the clerk would not have any pay at all.

Mr. Chairman: It is in order to present an amendment to that effect.

[e939567] Mr. Goldwater moved to amend line twenty-two, page ten by striking out the word "of" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "as"; carried.

[e939569] Mr. Parsons: To settle the question I move an amendment after the last word of the first paragraph, which seems to me ends the section, as the next paragraph is not marked, and the numbers skip from eighteen to twenty, and "the salary of such clerk until otherwise provided by law shall be $250.00 a month."

Mr. Cunningham: I second the motion.

[e939570] Mr. Weinberger: I offer this amendment: That "until such salary shall be fixed by law, the board of supervisors of the respective counties shall fix such salaries."

[e939571] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment offered by the gentleman from Gila. All those in favor will signify by saying "aye." Those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is carried.

[e939579] Mr. Feeney: I would like to make an amendment to section 19 by inserting section 26 of the minority report after the word "law" in line 2, page 11.

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

[e939580] Mr. Winsor: I would like to ask for information if the legislature has not already that power—if there is any prohibition against the legislature having that power.

Mr. Lynch: Section 26, of the minority report, is absolutely at variance with section 19; it has absolutely nothing to do with court commissioners, and furthermore if it is a matter that should be put in the constitution it should appear in another place. Further than that, the legislature has absolute power to regulate these matters, right now, and you cannot take it from them. I object to putting it in.

Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman agree to withdraw the amendment?

Mr. Feeney: No. Put it to a vote.

Mr. Winsor: I would like to vote for it if anyone would tell what the object is. The constitution requires the legislature to pass certain laws. Our constitution is simply one of limitations, and these limitations are probably right and proper, but this limitation has never been placed on the legislature, and therefore, I can see no occasion for it now.

[e939581] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that this is not germane to the section.

[e939592] Mr. Feeney: I make again the motion I made formerly, that section 26 of the minority report be made section 22 of the majority report of this committee.

Mr. Parsons: I second that motion.

[e939593] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen you have heard the motion. Are you ready for the question? Those in favor will signify by saying "aye." Opposed "no." The chair is in doubt. The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 20 "ayes" and 29 "nays."

[e939594] Mr. Winsor: I desire to explain my vote. I would be perfectly willing to vote for this measure if anyone, who has a sufficient comprehension, would give one reason why it should be in the constitution.

[e939596] Mr. Cunniff: I should like to offer an amendment. This amendment is the last paragraph of Proposition 69 as introduced by Mr. Coker of Pinal County, which was indefinitely postponed. It is the same as section 22 in its revised form with some minor changes, but the idea is the same. "The pleadings and proceedings in criminal cases in the courts shall be as provided by law, but no case shall be reversed for technical error in pleadings or proceedings whereupon the whole case it shall appear that substantial justice has been done."

Mr. Hunt: I second the motion.

364-365)

[e939598] Mr. Franklin: I hope the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai will not prevail. It seems to me if we have this provision in our constitution the judge would be arbitrary master of the liberty of a man who comes into court charged with a crime. He should be apprised of the charge against him and he should have the rules of law to guard and protect him. If we place such a clause in the constitution, juries will be no protection, but it will be left to the judge alone. I hope this will not prevail.

Mr. Cunniff: I beg to point out that the phrase "technical error" does not provide any necessity for such forebodings as the gentleman from Maricopa apprehends. We know that one of the great [f]laws in courts of justice is that cases are reversed on mere technical error, meaning matter[s] of workmanship. The courts would have to decide in cases brought before the court under a provision of this kind, whether justice had been done, whether the technical error made was not really a material error. It is true the courts now use some discretion in deciding whether the technical error is of sufficient importance to reverse the case, but it seems to me this is no more than giving the court powers which courts are assuming at the present time. I believe this would be a protection for the public and a protection for the accused man in criminal cases. Cases should not be decided on mere technical error.

Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to ask the gentleman from Yavapai for the legal definition of "technical error." I am free to confess I do not know what it means. If the error is important enough to control, it is a substantial error. If it is too small the court will disregard it. I do not know what he means in law by the term "technical error."

Mr. Cunniff: I am not offering a legal definition of the words, I am offering it as a dictionary of the English language would give its meaning. It is up to the court to decide its legal meaning.

Mr. Parsons: I agree fully with Mr. Franklin so far as this matter refers to criminal jurisdiction. Criminal law is said to be, if it is possible to apply the term to any part of the law, an exact science. I believe that if the amendment prevails it will simply do irremediable [sic] injury, and I therefore oppose it.

Mr. Cassidy: I understand that the courts are instituted for the purpose of doing substantial justice. If the record shows that substantial justice has been done, why send it back for a new trial, and undo the substantial justice? I believe we should get away from these technicalities and irregularities where substantial justice is done. We all know there is a great deal of criticism both in civil and criminal cases as to the way in which these technicalities and irregularities are allowed to stand in the way of substantial justice. I am opposed to allowing these technical errors and irregularities to stand in the way and I am in favor of the amendment.

Mr. Parsons: One word in reply to the gentleman. I want to say his argument would apply with most appropriate effect to the hanging of a man caught in the act of committing a crime; substantial justice has been done. He got just what he deserved. I might ask the gentleman again for the definition of substantial justice; is it the opinion of the mob? The men who burned that Mexican at the stake in Texas recently, and almost involved us in international troubles, believed they were doing substantial justice.

Mr. Cunniff: I wish to tell you of one case in which the indictment was drawn up and under the law it was necessary to say it was committed "against the peace and dignity of the state," but the indictment stated "against the peace and dignity of state" omitting the word "the" and although it was absolutely a clear case of guilt, the case was reversed, merely because of that technical error. In another case, a man accused of murder was named as "Frank Strange alias John Winters" and the case was reversed upon the ground that the man's name was "John Winters, alias Frank Strange." There are cases also in which it is possible by collusion on the part of the clerk of the court to leave out a semi-colon or a word here and there, and in spite of the fact that that substantial justice has been done, get the case reversed, and multiply the number of cases and the services of attorneys through mere technicalities. As I said earlier, there is a tendency on the part of the court to follow out this very plan as outlined here, and the constitution is a declaration of policy and principle as well as for the purpose of establishing government and laying down restrictions, and we should show to the courts of Arizona what they are supposed to see that the court administers justice and not merely technical rules in drawing up documents.

Mr. Cunningham: I think the gentleman from Yavapai hardly understands the full extent of his expression "technical error." Let us illustrate: If John Jones should be accused of stealing a horse, and be arrested and indicted, and when the trial came Bill Smith was brought upon the indictment and should be convicted and sent to the penitentiary on evidence properly before the court, a technical error would have been committed. The man charged in the indictment would not be subject to the court and yet the case could not be reversed.

Mr. Cunniff: Would substantial justice be done in such case?

Mr. Cunningham: It would to Bill Smith.

Mr. Cunniff: I maintain it is a clear case where it has not been done.

Mr. Weinberger: I think the matter we are thrashing out is already covered by statute. If you will read the provisions of our criminal code, you will find it is pretty well covered.

Mr. Cunniff: Let us have it in our constitution, and it will be the guide.

Mr. Crutchfield: I hope this amendment will prevail. I believe it will go far toward alleviating the distress in the minds of the people at large in regard to the neglect of the courts and the failure by speedy trail to secure justice. I believe that the widespread dissatisfaction is not with the court as a whole, but because of just such conditions as this amendment endeavors to meet. I believe instead of suggesting mob spirit, that following such an instruction as this the courts would allay all necessity for any mob.

[e939600] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." Call the roll, Mr. Secretary.

[e939602] Mr. Ingraham: I wish to say, gentlemen, that I am in sympathy with the spirit that I believe moved the gentleman from Yavapai in making this amendment, but I do not feel that it reaches the core of the question in hand, and I therefore voted no.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e939604] [Editor's Note: As the amendment is proposed without further debate, it is clear that Sims' motion to revert back to Section 5 received no objections.]

(Editorial)

[e939606] Mr. Sims: With your permission, I would like to revert to section 5, page 5, and offer an amendment to lines 8 and 9, making them read "thirty" instead of "twenty." I offer this amendment in the spirit of economy, and I believe under this system it will not be crowding the courts in any way, and therefore I offer this amendment.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e939608] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is carried.

[e939609] [Editor's Note: With the adoption of Sims' amendment, Section 5 was agreed.

[e939610] Mr. Hunt: I move you when the committee arises it report this bill back to the convention and recommend that it pass as amended.

[e939612] Mr. Cassidy: I wish to amend by adding section 23 to the majority report as follows: "Section 23. All laws relating to the authority, jurisdiction, practice and procedure of district and probate courts, under laws heretofore enacted by the legislative assembly of the territory of Arizona and in force at the time of the admission of the state into the union, and not inconsistent with this constitution, shall, so far as practicable, apply to and govern superior courts, until altered or repealed, until otherwise provided, superior courts shall have the same appellate jurisdiction in cases arising in courts of justices of the peace, as district courts now have under said laws.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e939614] Mr. Ellinwood: I am heartily in sympathy with this provision, but think it relatives [sic] entirely to the schedule for temporary matters, and does not belong in the judiciary bill.

Mr. Cassidy: I think the general saving clause in the schedule would not be sufficient to cover the case in hand, for the reason that we have absolutely abolished our district and probate courts. The words "superior court" does not appear on the statutes in any place, and I think it is absolutely necessary to bridge this thing over that we have this section 23 adopted. Furthermore, I do not find anywhere in this majority report a provision for appeals from justice of the peace until after the legislature may pass such laws. There ought to be some laws between the time of the admission of the state and the time when the legislature passes laws on that subject.

Mr. Cunniff: If this is to be put in elsewhere, that is purely a matter of compilation and can be attended to afterward. It seems to me the gentleman from Maricopa has made a good point and that it really ought to be put in here, and if we pass it now we will not have to bother about it later.

[e939615] Mr. Chairman: All in favor of the motion will signify by the usual sign; opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is carried.

[e939617] Mr. Ingraham: I move an amendment by adding section 24 as follows: "No change made by the legislature in the number of judges shall work the removal of any judge from office; and no judge's salary shall be reduced during the term of office for which he was elected."

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

[Editor's Note: While the Records indicate that Ingraham's proposal states "No change made by the legislature" instead of "No change made by law", this change was clearly made later. Therefore, the editors have proposed the amendment as it was originally given.]

[e939619] Mr. Ingraham: I would like to say that this parallels a provision in the United States constitution. The members will all recall that the United States constitution provides that no judge shall be removed from office during his incumbency and his salary shall not be reduced. It goes further and says his salary shall not be increased during his incumbency. Now the purpose is to make the judiciary independent of the legislature, and the purpose of my amendment is to the same effect. We have a provision that the number of judges may be increased from 3 to 5, and it is in the power of the legislature to cut down the number from 5 to 3. If an important case were coming up it might be very easy for the legislature to discover the opinion of two of the judges on the supreme bench and simply remove them, and cut down the number from 5 to 3; or they might cut down the salaries of the supreme court in order to compel them to recall the opinion they had rendered or threaten them if the opinion be not rendered. Of course, anything sufficient to make a provision in the United States constitution ought to be sufficient for us.

Mr. Ellinwood: Will the gentleman yield for a question? I would like to ask whether this is in conflict with the right of recall of a judge—if we place a restriction on the power of the people to recall a judge.

[e939621] Mr. Ingraham: I see it would. We would have to say, instead of "by law," "by the legislature." I ask permission to change the word "law" to "the legislature."

[e939622] [Editor's Note: As Ingraham's amendment was to his own proposal, it was taken into the original amendment.]

(Editorial)

[e939626] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? Those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 39 "ayes" and 5 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is carried.

[e939630] Mr. Hunt: If there are no more amendments, I make a motion that the committee now arise and report to the convention a recommendation that this bill be passed as amended.

Mr. Langdon: I second this motion.

(Editorial)

[e938799] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 1.

[e938805] Mr. Cassidy: I move that in place of the word "two" in line 4, the word "four" be substituted.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

[e938806] Mr. Cunniff: One of the guarantees of democratic government is short terms, with frequent reference to the people, and it seems to me the best form of republican government in any state is to have the governor elected for two years. It would be a mistake to have the governor elected for longer than two years. It has been said that the recall affects this matter, but as we do not intend to use it, but only to have it for emergency, it seems to me four years is too long.

Mr. Parsons: I am happy to be able to announce to this committee that at least for once the gentleman from Yavapai and I are in hearty accord. I think two years is plenty long enough for the chief executive.

[e938809] Mr. Webb: I desire to further amend, and I believe the mover will accept the amendment, that in line 7, "1913" be changed to "1915."

[e938810] Mr. Cassidy: I accept the amendment.

[e938813] Mr. Parsons: With reference to the matter there is something I wish to call [to] your attention. We have no assurance that even in 1915 we will be a state, and it would be better not to express any data, but leave it with reference to a given time after we obtain statehood. We have no assurance that [we] will ever get statehood. I know men within the hearing of my voice who fifteen years ago thought we would get statehood, and I do not think any one man can say for a moral certainty that we will have statehood. I think we will have it within the next twelve months, but I think we will make a mistake if we put this date in.

Mr. Webb: We take it for granted that if we get statehood under the present enabling act it will be prior to 1915.

Mr. Short: If we get statehood under this constitution, I see no harm in having a set date. If we do not get statehood what is the objection? I can see no harm in leaving it 1913, and in regard to the other amendment I would state that at first I was in favor of a four year term, but when you consider the fact that the people have direct primaries, I do not see that a four year term is any better than two. It is universally argued that the first year the governor is becoming accustomed to his office, and the next year he is using his office to set up a machine so that he can be re-elected, but in the present state he cannot build up a machine, because he has no assurance that his machine will be in working order when he comes to the primary.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): In regard to changing the year 1913 to 1915, we thrashed that out thoroughly in the committee, and we settled on that data, after due consideration, and I think we did very wisely. Our first state officers will be elected under the obnoxious terms of the enabling act, and their terms should be as short as we can make them. Our first state officers should be removed as soon as we can possibly manage it.

370-371)

[e938815] Mr. Cunningham: I ask for a division. Two distinct matters are being discussed; one of the terms of office, and the other the date of election. I will ask that they be voted on separately.

[e938816] Mr. Connelly: What I would like to be informed of is, if we have a two year's term, can we not have them on the off years; that is, 1913, 1915, and 1917.

Mr. Winsor: It seems to me that the fact that we have a direct primary is one of the very best arguments in favor of a four year term. It is generally considered that the direct primary absolutely does away with either personal or party machines. Neither in one, two or six years can a man build up a political organization with which he can, with any assurance, insure his reelection to office, and I am satisfied that every man here will agree that the greatest efficiency can be obtained with reasonable continuity and with two years, as my colleague has just said, the incumbent is just acquainted with the duties of his office, and begins to build up a machine. Now he cannot build up a machine under the direct primary; at least that has been the experience in those states which have it. I believe the greatest efficiency will be secured in the last two years of the four year term.

Mr. Cunniff: In the state in which I was born, we have the governor's term one year, and a constitutional amendment changing it to two years was voted down overwhelmingly. That state has produced some of the best Democratic and Republican governors in the country. The system of one year terms works well. We are moving away from the democratic policy of having frequent references to the people, and are extending the term to the longest of any governor in the country.

Mr. Winsor: May I ask the gentleman a question? Has that state had a direct primary system?

Mr. Cunniff: It has adopted one recently, and has made no change.

[e938817] Mr. Webb: The request that the question be divided is inconsistent, in that if the first amendment prevails it will fix the time at four years, and we presume if we get statehood at all under the four year term of office, the expiration of the first incumbent would be 1915, and not 1913.

[e938818] Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that the two amendments should properly be voted upon together. The original amendment is to make a change of two to four years and it will be acceptable to put these two together.

[e938819] Mr. Cunningham: I ask for a division. After discussing the term of the governor it would be easy to change the date of expiration. We have not discussed two things; one the term of office, and one the expiration.

[e938820] Mr. Webb: I rise to a point of order. The chair has ruled upon that.

[e938826] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): You will pardon me. You stated the first election. This is the expiration of the term of office of the first governor.

Mr. Cunningham: Now when we vote we will vote either "yes" or "no." Will we vote "yes" for two years, and no for the change of date? How are we going to vote if we want this to stand at 1913, and want the term changed to four? I think this is two distinct questions absolutely.

Mr. Chairman: There seems to be no serious objection to separation. The question will be on the amendment to the amendment, changing the year 1913 to 1915.

Mr. Winsor: As I understand it, the chair has ruled that the question is on the change of this date. I submit that the request of the gentleman from Cochise was to divide this question, and I further submit that logically the first motion is that with reference to the term of office and should properly come first, inasmuch as upon the determination of that is dependent the second amendment.

[e938831] Mr. Webb: Actuated by a desire, if possible, to bring order out of chaos, I withdraw the motion.

[e938828] [Editor's Note: With Webb's amendment withdrawn, the motion for a division of the question was no longer relevant.]

[e938844] The Chairman: The question before the committee is the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa. All in favor will answer "aye;" opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 13 "ayes" and 27 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is lost. Any further amendments.

[e938846] Mr. Kingan: I would like to ask, as a matter of information, the following question: It is provided in section 1, that the first state officers shall be elected at the election under the enabling act, and that they should hold office until the first Monday in January 1913, and until their successors are elected and qualified, but no provision seems to be made for the election of their successors, or any time at all.

Mr. Weinberger: If I may be permitted to answer the question. Provision is made that the governor and officers shall hold office for two years.

[e938847] Mr. Chairman: If there is no further objection, the proposition will be considered passed.

[e938848] Mr. Kingan: I understand that it is required that all of these officers be required to reside at the seat of government. That may work a great hardship, especially on the attorney general. He would have to move his office for the short term of two years, and I think an exception should be made at least in this case.

Mr. Weinberger: We have not come to that, Mr. Kingan.

[e938859] Mr. Chairman: We will consider the second paragraph. If there are no objections, we will pass to section 3.

[e938862] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. Chairman, today we passed a residence qualification for the judges of the supreme court of three years. I move that instead of "five" in line 21 we insert "three."

Mr. Crutchfield: I second the motion.

[e938874] Mr. Colter: I offer an amendment making it six years, instead of three.

Mr. Osborn: I second that amendment.

[e938878] Mr. Cunniff: I would like to ask the judiciary committee what the idea is of having in the judiciary bill a limit of two years, and extending it here to five.

Mr. Cunningham: The judiciary committee has never had this bill before it. I do not know what they would do. The committee on executive, impeachment and removal from office reported this bill.

Mr. Cunniff: The point I make is this: I would like to know those who wish to preserve this here explain why the superior judges should have only a two year residence qualification, and these other officers five.

Mr. Cunningham: I am a member of the committee which reported the proposition and we talked this matter over, and it seemed this was a fair number of years to be a resident of this territory. I still think it is, and I hope the amendment will not carry, without comparison to anything else. There is no specific answer to make. I trust this matter will not be patched up, like the judiciary bill was this morning so that it is unrecognizable.

Mr. Colter: I hope if it is necessary to patch up this matter, as it was this morning, that it will be done.

Mr. Lynch: I would like to answer the gentleman from Yavapai by saying this: that the persons capable of filling the office of superior judge are few, and when a newcomer comes in who is qualified, the qualification might be shortened for him. You may find it difficult to find a lawyer capable and honest enough to fill this position of superior judge.

Mr. Short: I would like to say for the benefit of the gentleman from Yavapai that the term of two years as to the superior judge was for the benefit of the smaller counties, where there are few lawyers, and if a longer period was necessary it would be impossible to secure a superior judge in some of the smaller counties. Further I would like to say that so far as the Democratic party is concerned, I think it will have no trouble in finding a competent man for governor who has resided for five years or longer in the territory, even though they have to go outside of Yavapai county to get him.

Mr. Ellinwood: I think the spirit that prompted this paragraph might be explained by this fact. I, with some others present, have lived twenty years in this territory. During that period we have lived under a carpet-bag government. Our governor has been sent to us until the last year or two. The judges of our courts come from foreign jurisdictions, and they bring their clerks of court and other officers. We have lived under this carpet-bag system so long that when the gentlemen framed this paragraph they were more or less imbued with this idea, and thought any man elected governor ought to be a resident for at least five years.

[e938879] Mr. Colter: I am willing to withdraw my motion. I think there are sufficient here to stand for five years, but I want nothing less.

373-374)

[e938880] Mr. Cunniff: I find myself in a rather peculiar position here. In the first place, I made no argument on this point. I merely asked for information. I think this term has been placed in here on the same principle that the term like this was placed in similar constitutions, and it was perfectly sound and satisfactory. One reason why I should not oppose it, is I do not believe in carpet-bagging in any form, and further I have not been five years in the territory of Arizona myself.

[e938885] Mr. Weinberger: I offer an amendment which is merely technical. At the end of line 22 add the following words "or the territory of Arizona." It is well known that the first state governor could not have been a resident for five years in the state at

[e938889] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the original motion to change the term from five to three years. Those in favor of the amendment vote "aye;" those opposed "no." The "nays" have it and the motion is lost.

[e938891] Mr. Chairman: [...] Those in favor of the motion of Mr. Weinberger to add the words "or of the territory of Arizona" answer "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the motion is carried.

[e938902] Mr. Ellinwood: I wish to offer an amendment, and this it seems to me is a more serious matter. In line 19, the proposition reads "no person shall be eligible to any of the offices mentioned in Section 1 of this article except "a" and after the word "a" insert the word "male."

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e938908] Mr. Kingan: I would like permission to go back to section 1, paragraph 3.

[e938909] [Editor's Note: Kingan proceeded to propose an amendment to Section 1, which indicates that the motion to revert to Section 1 received no objections.]

(Editorial)

[e938910] Mr. Kingan: I would like permission to go back to section 1, paragraph 3. As I said a few minutes ago, section 1 as it now reads requires the attorney general to reside at Phoenix. Now the salary is small, and this will simply mean that the attorney general will have to be a member of the local bar, because you cannot get a competent lawyer to come and reside here for so short a period as two years, and leave his practice. I therefore move you to amend the third paragraph of Section 1 to read "The officers of the executive department (except the attorney general)."

[e938912] Mr. Kingan moved to amend line fourteen, page two by inserting after the word "department" the words "except the attorney general"; lost.

[e938922] [Editor's Note: With the rejection of Kingan's amendment, Section 1 was considered agreed.]

[e938923] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll on the amendment of Mr. Ellinwood, which is before the house, to insert the word "male."

Mr. Lynch: I desire to explain that I vote "no" for the reason there is nowhere a provision that the officer must be a qualified elector; in other words, you can elect, so far as section 2 is concerned, a person who is not a qualified elector at all. Therefore, you must have somewhere else in the constitution a provision that he is to be an elector of the state, and if you have that, the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise is absolutely unnecessary.

Mr. Hunt: I do not think any lady will run for office to which she is not eligible.

Mr. Weinberger: The committee on executive took it for granted that the committee on suffrage and election would provide such a provision, so this was not provided for.

[e938942] Mr. Orme: I ask the gentleman in question if he thinks Maricopa county could not furnish a competent man? Haven't we good enough attorneys?

Mr. Kingan: I do not think that at all.

Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Cunningham: I would like to suggest that if the gentlemen will refer to section 13 they will see in line 14 that the salary of the attorney general is fixed at $2500. It was fixed at that figure, when the matter was discussed in the committee, because the attorney general, while he shall be an eminent lawyer, would not be prohibited from practicing his profession and could attend to the duties of his office and also the duties of his private business. Hence he would not require a salary sufficient to maintain him, and it seems eminently unfair that this amendment should be made at this time.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I do not think the position taken by the gentleman from Cochise is well taken. While I do not wish to confine the office to Phoenix, I do say that the place of the office should be in Phoenix as the duties of the attorney general would require that he be there.

Mr. Ellinwood: I am opposed to this amendment for this reason: We are not making a constitution at this time for conditions as they now exist, but, as we look at it, for all time. If there is any one officer whose office should be located at the seat of government, it should be the attorney general. If the salary is not sufficient, then double it.

[e938956] Mr. Cunningham: I offer an amendment, to strike out the word “government” and insert in lieu thereof the word “state.”

Mr. Roberts: I second Mr. Cunningham’s motion.

(Editorial)

[e938958] Mr. Cunniff: There is a word in line 3 where we have officers of the executive department. I want to make clear here that this does mean the “state.”

Mr. Cunningham: It would make it clear to say—

Mr. Roberts: I second Mr. Cunningham’s motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 375-376)

[e938961] Mr. Osborn: I move we strike out the words beginning with “officers of the government civil and military.”

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion, Mr. Chairman.

[e938965] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa to strike out the words “officers of the government civil and military.”

Mr. Weinberger: It has been copied almost entirely word for word from at least two-thirds of the constitutions of the United States. They all seem to follow this form. While I do not know as we need to follow any particular form, but so long as so many states have—

Mr. Parsons: If the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa prevails, we do not need any other executive officers. If the governor is allowed to transact all the business, why pay salaries to the other fellows. He says the governor is to transact all the business of the state. I think that unless this other matter is left in there it will certainly put us in a very peculiar position, and I am opposed to the amendment.

Mr. Weinberger: I will state that probably thirty other states have the same provision.

[e938967] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question, gentleman? The motion is on Mr. Osborn’s amendment to strike out the words “officers of the government civil and military.” All those in favor will signify by saying “aye,” contrary “no.” The “nays” have it. The motion is lost. The motion of the gentleman from Cochise was to strike out the word “government” in line 2 and insert the word “state.”

[e938968] Mr. Webb: I would like to ask the gentleman from Gila, is that copied verbatim also, from the forty odd states?

Mr. Weinberger: I will say that the committee on executive could not be original with respect to this proposition because we followed the precedent established by all the other states. This is the form in California, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida and a host of the other states.

[e938970] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? Those in favor will indicate by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "nays" have it. The motion is lost. Now the question is on the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai to insert before the word "government" [the word] "state" and before the word "executive, [the word] "state," in lines two and three.

[e938971] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, suppose it were possible that this state should have some business with the federal government, who would look after it then? Is it not well enough then to leave that out and let the governor represent us whether it be state government or federal?

Mr. Short: I would like to ask the gentleman from Cochise if he has discovered anything in here that would prevent the governor from transacting that business.

376-377)

[e938972] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the amendment as suggested by the gentleman from Yavapai will indicate by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "nays" have it. The motion lost.

[e938975] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any other suggestions? We will consider section 5.

[e938978] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any other suggestions? We will consider section 5.

[e938979] Mr. Feeney: Does that give the acting secretary of state authority to grant pardons?

Mr. Weinberger: I will say that the committee was a little more exact than the other states. You will notice in the other states the governors have powers that they carry too far at times. Under this section the laws will be passed restricting the governor's pardoning powers "with such restrictions as may be provided by law." So I think no objection can be found in this section.

[e938981] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection we will consider this passed, and take up section 6.

[e938982] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection we will consider this passed, and take up section 6.

[e938986] Mr. Cunniff: I move an amendment as follows: Strike out “the next general election” in the last line, and insert “or until the governor shall have been elected at the next general election and shall have been qualified.” That section does not provide for the interim between the election and the qualification from November to the first of January.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

[e938988] Mr. Cunningham: I would suggest that just prior to that the wording seems to cover the matter. It says “during the remainder of the term or until the difficulty ceases,” and it seems to me that it would be covered in that word “or.”

Mr. Cunniff: If that is covered by the previous clause, what is the point of that “next general election?”

[e938992] Mr. Kingan: I move that the section be amended so as to read as follows: “In case of impeachment of the governor, the removal from office, death, or inability to discharge the duties of his office, resignation, or absence from the state, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the secretary of state until the disability ceases, or until the expiration of the term,” which covers the whole situation.

[...]

Mr. Short: Then I second the motion.

(Editorial)

[e938995] Mr. Short: That is exactly what it says, only the gentleman has transposed it.

Mr. Kingan: I left out the last word, Mr. Short.

Mr. Short: Then I second the motion.

Mr. Winsor: That simply strikes out the words “or until the next general election.” It seems to me a motion to strike out these words would be in order.

[e939000] Mr. Chairman: The original motion has been withdrawn, and the question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pima, Mr. Kingan.

[e939003] Mr. Chairman: [...] All those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

[e939008] Mr. Ellinwood: I move a further amendment at the end of line 17, end of the section, to insert the following: "Provided, however, that during the temporary absence of the governor from the state, of his inability to act, the secretary of state shall not grant reprieves, commutations or pardons."

Mr. Wood: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 377-378)

[e939010] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion submitted by the gentleman from Cochise. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Lynch: It certainly seems to me that that is applying a very general remedy to a very special case. We have had one possible infraction of that principle, and now we are going to apply a constitutional remedy to cure a local disease, and that has already been cured by other process.

Mr. Cunniff: That is shooting a pretty heavy gun at a very small bird.

Mr. Ellinwood: It seems to me that the people who elect a governor elect him on the theory that he has the discretion to be exercised in cases of this kind. It seems to me if the governor is simply temporarily out of the city for a week or two, or has the inability to act for a week or two, the power of pardon ought not to be conferred upon the acting governor.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): If the governor should happen to be permanently disqualified the secretary of state would be in his office until the governor was elected and we would have no pardoning power during the remainder of that term.

Mr. Wood: I think section 5 fixes the pardoning power when it says: "with such restrictions as may be provided by law." That would apply to the secretary of state also.

[e939012] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The nays have it. The motion is lost.

[e939014] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 7 is next.

[e939017] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 7 is next.

[e939024] Mr. Webb: I desire to call attention to the fact that the legislative committee in the preparation of their bill covering the legislative department has in all instances used in this language: "can pass both houses on an aye or may vote on roll call.” It appeals to me that a viva voce vote is an aye and nay vote, and if it is to be on roll call, or if that is the intent, at least, of this section, it will conform to the legislative bill if we insert here after the word “vote” the words “on roll call.”

[e939027] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment that after the word “vote” on line 23 that the words “on roll call” be inserted. All those in favor of the amendment will signify by saying “aye;” contrary “no.” It is carried. We will consider the second paragraph of section 7.

[e939030] Mr. Feeney: It says in the first part of that paragraph “if he approves he shall sign it and thereupon it shall become a law.” In the legislative committee it was understood that ninety days should elapse before it would become a law. Is there any conflict there?

Mr. Webb: I do not think there is any conflict there. The legislative bill provides when it shall become a law. This does not. This says the same shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it. If he signs it it shall become a law as provided by the legislative bill.

Mr. Parsons: In section 7, line 19, it says that “if he approves he shall sign it and thereupon it shall become a law.”

Mr. Webb: I was looking at a different section.

Mr. Parsons: I was looking at section 7 of which Mr. Feeney was speaking. That nullifies the referendum law and you have two conflicting laws in the constitution.

378-379)

[e939035] Mr. Short: I move to amend section 7, line 20, by striking out the word “thereupon.” It is no good anyway.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e939037] Mr. Parsons: That does not help it a bit. That is simply making it a little more indefinite. You say if he signs then it shall become a law. Thereupon it shall become a law. What is the difference? That does not give the right of the people to have it referred to them. That does not hold it ninety days in order that the people shall file a petition and say whether it shall become a law or not. You say if the governor signs it, it shall become a law.

Mr. Weinberger: Cannot a measure become a law and not be effective for 90 days?

Mr. Parsons: No sir, it does not become a law until it takes effect. We say this, it shall become a law when it is signed.

Mr. Osborn: When you say “thereupon” it means that it shall become effectively immediately, and when you say “it shall become a law” then under the provisions of any act—

Mr. Cunniff: Is there a question upon this "thereupon?" I wish to offer an amendment upon this subject.

Mr. Webb: I desire to say that I am not a lawyer, but it appears to me that while it says, it shall become a law, it does not say when it shall become effective and it seems to me there need be no conflict. One says when it shall become a law, the other does not say anything about it.

Mr. Short: It will become a law under the initiative and referendum proposition, and if you strike out the word "thereupon" it would mean that it leaves it open to be governed by the provisions of the initiative and referendum.

[e939044] Mr. Cunniff: I beg to point out that it may never become a law, and the amendment I wish to offer in line 20 is that after the word "law," we insert "subject to the provisions of this constitution," making it read "it shall become a law, subject to the provisions of this constitution," and on line 24 "it shall become a law subject to the provisions of this constitution," and the same on line 2 on the next page.

[e939049] Mr. Webb: Is it not a fact that without that statement it can only become a law within the provision of the initiative and referendum.

Mr. Cunniff: I have not accepted the statements that have been made.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Cunningham.

Mr. Cunningham: The constitution when it has been approved and adopted by the people and approved by the President, if Congress fails to approve it, in the construction of the constitution under the constitutional law, the whole instrument must be constructed together so that it may be operative. Any lawyer who ever read any rules of construction knows that if this matter stands as it now stands as it is now written here that it does not repeal the other provisions that are specific upon the point when the matter does become law. It is a question of construction and will be a question of construction before the courts and the courts will invariably construe the whole instrument together, and say that no act of the legislature, be it ever so particular, will become a law until 90 days after it is passed and then it will not if the people vote to veto it. There is no confusion in this wording. There is no possible confusion but the very splitting of hairs that we have been here now for ten days [word unclear]. This matter is simply raising a question here without any effect [word unclear] it when you amend it. You can amend it all you please, you cannot amend it so as to bring it out of the thirty days provision for that is a matter specifically provided when it shall become a law. There is no use to have to write the initiative and referendum in every sentence of this constitution in order to make it effective. It seems absurd all the way through and I am sorry to see my colleague from Cochise County making such disturbance in this matter.

Mr. Ellinwood: I want to say there is another colleague from Cochise county that is making the same sort of disturbance. An act passed by the legislature when it is completed either is a law or it is not.

Mr. Kingan: I want to ask a question. Suppose the legislature passes a law to become effective 90 days after they adjourn. They passed that law. Is not that a law?

Mr. Ellinwood: No, not until it takes effect. Give me a definition of a law.

Mr. Kingan: Suppose the legislative power was vested solely in the legislature, the legislature alone could make a law. The legislature passes a law and says it shall be effective 90 days after date. If that be not a law, what power at the end of 90 days makes it a law?

Mr. Ellinwood: A law is a rule of action prescribed by the supreme power in the state commanding what is right and prohibiting what is wrong. This says when the governor signs, it shall become a law. I think the remarks of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, are absolutely correct that there should be added to this sentence that it shall become a law as provided by this constitution. Your initiative bill, Substitute Number 4, provides not that it shall become a law within ninety days, but within ninety days after the close of the session.

Mr. Cunningham: Will the gentleman from Cochise yield to a question? I would like to ask Mr. Ellinwood, if it is not a rule of construction that a matter dealing with a specific question always takes precedence over a general statement concerning a matter.

Mr. Ellinwood: I think that is true where the legislature is dealing with a specific subject it would take precedence, but I do not understand why you have to call up questions of construction when you can put it in the English language.

Mr. Parsons: I desire to reply further to my colleague when he says we are here just simply to make disturbance. I think he has made as much disturbance as any of us, and I want to say this: read the balance of this and you will see that this section is drawn word for word as you find it in every constitution of every state that has no provision for the initiative and referendum, and unless you do make some provision you will be in a position where you will have a conflict. Just see what the rest of the paragraph says. Not only if he approves it, it shall become a law, but if he disapproves it, he shall return it with his objections to the house in which it originated, which shall enter his objection at large upon the journal, and if after reconsideration it again passes both houses by an aye and nay vote it shall become a law notwithstanding the governor's objection That question overrides your right of the referendum. The governor has no power to veto a bill that has been referred to the people.

Mr. Feeney: I did not know I lit a slow fuse when I asked that question, but I want the referendum thoroughly protected.

Mr. Cunningham: I would like to ask a question. Will the gentleman cite us one constitution from which this was taken.

Mr. Parsons: I want to say it is the principle of my Nebraska constitution, which I have here, and I believe of every other constitution of the United States that has no initiative and referendum.

Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask what question is before this house.

Mr. Chairman: There are two questions before the house. One is on section 7 of the substitute proposition on executive, the elimination of the word "thereupon" in line 20 on page 3, and the amendment of Mr. Cunniff to substitute in the same line the words "after it shall become a law subject to the provisions of the constitution," the insertion of these words there, and in line 24, "after it shall become a law subject to the provisions of this constitution."

Mr. Coker: I suggest that this matter be referred to the legislative committee.

Mr. Lynch: The constitution of Oklahoma provided for the initiative and referendum, and has almost identically the same clause. I take the position that the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Cunningham, takes. I think his contention correct in this matter.

Mr. Winsor: Did not Mr. Coker make a motion?

Mr. Coker: I merely made a suggestion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 379-381)

Mr. Cunniff: I second that motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 381-382)

[e939056] [Editor's Note: In order to represent Proposition Number 33, Section 7 being individually referred, the editors have created a new document with just the text of Section 7.]

(Editorial)

[e939060] Mr. Weinberger: I quite agree with the gentleman from Yuma; I think the legislative committee should work this over. The executive committee had nothing before it and had to do the best they could, but I think the legislative committee should take it and work it over.

Mr. Short: The entire section 7 is purely a legislative matter, which should be, and I have no doubt is, fully incorporated in the legislative proposition which was reported. I move you, therefore, as a substitute, that section 7 be stricken out. That will simplify the matter a great deal.

Mr. Webb: I do not think it follows that it is entirely covered, for the reason that the legislative committee was careful not to encroach upon the executive. While on my feet, I desire to move that by a rising vote we tender to Mr. Feeney a vote of thanks for discovering this so called fatal error.

Mr. Goldwater: I desire to call attention to lines 14 and 15 of this same section which we are now reading, which reads as follows: "Veto power of the governor shall not extend to any bill passed by the legislature and referred to the people for adoption or rejection." It seems to me that that in a great measure absolves the committee from having executive duties.

Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to call the attention of the committee to the language of the Oklahoma constitution, which contained the initiative and referendum at the time the constitution was passed. It provides as follows: "Every bill which shall have passed the senate and the house of representatives, and every resolution requiring the assent of both branches of the legislature, will, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor, and if he approves it he shall sign it." Before it becomes a law he shall sign it.

Mr. Lynch: Will you read the line a little further.

Mr. Cunniff: I wish to say the motion of the gentleman from Yuma is entirely satisfactory to me.

Mr. Chairman: The motion, then, is on the re-submission of the first paragraph of section 7, Mr. Winsor?

Mr. Winsor: Yes.

[e939063] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? All those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The motion is carried.

[e939065] [Editor's Note: With the decision to recommend that Section 7 be referred to the Legislative Committee, the pending amendments to Section 7 were dropped.]

[e939067] [Editor's Note: With the decision to recommend that Section 7 be referred to the Legislative Committee, the pending amendments to Section 7 were dropped.]

[e939068] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will pass on to section 8.

[e939072] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will pass on to section 8. On line 4 of the printed bill it says: "The Governor shall return the bill within five days after it shall have been presented to him, Sundays, excepted, and if he does not do so the sam shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it. Hw are you going to get two Sundays in that five days? If there is no objection to section 8, it shall be passed.

[e939075] Mr. Parsons: Ought there not to be a modification of the word "office?" The governor does not want to fill a vacancy in the office of justice of the peace.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): This only covers positions that are not covered by law.

[e939078] Mr. Chairman: If there is no further objection, we will take up section 9.

[e939081] Mr. Chairman: If there is no further objection, we will take up section 9.

[e939085] Mr. Coker: I move an amendment to section 9 that the word "and" be stricken out and a comma inserted between the words "powers" and "duties" and after the word "duties" the words "and qualifications" be inserted.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e939089] Mr. Chairman: Gentleman, you have heard the motion that the word "and" be stricken out in the first line of section 9, a comma inserted between the words "powers" and "duties," and after the word "duties" the words "and qualifications" be inserted. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Cunningham: It seemed that section 2, provides qualification for this office, I do not see –

Mr. Osborn: I would like to ask the gentleman what his idea is in inserting the word "qualifications" there. I think that has been taken care of.

Mr. Coker: I do not think it has been fully taken care of.

Mr. Chairman: Particularly the qualifications of superintendent of public instruction.

Mr. Cunniff: I beg to say that there might be qualifications for auditor and attorney general and the other offices.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? All those in favor will signify –

Mr. Weinberger: If you adopt the amendment you are going to have a conflict in this proposition. We already have some qualifications provided for by this constitution, and now you go ahead and state powers, duties and qualifications shall be prescribed by law.

[e939095] Mr. Coker: I will offer a further amendment then that the word "further" be inserted in lieu of the word "as" in line 23 "shall be further prescribed by law."

[e939096] Mr. Coker moved to amend line twenty-one, page four by striking out the word "and" where it first appears and inserting after thee word "duties" the words "and qualifications"; carried.

[Editor's Note: The Records not describe a vote on this amendment.]

[e939098] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the question. Those in favor of the amendment will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The "nays" have it. Section 10 is next.

[e939100] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 10 is next.

[e939103] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 10 is next.

[e939105] Mr. Lynch: I move to strike out the last sentence of section 10.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the last sentence of section 10 be stricken out. It will then read, "All state officers shall keep their offices in the state capital."

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 383-384)

[e939107] Mr. Parsons: I desire to say that so far as I am concerned I believe that is one of the best provisions that has been written in this proposition, or any other than has been introduced in this convention. The states of this union almost unanimously have provisions similar to this, either in the statutes or in their constitution. If we put it in the constitution we won't have to trust to the legislature to enact it, and I think where graft has been practiced more than anywhere else has been in connection with the office of our state treasurer. This is where the money is, and I think a provision of this kind that where the state treasurer is elected he cannot succeed himself will be a good proposition, and I am opposed to the amendment.

Mr. Cobb: I should think the state treasurer should be allowed to succeed himself for at least one term, because he is not getting a very large salary, and the only inducement if limited to one term would be the opportunity for graft for the two years he is in office.

[e939109] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the amendment offered by Mr. Lynch will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "nays" have it.

[e939111] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 11 is next.

[e939112] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 11 is next.

[e939116] Mr. Cunningham moved to amend line three, page five by inserting commas after the word "canvassed" and "state"; carried.

[e939120] Mr. President: [...] If there is no correction or suggestion the section will stand approved.

[e939122] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will take up section 12.

[e939125] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, does section 12 mean that the returns of the election for all state offices shall be canvassed and certificate of election issued by the secretary of state?

Mr. Chairman: There should be a comma after "law."

[e939127] Mr. Chairman: [...] Pass on to section 13.

[e939132] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I would like to offer an amendment to section 10.

[e939135] [Editor's Note: Ellinwood proceeded to propose an amendment to Section 10, which indicates that the motion to revert to Section 10 received no objections.]

(Editorial)

[e939137] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I would like to offer an amendment to section 10. I raise this question. "No person shall be eligible to succeed himself to the office of state treasurer." I find the language in other constitutions reads as follows: "No person shall be eligible to succeed himself for the office of state treasurer for the succeeding two years after the term for which he was elected," and I offer this as an amendment at the end of the section.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e939139] Mr. Ellinwood: Otherwise you bar him out for all time.

Mr. Chairman: You have heard the question.

Mr. Lynch: I should object to that. I think by the vote of the convention a little while ago that matter was settled; further than that, I believe it would be the sense of this committee of the whole that when a man goes into the office of state treasurer that brands him once and for all. I do not see any object in the amendment as it now stands.

Mr. Short: If a man elected to the office of state treasurer and serves a term of two years, and another man was elected and served a term of two years, and the first man was re-elected, would he succeed himself?

Mr. Ellinwood: "No term following —"

Mr. Short: Then, according to that argument, he would succeed everybody that had ever been in office.

Mr. Ellinwood: The language of the Kentucky constitution is this: "He shall be ineligible to re-election for the succeeding four years after the expiration of the term for which he was elected."

Mr. Weinberger: The intention of the committee was to eliminate him from that office for all time.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 384-385)

[e939141] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the amendment will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The "ayes" have it. Section 13 is next.

[e939143] [Editor's Note: Section 10 was agreed as amended, and the Committee continued its discussion on Section 13.]

(Editorial)

[e939144] Mr. Osborn: In line 14 after the word "attorney general" I move that the word "thirty" be inserted instead of "twenty."

[e939147] Mr. Cobb: I suggest that the logical way to take this up is the governor first; settle on his salary.

[e939149] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection we will carry it through in that order, the proposition for the governor's salary is open for discussion.

[e939155] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection we will carry it through in that order, the proposition for the governor's salary is open for discussion.

[e939160] Mr. Cobb: I move that "five" be stricken out and "sixty five hundred" be inserted.

[e939164] Mr. Parsons: I move an amendment to the amendment, that "six thousand" be inserted.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e939169] Mr. Cobb: I did not have any second.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that in line 10 section 13 the words "five thousand" be stricken out and the words "six thousand" be inserted. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Short: I rise to a point of information; I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Graham if he would accept the office at five thousand dollars per year.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Hunt: I hope that the motion will not prevail. New York only pays her governor five thousand dollars. Even the great state of Oregon has only a salary, I think, of three thousand. I think five thousand is plenty.

Mr. Osborn: It seems to me that these gentlemen want to fix it so that only a rich man can [be] governor.

Mr. Weinberger: The office of governor has with it an honor that any one would be glad to accept, and the duties I do not consider are very heavy. It seems to me that five thousand dollars is ample, and it is more than two-thirds of the states are now paying their governors.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I am glad to see it raised to six thousand. We today set the pay of the supreme judges at six thousand, and the governor, while his position, carries a great deal of honor, is also carried a great deal of entertainment, and I think the salary should be six thousand.

Mr. Cobb: I would like to call attention to the fact that the supreme judges are elected for six years and the governor for two. He will have three times the expense in making his campaigns.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 385-386)

[e939178] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the amendment as offered will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 11 "ayes" and 28 "nays."

[e939179] [Editor's Note: Cobb's amendment was not seconded and was therefore dropped.]

(Editorial)

[e939182] Mr. Cunniff: I would like to say just a word to this point. I think we should give considerable thought to this matter of salary of the governor. The governor of the state of Oregon was mentioned. It is a matter of fact that when they found they had fixed the salaries and submitted the constitution to the people, the people rejected it and the constitutional convention was sent back to do its work all over again. I believe that a man should not have to be a wealthy man in order to be a candidate for office.

Mr. Osborn: I would like to ask the gentleman from Yavapai if the state of Oregon does not make provision whereby the governor is furnished with residence, household servants, etc. My historical data came from a gentleman who was a member of the Oregon constitutional convention.

Mr. Lynch: I might state that I have seen and heard one of the governors of Oregon and I want to say that he was only a fifteen hundred dollar man, too. (applause)

Mr. Parsons: Don't you think, Mr. Lynch, that you have exceeded that probably by one thousand dollars. He is about a five hundred dollar man.

[e939184] Mr. Cunningham: I move that we take up line 11.

[e939185] Mr. Chairman: We will take up line 11, "secretary of state four thousand dollars per annum." Any suggestions in connection with that?

[e939207] Mr. Goldwater: I would like to suggest that the superintendent of public instruction be raised \ $500. I do not think the state treasurer has much to do. I know I would take the job at \ $3000. I will make a motion that \ $500 be taken off the salary of the treasurer and added to the superintendent of public instruction.

Mr. Wood: I second that motion.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the salary of the state treasurer be changed to \ $3,000 per annum, and the salary of the superintendent of public instruction be raised to \ $3,000.

Mr. Osborn: Let us have a division of the question.

[Editor's Note: Since the Committee was considering the section line by line, Goldwater's amendment cannot be made across the two lines simultaneously.]

[e939210] Mr. Goldwater: I would like to suggest that the superintendent of public instruction be raised \ $500. I do not think the state treasurer has much to do. I know I would take the job at \ $3000. I will make a motion that \ $500 be taken off the salary of the treasurer and added to the superintendent of public instruction.

Mr. Wood: I second that motion.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the salary of the state treasurer be changed to \ $3,000 per annum, and the salary of the superintendent of public instruction be raised to \ $3,000.

Mr. Osborn: Let us have a division of the question.

[e939212] Mr. Chairman: The motion will be on the salary of the state treasurer at \ $3,000 per annum. All those in favor will indicate by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

[e939260] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I move that \ $500 be taken off the salary of the secretary of state with the understanding that the \ $500 shall later be added to the salary of the attorney general. I can see no reason why the secretary of state should be paid more than the auditor or treasurer.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion, except the last provision.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 386-387)

[e939261] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I understand the secretary of state has more to do than the auditor or treasurer. He is practically lieutenant governor, and takes the place of the governor when absent.

[e939262] Mr. Chairman: The question is upon the changing of the salary of the secretary of state from \ $4,000 to \ $3,500. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor will rise; opposed by the same sign.

Rising vote showed 12 "ayes" and 21 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 387)

[e939263] Mr. Osborn: I would like to renew my motion changing the word "twenty" to "thirty" making the attorney general \ $3,500 per annum.

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 387)

[e939264] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, that is exactly what I said a short time ago in favor of the provision requiring the attorney general to stay at the capital. The attorney general is one of the most important officers in the government, \ $3,500 is little enough. You have required him to reside at the capital, and I think the salary is small at \ $3,500.

Mr. Connelly: I believe \ $3,500 is enough. I believe he can live here on that. I do not know why he should not stand the climate like the rest.

Mr. Webb: While ordinarily I believe in paying good salaries, I must recollect that these payrolls must be met and that taxes during the first years of statehood are going to be burdensome. If those who sent you could vote on this, there would be no raising; it would be lowered and not raised. For my own part I am going to vote for a reduction rather than a raise of this scale, and I doubt, with possibly one or two exceptions, if there is a gentleman learned in the law on the floor but would accept the office at the lowest salary mentioned.

Mr. Osborn: Although I am not learned in the law, I do not believe they could get out on \ $2,500. I see no reason for paying their other state officers \ $3,500, and the attorney general a less sum when he is a man who must be learned in the legal profession and must have a training, while with most of the offices anyone could fill them.

Mr. Orme: I am a farmer, and people of that class are making money fast. I am opposed to raising this. The attorney general has plenty of time to practice his profession outside, and he will probably make more outside than his salary. The farmers are the ones who have to pay these taxes, and they are opposed to high-salaried officers from beginning to end.

Mr. Weinberger: This matter was discussed in the committee quite thoroughly, and it was the sense of the committee that the attorney general will retain his practice, and hence he is in a different class from the governor and secretary of state, who have more arduous duties, and their time will be taken up more than that of the attorney general.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I agree thoroughly with the two gentlemen who have just spoken. I believe his practice would not suffer, but it would be a good advertisement and his business would be increased by being attorney general.

Mr. Ingraham: I would not be surprised if we hear a roar from the territory of Arizona on this salary business. If there is anything which will excite the populace, it is this question of salaries, and we have provided in the supreme court and these salaries make a very large pay roll. While the state of Arizona will be small compared with some other states, I think for the number of officers our pay roll cannot be equaled in the United States. This, notwithstanding the fact that we have states in the union with many millions of people, while we have only a quarter of a million.

Mr. Osborn: But we are going to have more than that.

Mr. Ellinwood: As to the possible roar that will go up in the territory, I think the gentleman from Yuma over-estimates that. The attorney general now receives \ $3,000 from this territory, and there is no complaint of which I have ever heard. \ $2,500 would be all right if he were from the city of Phoenix, but if he comes from Pima, Pinal, Gila or any other county his practice is ruined and he is dependent on his salary which would be if this amendment carries only \ $500 more than you are paying now.

Mr. Connelly: I am in accord with Mr. Webb. We are paying too much. In the offices we have created today we have provided for over \ $90,000 a year for salaries, without mentioning expenses of other officers of the court. We have hardly got started. We have in the territory only 240,000 men, women and children, and when you come down to the electors, who are practically the taxpayers we have only 40,000. Can you figure how we are going to get out. It is all right for California to pay \ $12,000 and New York \ $10,000 for a governor, but they have more population in one town than we have in the whole territory.

Mr. Cunniff: I am glad to hear these words of prudence. We have gone on a rather slippery pathway. I think we have set the salaries of the courts and of the executive officers all too high.

Mr. Colter: I think we ought to reconsider our action on this, and cut down these salaries.

Mr. Chairman: The question before the committee is on the salary of the attorney general, making it \ $3,500

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 387-388)

[e939265] Mr. Webb: I offer an amendment to make salaries as follows; until otherwise provided by law: Governor \ $4,000; Secretary of State \ $3,000; State Auditor \ $3,000; State Treasurer \ $3,000; Attorney General \ $2,500; Superintendent of Public Instruction \ $2,500.

Mr. Ingraham: I second the motion.

[e939266] Mr. Cunniff: I opposed this because we ought to start with the courts in this reduction.

Mr. Colter: I think if there are any salaries that ought to be high, it should be the courts, especially the supreme court.

Mr. Connelly: In the courts provided for today the judges' salaries amount to \ $67,000.

Mr. Cassidy: I would like to call attention to the fact that this proposition does not fix these salaries absolutely beyond change. It simply provides that they shall be fixed at these amounts until further provided by law. I am in favor of fixing them too low rather than too high, because if we get them too low there will be no difficulty in raising them, but if they are too high, we would have more trouble in lowering.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 388-389)

[e939267] Mr. Ellinwood: Under the rules I ask for a division of the question.

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

[e939268] Mr. Webb: I shall demand a roll call on each.

Mr. Chairman: The motion of Mr. Webb is in order, as section 13 is open to amendment and has never been passed. We will vote first on the governor's salary.

[e939269] Mr. Webb: I offer an amendment to make salaries as follows; until otherwise provided by law: Governor \ $4,000; Secretary of State \ $3,000; State Auditor \ $3,000; State Treasurer \ $3,000; Attorney General \ $2,500; Superintendent of Public Instruction \ $2,500.

[...]

Mr. Ellinwood: Under the rules I ask for a division of the question.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 388-389)

[e939273] Mr. Cunniff: I would like to explain my vote. I am in favor of applying the pruning knife, but first we should begin on the judges and afterward prune other offices.

Mr. Winsor: I voted on this 15 minutes ago, and sufficient time has not elapsed for me to change my mind. I vote no.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 389)

[e939276] Mr. Chairman: [...] The next is on the salary of the state auditor, reducing it from \ $3,500 to \ $3,000."

Roll call showed 19 "ayes" and 17 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 389)

[e939277] Mr. Cunniff: I move the committee arise and report progress and ask leave to sit again.

[e939278] Mr. Weinberger: There is a short article on the next page that might be finished up so we might get through with this whole proposition.

[e939279] Mr. Webb: I desire to call attention to the fact that my motion was divided into six parts and three have been voted on. I ask for a roll call.

Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Ellinwood: Is there not a motion to raise the salary of the attorney general to \ $3,500. It was originally \ $2,500 and Mr. Osborn moved to make it \ $3,500.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Graham moved to make it \ $2,500.

[e939280] Mr. Connelly: I move we make it \ $3,000.

Mr. Ellinwood: I second the motion.

[e939281] Mr. Webb: I maintain my motion was accepted by the chair. Four parts have been disposed of, and after the others are voted on this amendment can be made.

[Editor's Note: Webb's amendment did not make any changes to the attorney general's salary as proposed in the original section, for which reason this debate is attached to the original clause rather than a new amendment attributed to Webb.]

[e939296] Mr. Ellinwood: If the gentleman of the convention will have visions of the recall in mind, I think they will find that section 3 contains a very emphatic negative. I move you to strike out the words in the first line "not liable to impeachment."

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e939297] Mr. Weinberger: I believe that may confuse the situation. You will notice that section 2 provides for the governor and other state officers, but it does not make any provision for county officers, and does not interfere with or encroach upon the recall, but section 3 makes provision for such other officers who are not mentioned.

Mr. Cunniff: I wish to say I do not see the point of the gentleman from Cochise; the proposition looks all right to me.

[e939153] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that this was the proposition that was disposed of last evening. All those in favor of the motion of the gentleman from Yuma answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e939180] Secretary (reading): "Phoenix, Arizona, November 10, 1910. Mr. President: Your committee on judiciary begs leave to report it has examined Proposition Number 139 and respectfully recommends that Proposition Number 139 be indefinitely postponed. D.L. Cunningham, Chairman. Phoenix, Arizona, November 10, 1910. Mr. President: We, a minority of the judiciary committee begs leave to report that we have examined Proposition Number 139 and respectfully recommend that said Proposition Number 139 do pass. Fred L. Ingraham, James. E. Crutchfield.”

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the reading of the reports. What is your pleasure?

[e939188] Mr. Ingraham: I move that when this committee arises it recommend that the minority report be adopted.

Mr. Short: I second the motion.

[e939205] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion that when the committee arises it recommend that the minority report be adopted. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, the minority of the committee recommending that this measure do pass views the matter in this light: that children should not be treated on the same basis as adults; that when accused of offenses they should not be considered from the same standpoint as adult criminals. To emphasize this view, I wish you to consider the customs that are now frequently followed. I know at Yuma the custom is like this. A jail will be crowded with all sorts of persons, vagabonds, persons accused of crime, persons convicted of petty crimes, all penned up in a little jail. Sometimes in what they call the “tank,” there will be thirty-five, fifty, sixty men, all together, the scum of the earth, of the vilest habits that it is possible to think of, habits that one man cannot describe to another man without blushing, degenerates of all kinds and possible description. Now, a boy from that community, who perhaps is accused of some little offense, of breaking into somebody’s orchard, possibly, and stealing a handful of fruit, is thrown into that tank with those criminals, and I say to you, gentlemen, that if that boy, already, probably, with slight tendencies toward degeneracy, is kept among those men for three months or six months, it will be a miracle if he is not tainted for life. I have conversed with men who have had [sic, been] in charge of the prison at Yuma, when the penitentiary was there, and the stories they tell of the habits of those men are sickening. It is impossible for youth to be confined under those circumstances with those men, with the habits they have, and the topics of conversation they follow continuously, their stories of crime, the heroes they worship, without being tainted for life. I say, gentlemen, that our prisons and our jails, instead of being reformatories as they should be, are schools of vice and crime. Gentlemen, we send our boys to college, why do we do it? Because there they may be surrounded by men of high morals, men who are engaged in higher undertakings, with high thoughts, whose minds are single to the advancement of the race and of themselves, and we argue to ourselves that the boy placed in those surroundings will absorb from his environment and from the example and precepts of others certain habits that will be his salvation. Why do we send a boy to jail or prison. Taking the same proposition, basing it upon the same premises, what will the boy get out of the prison and the jail? I know it is necessary that crimes be punished. I know it is necessary that men be confined in prisons and penitentiaries and jails, but I say that there is a limitation upon that. We should see that the young child is not contaminated in that way, and when we consider the few number of those criminals, those who are accused of crime, it will be easy for society to take them out in a separate class by themselves. Would you send your daughter—a girl of sixteen or seventeen years—to associate with prostitutes and vagabonds and drunken and dissolute women? If you did what would you expect? What would that girl become? What would you expect in a single week from that sort of procedure? What would you expect in three months or six months? And yet you allow some boys in this community to be thrown into jails under these circumstances, exactly the same circumstances. Is not the mind of the boy and his habits formed by the same environment and under the same circumstances and laws as the habits of the girl? Does not the environment of one affect the character the same as the environment of the other? And although it may not be your boy who is thrown into jail, is your boy any better than the other man's boy? The very fact that this boy is accused of an offense shows that he likely has started on the downward path. He is the boy who needs attention. He is the one who should be taken out of that environment. And so we of the minority of the committee think that this provision is based upon wise principles; that it will not entail any great expense. It may be that there are minor amendments that should be made to this proposition—I think there are—but we think that the procedure of this convention should be to adopt this proposition and then to amend it as it should be amended. (applause)

[e939211] Mr. Cunningham [one verbatim copy mistakenly says Cunniff]: I offer an amendment to the motion now pending; that is that when the committee do arise that it report and recommend that Proposition Number 139 be indefinitely postponed, adopting the report of the majority of the committee.

(Editorial)

delinquency that people might have practices in the territory of Arizona heretofore. If we undertake to write all the legislative matters and instructions into this constitution we never will complete it. You say that this only includes a few lines. In answer to that I will say, yes, it includes a few lines, but it means that if you are proposing to regulate every jail in the territory, then why not every other public institution [word unclear] regulated by this constitution? Why not define murder? Why not define arson? Why not make the punishments in this constitution as it is now laid down in the criminal code? Why not go into detail and [word unclear] and for all legislate for the territory of Arizona and the state of Arizona that is to follow, we hope? Why not go forward and write everything so that the territory will be saved the expense thereafter of ever having another legislative body in session in Arizona? Why not do that? You have not the time now, you say, but why would you start in to legislate upon one subject and not legislate upon all? Why not make a complete code now? It was tried many hundreds of years ago, when the lawyers then in existence tried to write a code that would never need amendment. They undertook it. Then the court started to work and had more to do than ever. Mr. Chairman, I do not want anyone to understand that I oppose the principle here laid down. It is only to save space in the constitution, believing that the matter is absolutely within the control of the legislature, believing that the people of Arizona are all too good in heart and too thoughtful of the youth of the land to allow such treatment of them as has been reported here from Yuma. I am surprised that any county in Arizona can send up such reports to be made of the treatment of the juvenile offenders. I know it has not been the case in any county that I am familiar with. In every jail that I have ever been in (I have never been incarcerated), but that I have had occasion to see, the jailors have hearts in them; the guards in the jail are always present. The youthful offenders have been kept in the office of the jailer, with the same accommodations that he has, furnished the same treatment that any other persons would be furnished with, not like Yuma County. I am surprised to know that such things exist, and I for one have almost been convinced, for the protection of the youth of Yuma County, that this provision should be paced in the constitution. In the County of Cochise, where they have anywhere from sixty to ninety prisoners every year, with the possible exception of a month after the criminal term of court has been dispensed of, there are youthful offenders that happen to be caught in the [word unclear] of the law are provided for. They have a yard, with a high brick fence around it. They have free access to that room from the jailer's office. They are not permitted to mix with the other criminals, not even permitted to see them unless the criminals pass through the doorways. Therefore, I consider that is absolutely unnecessary at this time.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman yield to a question? If that is the case, and there is no evil along that line, what harm will it do to put this in the constitution?

Mr. Cunningham: I have answered that already by saying that I am almost convinced, if one county has so neglected the youthful offenders as to treat them as they have in Yuma county, I am almost persuaded it is a good thing to put into the constitution.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, there is no subject before this body in which I wish my position to be so thoroughly understood as this. I signed the majority report, and I think no one present will deny but what I have exercised my every effort and every energy in behalf of the juvenile courts and juvenile offenders in the territory of Arizona. There is only one reason for this and that is that this measure is purely legislative. The session laws which dealt with this matter in the first place start out with that very proposition. Experience has shown that children lacking proper care and guardianship are led into courses of life which may render them liable to the penalties of the criminal law, and the law says that where the interest of such children requires, that they may be no [sic, so] incarcerated in penitentiaries and jails, and then it proceeds to have them separated, and I understand that in the laws of 1908 it is further provided, but the proposition is what is purely legislative; not that we are against this proposition; not that a member of the judiciary committee is against it. I think it is the unanimous consent of this convention that laws of this kind ought to be enacted, but is not this a purely legislative matter? If we are to legislate in this constitution upon this subject, where are we going to end? Is it not just as desirable to extend your legislation and say that in the apartment in which the child is to be incarcerated there shall be a complete and sufficient system of ventilation? That in this jail there shall be a proper sewer system? That the food furnished the children should be of proper character? That the sheets should be nine feet long? Where are you going to stop? There is not a member of the judiciary committee that is opposed to this measure. We simply say that it is purely legislative, and if we are to enter upon such legislation in this constitution there will be no end to it. We all agree with the gentleman from Yuma County. It seems to me it is like arguing that the Devil is an undesirable citizen. It is unanimous. This belongs to the legislature of Arizona and is not a part of the fundamental law.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. Chairman, I beg to take issue with the gentleman who has just spoken. I do not consider that this matter is a legislative matter at all. It is only a declaration of the rights of the children, (applause) and if the constitution is not a declaration of rights, then what is it? It is simply a declaration of the rights of the children. (applause)

Mr. Franklin: I am thoroughly in accord with the spirit and principles in this proposition, but my objection to it is that it is a restriction on the right to do the very thing that is sought to be done by the proposition. "It shall be unlawful to confine any child under the age of 18 years accused or convicted of crime in the same section," etc. "But suitable quarters shall be prepared in our jails and prisons for the confinement of minor offenders." While I have not had very extensive experience in practicing in the juvenile court, I am advised that very often complaints are made against children who are accused of petty offenses, and they are brought before the judge for the determination of their guilt or innocence. We have a reform school to which those offenders are sent upon conviction by the judge in the juvenile court. Is it not of doubtful interpretation, under this proposition, whether or not the reformatory institution of Arizona would be done away with, and upon the decision of the judge they must be sent to jail or prison. I believe a matter of this kind to subserve the purpose, ought to be very carefully drawn. If this constitution is going to put it in there so it is without the power of the legislature to deal with it, they ought to do it so there will be no doubt about it at all, and this thing that it sought to be done should be clear and certain. I am therefore opposed to it for the reason that I deem it would do away with our reform institutions, and compel the judges to put the minor offenders in jail, or in prison.

Mr. Crutchfield: I am surprised at the attitude of my colleague from Maricopa. I think he certainly should, instead of opposing the proposition, he should offer a suitable amendment therefor, instead of signing a report recommending indefinite postponement. I consider also that every gentleman who insists that he is in favor of the spirit of this proposition should take the same attitude that if this is not drawn in legal form, instead of recommending indefinite postponement, he should recommend a substitute therefor. Therefore, their arguments are so conflicting that I cannot accept even their most logical reason. In respect to the criticism of the proposition, I cannot see that any such conclusions could be logically reached, however, for it says plainly that "It shall be unlawful to confine any minor child under the age of eighteen in the same section with adult prisoners. Suitable quarters shall be prepared for the confinement of minor offenders." The only possible flaw that could be interpreted at all as meaning that the reform school should be done away with would be possibly that last clause, and it is merely a repetition of the former thought. An amendment is the proper amendment for the gentlemen to pursue, if they are really sincere. Furthermore, I believe that undoubtedly the abuses which have been intimated by the gentleman from Yuma County are not at all unique. The association that I have had with the character of the men who are confined in our jails has taught me that they are the least fit for association with the citizens in a period of adolescence or any other class of citizens in the world. Dissolute women, lost of all sense of shame or decency, would not be any more unfit to associate with boys during the years when most of the juvenile offenders are incarcerated than the persons, the men who come there, the very scum of our earth. Not every one of these, of course, but the majority of them; the talking members, those in the jail who direct the conversation, and enforce the thought, are the least proper for association with boys. The experience I had in my childhood, in my young manhood, has made me feel very deeply upon this subject, and I believe that every boy at this age—every boy at the age of adolescence has the right to as clean surroundings as can be granted to any human being on the face of the earth. (applause) And I believe that to deny him this right at a time when he is most ready to crystallize his sentiment against the principles of right,—when he probably for the first time rises up in rebellion against those underlying principles of law,—I believe this is the period when criminals are really made, and that this is not merely a passing fad with anybody, but that it is a great reform that has been growing with the years,—that has been resting in the hearts of noble women, as they have seen the evils that surround their boys. I believe it is a principle that has rested in the minds of noble men, who have seen their sons growing up around them, and felt that the forces and powers which they had sought to use for their betterment and proper improvement were being vitiated by vile and evil surroundings. I believe that it is a principle that rests in the breast of every loyal, patriotic American citizen, and every Anglo-Saxon in this world of ours, that the easiest approach to morality and right should be granted to every man, especially to every young man. The Y.M.C.A. and colleges, and those instrumentalities that are being used for the development and culture of the youth, wherein men freely give of their wealth to provide proper surroundings and environments for youth, show that this principle is deeply buried in the hearts of all our people. The experiences that I have had in visiting and praying and talking with persons have led me also to feel deeply upon this subject, for I have had my heart moved to pity to find a youth with all the marks of noble young manhood still left upon his brow associated with criminals who were vile, whose very thought was evil and that continually; associated with me who could find no other subject for conversation except the vilest things that could be conceived or born out of the passions of men, and forced to associate with them day by day in the closest contact. Two weeks of such imprisonment would almost spoil the best and noblest young man that this world could produce. You cannot expect even a young man of noble character to come out of a furnace as that untouched by the fire. You cannot expect to bring him out, even if he has had the finest qualities of manhood, unstained, after a month of such evil association. It is a right that belongs to the human race, that is inherent, I believe thoroughly those gentlemen who have spoken on the other side and signed the majority proposition feel the same thing, that it is a right that the youth of our land have, and that for them we, are [sic, who?] are speaking now, must speak, and that preparation must be made and prevention must be used, so that for all time to come a young man shall have this aid at a time when he needs it, which is, as the grace of Almighty God has promised, beforehand, before our sins have plunged us into their depths, a means to prevent us falling deeper in,—so I believe the people of this territory ought to provide at this time a means to prevent the further degeneration of our youth, and give them the opportunity which they ought to have, and the privilege which every noble young man cries for and clings to—a fair deal,—an opportunity to do his best and make the best out of himself in life. (applause)

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, what I am about to say I do not say flippantly. I have listened here in this convention to the reverend colleague who sits beside me, and I have been stirred to a pride with the perfection with which he performs his duties. I claim no such perfection as that to myself. I wish the reverend gentleman with that perfection which he claims as his own, would bring in a proposition along the lines that would meet my approval as a lawyer and would give spirit to this thing which it is intended to give, and I will say to you, my distinguished colleague, that if you will bring in a bill, perfect, as you can probably do, or you will sit beside me and give me the aid of your valuable assistance, and let me do the legal work, I will cooperate with you in bringing into this convention something that we can all approve and adopt.

Mr. Cunniff: At one time, some years ago, there was a gentleman who sat at his desk, a member of the legislature. There was an important subject up about which there was considerable agitation, and arguments were made by certain interests, and certain members of the legislature were presenting arguments and talking over the matter under discussion. I said to the gentleman that some of the arguments that were introduced by the agents who had the duty to present such arguments,—that they were pretty weak arguments. Now, if these arguments are not sound, why do not the people appoint agents, or come here themselves, and present their arguments. And I said to him, it seems to me the theory of an elective public officer or a representative in the legislature, that one is sent as the representative of the people to do the work on behalf of the people. It seems to me that the attitude that has been assumed by some of the gentlemen,—by one committee in particular, in this convention in regard to many proposition, that the gentlemen of that committee, or some gentlemen of that committee, sit and study proposition that are submitted to them in relation to their legality, and if propositions are not drawn up in strict legal form, or according to the opinion of some of those gentlemen, they are perfectly frank and willing to stand up in this convention and say that they favor propositions of that nature but unfortunately they are obliged to recommend that they be indefinitely postponed because they are not drawn up in strict legal form. It seems to me when the delegates were elected to this convention, whether they belong to the legal profession or not, if they were sent here to do their best to have propositions drawn up and inserted in this constitution, they ought to give their best ability and their best effort in doing that. Now we have seen the unfortunate spectacle of seeing a proposition put out of the judiciary committee and referred to another committee, in order that that other committee—

[e939216] Mr. Cunningham: I rise to a point of order. The gentleman is not speaking to the question.

[e939218] Mr. Chairman: I think that point of order is well taken.

[e939219] Mr. Moeur: I do not think this question —

Mr. Cunniff: I ask you to rule. My argument is strictly the question that this should not be indefinitely postponed because it is not drawn up in the form that is satisfactory to some of the gentlemen of the judiciary committee.

Mr. Chairman: The chair has ruled. If you care to appeal from it.

Mr. Cunniff: Am I in order?

Mr. Moeur: I think the argument of this question is entirely out of order.

[e939221] Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, I move that the proposition be amended by striking out all of the proposition after the word "persons" in the third line.

Mr. Crutchfield: I second the motion.

[e939222] Mr. Cassidy: I think it will obviate the objection of the gentleman from Maricopa and substantially improve the proposition.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I do not believe it would be advisable to cut out that part of the proposition.

Mr. Chairman: Just a moment, Mr. Jones. The question is put. You have heard the amendment that all after the word "persons" in line 3 of Proposition Number 139 be stricken out. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Weinberger: I move a further amendment to strike out—

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 401-402)

[e939224] Mr. Ellinwood: I rise to a point of order. The motion before the house is to substitute the minority report for the majority. Until we have the minority report how can we amend it?

[e939225] Mr. Chairman: The minority report is before the house.

[e939226] Mr. Weinberger: The further amendment is by striking out the word "but" on line three, and making the word "suitable" the beginning of a sentence, and striking out in line 4 the words "in all jails and prisons," so that the sentence shall read "suitable quarters shall be prepared for the confinement of minor offenders," together with the balance of the section.

Mr. Chairman: There is no second.

Mr. Hunt: I second the motion.

[e939231] Mr. Chairman: [...] Now the question will come up will the minority report be substituted for the majority report, and that when this committee report it recommend the adoption of Proposition Number 139 as amended. All that are in favor will answer "aye" as their names are called, and all opposed will answer "no."

[e939233] Mr. Ingraham: I wish to say just a word very briefly in regard to the remarks of the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood. The statement is made by him that this proposition was a purely legislative matter, and I want to say right here and now that the difference between a legislative matter and a constitutional matter reminds me of the old conundrum “when does a pig cease to become a pig, and become a hog.” You cannot lay your finger upon the line that divides a legislative question from a constitutional question. It seems to me that a constitutional question is a fundamental question devoid of detail. Legislative question[s] may include fundamental questions, and for a man to say when a proposition ceases to have detail in it, and becomes wholly fundamental, and is removed from the legislative field in that degree to the constitution field is impossible, and I say, gentlemen of the convention, that if there is anything that is fundamental it seems to me that it is a principle that [is] expressed in this provision, which is aimed to protect society at its most vulnerable point, the point where criminals are being made. It seems to me that if there is anything fundamental in our work it is a proposition which is aiming to, and will in its effect [,] save hundreds of young men to good citizenship.

Mr. Short: I desire to say that with another gentleman of the convention I visited the county jail in this place the other day to ascertain if it classed minor offenders with adult prisoners in this county, and we found no minor offenders were confined at this time. In talking with the jailor he assured us when they had such offenders, if possible, they were confined in the women’s cell. In case of that being occupied, they were put in the corridor. That gave them access to all of the adult prisoners, which certainly was not to the benefit of the boys. I think that the matter of looking after our boys and girls in this state, is fully as important and should receive at least as much consideration as ourselves.

Mr. Cunningham: I desire to say only another word or two. The gentlemen who have talked in favor of the adoption of the minority report, have invariably given us reasons why the children should be protected. The gentleman from Yuma has discussed the question as to the difference between constitutional provisions and legislative provisions. Now it has always been the custom in constitutional conventions to provide a remedy for wrongs being committed within its jurisdiction, but it seems rather a unique position for a constitutional convention that is in harmony upon the question now before us, that all people agree upon a certain principle, that in order to enforce that principle we must make it a fundamental law, and place it in the constitution. That seems to be a very peculiar problem. No one has denied the matters and things that have been said. No one has insisted, except the gentleman from Yuma, that any wrong exists in the territory, that this matter has been aimed at. It would be perfectly just and proper if a wrong being committed in the territory to place a restriction and remedies against that wrong in a constitutional provision, but where the question involved is one that is so unanimously concurred in by all the people, why should we write it into the constitution in order to express our feelings to the gallery, or to the territory or to the people of the territory along that line?

[e939235] Mr. Chairman: The question comes up on when this committee arises that it recommend to the Convention that the minority report on Proposition Number 139 as amended be recommended for adoption. As amended it will read as follows: It shall be unlawful to confine any minor child under the age of 18, accused or convicted of a crime, in the same section of any jail or prison in which are confined adult persons. Suitable quarters shall be prepared for the confinement of minor offenders." As many as are in favor will, when their names are called, answer "aye," and those opposed "no."

Roll call showed 34 "ayes" and 12 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The "ayes" have it. It is so ordered.

[e939255] Mr. Winsor: I am going to make a motion that I want to explain before I make it. There are a number of committees, and the committee on legislative department in particular, having very important work to do. There seems to be no opportunity in the morning to do that because our mornings are fully occupied with the business of the convention. I am going to move that the committee do now arise, and the purpose is to give these committees an opportunity to have meetings. I move the committee do now arise and report progress.

Mr. Wills: I second the motion.

Mr. Moeur: There are other provisions of this nature.

[e939677] Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I move further consideration of the bill be deferred until we have further reports on the other bills.

[e939679] Secretary: Propositions Numbers 75, 73 and 41 are here without any reports or recommendations. I think that the reports went to the committee on printing and clerks. The recommendations were that the three propositions be indefinitely postponed and the substitute proposition be adopted therefor, and that they be considered altogether when the other proposition is returned.

[e939680] Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, I move you that when the committee arise it recommend the report of the committee to be adopted.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

[e939681] Mr. Crutchfield: The substitute proposition has incorporated within it the same as these propositions on educational questions.

Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that these propositions be postponed to come up before the committee of the whole with the rest of the propositions when they are reported.

Mr. Weinberger: What has Proposition Number 75 to do with these?

Mr. Winsor: I want to call attention to the fact that this committee, in reporting, has made some errors. When a report on two, three or four or any number of propositions is made, the report must be submitted with each one, and no one had any right to separate the report from the proposition. If these propositions are separated from the reports, it is clearly a mistake.

[e939684] Mr. Crutchfield: I would offer a substitute motion, that 75, 73 and 41 be postponed until the report from the committee on education.

Mr. Franklin: I second that motion.

[e939686] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that Proposition Number 75, 73 and 41 be deferred until the report of the committee on education is received.

Mr. Colter: Mr. Chairman, I think that Proposition 75 should have been referred to the committee on schedule, mode of amending and miscellaneous, and we are ready and will be glad to take it up at any time.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 407-408)

[e939687] Mr. Cunningham: I move that the committee recommend that Proposition Number 75 be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Ellinwood: I second the motion.

[e939689] Mr. Hunt: Mr. Chairman, I do not see why the gentlemen are so anxious to postpone this bill. It seems to me that it is a very good measure.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): We consider it unnecessary and believe that the police or municipal authorities should be allowed to provide for the sanitary conditions and regulations and that it is not a political question that will ever be questioned by either party, therefore we feel it is entirely unnecessary in the constitution.

Mr. Webb: Doubtless every member of this convention realizes as I do the necessity of the best possible sanitary condition and that every city and town should be provided with these conditions, but I must take issue with the gentleman from Yavapai county upon this measure for I think that it is useless to try and get it into the constitution.

Mr. Colter: I agree with the gentleman in wishing to indefinitely postpone this proposition for this reason: It is not quite what I intended it to be. I am in favor of a clause in the constitution that will provide for sanitary regulations but I would prefer to prepare another proposition and submit another report upon this question in the place of Proposition Number 75.

(Editorial, Page 408)

[e939690] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of indefinitely postponing Proposition Number 75 say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e939413] Mr. Chairman: Now, gentlemen, what is your pleasure? The question before the house is on Proposition Number 26 relative to state wide prohibition.

[Editor's Note: Webb's opening remarks are missing from the Records but can be found in the Arizona Republican.]

Mr. Franklin: [words missing] There will be no just reason to defeat the minority report. There may be some very logical arguments against this question and some fine arguments to the effect that it will endanger the approval of the constitution at Washington, that it will meet defeat with such an appendage, but I would call attention to the pledges that have been made and the provisions for the will of the people to be given a voice in the matter. This was provided for in the Enabling Act and this matter was discussed in making this provision. I for one am willing to have both the prohibition and suffrage measures submitted to the people. If the constitution with the ratification of the people and their wishes expressed by acceptance of the constitution with these questions of separate submission should be turned down at Washington and the statehood question settled then I say let it be so. I shall accept it gracefully and I hope that this majority report will not be adopted.

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I feel I should raise my voice in opposition to the majority report. This is not a question as to whether prohibition is right or wrong, but we are confronted with the great question of giving unto the people the right to determine the matter whether or not they want statewide prohibition. This question cannot [sic, can] be determined only by the voice of the people, and it is their right to vote upon it at the present time. It is our duty to grant them this privilege, and I cannot see how we can be sincere or true to the people unless we give them the right to decide the matter for themselves. We have already adopted the initiative and referendum. Directly recognized the right of the people to pass upon this most important question, a most solemn and legal right, then why should we object to submitting this question to the people. I have waited with patience to hear some reason why we should not submit this question to the vote of the people and I have heard not a single reason, not a logical word upon it has yet been offered, while there is every reason that it should be submitted. If we give the people the right to determine this question for themselves at this time it will not cost the people a single dollar extra, and if we defer the matter it will come to an issue sooner or later and when it does come it will mean an expense to the taxpayers of an immense sum of money, and you cannot prevent the question, for it has become too broad-wide and so popular that we cannot hope to prevent or defer it, and if the people have any rights at all to determine any questions for themselves they most certainly have the right to settle the question of prohibition, therefore, I believe it is our solemn duty to grant the right unto the people at the present time to vote upon the question, and if they defeat it [it] shall then be left to the people in their own municipalities and counties, but if the people's vote carries the question, we should be willing to accept the will of the people and abide by their wishes. If the people have the right to direct legislation, and the initiative and referendum, then they most assuredly are entitled to vote in this matter, and I certainly hope that the majority report will not be adopted.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I did not intend to open my mouth in the session this morning. The people of my county have spoken upon this question only last year. The question as far as the people of Cochise is concerned is settled; as far as I am personally concerned I believe heartily in the proposition, and the minority report on state wide prohibition, but I am not deciding any personal matter. Mr. Chairman one of the strongest advocates of separate submission has said that it would forever settle the question in Arizona. When he made that statement he must have known more about the definite settlement than anyone else can presume. I have only lived in three or four counties in Arizona, but I believe that I can state that this question would not be settled no matter how the vote of the people was cast, but the question in my mind is that if we write into that document the question of prohibition that it will endanger the approval of this constitution, and I do not wish to encumber the constitution by any such measures. As to the advisability of settling the prohibition question I would say that since I have been a citizen of this territory I have seen the people grow upon man lines, and have seen many principles of government as well as advanced ideas become a part of the people and the laws of this territory and I believe that this question will in time solve itself. When I first came here, there were laws and many acts that were unquestionable and now we find that the people have grown and developed until there is widespread civilization on every hand, and the people are growing and developing in every line, and along the line of advancement when such questions of prohibition just as they did the gambling question which brought that question to a swift and commendable end. It will sweep the state as did this question, and I have no fear that it will ever be necessary to tack it on to the constitution. There is a way to solve this problem which I will discuss, and that is by removing the tax and the revenue upon the liquor. If there were no tax upon it the sale and manufacture would be so greatly impaired that it could ever exist and while it still might be manufactured every man who wished could have his own barrel within his cellar, and some fools might drink themselves to death, but so long as there is a license upon the liquor just so long will there be conditions that are now agitating the people. Every child, and every woman, man and child has heard this discussed on all sides, every one is familiar with it, but if it were submitted to the people no matter which way the vote[s] were cast it would still be unsettled. And so far as the members of the constitutional [convention] is concerned they have all made up their minds on the question, some one way or another, and this is their right as it is the right of all people; but this question is purely policy. We might be asked to submit every question that comes up just as we have been asked to submit this one, but we cannot do so. Gentlemen, this is a solemn question, and one that should not be attached to our constitution, but should be met only by such methods as each municipality and county can meet it unless it becomes a national question, then we could make it a state-wide issue. Mr. Chairman, I say that we should support the majority report, and I am not willing this measure should be an appendage any more than I was willing that it should be a part thereto, or in the constitution. Therefore, I favor the majority report.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, if the remarks and expressions of my colleagues Mr. Franklin and Mr. Webb of Graham County are also true, then the gentleman from Cochise and his arguments are very illogical. If the vote is lost the question is settled and if the vote for prohibition is not defeated then it is settled and should be, but the arguments of the gentleman from Cochise are illogical and full of blow holes. (laughter and much applause)

Mr. Cunningham: If my arguments are full of blow holes I should say that the arguments of the gentleman from Graham and from Maricopa were nothing but bubbles, for I based my arguments on theirs.

Mr. Webb: I did not intend to convey the idea that submitting the question to the people would settle the matter forever in the light you have taken it, for I did not presume to say just which way the people would vote. They may vote for it or they may defeat it and whichever way the people vote so should the question be determined. If the majority of the people vote against the measure it will be lost and if they vote for it, it will be carried and this is what should be done. It should be determined by the people and not by the members of this convention.

Mr. Crutchfield: I have a few words to offer upon this question. I will first address my remarks to the prohibitionists. There seems to be a question whether this amendment would militate against prohibition or not. As a prohibitionist I rather think it will be defeated. It would only get about forty to forty-five percent of the voters, but this forty percent of the voters who are in favor of state-wide prohibition should like to have gone on record to prove to certain people what we are in Arizona and to remove from their mind some of the terrible pictures they have of us. They think we are a people given to drunkenness, robbery, debauchery and murders, and that no civilization prevails here to any extent. They think that we live only that frontier life which deals only with the worst forms of living and that civilization is foreign to us. I should like for them to know that I was a partner in the great cause of prohibition to wipe out all the terrible crime and sin that liquor brings. I am jealous for the good of Arizona among the Eastern states, and I would like to wipe out this terrible stigma upon our fair name. As an anti-saloonist I desire to blot from this territory any such pictures as they have of us.

To the anti-prohibitionists I desire to say a word or two: Are you afraid that if it is submitted to the people that they will vote against it and endanger statehood? Now I say there is no danger of endangering the statehood bill for this is an entirely different matter and can be omitted from the constitution if it is lost, but if it is carried then it is the voice of the people and should be incorporated into the constitution, but I do not think that you have any cause to fear for I believe that it is stronger for your question than it is for prohibition, and as to the danger of the people turning this constitution down [it] is no danger at all. I am reminded of a gentleman who went to see the circus. He took his wife with him and as he was a deacon he did not desire to attend any of the performances so he took his wife by the hand and led her around to look at the animals. They came to the hippopotamus. He look[ed] at him from one side to the other, from the head to the extreme parts, from every side he did view him, on the left and on the right, walking from North to South, from East to the West and when he had finished his view he remarked, "Sarah, there just ain't no such animal." Now the people will never turn this constitution down, neither will they turn anti-prohibitionists down, but gentlemen it is only Democratic [sic] to give unto the people the right to vote upon the measure. I appeal to you men as Democrats that this is a question that should be given to the control of the people and we have no right to withhold their right to express themselves upon this question. I do not believe it is fair to do so. The people are willing to vote upon it and abide by the result of that vote. And against it is the economy to vote upon the question now. As has been stated before it will save between thirty to forty thousand dollars to submit the question now and we as Democrats and the majority in this convention should be willing to not only grant the people the right to vote upon the question but to save the extra cost of an election at a later day for the question is so widespread that it cannot be killed.

As a warning, that if you defeat the American people's right to vote upon this question you are going to make the sentiment in favor of prohibition. You are giving them fair play upon it. If you defeat the prohibition measure today you are giving the prohibitionist something to do for this one step against it today will only add numbers to the foe of the majority report and numbers to the fight which is now on. I do not want to do only that which is just and right in this matter as well as all others and I do not wish to endanger our constitution or to defeat it or delay it in the slightest degree but I claim that it will neither defeat nor delay statehood for it is a provision of the Enabling Act that the constitution should be submitted to the people as well and they are not going to turn the constitution down. Now I beg you to meet this question squarely and in a Democratic [sic] spirit and grant that the voice of the people may say whether or not this shall be in the constitution.

Mr. Cunniff: Question.

Mr. Jones: Question.

Mr. Tovrea: Question.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, it has been intimated that the arguments of the gentlemen from Cochise was [sic, were] full of blowholes and that the argument of the gentleman from Graham was [sic, were] bubbles, and if this is true, then the arguments of the gentleman from Maricopa is a whole stirring of bubbles and long enough to reach around the globe.

In the first place the gentleman from Maricopa states that the question if submitted to the people would get only forty or forty-five percent of the votes in favor of prohibition and that the great majority of votes which would be cast against it would defeat it overwhelmingly, but those votes which were cast for state-wide prohibition would influence the Eastern states as to what we were in Arizona and that these terrible pictures that they have of us would be blotted out. Now my friends, I say that if that is the purpose of bringing this question before the people, I say that it was better by far that the question never be submitted, for if forty-five percent of the people would be the number who would represent civilization and the rest the criminals, the murderers, the debauchers, then it were better if the people never voted upon the question. If this vote is to show the caliber of citizens of this territory, then I say that the question should never be submitted to the people, for we will stand a much better chance for a high position [in] the estimation of the East by not voting upon the question than to have it turned down by such an overwhelming majority as the brother predicts that there would be, and the brother says "That to vote against Prohibition here will make Prohibition votes." Now I say that if that is the case let us defeat it and get those votes. I would just like to refer you to a man whom you all are familiar with, the Honorable Eugene H. Chapin, former Prohibition candidate for president of the United States, who says that state-wide prohibition is a failure, and the solution of the question would require it to be a national issue, and if we can depend upon the words of a man who has given his best efforts to this question we surely can take his advice in the matter of state-wide prohibition.

I would also give you the statements of another ardent advocate of prohibition, that person is O. Gibson of Tombstone, the Prohibition candidate for delegate to Congress, who said, "If you can secure direct legislation, that first principle of right of the people, that would be all the prohibitionists would ask." And he made a statement just before the county convention in Cochise County this fall.

Now, Mr. Chairman, referring to the frequent appeal for the exercise of the principle of the initiative and referendum in this matter, and the question why state-wide prohibition should be discriminated against, I would suggest that the terms of the initiative and referendum have not yet been complied with. If the principle is now to be applied to prohibition why discriminate in favor of at least eleven other matters concerning which the convention was divided, or why should we discriminate against these two questions, prohibition and a suffrage question or why other propositions that are to be a part of this constitution. Now we could just as well submit every question that comes before this house in just the same way, but what is the use of making a constitution and having it subdivided in such a way. If we are going to have [a] constitution let us make one that contains only such principle [sic] and fundamental laws that there will be no entanglements with another question that can hinder or endanger the ratification or approval of the constitution. As far as my own county is concerned we did not put these questions in the platform and we frankly stated that the questions were settled as far as our county was concerned and we are not breaking any pledges or our faith with anyone when we refuse to vote for either one of the questions submitted to the convention as matters for separate submission. Personally, I believe in prohibition and would be willing to give to the people the right to determine this question as a regional issue or in each county or community, and it is their right to maintain prohibition if the majority of the people vote for it, but as a state-wide measure, and a part thereto to this constitution, I am opposed and I give my support to the majority report.

Mr. Winsor: Question.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 411-417)

[e939415] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll and those who vote "aye" will vote against prohibition as a matter of separate submission, and those who vote "nay" will vote for prohibition to be submitted to the people.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would like to be sure about this vote. What is the question?

Mr. Chairman: Mr. Crutchfield moved that when the committee arise it recommend the adoption of the minority report, and Mr. Keegan moved to amend the motion that when the committee arise that is recommend the adoption of the majority report. The question is on the amendment of Mr. Keegan, and those who vote "aye" will vote against prohibition as a question for separate submission and those who vote "nay" will vote for prohibition as a question for separate submission.

[e939440] Mr. Chairman: The question before the house is on the majority report as amended.

Mr. Goldwater: I would suggest to save time that we vote on the first proposition.

Mr. Webb: The same procedure is being followed this time as on the question last passed, and the question now is on the original motion made by the gentleman from Cochise that the majority report be adopted, and the amendment offered by myself, and entertained by the chair, that the minority report be adopted.

[e939443] [Remarks by Webb of Graham missing from all copies. In one copy only the last two words "religious liberty" are found and the note that it was followed by great applause.]

Mr. Franklin: I was told a long time ago that repentance never follows an act well done, and while our Republican friends have joined with the majority of this convention in refusing to yield to the popular will, I am not repentant and am still in favor of the people in Arizona controlling the affairs of Arizona, and therefore, hope this minority report will prevail.

Mr. Cooper: I should like to say just one word, in defense of at least a portion of this minority. I am not speaking with any authority for any except the five delegates from Pima County. I think I voice their sentiments in what I am about to say. I do not think this convention had been assembled more than forty-eight hours when we were informed that on account of the fact that we were in a lonesome minority, and unfortunately for our situation in this convention, Republicans, (I am not going to endeavor to say what authority the man who gave us the information—we got it,) we might as well understand from the beginning that any proposition submitted by the Republicans to this convention, if they carried with them any popularity or any merit, would be immediately turned down, and a proposition so modified and presented that the Democratic majority would have whatever honor and credit there seemed to be in the proposition. That did not hurt our feelings particularly. There have been few occasions passed on this floor where opportunity occurred for the Republicans did not vote with the majority, to cast some reflection upon this Republican minority, and I want to say that has not hurt our feelings either. A great deal has been said about loyalty to constituents, and that has seemed to have been the guiding star on this floor. It seems absolutely useless for us of the minority to explain our votes under existing conditions. Hence, we have kept quiet. I wish to say to those gentlemen who are making grand speeches on loyalty while we are not saying anything we have some of the same loyalty to the people we represent, who are a part of the people of this territory, and we want statehood just as hard as anyone in this territory, although we may differ as to our ideas as to what will get statehood, and I think no one has the right to cast aspersions on our motives in voting. I simply wish to make this statement as an explanation, if any is due, of the votes we in the minority cast.

Mr. Webb: I simply desire to say that I at least, and none of us probably are responsible for the information given to the gentleman from Pima county.

Mr. Cooper: The information came to us not in Pima county but in this convention.

Mr. Webb: The question I desire to ask is whether this information has been verified or proven incorrect from the attitude of the majority toward the minority during the session of this convention.

Mr. Cooper: I will say to that, we have not taken the opportunity to find out.

Mr. Cunniff: I shall not take more than a minute and a half. (applause) The minority in good faith made a statement in good faith that they would work harmoniously without regard to their political party, and the majority I believe accepted their assurance in the same good faith. The majority have accepted on the floor of this convention and in committees the suggestions made by the minority members. Both majority and minority are doing the same kind of work in making this constitution, and I wish to say that I am proud of the minority and proud of the majority, and proud of the civilization of Arizona that this should be so.

[e939445] Mr. Chairman: The question before the committee is whether we shall adopt the minority report as amended. All those in favor will say "aye;" opposed "no." Call the roll.

Mr. Webb: You will pardon me. Those who vote "aye" will vote for the separate submission of woman suffrage. Those who vote "no" will vote against it.

Roll call showed 19 "ayes" and 30 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 419)

[e939449] Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost. The question now comes up in the first motion; the adoption of the majority report. All those in favor of the majority report will make it known by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The "ayes" have it. The next proposition before the committee is Proposition Number 112.

32.24 Thursday, 17 November 1910, at 14:00 (s16125)

[e939399] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. The first on the calendar for consideration is Proposition Number 112. As these propositions all border on the same proposition, possibly it would expedite matters if we consider them as a whole. Number 119 seems to be the one substituted for all of these, and possibly it would be better to have the report on Number 119 read first.

Mr. President: Your committee on ordinance begs leave to report it has examined Propositions Numbers 112, 3, 121, 124, 119 and 19, and respectfully recommend the indefinite postponement of Numbers 112, 3, 121, 124, [and] 19, as the substance of the same is incorporated in Number 119.

[Editor's Note: Proposition Number 19 is included in the version of the report the Secretary reads out. However, this is not part of the original report and is presumably added later, as Proposition Number 19 had previously been postponed to be considered alongside Proposition Number 119.]

[e939764] Mr. Hunt: I move the committee of the whole, when it arise, recommend that Proposition Number 119 do pass as amended.

Mr. Roberts: I second the motion.

[e939765] Mr. Franklin: I notice in this ordinance, which has been adopted by the committee, that in a great many instances they use the term "legislature."

(Editorial)

[e939767] Mr. Winsor: I rise to a point of order. If the matter is going to be discussed, it should be discussed section by section.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 423)

[e939770] Mr. Hunt: I withdraw my motion.

Mr. Roberts: I withdraw my second.

[e939773] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that we consider this section by section. Are there any objections? We will take up the first section.

[e939775] [Editor's note: The editors have created a blank version of Proposition Number 119 in order to replicate the process of considering the Proposition section by section.]

(Editorial)

[e939782] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will take up the first section.

[e939784] Mr. Crutchfield: While I signed the committee's report, I see no reason for adding the words "or lack of the same" which words are not in the Enabling Act. I can see no reason why these words should be added, and I move they be stricken out.

Mr. Simms: I second the motion.

[e939786] Mr. Goldwater: I do not desire to make any talk about this matter at all. I think the gentleman's motion to strike out these words is sufficient reason for keeping them in. It is very probable that a great many people in the United States have no mode of worship. If you ask what church they belong to, they will answer none, and if you say no person shall be deprived of property on account of mode of worship, why not say the same thing if he has no mode of worship whatsoever. The mere fact that the gentleman wishes it out, convinces me that it is highly necessary it should be in.

Mr. Crutchfield: I will just say in answer to my honorable colleague on this committee that I said over and over again in the committee I had no objection to it, and I can see no reason for it. I cannot conceive of circumstances where a man would be molested because of lack of religious worship. Under a republican form of government, there can never be any means brought to bear on a man to prevent his exercising his right to religious freedom.

Mr. Chairman: All in favor of this motion will make it known by the usual sign; opposed "no."

Mr. Baker: I think the ground of the gentleman from Maricopa well taken here. Congress by virtue of this Enabling Act provided certain ordinances. Now Congress has not seen fit in this enabling act to add "or for lack of same." Why go beyond what they want? We ought to limit it to what Congress has limited it [to.]

423-424)

[e939791] Roll call showed 14 "ayes" and 32 "nays."

[e939792] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any other amendments to this section? If not, we will consider it passed.

[e939800] Mr. Chairman: [...] Proceed to section 3.

[e939803] Mr. Parsons: I move that the section be amended by adding the word "intoxicating" before the word "liquors" in line 2.

Mr. Goldwater: I would state that the word "intoxicating" does not appear in the Enabling Act.

Mr. Simms: I second the motion of Mr. Parsons.

[Editor's Note: It is unclear what version of the proposition Mr. Parsons refers to here, as the original Proposition Number 119 already had the word "intoxicating" before the word "liquors" in the line indicated. However, it is possible that this was a change made in the Committee on Ordinance's amendments, which are not available.]

(Editorial)

[e939806] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of this will make it known by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

(Editorial)

[e939808] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any other amendments to section 3? If not, we will consider the section passed.

[e939811] Mr. Chairman: [...] What is your pleasure with section 4?

[e939812] Mr. Chairman: [...] Do I hear any amendments? If not, this section will stand approved as read, and we will pass to section 5.

[e939814] Mr. Chairman: [...] If not, this section will stand approved as read, and we will pass to section 5. Any amendments or corrections?

[e939815] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me while this may have the same meaning, but it is quite different in the first two or three lines from which it is in the enabling act. There is a possibility of some difference in meaning, and I think the language of the Enabling Act is better. I would like to have someone explain why the change is made.

Mr. Goldwater: As I look at it the language of the Enabling Act reads in the present tense "The people who are now residing" shall not be taxed any higher than those living within the territory or state, and the language used by the committee is to the effect that if a man who is now living here moves away he has the same rights as a non-resident.

[e939818] Mr. Franklin: In order to conform to this Enabling Act, if it means the same as the language of the committee report, let us have it read as in the enabling act. I therefore move the words "who are or may become non-residents of" on line 14 be stricken out, and in lieu the words "residing without" be inserted.

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 424-425)

[e939819] Rising vote showed 26 in favor and 10 against.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried. Those words will be inserted.

[e939820] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any further amendments? If not, this section will be passed.

[e939823] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will now consider section 6. You have heard the sixth section, if there are no amendments we will consider it passed.

[e939827] Mr. Ingraham: In line 9 on page 3, it is provided that nothing in this Enabling Act nor this ordinance shall be construed as legalizing or validating, etc. It does not seem to me that this ordinance can in any way construe [another version corrects to say "control"] the enabling act. It is proper to say "nothing in this ordinance" but why say the Enabling Act shall not be construed. We cannot control that. I move the words "in said Enabling Act nor" be stricken out.

[...]

Mr. Parsons: I second Mr. Ingraham's motion.

[e939830] Mr. Franklin: I think it is the evident purpose of this Enabling Act to prevent all laws being passed which will conflict with the provisions of this ordinance. I notice the Enabling Act used the word "legislature." Now under the initiative and referendum the people may pass a law. Therefore I move that after the word "legislature" the words "or of the people" [sic. "or the people"] be inserted on line 14, page 3.

Mr. Cunningham: I would like to ask the gentleman if the first sentence does not correct that defect. It is to be irrevocable by the people.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion of Mr. Franklin.

Mr. Parsons: I second Mr. Ingraham's motion.

[e939832] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment of the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Ingraham. All in favor of that amendment signify by the usual sign; opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the motion is carried.

[e939834] Mr. Chairman: [...] All in favor of the amendment of Mr. Franklin answer "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is carried.

[e939836] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any other amendments or corrections? If not, we will proceed with the seventh section.

[e939840] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any other amendments or corrections? If not, we will proceed with the seventh section.

[e939844] Mr. Weinberger: The Enabling Act provides that provision shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools, and there is a question in my mind whether we have complied with this provision. We have stated here that the legislature shall provide, yet it seems to be it is desired by the Enabling Act that this constitution shall provide for this rather than direct the legislature.

[e939851] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move as an amendment that in the last line the word "always" be inserted between the words "shall" and "the" on the 19th line.

Mr. Wood: I second the motion.

[Editor's Note: There is no 'the' on line 19. The Minutes say on page 203, "Mr. Cunniff moved to amend line nineteen, page three by inserting after the word 'shall' the word 'always'".]

(Editorial)

[e939853] The motion prevailed.

[e939855] Mr. Bolan: I move in the seventh paragraph between the words "legislature" and "shall" on line 16 be inserted the words "or the people."

[e939857] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection, the words will be inserted.

Mr. Cunniff: I object to that. It is a curious thing for the people of Arizona to command the people of Arizona to do so and so. Here the people are commanding the legislature.

Mr. Parsons: I think the position of the gentleman from Yavapai is eminently correct. We want in this constitution to make it mandatory on the legislature, and not on the people.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 425-426)

[e939859] Mr. Franklin: With the consent of Mr. Bolan, I will amend that motion to read as follows: On page 7, [sic. 3] line 16, "that provision shall be made by law" strike out the words "The legislature shall suitably."

[e939860] Mr. Bolan: I accept that amendment.

[e939862] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I rise for information. Will not the educational committee prepare a system of public schools whereby this will be in the constitution? Therefore it will not be necessary to provide something already in the constitution.

Mr. Parsons: I would like to point out that the Enabling Act says we must do it; Congress would otherwise have good grounds to reject our constitution.

Mr. Lynch: It seems to me "legislature" would be a generic term covering all law-making bodies, as a matter of organic law.

Mr. Cunniff: I agree with the gentleman from Graham. All that is necessary is to say "provision shall be made," and the ground is covered.

Mr. Franklin: As I understand the motion of Mr. Bolan as amended by myself, this constitution of Arizona is law as well as any act passed by the legislature or the people. The law in this constitution is the supreme law; while the law passed by the people is subordinate to law. They are both law. Now in order to comply strictly, it will read, if you adopt Mr. Bolan's amendment "provision shall be made by law."

[e939863] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the motion will make it known by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is carried.

[e939865] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will now proceed to the eighth paragraph.

[e939877] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will now proceed to the eighth paragraph.

[e939880] Mr. Baker: I would like to inquire of the committee why the words "county and municipal officers" are there in addition to the provisions of the Enabling Act? It only says "state officers and officers of the legislature."

[e939884] Mr. Ingraham: I now make the motion I made a short time ago, that in the eighth paragraph it shall be made to read "the state shall never enact" instead of the "legislature," etc.

[e939888] Mr. Chairman: Are there any objections? If not, the amendment will be accepted.

[e939893] Mr. Cunningham: I move to strike out the words “county and municipal” in the first line of this paragraph.

Mr. Franklin: I second the motion.

[e939895] Mr. Parsons: While the statement made by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Baker, that the Enabling Act does not require us to go further than state officers is true, I don’t think there is anything wrong in putting in here the municipal and county officers.

Mr. Cunningham: This ordinance is too irrevocable without the consent of Congress and the people of Arizona. It may become necessary to make some changes and Congress would not be apt to do so. I think we had better leave it alone.

Mr. Parsons: If there was any possibility of wanting any change, that might be true, but I do not believe that there will ever come a time when we will want this changed.

Mr. Baker: Bear in mind, now Mr. Chairman, what we are doing now. We are not enacting any law now; we are simply obeying the dictates of the compact and Congress has laid down the exact words as to what the compact shall be, and we cannot go beyond or fall short of this. We should simply copy the exact terms. This is a very important matter; this is a very particular matter. I think we ought to adhere strictly to the Enabling Act in this ordinance.

Mr. Cunniff: I agree with the gentleman from Maricopa that we ought not to fall short of the Enabling Act, but I do not agree as to not going beyond it.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 426-427)

[e939896] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment will stand; opposed likewise.

Rising vote showed 25 in favor and 17 against.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e939897] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any other amendments? If not we will consider it as passed.

[e939898] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will now consider section 9. What shall we do with it? If there are no objections it stands passed.

[e939899] Mr. Ingraham: I move that the phrase “for that purpose” be inserted in line 3 after the word “legislature.”

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion.

[e939901] Mr. Ingraham: I think we should be careful to follow as closely as possible the wording of the Enabling Act.

Mr. Parsons: Will the gentleman yield to a question? If we put the word "such" before "election" will not that serve the purpose?

Mr. Ingraham: I don't think the Enabling Act says that. It is evidently a mistake, but the motion I made was that after the word "legislature" in line 3 the phrase "for that purpose" be inserted.

[e939902] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the words "for that purpose" be inserted after the word "legislature." Those in favor will make it known by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is carried.

[e939905] Mr. Cunniff: I move that on line 4 we insert between the words "no" and "election" the word "such." I know that this is not in the Enabling Act but it is necessary.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e939906] The motion prevailed.

[e939907] Mr. Chairman: Proceed to section 10.

[e939908] Mr. Chairman: Proceed to section 10.

[e939911] Mr. Weinberger: I notice the wording of the Enabling Act is this: "that there be and are reserved to the United States with full acquiescence of the state," and I therefore move to insert after the word "United States" in line 6 these words "with full acquiescence of this state."

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 427-428)

[e939913] The motion prevailed.

[e939915] Mr. Franklin: I move in section 10, page 12, line 12, after the word "thereto" add the following: "to the same extent as if this state had remained a territory."

Mr. Weinberger: I second the motion.

[e939916] The motion prevailed.

[e939917] Mr. Chairman: Section 11 is next.

[e939919] Mr. Chairman: Section 11 is next.

[e939924] Mr. Parsons: The word “country” should be changed to “reservation.”

[Editor’s Note: It is unclear what version of the proposition Mr. Parsons refers to here, as the version of Proposition Number 119 preserved in the records already says “reservation” instead of “county”. However, it is possible that this was change is made in the Committee on Ordinance’s amendments, which are not available.]

[e939926] Mr. Chairman: Are there any objections to changing the word “country” to “reservations?” If not, the change will be made.

[e939927] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any further consideration of section 11? If not, it stands passed.

[e939929] Mr. Chairman: [...] Section 12.

[e939930] Mr. Cunniff: I move that on line 22 the word “hereto” be stricken out and the word “thereby” be inserted.

Mr. Franklin: I second the motion.

[e939931] The motion prevailed.

[e939934] Mr. Parsons: I notice in the Enabling Act the provision is that not only the people of the state do this but the state. It may be that some of the gentlemen would prefer this. When we say the people of a state do a thing, that is sufficient, but I think the people of the state do a great many things that constitute an organization that is not the act of the organization itself, and I think the wording of it should be the same as that of the Enabling Act, that there could not be any question raised as to that, that “the state of Arizona” as it reads in the Enabling Act “and its people.” They seem to think it necessary to use both the word “state” and “people,” and if the members of Congress thought that was essential I think they may think it essential for us to include it here. I therefore move that section 12, in line 20, be amended to conform to the requirements of the Enabling Act that “the state and the people thereof hereby consent.”

[e939938] Mr. Franklin: Mr. Parsons, will you accept an amendment that “the state of Arizona?”

[e939940] Mr. Parsons: Yes, sir.

Mr. Franklin: I second the motion.

[e939942] The motion prevailed.

[e939945] Mr. Chairman: This finishes the consideration of this proposition. We have on the calendar other propositions—

[e939948] Mr. Franklin: I move that when the committee arise it report to the convention with a recommendation that Proposition Number 119 as amended be adopted.

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

[e939952] Mr. Baker: I would like to offer one amendment to section 12, and I ask the gentlemen to refer to the Enabling Act on page 15. I think section 12 ought to be amended, and I will offer this amendment: “And no future constitutional amendment shall be made which in any manner changes or abrogates this ordinance in whole or in part without consent of Congress.”

Mr. Cunningham: I second the motion.

[e939955] Mr. Tuthill: Will the gentleman from Maricopa yield to a question? Judge, I would like to ask you if the first, third and fourth lines of the ordinance itself do not absolutely accomplish what you have in mind?

Mr. Baker: Not exactly in the language. Congress seems to have gone further in the latter clauses here and says “no future constitutional amendment shall be made which in any manner changes or abrogates this ordinance in whole or in part without consent of Congress.”

Mr. Ingraham: I would say, Mr. Chairman, that the first clause says this ordinance shall be irrevocable but it does not say it shall not be amended in any manner.

[e939962] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, will Judge Baker yield to a question? Will it not be as essential to add a clause in addition that this ordinance that we pass here shall be and become a part of the constitution that we are here making. I find in the second line of that last clause it says: "All of which ordinance described in this section shall, by proper reference be made a part of any constitution that shall be formed hereunder, in such terms as shall positively preclude the making of any future constitutional amendment of any change or abrogation of the said ordinance in whole or in part without the consent of Congress."

[Editor's Note: On page 204 of the Minutes it states that Baker proposed Section 13 as follows: 'Sec. 13. The foregoing ordinance is hereby made a part of the Constitution of the State of Arizona and no future constitutional amendment shall be made which in any manner abrogates or changes said ordinance in whole or in part without the consent of Congress.']

[e939963] Mr. Baker: I accept the amendment.

[e939964] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the amendments made by Mr. Baker and Mr. Parsons be made a separate section, section 13. All those in favor make it known by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is carried. Now, Mr. Franklin.

[e939967] Mr. Franklin: I renew the motion that when the committee arise it report to the convention that Proposition Number 119, introduced by the ordinance committee, be adopted as amended.

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

[e941171] Mr. Franklin: I move that when the committee arise it report to the convention a recommendation that Proposition Number 9 do pass.

Mr. Baker: I second the motion.

[e941179] Mr. Bradner: I wish to offer an amendment to insert the words "not more than" before the words "eight hours" in line 2.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e941183] Mr. Franklin: I cannot see that it adds anything.

Mr. Feeney: We do, Mr. Franklin. It adds a great deal.

Mr. Bradner: In saying that eight hours shall constitute a days' work, you might work eight hours, and then eight more.

Mr. Chairman: That would be two days' work.

Mr. Baker: I cannot conceive of that construction of the thing at all. Plainly to my mind there could not be two sets of a days' work of eight hours, and while I have not them before me, it strikes me that this is the exact language of almost all the statutes I have seen fixing the number of hours of labor. I think it is all right as it stands.

Mr. Feeney: It may not strike the Judge so, but it has been construed so in the east, and to get the proper construction put on it, labor has had to go to court. It has been construed in that way by superintendents of mines.

Mr. Baker: The superintendents do not construe what the law is. The courts construe.

Mr. Bradner: I want to say that when we make a contract with a superintendent we do not have access to the law to get the proper construction.

Mr. Curtis: Would this prevent police officers from working more than eight hours a day? If so it would be a hardship –

Mr. Feeney: On policemen? (applause)

[e941188] Mr. Cunniff: I would say that it does not cover police officers. I would like to offer an amendment which may be accepted by the gentleman from Cochise, that this shall read "eight hours and no more, shall constitute a day."

[e941190] Mr. Bradner: I accept the amendment.

Mr. Feeney: I accept the amendment. I want to say that labor will feel far better satisfied, and I believe you gentlemen are willing to make this positive.

[e941195] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of this amendment will make it known by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

(Editorial)

[e941496] Mr. Feeney: We have an eight hour law now, and a great many men work over eight hours, but eight hours constitutes a legal day's work, and after that he gets over-time.

Mr. Franklin: This excludes the possibility of over-time.

Mr. Feeney: All right, we do not want the over-time.

[e941682] Mr. Orme: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask for information. Does this mean a farmer cannot work a man for more than eight hours?

Mr. Chairman: I will say to the gentleman from Maricopa he will have to accompany that request with a retainer fee. The next proposition is Number 141.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 440-441)

[e941688] Mr. Chairman: [...] The next proposition is Number 141.

(Editorial)

[e941729] Mr. Simms: Mr. Chairman, this seems to be a rather broad proposition. Does it mean to say that a child after he leaves school in the spring cannot go to a factory and work. That a boy of 14 cannot go into the mills of Phoenix or any other place and work?

Mr. Chairman: I will say that when the president of the convention called me to the chair he did not endow me with power more than human, and unless he did, I could not answer the question.

Mr. Simms: It seems to me it is a little unfair, and I think we ought to encourage the boy rather than discourage him.

Mr. Keegan: I would say that it was the intention of this measure to keep children from working in the factories.

Mr. Winsor: I see it prohibits any minor child under the age of 15. I take it an adult child under 15 can work all he wants to.

[e941735] Mr. Feeney: I move that the word "minor" be stricken out.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e941759] Mr. Franklin: If you are going to strike out "minor," I move that the word "child" be stricken out and "person" be inserted.

[e941770] Mr. Short: I cannot see any material difference between person and child in this connection.

Mr. Moeur: I am heartily in favor of this proposition because I do not believe in anybody working who can help it. I think if the child had to make its own living and the only place it could get a job was in a mine or factory, it seems to me if you pass this bill you prohibit his getting employment and make him an object of poverty.

Mr. Jones: I agree with the doctor from Tempe, but while the meaning and intent of this measure I good, it will result in more harm than good as presented. "Manufacturing plant" is rather a broad term. A newspaper plant is a manufacturing plant in one sense of the word, and many boys are delivering papers after school. This would deprive those boys of a chance of helping themselves. In a fruit country, children of from 10 to 15 years of age are often employed to great advantage in their parents' fruit drying or canning yard.

Mr. Feeney: In every state throughout the east, and the entire nation, there is agitation against child labor, and as has been well said, there has been more destructive than constructive criticism in this convention, and while there are few large manufacturing plants in this territory now, they may increase and we of the labor party want this.

Mr. Weinberger: What is a manufacturing plant?

Mr. Feeney: Ask the Judge.

Mr. Bolan: I want to say a few words in favor of this bill. From practical experience, gentleman, and from working around a mine, I have seen this provision harshly abused, and I want it corrected. Take for instance, around the hoisting works in a mine, they employ children under the age of 15 years, where it is dangerous. As children they do not know the danger and consequently cannot use precautions that persons over 16 years of age would use. I have also seen them working underground. It is not the fault of the persons employing them, as the employers hire them as a favor. There is nothing we could do that would be of more good to the children.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Will the gentleman yield for a question? I am afraid the wording of this proposition will not prevent children working around a mine. It only provides in a mine.

Mr. Bolan: I am in favor of such an amendment, to include that too.

Mr. Ingraham: It seems to me there is a broad principle which has not been mentioned. I take it our farmers would not think of hitching yearling colts to a plough, and neither would any stockman who had a valuable colt put a saddle on him and ride him at one year old. I think the principle at the basis of this legislation is the same principle of conservation. I say if we work children, you will never work them as grown men. The cotton mills of the south and New England work children at 10 and 15 years, and they are grinding the children into profit so they may become diamonds or automobiles for the factory owners. I am in favor of the proposition.

[e941773] Mr. Chairman: All in favor of the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin, answer "aye;" opposed "no." The "nays" seem to have it; the "nays" have it.

[e941777] Mr. Ingraham: I wish to make an amendment to that amendment that in place of striking out the word "minor" we strike out the word "child."

Mr. Langdon: I second the motion.

[e941779] Mr. Chairman: Gentleman, you have heard Mr. Ingraham's motion. All in favor signify by answering "aye;" opposed "no." The "nays" have it. The motion is lost.

[e941780] The question recurs upon the original motion. All in favor; all opposed. The "ayes" have it, and it is so ordered.

[e941781] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move you that in line 2 after the second word "in" insert "or around" and after the fourth word "mine" insert "or in any."

[e941787] Mr. Osborn: As an amendment, I move that Proposition Number 141 be re-referred to the committee and get it up in good shape. I will say that I am heartily in favor of the principle involved in this proposition, but I think the language is not good, and we can get better wording.

[e941790] Mr. Chairman: We will have this work to do over again. The question comes up on the amendment of Mr. Ingraham [sic. Jones].

[e941794] Mr. Moeur: I would like to ask the gentleman a question. Will he define what he means by "around," would that cover a place half a mile from it?

Mr. Cunniff: I would say that no child shall be employed in a mining operation.

Mr. Short: I am in favor of a proposition of this kind, but I believe this is a little too drastic.

Mr. Ingraham: In regard to the criticism that "around" a mine might be construed to mean half a mile from it, I wish to say that I think we can trust the courts in construing this not to infringe upon the right to employ children in any manner.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Although I am an advocate of protections of child labor, this proposition is fatally defective. There is a question in my mind whether this would apply to smelters as it now reads, but it would apply to a widow woman making butter.

[e941797] Mr. Connelly: I move to amend in line 2 to strike out the words "in any mine, mill or manufacturing plant."

[e941799] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the amendment. Those in favor of this amendment will answer "aye" as their names are called; opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 11 "ayes" and 30 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is lost.

[e941806] Mr. Cobb: I move that this proposition be re-referred to the committee on labor, with instructions that they prepare a proposition making it mandatory on the first legislature to pass a child labor law.

Mr. Osborn: I second that motion.

[e941812] Mr. Colter: I think this proposition should be re-referred. I am heartily in favor of any measure of this kind, and I think children should have every social and educational advantage, and should not go against certain obstacles before they are of the age of 15 or 16.

Mr. Feeney: It seems strange, you are all in favor of the child labor law, but someone's butter factory or printing establishment or something else wants to hire a child not 15 years old. I am willing to let my boy (and he is dependent upon me altogether) go to the age of 15 without being employed. I want him to run loose out in the fields and have a good time. I had to go to work before 15, and I do not think it is right to make one under that age work. I think we are all agreed that we want a child labor law, and let us go to it.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I would like to know whether it would be better to make a child a pauper in the event he had no one to support him. Suppose your boy would be deprived of support by reason of death of all on whom he is dependent, would you want him to be dependent on charity? I know lots of boys in this town who are taking care of themselves in a good wholesome way, who you would make paupers by passing the present bill, and what I want is to see it re-referred.

Mr. Feeney: I do not want to make any of them paupers, and that is just why I want the child labor law. We are making too many paupers by lack of these laws. Society cries its eyes out for the widow and orphans, and here is an opportunity to act.

Mr. Cunniff: To get down to brass tacks, we have a pretty good proposition here, and the only difficulty seems to be on line 2. Let us get down to work and "saw wood."

[e941820] Mr. Chairman: All in favor of this motion to re-refer this matter to the committee in which it has been considered, to report an amplified bill, answer "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e941822] Mr. Chairman: [...] Now the motion recurs on the amendment adding the words "or about" after the word "in" on the second line, and the words "or in any" before the word "factory" in the second line. Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e941828] Mr. Cunniff: I offer an amendment that the words "or ore reduction works" be added.

[e941835] Mr. Simms: I would like to amend that to read "railroad or telegraph companies."

[e941853] Mr. Weinberger: I think we are getting into deeper water every minute. Our idea seems to have the legislature enact certain suitable legislation concerning child labor. I move to amend the entire proposition to read as follows: "The legislature at its first session shall enact suitable legislation concerning employment of child labor."

[e941867] Mr. Chairman: The question is upon the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai to add "or ore reduction works."

Mr. Connelly: None of these amendments cover the point. What we want is to get a law passed that will protect all children up to 15 years of age. You can talk about factories and railroads, but you leave out other things. I have known girls under 15 years of age working in "hash houses," working 14 hours a day. These are the kids we want to take care of. I am from a smelter town, and I have seen young girls working in the smelter. We want to take care of these children whether in a factory, mine or anywhere.

Mr. Chairman: I know the suffragists regret that the gentleman did not wake up in time for the discussion yesterday. The question is upon the motion of Mr. Cunniff. Those in favor ...

Mr. Feeney: Mr. Chairman, we labor men are willing to take a chance on the legislature, and Mr. Connelly's amendment was not going to do anything but give the legislature full opportunity to enact the law.

[e941869] Mr. Ingraham: I demand a roll call. I want the gentlemen to go on record on this proposition.

[e941872] Mr. Crutchfield: I wish to explain my vote. I have voted for this amendment, but I do not believe in any amendment to this line, as I believe every particular we add to this line will cut out necessarily other particulars.

[e941875] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll.

[e941878] Mr. Webb: I should say I should have desired not to vote. This is a matter of entire indifference to me, but I am glad to meet my friend from Cochise on common ground and say I too am willing to trust the first legislature of Arizona, and I am willing to leave legislative matter to that legislature and I do not suppose that all the virtues are possessed by this convention, and the next legislature may be just as desirous of enacting these measures as the gentlemen of the convention. I may say you can juggle with these words and you will still leave it to the first legislature, and they can do whatever they please.

[e941891] Mr. Franklin: I would ask the unanimous consent of this convention to propose a substitute for Proposition Number 141 as follows: "That the first legislature of the State of Arizona shall enact suitable legislation for the protection of child labor."

Mr. Ingraham: I second that motion.

[e941898] Mr. Cunniff: I beg to point out we are not endeavoring to protect but to forbid child labor.

[e941903] Mr. Weinberger: I offer an amendment "that the first legislature shall enact suitable laws prohibiting the employment of children under fifteen years of age."

[e941912] Mr. Chairman: The question is upon the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai; that the words "or ore reduction works" be added. Those in favor will answer "aye" as their names are called; opposed "no."

Mr. Colter: I want to rise to explain my vote. I will have to vote "no," because I am against the proposition as it is. I am certainly in favor of the intent of the proposition, but I am anxious to see some more George Washingtons, some good business men, some more good professors in these United States, and I do not want them handicapped by a child not being able to go to work before the age of 15 years.

Mr. Connelly: I rise to explain my vote. It is different from Mr. Colter's. I will vote for it, but I would like to see it cover more ground.

Mr. Crutchfield: I rise to explain my vote. I do not think we should enumerate these unless every possible form be covered. I vote "aye" on this amendment.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I want to explain my vote. I am in favor of an adequate provision preventing child labor in hazardous or unwholesome occupations. I vote "no" on this because I believe this proposition is an abortion.

Mr. Osborn: I would like to explain my vote. As the gentleman from Yuma wants to put all men who are opposed to this proposition on record, I am glad to say I am as heartily in accord as the gentleman from Yuma or any other man in the house with protecting children. I would like to leave this to the legislature, as I have as much faith in the next legislature as in this convention, and therefore, I have to vote no.

Mr. Short: I think it is up to me to explain my vote. I am heartily in favor of allowing the legislature to pass something regulating the employment of children, and this will simply be a matter of imperfect legislation with this amendment, if it is going to pass. I hope this will not pass, and I am going to vote against the measure.

[e941923] Motion of Mr. Cunniff to amend line two, page one by inserting the words "or ore reduction works" carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Baker, Bolan, Bradner, Cobb, Coker, Connelly, Crutchfield, Cunniff, Cunningham, Ellinwood, Feeney, Goldwater, Ingraham, Jones, A. M., Keegan, Langdon, Lovin, Moore, Morgan, Parsons, Roberts, Sims, R. B., Tovrea, Weinberger, Winsor, Wood, Mr. President. Total 27.

Nays—Colter, Franklin, Hutchinson, Jones, F. A., Kinney, Moeur, Orme, Osborn, Pusch, Scott, Short, Simms, Mit, Webb, White. Total 14.

Absent—Cassidy, Curtis, Kingan, Lynch, Standage, Tuthill.

Excused—Cooper, Doe, Jacome, Wells, Wills.

[e941933] Mr. Winsor: I offer the following amendment: "To strike out the entire proposition as it now appears, and insert in lieu thereof the following: it shall not be lawful in the State of Arizona to employ any child under the age of 15 years in any hazardous or unwholesome capacity, and the legislature shall enact suitable laws to enforce the provisions hereof." I want to point out that our constitution is one of limitations, and that the legislature or the people can do whatever they are not specifically prohibited from doing. Therefore, they could pass all the child labor laws they want without any order from the constitutional convention. On the other hand, with all the orders and mandates in the world they could not be compelled by this convention to pass any child labor law at all. Therefore, I do not think you are accomplishing anything definite by the proposition you have. What you want, to my mind, is a constitutional prohibition against the employment of children under the age of 15 years, and I submit the proposition I have prepared absolutely prohibits the employment of children under the age of 15 years. I think it is unwise to go into detail naming the employments, inasmuch as you have here a fundamental basis on which a law may be founded, and the legislature, if it can be trusted at all, can be trusted to cover the ground fully.

Mr. Hunt: I second the motion of the gentleman from Yuma.

[e941937] Mr. Connelly: Will the gentleman yield for a question? I would like to have you interpret what it means by "hazardous or unwholesome capacity."

[e941943] Mr. Winsor: I would like to amend this to follow the Oklahoma provision in this regard, which reads "that the employment of children under the age of 15 years in any occupation injurious to health or morals or especially hazardous to life and limb is hereby prohibited, and the legislature shall enact suitable laws to carry this provision into effect."

[e941947] [Editor's Note: Winsor amends his own amendment, so it did not require a vote by the Convention in order to be incorporated.]

(Editorial)

[e941960] Mr. Cunniff: The proposition we have before us is very much better than the proposition suggested by the gentleman from Yuma. In the first place we do not want to prohibit the employment of all children under the age of 15, because there are boys under that age who work after school selling papers. There are occupations which are hazardous or unwholesome to children under the age of 15 which are not hazardous and unwholesome occupations, and the matters of interpretation of these words has been carried to the supreme court of the United States. The only question about the proposition as it stands is to cover all the occupations which should be covered in Arizona, and I think the proposition is good as it stands.

Mr. Bolan: Before the question is put, I would like to say in regard to this amendment that since Oklahoma has become a state, and since this constitution for Oklahoma was written I have had opportunity to talk with citizens of Oklahoma in regard to this measure of child labor, and I find aid societies and humane societies in Oklahoma say it does not prohibit child labor in Oklahoma in the coal mines, and there are as many children working in these mines as before, and consequently I think this will not do any good, and I hope this amendment will not pass.

[e941996] Mr. Franklin: I wish to propose an amendment to the action of the gentleman from Yuma, so it shall read as follows: "The first state legislature shall enact suitable laws to protect child labor."

[e942009] Mr. Short: We seem to make haste slowly in this matter, and I think the proposition that is submitted as a substitute by my colleague from Yuma almost coincides with my views.

Mr. Connelly: We are getting right back into the old rut where Oklahoma is. They prohibited child labor under certain conditions. They also say that children may work in the mines if they get the consent of their parents or guardians.

Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the gentleman a question. The gentleman from Cochise states that the constitution of Oklahoma goes on to say that the children can be employed in certain capacities with the consent of their parents, but I want to point out that the provision proposed by myself does no such thing.

Mr. Connelly: No, but you do not say they cannot work there.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 447)

[e942011] Mr. Franklin: I rise to a point of order.

Mr. Chairman: State your point of order.

Mr. Franklin: The question here is on the amendment to the amendment. That amendment was made on the motion of the gentleman from Yuma.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 447)

[e942012] Mr. Connelly: I move that the gentleman's point of order is not well taken.

[e942014] Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Cochise has the floor. The point of order is not well taken.

[e942019] Mr. Connelly: Mr. Webb said the Oklahoma constitution was no good. They can work children if the parents or guardians will make an affirmation that they have got to do it to live, and you know as well as I do that you can get some parents to swear to an oath on a stack of Bibles as high as the Capitol, just to get the two or three dollars the kid earns. So far as the kids having to sell newspapers, I do not believe it is right for the kids to have to get out on cold, frosty mornings to sell any papers, and I believe that the only solution of this problem is to prohibit the child labor under 15 years of age.

Mr. Orme: What are we going to do with the pages in the convention?

[e942021] Mr. Chairman: The next convention cannot have them. The question is on the adoption of the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa, as to have heard it read. If you desire to have it read again it will be done. And the amendment offered by the gentleman from Yuma. All those in favor of the amendment offered by Mr. Franklin manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e942024] Mr. Chairman: [...] The motion recurs upon the amendment of the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Winsor. Those in favor will manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion prevails, and it is so ordered. A roll call has been demanded. The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 22 "ayes" and 20 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment has been adopted.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 447-448)

[e942053] Mr. Webb: I move that when the committee do arise it report to the convention that it has examined Proposition Number 141 and recommend that the same be adopted as amended.

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

[e942058] Mr. Jones of Yavapai raised the point of order that Mr. Webb's motion was out of order.

[e942060] Chair sustained motion of Mr. Webb.

[e942118] Mr. Jones of Yavapai, appealed from the decision of the Chair.

[e942122] Mr. Weinberger took the Chair and by rising vote of 23 to 18 Chair was sustained.

[e942067] Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Graham has moved that when the committee do arise it report to the convention recommending that Proposition Number 141—the substitute for Proposition Number 141, as amended by the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Winsor, be adopted—the report be that it be adopted. Are there any further remarks?

Mr. Ingraham: I move that the proposition be re-referred to the committee on labor.

Mr. Connelly: I second the motion.

[e942085] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion, that the proposition be re-referred to the committee on labor. Are you ready for the question? Those in favor will manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The chair is in doubt. The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, we have a proposition from the committee on labor which has engaged the attention of this committee for several hours, and I cannot see any logic in re-referring that proposition without any instructions back to the same committee. I cannot see that we are making any headway at all. Therefore, I vote no.

[e942100] Roll call showed 21 "ayes" and 22 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e942133] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I ask that my motion now be put.

Mr. Chairman: The question now is on the motion of the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Webb, when the committee do arise it recommend that Proposition Number 141 as amended by the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Winsor, be adopted. Those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e942194] Mr. Tovrea: I move the adoption of the report of the committee.
Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e942211] Mr. Cunniff: I am in favor of all propositions that are advantageous to labor, but I think this is not a proposition of that kind. It is one that would be a benefit to working men under certain conditions,—married men living around large mines, but it seems to me it would work unnecessary hardship on small mines in various parts of the country, and the men being employed being the ones who should have first consideration. It is a matter that would not be of advantage to them, and therefore, I feel that this matter is fixing the question of wages could very well be settled by a legislative enactment whereby distinctions could be made better than in the constitution. Therefor, I am opposed to this.

Mr. Feeney: Does the gentleman from Yavapai yield to a question?

Mr. Cunniff: Why, certainly.

Mr. Feeney: Will this work the greatest good to the greatest number?

Mr. Cunniff: This is a question that I can scarcely answer. I think it would probably be of assistance in towns like Bisbee, Jerome and Clifton, so far as the mining industry is concerned, and the number of men employed in these other sections would surpass the other.

Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I am in hopes that the convention will not see it to adopt this proposition, because, in my mind, it would absolutely be null and void, unconstitutional and in direct violation of the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States, simply because you deprive corporations, individual or association, from entering into a contract and saying when and how they shall pay their employees. The right to contract is a proper right in the sense of the Constitution of the United States. You cannot deprive anyone in this country of that right to make their contract in reference to the payment of their employees. This would invade that right, in my opinion.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I desire to say briefly that I have not gone into the merits of this question, or the effect it might have if it were a law, neither have I any desire to do so, as our writing [it] into our constitution could do nothing except cumber our constitution with something of no effect whatever. The legislature may or not may do that, or it will or will not do it, just as they please. It is not our work, and in writing it in here we are attempting to usurp their power. We are presuming that they will be incompetent or dishonest, and for that reason any proposition that is ineffective in any way only encumbers the constitution and I shall vote against [it.]

Mr. Feeney: I would like to ask the Judge a question. Are you familiar with the conditions that existed in the writing of the New York two-weeks or semi-monthly pay day law?

Mr. Baker: No sir, I am not familiar with the provision you refer to.

Mr. Feeney: The legislature passed a semi-monthly pay day in New York, and it was fought in the courts, and I am sure it was held to be constitutional.

Mr. Bradner: Massachusetts has a law that all firms and corporations have to pay their help every week, and Connecticut and Rhode Island also, and New York every two weeks.

Mr. Hunt: Isn't that a statutory law? It is not in the constitution.

Mr. Bradner: It must be constitutional if it is a statutory law.

Mr. Baker: The laws of this country—the Constitution of the United States—allow me and you to agree that if you work for me for one month I shall pay you ten dollars at stated times during the month until it amounts to one hundred dollars in all. There is no doubt but what that is a constitutional right under the Constitution of the United States. If you pass a law of this kind you deprive a man of the right of making a contract of that kind. You say that this legislature is wiser than the man who employs the man to work for him; that we know more about their interests, so we say positively by enactment that this employee shall be paid at stated times. What business would you have in this country with such a law overshadowing mines and corporations. I do not think you would have any business here in a short time.

Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of this report of the committee on labor. Those in favor will manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." A roll call is demanded. The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Short: On the same ground that I took in regard to the other, I shall be obliged to vote no. I think it is purely legislative.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 448-450)

[e942213] Roll call showed 18 "ayes" and 23 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e942246] Mr. Feeney, moved, seconded by Mr. Osborn, that when the Committee arise it recommend that Proposition No. 48 do pass[.]

[e942247] Mr. Short: I would like to offer an amendment to this proposition, in line 3 after the word "state" strike out the balance of that line. That will give road overseers an opportunity to employ such labor as they may be able to procure in working roads over the mountains and places where it is very difficult to secure citizens of the United States to do the work.

Mr. Chairman: The paragraph will not then make sense if you stop at the word "state."

Mr. Short: That is right, Mr. Chairman. Leave in the word "employment," and strike out "county and municipal," and change the word "works" to "work."

Mr. Orme: I second the motion.

[e942248] Mr. Cunniff: I wish to move an amendment here. The point is I have myself presented a proposition of this mind, Number 136. I wish to move that that matter between the brackets be incorporated here. This covers the ground.

[e942251] Mr. Hunt: I would like to ask if under this provision an Indian could be employed on public works.

Mr. Cunniff: Not unless they were Indians admitted to citizenship.

Mr. Hunt: In Gila county they employ a good many Indians.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to point out that this matter between brackets in Proposition Number 136 covers all the ground. It provides in cases where it is impossible to procure citizens of the United States that others may be employed, which seems to me to be a necessary provision.

Mr. Chairman: Do I understand the gentleman from Yavapai offers that as an amendment?

Mr. Cunniff: That is aiming to do the thing that the gentleman has in mind, and I think it is better.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 450-451)

[e942254] Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman from Yuma accept the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai?

Mr. Short: I would if it would mean the same thing.

[Editor's Note: The Chairman goes onto state that Cunniff's suggestion has not 'become an amendment yet', and later the two amendments are considered separately, which implies that it is dropped here as an amendment to Short's amendment because of Short's response.]

[e942283] Mr. Feeney: As a member of the labor committee, I would rather that none of it pass than to provide for those words in the brackets, for if there was ever a loophole left it is provided in those brackets, and I will vote against that.

Mr. Chairman: That has not become an amendment yet.

Mr. Franklin: Do I understand that Mr. Cunniff offers this proviso in brackets as an amendment?

Mr. Cunniff: Yes.

Mr. Chairman: Mr. Cunniff proposes to offer his proposition as an amendment to this.

Mr. Franklin: As this Proposition Number 48 now stands I support it, but if this provision embodied in the brackets is grafted in it, I shall opposed it for the reason it absolutely destroys—

Mr. Hunt: We have a lot of Indians, and it seems to me that we ought not to deprive them of that source of revenue. In Gila county the Indians make a living by building roads and such labor as that. They do not come in conflict with organized labor at all.

Mr. Chairman: It would seem to the chair that that would not be an amendment to the amendment made by the gentleman from Yuma.

Mr. Moeur: I am opposed to Proposition Number 48 from start to finish. It is not American. If we had to employ American labor some of the roads would not be finished in fifty years.

Mr. Ellinwood: I regret that I am opposed to this measure for no other reasons than those stated by the other members. If you pass this provision it would prevent the employment of a sculptor. The Bucky O'Neill monument would not have been erected. The Congressional Library in Washington would never have been built. You are barring out that class of people. I am sure that the framers of this bill did not have that in mind. There are certain things, such as the work of a sculptor which sometimes you have to get a foreigner to perform.

Mr. Baker: I would like to call the attention of the convention to this matter. I find that a similar section to this is in the constitutions of Idaho and Wyoming; so far as I know they were the only two states in the Union that have attempted to put anything like this in the constitution. I confess on the spur of the moment I have not had time to dig up the authorities on the question, but I find a note that says a proposition, if a treaty exists, will not be operative. It strikes me that this is a true statement of the matter. Take some of the aliens that come into this country on a treaty of the United States. We all know this is a treaty and I doubt very much, where they have a right to come in under a treaty, whether we can exclude them from employment upon public works or any work.

Mr. Weinberger: I want to ask the author of this proposition if there is any danger of the employment of such people on public works. I have not known of any instances in the territory, except the employment of Mexicans of the lowest class. I do not know that there is any reason to fear that anything of this kind will take place.

Mr. Bolan: Speaking from observation, and in cases where I know it to be a fact; people, citizens of the United States, were barred from working on the county roads when they could get any other kind of labor, simply because the men who were at the head of this department would not employ them, but employ foreign labor at the same price, and would not give them a chance to work and would give foreigners preference over these people for some cause or other. I do not attempt to state this cause. This has not only been in certain vicinities, but I understand from talks with people from various parts of the country, that it occurs quite frequently in different parts of the country; consequently I think they should have some protection. People who pay the taxes should have the preference in regard to this work.

Mr. Weinberger: I want to ask another question. Suppose a county or state enters into a contract with some firm or corporation for the construction of a building or a bridge. It seems to me the contracting parties have a right to their own privileges under the contract.

Mr. Bolan: That has been settled. They will not let them contract for alien labor or contract labor.

Mr. Feeney: You are speaking about when they could not get American citizens to work. You do not stop to think that in California no one but American citizens can work on the aqueduct, and they manage to get all the help they need, because the state has a law compelling them to pay good wages. I know that whenever Mexicans and this low element is used on municipal works there is also a line of nasty little grafting going on, and that is the condition that arises in most of the municipal works, and that is what we are striking at.

Mr. Orme: If you include the county and municipality here it would ruin this county for any work whatever. In letting a contract to build a bridge across the river here last summer we included ten thousand dollars worth of Indian work which the Indian department donated. During the summer it was impossible to get any white men except the experts to work on that bridge in any way, shape or form, and it is that way today. The American labor won't do it, and in working on our roads hauling gravel (which is the principal portion of the work here) nine-tenths of the men are Mexicans who do that hauling. It is utterly impossible to get an American to haul that gravel and the country would be absolutely at a loss, and it would be impossible to work a road in any way.

Mr. Franklin: With reference to the power of this state to do this thing, I am thoroughly convinced it has the power, for this is a different matter from prohibiting aliens, or any other person, from signing or contracting for employment. If this constitution should provide that nobody but aliens should have employment, it would, in my mind, be clearly unconstitutional, for the reason that under the treaty provisions of the various countries and the United States that is prohibited, but here this state is the contracting power itself. The mumunicipalities are making these contracts. If I am doing my work I have a right to say that I shall not employ an Italian or an Indian, or anybody I please, because I am making the contract. Here this state or its subdivisions may make these contracts and they have a right to say they will not employ certain individuals. So far as this is concerned, I think it is constitutional. On the other hand, I think it is a very good provision, and if it is left unrestricted I shall vote for it because I think it is a good regulation for the protection of our non-citizens. (applause)

Mr. Crutchfield: I would like to answer the argument of my colleague from Maricopa, Mr. Orme, [in] which he said it would be impossible to get labor. Now, I believe, it is hardly right to say that it is impossible to get labor for the proper price will bring sufficient labor at any time. It is a question of economy, probably, with cities and counties, and the state, also, but it is economy that is very poor indeed, when American citizens are to be denied positions and a low class of labor hired in their stead. I believe we can easily secure all the labor we need if we will pay the proper price for it. It is perfectly constitutional—furthermore it is perfectly right, and I am going to vote for it.

Mr. Moeur: This proposition is absolutely unjust. Talk about American citizens! Ninety per cent of us come from across the water. We did not make this universe, and do not expect to control it. It makes me tired to hear this talk.

[e942285] Mr. Hunt: I would like to offer an amendment that in the first line after the word “citizens” you insert “or ward.” This gives the Indians in this territory a chance to live, and they were here a long time before we ever saw America.

[e942287] Mr. Cobb: I am heartily opposed to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Gila. It is that very thing that we want to stop—the employment of cheap labor, and if they are wards of the government, the government can support them.

Mr. Bradner: I would like to ask President Hunt a question. Is an Indian required to work as a means of livelihood?

Mr. Hunt: The government don’t feed them enough to sustain life.

Mr. Bradner: They are supposed to.

Mr. Webb: I believe most of these Indians have the choicest farming lands that there are in Arizona, and the working man is not permitted to take this land up. There is water and land, plenty of it, furnished free, and I know the government has furnished them with cattle by the hundreds to run, with farm implements of every kind and with skilled farmers to teach them how to farm.

Mr. Hunt: I would like to ask where that land is.

Mr. Webb: Part of it is in Gila county and part in Graham county.

Mr. Cobb: That is part of the population of Graham county.

Mr. Webb: That is the part that I want counted.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is on the amendment of the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Hunt, that we add the words “or ward” after the word “citizens.”

Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to ask one question. Doesn't the Indian after he receives an allotment cease to be a ward?

Mr. Hunt: Then he becomes a citizen.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 453-454)

[e942289] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of the amendment manifest by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "nays" have it and the motion is lost.

[e942290] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move an amendment to insert these words following the comma (,) on line 3: "provided that nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the working of prisoners by the state or municipality thereof on street or road works."

Mr. Chairman: After the word "employment."

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Adding on the third line after the word "employment."

[e942292] Mr. Osborn: I would like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa if a prisoner here in the municipal jail is not a citizen of the United States.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): He is not a citizen if he is a foreigner.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): We do not want to prevent the punishment of criminals in our jails, nor do we want to make it impossible to work prisoners on the rockpile or on the street.

[e942294] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor will make it manifest by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The chair is in doubt. Those in favor will make it manifest by rising.

Motion prevailed by rising vote of 20 to 16.

[e942296] Mr. Webb: I move that when the committee arise it report to the convention that it has examined Proposition Number 48, and recommend that the same be passed as amended.

[e942297] Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, I would like to vote on my amendment to strike out in line 3 "county and municipal" and to change the word "works" to "work."

Mr. Chairman: The question recurs on the motion to strike out the words "county and municipal" and to change the word "works" to "work." Those in favor will manifest by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 454-455)

[e942299] Mr. Cunniff: I move that the matter between the brackets in Proposition Number 136 be inserted on line 3: “provided that in case of such citizens or such prospective citizens do not apply for employment, others may be employed.”

Mr. Chairman: Does that meet with a second?

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e942300] Mr. Webb: Such a provision would do this. It would necessitate the decision of the court to tell whether or not they could, and would probably never be determined on its merits.

[e942302] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor will manifest by saying “aye;” those opposed “no.” The motion is lost. The question now recurs on the motion of the gentleman from Graham, Mr. Webb.

[e942304] Mr. Moeur: I wish to amend that motion that this committee do arise and recommend that the proposition do not pass.

[e942306] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment that the committee arise and recommend that Proposition Number 48 do not pass. Those in favor will manifest by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The motion is lost.

[e942308] Mr. Moeur: Roll call.

Mr. Webb: They will probably consent to a roll call on the next motion which is exactly the same thing—that it do pass.

Mr. Moeur: Roll call, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I want to say in explanation of my vote that if Indians were exempted I would vote “no;” as it is I shall vote “aye.”

Mr. Lovin: I would like to make the same explanation as Mr. Jones. If Indians were exempted I would vote “no;” but as it is I will vote “aye.”

Mr. Hunt: I would like to have the word “Indians” in there, but I will vote no anyway.

Roll call showed 18 “ayes” and 25 “nays.”

[e942311] Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost. The question now recurs upon the motion of the gentleman from Graham. Shall the committee recommend that this proposition do pass? Those in favor manifest by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The motion is carried; so ordered. Proposition Number 76 is next on the calendar.

[e942320] Mr. Feeney: I move it be adopted.

[e942321] Mr. Connelly: I move that in line 3 the word "four" be stricken out and that the word "two" be substituted.

Mr. Franklin: I second the motion.

[e942322] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion that in line 3 of section 1 the word "four" be stricken out and the word "two" be inserted in lieu thereof; those in favor manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is carried.

[e942323] Mr. Weinberger: This states "a department of labor is hereby created to be under the control of the commissioner of labor who shall be elected." Who are you going to elect, the department of labor or a commissioner of labor?

Mr. Connelly: A commissioner of labor. This is a verbatim copy of the Oklahoma constitution.

Mr. Short: The way this reads it certainly elects the department of labor.

[e942324] Mr. Keegan: Section 3 of this proposition reads: “The legislature shall create the office of state boiler inspector, whose term of office shall be four years, and his duties shall be prescribed by law.” Shall that remain that way? I move that it be made two years.

[e942325] Mr. Chairman: The amendment is offered that the word “four” in line 9 be changed to “two.” Those in favor manifest by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and it is so ordered.

[e942326] Mr. Connelly: This is taken the way it reads in the Oklahoma constitution, and it cannot mean the department of labor because it says “his duties shall be prescribed by law.” The department should be more than one.

[e942328] Mr. Connelly: The state boiler inspector is a job by itself. I do not think you can get a man to inspect boilers and be at the head of a commission of labor also, although in this department of labor the legislature may have the office of state boiler inspector under the direction of the commission of labor, but in most of the states where they have a state boiler inspector he must have had at least eight or nine years experience as a boiler maker.

Mr. Weinberger: Since this has been interpreted that the commissioner of labor has to be elected, what becomes of the department of labor? You state “the department of labor is hereby created.”

Mr. Feeney: Make a suggestion.

Mr. Weinberger: I do not know what was intended.

Mr. Connelly: That is nothing more or less than a department of labor left to the legislature to fill out—and a commissioner shall be elected who is at the head of it.

[e942329] Mr. Ellinwood: I would ask that a division of the three sections be made. There is one section I would like to vote for but I cannot vote for it all.

[Editor’s Note: By dividing the three sections Ellinwood is calling for a section by section discussion of the proposition. In order to replicate this process the editors have introduced a blank version of the document.]

[e942352] Mr. Ingraham: I move that in line 2 after the word "corporations" be inserted the words "or persons."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment offered is that the words "or persons" be added.

[e942353] Mr. Cunningham: I have caught the disease "amendacitis," and I think I will ask the gentleman from Yuma to add the word "associations" to his amendment.

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, sir.

[e942355] Mr. Moeur: I have the disease "Kickitis" I guess. I object to this. We have a right to create a "black list." I tell you right now you have a right to protect yourselves against such people.

Mr. Feeney: Why didn't you vote for the boycott bill?

Mr. Cunniff: The other day I helped to vote down a proposition on the boycott, and there seems to be a strong opinion that the boycott should not be permitted. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Let us not have the "black list" either.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 457)

[e942356] Mr. Chairman: The amendment of the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Ingraham, is to add the words "associations or persons" after the word "corporations" in line 3. Those in favor manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion prevails.

[e942357] Mr. Moeur: Roll call.

Mr. Chairman: The question was decided before any roll call was demanded. The question now is that when the committee arises it recommend that the proposition as amended do pass. Those in favor make it manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered. Do the gentlemen want a roll call.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 457-458)

[e942358] Mr. Moeur: I want to go on record on such a proposition as this.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I would like to know what we are voting on.

Mr. Chairman: We are voting on the proposition that has already been passed.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Could one merchant tell another you are a dead cat?

Mr. Bradner: Can I explain that?

Mr. Chairman: The chair has no objection.

Mr. Bradner: Will you allow me to explain that to you?

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Certainly.

Mr. Bradner: The railroads are the corporations that use the black list more than anyone else, and if a man has an accident of any kind that they think shows he is not really a careful man, and discharge him, and he goes to another road for employment, he has to make out an application and in the meantime he goes to work, and when the application comes back the man is discharged. The man might be competent, only he met with an accident, and the only way that man can get a job again is to change his name, or make out false papers.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I would like to vote in favor of that but there is an association in every town of the Unites States of merchants who exchange lists of deadbeats for the protection of the men who have good credit. You prevent that by this proposition, and I want to vote for what you want to accomplish, and want to make it possible for you and I in the mercantile business, to tell each other when we are being defrauded by people who are plainly "deadbeats."

Mr. Bradner: I can tell the gentleman the way they can keep out is not to trust those "deadbeats."

Mr. Weinberger: I want to ask a question. You say here the legislature shall prohibit the exchange of "black lists." What do you mean by "black lists"—giving one for another? Suppose that a "black list" is given without any exchange, or return of any other "black list."

Mr. Chairman: The chair suspended the roll call long enough for the gentleman from Maricopa to ask a question, and we had better proceed with the roll call.

Mr. Franklin: I want to ask one more question. Does this prevent a grocery man from "black listing?" If it does I will vote for the "black listing."

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, this is the first time I have ever arisen to explain my vote. I am heartily in accord with everything Mr. Bradner says, and I am opposed to this system from start to finish. This law you are attempting to pass is not going to do it. It is the exchange of a "black list;" in other words, one man can give a list and he must get a "black list." It ought to be the giving out of a "black list." It accomplishes nothing and I vote no.

Mr. Weinberger: I want to explain my vote. I asked Mr. Bradner to explain the meaning of the word "exchange," and the way it appears to me now; this will not be of any effect at all, and I, therefore, vote no. I am willing to favor a suitable proposition concerning this matter, but not in its present form.

Roll call showed 25 "ayes" and 17 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e942556] [Remarks by Hunt of Gila not found]

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages
464-465)

[e942557] Mr. Baker: I can understand now why some useless words were used in section 1 of the substitute proposition from listening to the reading of this gentleman's letter or statement. I refer to the words on line 3 of section 1 "the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax." I move to amend by striking out the above words and substitute in lieu thereof simply "the state."

Mr. Franklin: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 464-465)

[e942558] Mr. Ellinwood: I would just like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa if these words would not be necessary in view of school districts and cities. All taxes are not levied for state purposes; some are for city purposes and some for school purposes. This was taken from the letter Mr. Hunt just read. If all the taxes were state taxes, the gentleman from Maricopa would be eminently correct, but we thought the words "the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax" were necessary.

[e942559] Mr. Ellinwood moved to amend line 3, page 2 by striking out the capital letter "T" in the word "Territorial" and inserting the small letter "t." Carried.

[e942560] Mr. Ellinwood moved to amend line 3, page 2 by striking out the capital letter "T" in the word "Territorial" and inserting the small letter "t." Carried.

[e942561] Mr. Baker: I withdraw my amendment with the consent of my second.

Mr. Franklin: I agree to the withdrawal.

[e942562] Mr. Ingraham: I would like to ask a question about the proposition. A considerable number of states are levying graduated income taxes and graduated inheritance taxes in which small incomes are excepted and small inheritances are excepted from the tax, and in which very large incomes are taxed at a somewhat higher rate than the medium income, and I would like to ask if, in the opinion of the members, the second sentence does not prohibit such a tax. It states "all taxes shall be uniform on the same class of property."

Mr. Ellinwood: As I understand it, the very purpose of the sentence is to give what the gentleman from Yuma so desires. It is the power of the state or city to make classification as provided by law. When the classification is made, then a tax may be laid on such classes as it sees fit. It can make one class of incomes of \ $7,000, another of \ $10,000, and so on. Its very purpose is to accomplish what the gentleman from Yuma desires.

Mr. Ingraham: It does not seem to me the ordinary meaning of the words will allow of the classification of incomes of \ $5,000, in one class, another class of \ $50,000, and that seems straining the meaning of the words.

Mr. Hunt: Quoting from the Tax Review of the State of Kentucky, I will say that they have been trying to change their law now, and instead of having it that taxes shall be uniform on all classes of property, their amendment is that they shall be uniform on all property of the same class.

[e942563] Mr. Cunniff: It seems to me the point of the gentleman from Yuma is well taken. If there are two interpretations of this phrase "same class" there seems a possibility that the court might decide with regard to the graduated income tax that incomes were all of the same class, and I therefore want to offer an amendment at this point that the following words be added to this paragraph: "Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting the state to impose taxes on incomes graduated according to the amount of such income."

464-465)

[e942564] Mr. Orme: I would like to ask a question for information. Does not this first section prohibit the different boards of supervisors in different counties from levying different rates? Each county has a different rate, and I would like to ask if this does not prohibit that. It seems to me that it would.

Mr. Ingraham: In answer to the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Orme, it does not seem to me that it is the intention of this first paragraph to prevent the levying of a different rate in one county from that levied in another county. The very purpose of allowing a different rate is accomplished in the phrase which states that the taxes shall be uniform within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. Now the authority levying the tax in this case would be the board of supervisors.

Mr. Hunt: The gentleman from Yavapai has offered an amendment. I want to quote from the remarks of Mr. F.W. Taussig, of Harvard, "I beg to express my opinion in favor of the proposals made by the International Tax Association with regard to the provisions on this topic in the constitution proposed for your state. Our experience in Massachusetts has been instructive. A hundred years ago hard and fast lines were laid down in our constitutions, probably suited to the conditions of the day. Those constitutions are now outgrown, and we find ourselves hampered by antiquated restrictions. A simple and elastic constitutional provision, such as the Tax Association suggests, leaves the needed discretion to the legislature and permits accommodation to the changing needs of growing communities. I am sure you will find the weight of opinion among the economists and serious students of taxation throughout the country in favor of the proposed provision."

Mr. Cunniff: I would say I have the utmost confidence in everything Mr. Taussig says, but the question in my mind is that the court may occasionally interpret things different from the intent of those who formulated the laws, and if the proposition means the same thing, let us say so in plain English, and therefore I offer this amendment.

Mr. Ellinwood: I think there is absolutely no harm whatever in the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff. It simply says it shall be interpreted in a certain way. The provision is complete and definite without it, but there is no harm in putting it in.

[e942565] Mr. Ingraham: I will make an amendment to that amendment by including "Inheritances" as well as incomes.

Mr. Tuthill: I second the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai.

[e942566] Mr. Cunniff: I accept the amendment.

[e942567] Mr. Cassidy: I am opposed to this amendment for the reason that I think it is absolutely unnecessary. I think under the original wording that unquestionably the legislature will have the right to classify incomes and inheritances and levy a graduated tax. I think this is unnecessary.

Mr. Parsons: As has been stated by the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Hunt, he has given us the opinion of the ablest experts on the economic question of taxation, and as a result of this we have this first paragraph. They provide all that is necessary in the most modern constitutions, and is a complete and elastic system, by which they can lay taxes, and the limitation necessary is that the taxes shall be uniform as to the same class within the territory of the taxing power.

Mr. Cunniff: I am satisfied with the proposition as it stands, but I am not satisfied the courts of Arizona will give the right interpretation.

Mr. Ingraham: It may be that the gentleman from Yavapai and I are exercising an abundance of precaution here, but this is a very important matter, and it seems to me [one] in which an abundance of precaution should be exercised. Whether the courts would construe the classification of incomes according to size would be [sic, as] a reasonable classification is entirely conjectural. It would depend on the interest of the judge or his affiliation. It seems to me that leaving it in this way is a dangerous matter.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 466-467)

[e942568] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff. All those in favor of the amendment will signify by answering "aye;" opposed "no." The nays have it. Are there any other objections to paragraph 1?

[e942569] Mr. Jones of Maricopa, moved to amend line 4, page 2 by adding after the word "only" the following: "Provided that in case the State Board of Equalization, or assessor, is unable to determine the actual value of the franchise and property of public service corporations, the paid in capitalization and interest bearing securities shall be deemed the actual value."

[e942570] [Remarks by Ellinwood of Cochise not found.]

Mr. Morgan: I want to say the sheep men of Arizona are glad to get off with a taxation of 80% of their value. I would not believe it when the assessor said, "All you have to put in is 80%."

Mr. Baker: My objection is this: we are now simply preparing a constitution, and I am fearful we are constantly forgetting the fact that we are limited to the preparation of a constitution. We are endeavoring all the time to legislate about the most intricate matters, and we resolve ourselves almost continually into a legislature. This general provision is proper, but I think if we are going to provide how to levy the assessment we have to go through the whole routine, and prepare another bill and put it in the constitution, whereas I believe we ought to leave it to the legislature. They will have the broad principles laid down in this section, and when they know all the facts the legislature can work out the system of levying the taxes. I say by all means make these railroads and corporations pay their full and just rate of taxation, but my objection is to legislating on this matter in the constitution.

Mr. Franklin: It impresses me that this paragraph is in an improper place. We are laying down a broad general system of taxation. If the proviso is inserted here as suggested and it is held unconstitutional, it will be so closely interwoven with the principle that the whole will be declared unconstitutional. I am therefore, opposed to the proviso in this place, if I could support it at all.

[e942573] [Editor's Note: The Committee of the Whole considered Paragraph 2 of Substitute Proposition Number 106.]

(Editorial)

[e942574] Mr. Sims: I wish to move an amendment to paragraph 2. On line 8 after the word "schools" insert the word "convents" and on line 9 after the word "libraries" insert "orphanages and Young Men's Christian Association buildings."

Mr. Parsons: I second the amendment.

[e942575] Mr. Connelly moved to amend line 9 by inserting after the words "Young Men's Christian Association" the words "Young Women's Christian Associations."

[e942576] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the amendment submitted by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Sims. Are you ready for the questions?

32.27 Saturday, 19 November 1910, at 14:00 (s16170)

[e942592] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. We have under consideration the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Sims, to the second paragraph in line 8.

[e942593] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. We have under consideration the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Sims, to the second paragraph in line 8.

[e942594] Mr. Connelly: I offer a further amendment. After Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. put in W.C.T.U. and other women's clubs.

[e942595] Mr. Chairman: Hearing no second to that amendment the vote will be on the original motion.

[e942596] Mr. Hunt: I would like to ask for information of some of the gentlemen here in regard to the Y.M.C.A's. Don't they rent part of their buildings. Do they do that here in Phoenix?

Mr. Parsons: I dare say that is true that the Y.M.C.A. buildings do rent part of their rooms, but not for the purpose of profit but to help maintain the institution and thereby reduce the amount that they have to call upon the public for. The purpose and sentiment expressed in the remarks to which reference was made by the gentleman from Gila in including or excepting institutions, it was those dependent upon public contributions for support and the Y.M.C.A. as well as the Y.W.C.A. is of that character, and where they rent rooms it is to simply reduce the amount for which they have to ask the public.

Mr. Weinberger: The amendment as it now reads includes Y.M.C.A. buildings, but what about the grounds connected with the buildings?

Mr. Parsons: We are perfectly willing to have added to it "and buildings, contents and grounds."

Mr. Weinberger: The point I am making is, you are including buildings but you are subjecting the grounds to taxation.

Mr. Baker: I think the gentleman from Gila is entirely mistaken. It reads "and lots together with buildings thereon used exclusively for religious worship; and lots together with buildings thereon with contents therein, used exclusively for parsonages, schools, academies, colleges, universities, libraries, hospitals, or cemeteries, if not used or held for profit." If you write Y.M.C.A. after every one of these words it would injure [sic, include] their lots as well as their buildings.

Mr. Roberts: Will the gentleman yield to a question?

Mr. Parsons: Certainly.

Mr. Roberts: I would like to know if the Y.M.C.A. in Douglas does not charge the players for the use of their billiard tables?

Mr. Parsons: They do charge to help pay the expenses of their institution but not for profit, and after that has been done there is the secretary and assistant secretary to carry on what I want to stand here and put myself on record as saying is an institution more beneficial to the general good of the community of Arizona than any other institution in it, not excepting any. The Y.M.C.A. advocates and administrates [sic, administers] physical and moral cleanliness and gives the young people an opportunity for clean amusement and enjoyment, and I believe there is no one institution in the United States in the way of a moral institution that is more unsectarian, that is more absolutely and purely an American institution than this Y.M.C.A., and while they do have pool tables and they do have billiard tables and they do have bowling alleys, they recognize that these are things simply for the amusement of the people and the charges that are made are always at least one-half that made anywhere else, in order to induce young men to go there instead of going to some places that are debasing.

Mr. Cunniff: In an attitude of hostility, I, at one time, made a thorough investigation of the Y.M.C.A. in its various departments, and in starting on that investigation in an attitude of hostility, I came to the conclusion that there was no educational institution of the kind we are trying to exempt here, that is in any degree more valuable than the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. I think it is just as much of an educational institution as there is and fully as valuable, therefore, I shall support this amendment.

[e942597] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? The question will be on the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise. All those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The amendment is to insert after the word "school," in line 8 the word "convent;" after the word "libraries" in line 9 the words "orphanages, Y.M.C.A.'s and Y.W.C.A.'s." The "ayes" seem to have it. The "ayes" have it.

[e942598] Mr. Chairman: [...] Now the question comes up on the adoption of the paragraph—

[Editor's Note: At this point, it seems as though Sims' amendment and Connelly's amendment to Sims' amendment were decided in tandem.]

[e942599] Mr. Franklin: I do not know but it seems to me it would be a little better in this second paragraph: "That there shall be exempted from taxation all federal, state, county and municipal property," the words following "and lots together with buildings thereon used exclusively for religious worship," and after the word "for" in line 8 insert the words "religious worship." Make it read: "There shall be exempted from taxation all federal, county and municipal property, and lots together with buildings thereon with contents therein used exclusively for religious worship," etc. and I make the motion that the following words, "and lots together with buildings thereon used exclusively for religious worship" on lines 6 and 7 be stricken out, and after the word and "for" on line 8 the words "religious worship" be inserted.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion.

[e942600] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, the suggestion made by the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Weinberger, I think would call our attention to the fact if the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin, is adopted, then we might tax the lot in which the Y.M.C.A. and other buildings that are not mentioned here are located but not tax their buildings or contents, and I do not think that would be a reasonable proposition. If the buildings are to be immune from taxation I think the lots on which the buildings stand, the property within the building used for the purpose of the association should also be exempt, and I see no reason why we should strike out those words.

Mr. Chairman: Those are repeated there, one right after the other. That is the reason the gentleman wishes to put them out.

Mr. Hunt: It says "for religious worship." If you strike that out on line 9 you could not tax churches, then.

Mr. Parsons: The balance of it is not particularly religious worship, and a whole lot of people do not think playing pool and rolling in a bowling alley is religious worship, and we want these people to have their property exempt as long as it is for a moral, elevating tendency. I do not think we can worship all the time, and one of the best ways to worship is to work and play when you ought to work and play.

[e942601] Mr. Franklin: I do not believe it would have any such meaning as Mr. Parsons indicates. As amended that section will read, "there shall be exempted from taxation all federal, state, county and municipal property, and lots together with buildings thereon with contents therein used exclusively for religious worship." It might be construed as property of the state, county and municipality used for religious worship. I think we ought to cut that sentence out and say: "There shall be exempted from taxation all federal, state, county and municipal property, and lots together with buildings thereon with contents therein used exclusively for religious worship, for parsonages, schools, academies, universities, libraries, hospitals, or cemeteries, if not used or held for profit."

[e942602] Mr. Parsons: I did not hear that you had your "religious worship" in down below.

Mr. Chairman: That was what I was trying to explain to you. You make that a motion, do you, Mr. Franklin?

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

[e942604] Mr. Morgan: I would like to ask for information. What is done at the Young Men's Christian Association? There has been a building right here in the city of Phoenix, costing thousands of dollars, and I would like some member to inform me what is carried on in that building. There has been a new building put up here and I want a little information as to what is done at the Y.M.C.A., if any member will give me the information.

Mr. Parsons: I do not profess to be any walking encyclopedia of just all that is done in the Young Men's Christian Association, but in reply to the gentleman who has asked the question,— and I believe has asked it in good faith,— I want to say to him that my experiences with references to the Y.M.C.A. in three states and one territory has been this: that what has been done has been that an effort has been made by those who have been managing those institutions and who have given of their wealth toward their support, to furnish in the first place the very best kind of a place where young men, especially those away from home, could find an opportunity to meet with people in the community in which that institution might be situated who would know where they might best find employment consistent with their ability and their peculiar tastes. Second among those duties was to furnish at least a temporary home to those who were in a strange community, at the lowest possible rates, without any idea of profit,—to furnish a home at the lowest expense possible. In addition to that, to furnish the best class of reading matter for young men who were idle and away from home,—a reading room where the best literature of the day was furnished for everyone who might come in there. In addition to that, to furnish night schools, at actual cost, for those who, being employed in manual labor, were unable to prosecute [sic] their studies in different branches. In addition to this, to take up other branches of improvement, always with a view to furnishing them at actual cost, or even less, because these institutions are all supported by contributions other than what can be received from those who are the patrons of it. In addition to that, to furnish clean, moral, wholesome entertainment to the young, and the old as well, and that at the very lowest cost consistent with, as has been mentioned here,— talking about pool tables and bowling alleys,— just such a charge as would keep up the pool tables and bowling alleys and provide boys to set up the pins. There are just a few of these things. In addition to that, to furnish baths, furnish to the men who work in the smelters and machine shops of Douglas a place to go and take a bath, either a tub bath or a shower bath, and it will cost one cent a bath. I believe in that old statement that personal cleanliness is akin to Godliness, and I think when we furnish people an opportunity to be clean we furnish one of the greatest assistants [sic, assistance] to them to be good, and that is one of the things that the Y.M.C.A. does, and I believe it applies with equal effect to the Y.W.C.A. There are simply a few things, and I regret that the gentleman who showed this morning by the great list of clippings that he had here his attitude against the church and the clergy, that he has been so blinded that he has not been able to learn what one of the greatest institutions on the surface of God Almighty's earth is doing.

Mr. Morgan: I do not think that this morning I mentioned the Young Men's Christian Association, which the gentleman from Cochise says I am against.

Mr. Parsons: I beg the gentleman's pardon. It is not what he said against it, but what I highly commiserate is that he has not learned anything about it.

Mr. Morgan: I want to ask if it is not a fact in most Young Men's Christian Associations buildings like this that is proposed to exempt from taxation, that it is a fact that they have swimming pools there and all that kind of thing—that they have a gymnasium there, and everybody has free access to the gymnasium. I want to ask if a man who did not believe in Christianity would have access to that.

Mr. Parsons: I take great pleasure in saying that no religious test is applied to membership. Any man can use the boxing gloves, and use the swimming pool, and use the gymnasium without any question as to whether he be Jew, Gentile, or whether he has any religious views or not. He does not have to comply with any of these provisions. It is absolutely open to every man who will be [a] decent, law abiding citizen.

Mr. Morgan: If churches are exempt, Young Men's Christian Association buildings and all that is necessary thereto certainly ought to be exempt. (applause)

Mr. Chairman: I will state for the benefit of the gentleman from Navajo that the convention has adopted the amendment inserting Y.M.C.A.'s and Y.W.C.A.'s in the clause of the second paragraph of this proposition, and the question now is on the adoption of the whole paragraph.

Mr. Morgan: I understand the proposition thoroughly, and my idea in talking is that if I cannot cut out the whole thing to cut out that much. If Mr. Jeffries was to start an institution in the city of Phoenix, for instance, where there was boxing—if some of the windjammers and hot air merchants will give me from thirty to fifty minutes, it is all the time I am going to take up. I think these gentlemen have done a lot of my work that I am not capable of doing at all and I thank them for it. If Mr. Jeffries or Mr. Johnson started a gymnasium in the city of Phoenix, with boxing, where you could swing the dumb bells and Indian clubs, their institution would certainly be taxed.

Mr. Parsons: It would be for profit.

Mr. Morgan: But I want to ask the gentleman from Cochise what the Y.M.C.A. outside of that does for anybody?

Mr. Parsons: I want to say that it does all that any institution I know of that is the best of combined mental efforts of the reformers of the whole civilized world—I won't limit it to the United States,—but the combined intelligence of the civilized world has been able to devise in a way of an institution that is free from all of the objections of sectarianism, of creed, of anything that is tinctured in that way,—furnishes to the people just such an institution as it is,—one that tends toward the upbuilding and betterment of not only the rising generation but the entire people.

Mr. Morgan: The very name of this institution, the name Young Men's Christian Association,—nobody but the Christian need enter here.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I want to say that no Jew or any member of any other religious body outside of the Christian has ever been denied admission to a Y.M.C.A. because of the fact that he did not belong to the Christian religion, but I want to say to you that this is the reason it is world-wide. That is why it is greater than any church organization on top of God's green earth.

Mr. Chairman: If there are no other —

to decide whether this hospital is used for profit or not. The difficulty of this thing is the question of profit. If the Y.M.C.A. is supposed to be a benevolent institution and makes money this year, what becomes of that money? It is sent away from here. The hospital or the church, they make money. You may say that they use it for the purpose of building up another hospital in another place, and this Y.M.C.A. when it gets enough money made here will go up and build a Y.M.C.A. in some other city. It is a matter that leaves it open for every board of supervisors and every board of equalization to decide whether that institution is run for profit or whether it is not. I think if we are going to leave it to them—I am perfectly willing to leave it to them. I think the county board of supervisors or the city board of equalization are able to determine as well as this convention is whether it is run for profit or not. When an institution goes to work and buys nine lots and on the middle lot puts up a building, and then claims all the other lots are exempt from taxation, and five or six or ten years later, when the increased value of the property justifies them, they sell the other lots, it does not seem to me to be a just thing to the poor people who pay the majority of the taxes in every city and county. If a woman owns a cow, I know in our place the city taxes her. Why then should somebody else who claims that they are not making any profit on a cow be allowed to run ten or twelve cows and say that they need the milk because they are running a hospital but are not making any profit out of it? The language of the thing is wrong. It is not a question whether you are making a profit or not. Many and many a year I do not make any profit. The question is am I trying to make a profit? That is my idea of taxation. Strike out the whole of that last clause and put in this, and let the legislature decide whether they are making a profit or whether they are not, and I offer this amendment. (applause)

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I will second the motion, Mr. Chairman, and support it for the reason that I concur in all that Mr. Parsons and everybody has said with respect to encouraging these institutions, and I particularly support it because you cannot in this constitution make a provision broad enough to cover all of the institutions that should be exempt. We have left out institutions that should be included, and I think the enumeration of those different institutions is legislative, and that the gentleman from Yavapai's amendment will cover all of them.

473-475)

[e942606] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, now I want to object, and in reply to the gentleman from Maricopa say that the objection that he has made here to require legislative action to determine all these things applies to this amendment as well as to the others that have been made here, and we have mentioned certain things that we want exempted from taxation. There is not any law that I know of that prevents any of these gentlemen who say there are other things that should be exempted from mentioning them. I want to reply to the gentleman from Yavapai when he says these institutions make money and their money is sent away. I don't know about it, but if I were a gambling man I would bet my last dollar that there is not a Young Men's Christian Association in the town in which he lives, because I know from the looks of him that if there had been any they would have called on him. The law does not say those that make profit but those that are conducted for profit—for the purpose of making profit. They are not conducted for that purpose. They are conducted for the purpose, just as the churches are conducted, for the purpose of improving the people of the world.

Mr. Morgan: In reply to the gentleman from Cochise, I want to say that in my humble opinion the appearance of the gentleman from Yavapai county compares favorably with the appearance of any gentleman in this territory.

Mr. Parsons: That is just why I made my remark. He has one of the most generous faces.

Mr. Ellinwood: I do not want to enter into the discussion of the merits of the case at all, but I would refer the members to lines 16, 17 and 18 in connection with this amendment. "All property in the state not exempt under the laws of the United States or under this constitution shall be subject to be ascertained as provided by law." If you pass this amendment leaving it to the legislature to exempt religious and charitable institutions, then you also leave to the legislature the exemption of all other property. If you leave the exemption at all you leave to them the right to exempt railroads and other property, unless you specifically mention it here and then shut the door so no other property shall be exempted.

Mr. Goldwater: I am willing to let it go that way.

Mr. Chairman: Does the gentleman from Yavapai withdraw the amendment?

Mr. Goldwater: No.

Mr. Franklin: I have held in abeyance during the discussion and I have been enlightened on the subject a good deal, but I will call the attention of the chair to the fact that I moved a while ago that on line 6 the words "and lots together with buildings thereon used exclusively for religious worship" be stricken out, and that on line 8 after the word "exclusively" insert the words "for religious worship."

Mr. Chairman: The question comes up on the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai as an amendment to the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa.

Mr. Goldwater: I was not offering any amendment to the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa. If the gentleman from Maricopa wants his motion put I have no objection. My motion is not an amendment to his. After his motion has been adopted I will make mine.

Mr. Franklin: I would suggest that they be put that way.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 475-476)

[e942607] Mr. Chairman: The question now is on the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin, to strike out on line 6 after the word "property" the balance of that line and on line 7 up to and including the word "worship." All those in favor of that amendment will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered. The secretary will take a record of it.

[e942608] Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment—

Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that the gentleman from Yavapai's motion will have preference. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Goldwater. You have heard the motion. All those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The "nays" seem to have it; the "nays" have it.

[e942609] Mr. Baker: I now offer an amendment to this section by striking out line 9 commencing with the word "if" the words "if not used or held for profit." To strike out these words in lines 9 and 10 and insert in lieu thereof these words "not used or held solely for private or corporate profit." That makes it clearer.

[e942610] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question? All those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" appear to have it and the "ayes" have it; so ordered. Any other objections? If not, paragraph 2 will stand as read and so ordered. Any other objections? If not, paragraph 2 will stand as read and so ordered. We will now consider paragraph 3.

[e942611] Mr. Ingraham: I understand that the words "Young Men's Christian Association and Young Women's Christian Association" were inserted in line 9. Does that mean that the association is exempt from taxation?

Mr. Chairman: The Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. buildings, is the way I have it in the amendment.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, as I understand the paragraph it says: "and lots together with buildings thereon used exclusively for parsonages, schools, convents, academies, colleges, universities, libraries, orphanages, Young Men's Christian Associations, and Young Women's Christian Associations." It is the buildings, lots and contents used exclusively for that purpose.

Mr. Morgan: If I join a Young Men's Christian Association and I go there in the week and box fifteen minutes and I swing dumb bells fifteen minutes and I take a bath in their tank, I am willing to pay the money to cover that expense, and that is the principal reason why they attract the young men of the United States. If I go there I am willing to pay a certain sum per week or per month or per day for that privilege of getting the advantage of it, and I do not think it ought to be exempt from taxation.

[e942612] Mr. Chairman: I will put paragraph 2 before the house and take a vote on it. All those in favor of the adoption of paragraph 2 as amended will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered. Paragraph 3 is next.

[e942613] Mr. Chairman: [...] Paragraph 3 is next.

[e942614] Mr. Parsons: I move it be passed.

Mr. Baker: I second the motion.

[e942615] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection paragraph 3 will stand as read, and it is so ordered. What will you do with paragraph 4?

[e942616] Mr. Chairman: [...] What will you do with paragraph 4?

[e942617] Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, I move an amendment to paragraph 4. On line 14 after the word "widow" insert the words "residents of this state" so it will read: "The legislature may exempt from taxation the property of widows residents of this state not exceeding the amount of one thousand dollars where the total assessment of such widow does not exceed two thousand dollars."

[e942618] Mr. Parsons: I desire to amend the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa by adding after the word "widows" [the words] "or deserted wives." In support of my motion I want to say that it is not because I am an old widower fifty-nine years of age that I think I might catch one of these deserted wives, but in my community there are a number of wives quite as bad off as God's widows.

[e942619] Mr. Chairman: Does the gentleman from Maricopa accept the amendment?

Mr. Franklin: No sir.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 477)

[e942620] Mr. Winsor: I rise to a point of information. I would like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa who proposed this amendment if it would not be in conflict with the fifth paragraph.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Yuma is out of order. The question before the house is on the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise.

Mr. Winsor: I renew my request for information. I would like to know if the gentleman does not think this would be in conflict with the fifth paragraph of our ordinance irrevocable which states: "That the lands and other property belonging to citizens of the United States residents without the said state shall never be taxed at a higher rate than the lands and other property belonging to residents thereof." He is excluding from the benefits of this tax exemption widows residing out of the state.

Mr. Franklin: I think there is a very clear distinction. That section of the law is the power to tax. This is a matter of exemption. The policy of exemption is for the purpose of exempting that property of residents in this territory whom we think deserving. It does not come in the purview of that power mentioned in paragraph 5. That says the power to tax; this is an exemption.

Mr. Roberts: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages
477-478)

[e942622] Mr. Baker: I would like to state my view to the gentleman from Cochise. If you strike out this clause giving the legislature the power to exempt the property of widows, then you would not have the power at all to exempt it. They could not act [at] all because your constitution provides that all property in the state not exempted under the laws of the United States or under this constitution shall be subject to taxation as provided by law, so it would be subject to taxation; it would be bound to be taxed.

Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion of the gentleman from Cochise. Are you ready for the question? All those in favor of the motion—

[e942623] Mr. Roberts: I desire to amend the motion to include the first three lines of paragraph 4.

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

[e942624] Mr. Franklin: May I rise in answer to the gentleman from Cochise and ask a question for information? Is it your desire, Mr. Bolan, to prevent the legislature entirely from exempting the property of widows from taxation?

Mr. Bolan: No sir, it is not.

Mr. Franklin: This amendment will do it.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 478)

[e942625] Mr. Bolan: I will withdraw it then.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 478-479)

[e942626] [Editor's Note: In withdrawing his amendment, Bolan made Roberts' amendment to his amendment obsolete.]

(Editorial)

[e942627] Mr. Ingraham: I would like to ask if under the three lines of section 4 the property could not be exempted by the legislature anyway?

Mr. Parsons: Not unless exempted under this constitution.

Mr. Ingraham: The question in the last three lines of paragraph 4 is that "all property in the state not exempt under the laws of the United States or under this constitution shall be subject to taxation to be ascertained as provided by law." The questions are certainly contradictory.

Mr. Chairman: The question before the house is on the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin, to insert in line 14 after the word "widows" [the words] "residents of this state." Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Orme: Before the legislature [acted] four years ago rich women could come to this territory and buy two or three thousand dollars worth of property, and we had no way of taxing their other property, and they were exempt. The legislature four years ago passed an act making it apply to residents of this territory. Before that there was a great deal of property exempt owned by non-residents that was not taxed.

Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Parsons: I want to call the attention of the committee to the language of the proposition, substitute Proposition Number 19, referred to by the gentleman from Yuma, and it seems to me that this will be in violation of it. On lines 15, 16 and 17 that proposition says: "the lands and other property belonging to citizens of the United States residents without the said state shall never be taxed at a higher rate than the lands and other property belonging to residents thereof." Now, if a widow living out of this state has to pay taxes on all her property herein and the widow living within this state may have exempted one thousand dollars worth of property, are we not violating the provisions of this ordinance? Isn't the property of the widow living outside of the state taxed higher than the property of the widow living within the state? If she has two thousand dollars worth of property, doesn't she get off with paying taxes on one thousand dollars under this provision? Then the provision does not mean anything if she does not.

Mr. Orme: A widow, a resident of this state, has to make an oath that it is all the property she has. A widow outside the state makes no such oath. She can be worth fifty thousand dollars out of the state and have two thousand in the state and be exempt unless you put this provision in.

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, we have a provision similar to the provision in the Enabling Act providing that the property of non residents shall not be taxed higher than that of residents, and we have this exemption statute allowing widows exemption. We think the power to tax is not like the power to exempt.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 478-479)

[e942628] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin, in line 14 to insert after the word "widows" the words "residents of the state." All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it; so ordered.

[e942629] Mr. Parsons: I desire to offer a further amendment to paragraph 4, that after the word "dollars" at the end of line 15 that there be inserted this provision: "All heads of families residing within the state not owning real estate and owning personal property not exceeding five hundred dollars shall be exempt."

[e942630] Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman please send that up in writing.

Mr. Parsons: That is section 2 of Proposition Number 65 that I have already introduced. I desire to say in support of this amendment—

[e942631] Mr. Chairman: I have heard no second to that amendment.

[e942632] Mr. Cunniff: We adopted an amendment that added to the end of paragraph 2 “if not used or held solely for private or corporate profit.” That means we may exempt a school, for example, or a business college, which is maintained chiefly for profit, but in which might be established one department which was not conducted for profit, and it would be exempt under the constitution by the use of that word solely, and I am utterly unwilling to vote for a proposition that exempts from taxation institutions of this kind unless they are not maintained for private or corporate profit. I want to come under taxation those that are maintained for private or corporate profit, and therefore I move that the word “solely” be stricken from paragraph 2 as amended.

Mr. Feeney: I second that motion.

[e942633] Mr. Morgan: It strikes me that it is strange you do not exempt a man who is working for thirty or forty dollars a month with a family of seven or eight children. Not a word about the poor man.

[e942634] Mr. Chairman: It will take unanimous consent to refer back to paragraph 2, and take up the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, to strike out the word “solely.” All those in favor will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it; so ordered.

[e942635] Mr. Chairman: It will take unanimous consent to refer back to paragraph 2, and take up the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, to strike out the word “solely.” All those in favor will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it; so ordered.

[e942636] Mr. Chairman: It will take unanimous consent to refer back to paragraph 2, and take up the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, to strike out the word “solely.” All those in favor will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it; so ordered.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 479)

[e942637] Mr. Wood: Mr. Chairman, in the fourth paragraph, line 13, I move that the words "legislature may" be stricken out and in their place be inserted "there shall be," making it read "there shall be exempt from taxation."

Mr. Ellinwood: I second the motion.

[e942638] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai that the first three words of paragraph 4 be stricken out and the words "there shall be" inserted in lieu thereof. All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e942639] Mr. Cunniff: On line 14 and 15 I move that the word "one" be stricken out on line 14 and the word "two" be put in its place, and in line 15, the word "two" be stricken out and the word "four" be substituted.

Mr. Coker: I second the motion.

[e942640] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that in line 14 the word "one" be stricken out and the word "two" be inserted in its place, and in line 15 the word "two" be stricken out and the word "four" be inserted in its place.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, I want to remind the gentleman that under the established plan of assessment we are already exempting six thousand dollars worth of property by this two thousand provision, or approximately so, and I think we have got it up high enough.

Mr. Connelly: I think that one thousand dollars is enough, and Mr. Bolan says that any widow that has four thousand dollars worth of property need not be a widow. (laughter)

[e942641] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor will answer "aye" as their names are called, those opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 10 "ayes" and 32 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e942642] Mr. Chairman: [...] If there are no further amendments or objections paragraph 4 will stand approved as amended. It is so ordered.

[e942643] Mr. Chairman: [...] If there are no objections or amendments to paragraph 5 it will stand as read.

[e942644] Mr. Chairman: [...] If there are no objections or amendments to paragraph 5 it will stand as read.

[e942645] Mr. Chairman: [...] If there are no objections or alterations to paragraph 6 it will stand approved as read.

[e942646] Mr. Chairman: [...] If there are no objections or alterations to paragraph 6 it will stand approved as read.

[e942647] Paragraph 7 approved as read.

[Editor's Note: From this point, the Records mis-number the paragraphs of the Report. For this reason, the editors have referred to the Minutes.]

[e942648] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, there is one error in that paragraph, but it can be corrected by the Committee on Style, Revision and Compilation.

Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, what kind of money is that? There are several kinds of money, but if this is United States money it should say so.

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask a member of the committee which drafted this paragraph to explain it.

Mr. Ellinwood: This paragraph is found in most all of the state constitutions, and it provides that all taxes shall be paid in money, United States coin, and no state warrants.

[Editor's Note: The Records describe this debate as being on Paragraph 6, though given the content of the paragraphs, it clearly applies to Paragraph 7.]

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 480-481)

[e942649] Mr. Parsons: I move you that this paragraph be adopted.

[e942650] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections this paragraph will stand approved as read. We will pass to paragraph 7.

[Editor's Note: Though the Chairman says Paragraph 7 here, the Committee moved on to Paragraph 8.]

[e942651] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections this paragraph will stand approved as read. We will pass to paragraph 7.

[Editor's Note: Though the Chairman says Paragraph 7 here, the Committee moved on to Paragraph 8.]

[e942652] Paragraph 8 approved as read.

[e942653] Mr. Chairman: [...] What will you do with the next paragraph?

[e942654] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move that in line 17, the word “acts of the legislature,” be stricken out and the word “laws” be inserted.

Mr. Wood: I second the motion.

[e942655] The motion prevailed.

[e942656] Mr. Ellinwood: The committee first thought of leaving the space blank for the committee of the whole to fill in, then it was reconsidered and we filled it by the sum of \ $250,000 but it is subject to the will of the members now if they wish to change the sum.

Mr. Franklin: If any member can give us information upon this question, I would like to hear it, as I am not certain as to the amount needed.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I think that Mr. Wood can give us some light upon the subject.

Mr. Chairman: Will the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Wood, give the desired information?

Mr. Wood: I have looked over the records of Ohio and other states and I find that they have appropriated the amount of \ $750,000 but in the case of Arizona, I would say that I think the sum here is sufficient, but I am willing to leave it to the members of the convention to fix the amount of or change the amount here as they may think best. I figure that the amount given here is quite sufficient.

Mr. Parsons: For instance, would the committee explain what “casual deficits or failures in revenues” [means]? Does this specify an extra-ordinary annual expenditure? I would like information on this subject.

Mr. Ellinwood: Yes, this has reference to temporary deficits of annual expenditures that might occur at the end of each fiscal year.

Mr. Chairman: Are there any other corrections?

Mr. Cunniff: Has any gentleman here any figures on Wyoming, Utah or some of the western states?

[e942657] Mr. Franklin: If I remember right most of the western states have the amount fixed at \ $200,000. I move you that we strike out the words “and fifty” in line 18 and retain the words “two hundred thousand.”

Mr. Cassidy: I second the motion.

[e942658] The motion prevailed.

[e942659] Mr. Chairman: Are there any other alterations or corrections? Hearing none the paragraph will stand approved as amended. We will take up the next paragraph.

[e942660] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will take up the next paragraph.

[e942661] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move you that the first four words in line 22 be stricken out, and that after the word "villages" insert the words "may be vested by law." And I further move that the word "a" be stricken out so that it reads as follows: "The corporate authority of cities, towns and villages may be vested by law, with power to make local improvements by special assessments, or by special taxation of property benefited. For all corporate purposes, all municipal corporations may be vested with authority to assess and collect taxes and such taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property within the jurisdiction of the body levying the same."

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

[e942662] The motion prevailed.

[e942663] Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, I notice in paragraph 1 the words, "all taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, ..." etc., and in this paragraph just read and amended we have the same wording with the exception of the words "jurisdiction and territorial limits." I move you that the word "territorial" be stricken out and the words "within the territorial limits" be used.

[e942664] Mr. Lynch: I cannot see that the gentleman's point is well taken as the first section provides that the taxes shall be uniform within certain sections. I hold that the words employed here are correct. One is taxed within limits and the other is authority within jurisdiction.

[e942665] Mr. Cunniff: That clause at the end of the section reads "and such taxes shall be uniform..." etc. It seems to me that there is no use of those words being retained as this is only a repetition of paragraph 1, and I move to strike out the last clause, after the first word "taxes," line 1, page 4.

Mr. Wood: I second the motion.

[e942666] The motion prevailed.

[e942667] [Editor's Note: By adopting Cunniff's amendment, Franklin's amendment was made obsolete.]

(Editorial)

[e942668] Mr. Franklin: This is inadequate and should not stand in that way. In the first paragraph as is seen there is a general scheme, and now coming down to this point I think that this should particularize and I would like to have the same wording occur here as in paragraph 1: "All taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property, within the territorial limits of the authority."

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 482)

[e942669] Mr. Cunniff: I withdraw my second.

Mr. Franklin: I think that should hold.

Mr. Chairman: The gentleman has withdrawn his second.

[Editor's Note: The Minutes records this amendment as lost by a rising vote, rather than dropped for lack of a second.]

[e942670] Mr. Goldwater: I would say that I think there should be an amendment to the next paragraph.

Mr. Chairman: Are there any other alterations or corrections? If not the paragraph will stand approved as read. We will proceed to the next paragraph.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 482-483)

[e942671] Mr. Chairman: Are there any other alterations or corrections? If not the paragraph will stand approved as read. We will proceed to the next paragraph.

482-483)

[e942672] Mr. Baker: On line 3 of this paragraph before the words "The legislature" I move to insert the words "In addition to the above powers to contract debts, the legislature may borrow money..." etc.

Mr. Wood: I second the motion.

[Editor's Note: The Minutes record this amendment as "the State" rather than "the legislature."]

(Editorial)

[e942673] The motion prevailed.

[e942674] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections, alterations or corrections the paragraph will stand approved as amended. We will take up the next paragraph.

[e942675] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections, alterations or corrections the paragraph will stand approved as amended. We will take up the next paragraph.

[e942676] Paragraph 12 approved as read.

[e942677] [Editor's Note: The Committee of the Whole considered Paragraph 13 of Substitute Proposition Number 106.]

(Editorial)

[e942678] Mr. Goldwater: I move to correct line 9 by striking out the word "the" after the word "nor" and inserting the word "any" instead.

[e942679] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections the correction will be made and if there are no other objections the paragraph will stand approved as amended. Hearing none it stands approved. What is your pleasure with the next paragraph?

[e942680] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections the correction will be made and if there are no other objections the paragraph will stand approved as amended. Hearing none it stands approved. What is your pleasure with the next paragraph?

[e942681] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections the correction will be made and if there are no other objections the paragraph will stand approved as amended. Hearing none it stands approved. What is your pleasure with the next paragraph?

[e942686] Mr. Cassidy: I move to amend line 20, by supplying the words "qualified voters."

Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion, Mr. Chairman

[e942687] Mr. Cunniff: I second the motion, Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent of the committee to change the words "voters" to "electors."

[e942688] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections the correction will be made.

[e942689] Carried.

[e942690] Mr. Parsons: In line 24, I think the incorporated towns should have the same rights as cities, and the word “towns” should be inserted.

[e942691] Mr. Cunniff: I call the attention of the gentleman from Cochise to line 25 in which there is the same error, and in line 4, page 5, the word “or” should be supplied in place of “and.”

[...]

Mr. Keegan: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 483)

[e942692] Mr. Parsons: I accept the suggestion and offer this as an amendment.

[e942693] The motion prevailed.

[e942694] Paragraph 14 approved as amended.

[e942695] Mr. Chairman: What will you do with the next paragraph? Are there any alterations or corrections? Hearing none, the paragraph will stand approved as read. Pass to the next paragraph.

[e942696] Mr. Chairman: What will you do with the next paragraph? Are there any alterations or corrections? Hearing none, the paragraph will stand approved as read. Pass to the next paragraph.

[e942697] Mr. Chairman: [...] Pass to the next paragraph.

[e942698] Mr. Franklin: This paragraph is not plain as it does not designate that railroads are private corporations. I think that the words “public service or private corporations” should be inserted, and also move that in line 11, you strike out the word “other.”

[e942699] [Editor’s Note: Franklin’s motion was not mentioned again.]

(Editorial)

[e942700] Mr. Parsons: I move to amend it further by using the words "or any public service or private corporation," and striking out the words "railroads or other."

[e942701] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the motion of the gentleman from Cochise, are you ready for the question? Those in favor of the motion answer "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e942702] Mr. Keegan: In the next section the blanks should be filled and I move we pass that up to the convention.

[e942703] Mr. Chairman: We have not come to that yet.

[e942704] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will now consider the next paragraph. Are there any objections or corrections?

[e942705] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will now consider the next paragraph. Are there any objections or corrections?

[e942706] Mr. Winsor: I ask that a correction on line 20 be made to the effect that after the word "board" the letter "s" be added.

[e942707] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections the correction will be made. It is now open for the committee to fill in the blanks.

[e942708] Mr. Ellinwood: Our board of equalization at the present time is appointed by the governor, one from each of the judicial districts of the territory, and whether this rule will obtain with the committee I am unable to say. It is subject to the will of the convention.

[e942709] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I move that this board be composed of the chairman of the board of supervisors of each county and would just state by this method the board would represent every county.

[e942710] Mr. Baker: I move to amend that motion by filling in the blanks as follows: "The board shall consist of the governor, the secretary of state, state treasurer, and attorney general."

Mr. Lynch: I second the motion.

[e942711] Mr. Ellinwood: I believe I prefer to support the motion of the gentleman from Yuma, as the chairmen of the various boards of supervisors would make it more general and give representation from each county. The motion as given by Judge Baker is the exact copy of the Colorado law.

Mr. Baker: I took this from the Montana.

Mr. Ellinwood: I would much prefer the present system of one from each of the judicial districts of the territory, but I still think the motion of the gentleman from Yuma is best.

[e942712] Mr. Cassidy: It seems to me that it would be well to add the chairman of the corporation commission to Judge Baker's motion. I think there should be five members instead of four. I offer this as an amendment, and I move that the original motion of Judge Baker be amended to include the chairman of the corporation commission, if the amendment is in order.

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is in order.

Mr. Cunniff: I second the amendment.

[e942713] Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, there is no such officer at the present time, and none provided for that I know of.

Mr. Cunniff: Did we not adopt a measure a few days ago that was on the same principle as this one, in the matter of supreme judges? Now, if we know that we are to create such officers as the corporation commissioners, it seems to me we would be safe in naming the chairman as a member of the state board of equalization.

Mr. Winsor: As this question seems to be up for discussion I would say that there has never been any such thing as equalization of taxes under the present system, and I think this is a matter that should have the voice of representation of all of the counties. The motion, if carried, as made by the gentleman from Maricopa, will give the whole board to Maricopa county, and by this method you have no assurance of a representative board. For this reason I am very much opposed to naming a board that does not represent the people, for I cannot see anything that would tend toward equalization unless it is the voice of the people of the state. Each county has its own peculiar interests, and which are better understood by their board than anyone else, and for this reason I think that the members of the board should be representatives of the counties.

Mr. Baker: The proposition has not been passed upon entirely. As to the statement by the gentleman from Yuma, I would say that we do not know whether it would be Maricopa county or what county would be represented in the named officers, but I think whoever they are they will be the most qualified to take care of that matter.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman from Yuma, and second the motion that this board be of state representation.

[e942714] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, are you ready for the question? The question is on the motion to insert the word "chairman of the corporation commission." Those in favor answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The chair is in doubt. The members will now vote by rising.

Rising vote showed 18 in favor of and 20 against.

[e942715] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, that motion was lost by the gentlemen from the reservation.

[e942716] Mr. Chairman: The motion was lost. The question will now come up on the original motion. Those in favor of the motion of the gentleman from Maricopa will answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The chair is in doubt. You will please rise for the vote.

Rising vote showed 22 in favor and 15 against.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 485)

[e942717] Mr. Weinberger: I move the adoption of the entire section.

[e942718] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of adopting the section as it now reads will answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." Call the roll.

Roll call showed 25 "ayes" and 15 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e942719] Mr. Ingraham: I move that the following paragraph be added: "The lawmaking power shall have the authority to provide for the levy and collection of license, franchise, gross revenue, excise, income, collateral and direct inheritance, legacy and succession taxes; also graduated income taxes, graduated collateral and direct inheritance taxes, graduated legacy and succession taxes; also stamp, registration, production or other specific taxes."

Mr. Cunningham: I second that motion.

[e942720] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I would just like to state that this was taken from the constitution of Oklahoma, page 50.

[e942721] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the motion of the gentleman from Yuma. All those in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

[e942736] Mr. Webb: I move that when the committee arises that this proposition be indefinitely postponed by recommendation of the committee.

[e942737] Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend by moving the adoption of the minority report.

Mr. Tovrea: I second that motion.

[e942738] Mr. Cunniff: I move to amend the proposition as follows: Strike out that portion of Proposition Number 56 after the word "proposed," and insert in lieu thereof the following: "The state shall never levy any poll tax for county or state road purpose."

[e942739] Mr. Ellinwood: I have no objection whatever to the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, and I would like to speak of the proposition just a minute. I think the property of the territory or state ought to bear the burden of taxation. The property of this territory is held very largely by the corporations, especially railroads and the large mining companies. I think this burden of keeping up the roads ought to be on the corporations, who own the property, and not on the individuals, and I am opposed to a tax for road purposes. If you will go into the mining communities—it is different in the agricultural communities—you will find that the men working the mines seldom have occasion to use the roads. They pay their street tax and go into the mine and return at night, and never use the county or state road. Does it not seem improper and unjust that the burden should be on the individual who never uses it?

Mr. Webb: While it may possibly be true that there are miners in the territory of Arizona who rarely or never use the roads, it is true that the work which is furnished them depends on roads, and good roads. The development of all resources of the state is dependent upon good roads, even a fine prospect cannot be developed without a good road so one can go look at it. I think the miner receives more good from roads than any other class of men, and it is also true that the miner receives a greater remuneration for his labor than any other class of laborers in this territory. I think it is not a hardship—I think the best interests of the state depend on this tax being levied.

Mr. Connelly: I think this is a tax on a great many people on whom it should not rest. Take my own vocation, railroading. I do not see where we get any benefit from a good road, but we are taxed just the same. I do not see that anybody but the corporation, and the man who owns the land should build the roads. I do not think it is fair to levy a poll tax—it is taxation without representation—to tax every man whether he receives any good from the road or not.

Mr. Cunniff: If it is true that the miners receive more than other industrial workers, I want to say that they earn every cent of it, and then some, and it is unjust to deduct road taxes from their hard-earned wages. Take for instance in my own case, I have to deduct from the wages of my miners, a county road tax, when the only road the miners ever use is a road we built.

Mr. Ingraham: I am glad to find that for once I am in agreement with the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood. I should be opposed to the collection of the entire expenses of the state by a capitalization or a head tax. I believe such a proposition would be absolutely unjust, and if that be true I cannot see why the collection of a part of the expenses of the state is not in principle just as unjust.

Mr. Webb: I would like to ask the gentleman whether it is fair that these transients who come into the territory (and a great many of the miners are transients) should be able to earn $5.00 or $6.00 a day and not pay a single cent of taxes, but send it to Russia, or some other foreign country.

Mr. Ingraham: The question is a question of principle as to how taxes should be levied, and I would say in regard to this implication that the miners draw high wages, and it is demonstrable that these men earn more money than they get; otherwise they would not be working here. It is also demonstrable that every cent of taxes paid into this territory comes out of the wages of men. The only men who pay the taxes are those who get out and rustle. You cannot get blood out of a turnip, nor out of a man who does not get out and work. This man who works for $5.00 a day and whom the gentlemen say does not pay any taxes—he and the others who work in this territory pay all the taxes of the territory. (applause)

Mr. Sims: I just want to state that since I have been in Cochise county, I believe there has been enough money collected to pave the streets, and I think the roads are in no better condition. I believe the miners and railroad men would be the last to kick if the money was judiciously spent, or if it were spent for education or school funds, it would be all right.

Mr. Ellinwood: Under the statute the corporations are required to hold out the taxes of their employee's wages, as has been stated. The result of that is that the only tax collected, at least in our county, is from the miners. The tax collector gets 12 ½ cents out of \$.250, and therefore he makes a demand on the corporation and they take the same and pay it over to him and he takes out his 12 ½ cents. Now in order to collect the road tax from the farmer and the individual, the assessor would have to go to each man throughout the county, which he could not afford to do for his 12 ½ cents on \$.250. The result, as far as Cochise county is concerned, is that almost the whole tax is from the miners.

Mr. Webb: In answer to the gentleman from Cochise that it is easier to collect taxes from the miners than from the farmers, I want to reply that if he will stop to think he will see that it is much easier to collect from the farmer than the man working for the corporation. If the farmer does not pay the tax [there] is a lien on his property and [it] must be paid when he pays the property tax.

Mr. Wells: I would like to ask if this taxation for road purposes is in addition to the school tax. It is my motion that one taxation is sufficient.

Mr. Lynch: I want to give one specific instance. Take the road from Morenci to Clifton. That is difficult to keep up, and it must necessarily be kept up by the Arizona Copper Company and the other by the Detroit Copper Company. For vegetables in the company store you have to pay not less than 6, 8 or even 20 cents a pound when in season. The farmer coming into the town over the road can sell them for 2 or 3 cents a pound. Cut your poll tax and your road goes down, not because you cannot, but because you will not raise the money in any other way. At present you will see dozens of wagons laden with farm produce going into town, but I can readily see the two stores would not object to doing away with the poll tax for this road, this giving them almost a monopoly. If the method is wrong, let us remedy the method, but let us keep the tax.

Mr. Ellinwood: In answer to the gentleman from Graham, I understand the mining companies pay 70 cents on every dollar collected for taxes in that county. If that is true, my idea is to let these very companies pay these taxes, and thus you will collect from the Arizona Copper Company, the Shannon Copper Company, the Detroit Copper Company and the railroads \$.40 of every \$.200 of the tax. That is we are taxing the people who are working in the industry, and not the man who is earning his bread by the sweat of his brow.

Mr. Franklin: It does not seem to me that this is an essential part of this constitution. It is a question of policy. We all say we just must have some tax to keep up the roads. It is a question of policy whether the man or the property shall pay, and I therefore would be in favor of leaving it to the legislature.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 486-488)

[e942740] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the amendment of the gentleman from Yavapai: "The state shall not levy any poll tax for county or state roads." All those in favor of the amendment will signify by saying "aye;" when their names are called; those opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

[e941099] Mr. Ellinwood: I am in favor of a mining inspector, but I am opposed to a geologist.

Mr. Hunt: I would like to ask for information, why is it so necessary to have a mine inspector.

Mr. Webb: I do not know only that almost all states that have a large mining industry have a mining inspector.

Mr. Franklin: I have no objections to a mining inspector, but it seems to me that we have too much legislative matter in this, which is so unnecessary, and I would say that this should be a matter for consideration by the legislature.

Mr. Bolan: I think this is a very important matter that we should have a mine inspector, for where there are such great mining interests as Arizona has this is one of the chief officers of the state, but where there is but little mining done then it would not be necessary.

[e941140] Mr. Roberts: Mr. Chairman, I move that the second section be stricken out.

Mr. Osborn: I second that motion.

[e941155] Mr. Chairman: You have heard the motion that the second paragraph be stricken out, are you ready for the question?

Mr. Cunniff: There is a state geologist in California, Colorado, Idaho, Utah. The mining industry in Arizona is one of, if not, the very greatest industries and I think it is very vital that we would have a state geologist to give the necessary reports. The only report we ever get is from the government, and they cannot always be had, nor is it as correct as a state geologist's report would be. In the interest of the great industry and the development of these industries, I think there should be an office created.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I simply wish to say this: in the name of common sense let us call a halt on creating offices. If we want the blessing of statehood to prove a blessing to the people, let us not create so many offices for them to pay for, and if we expect them to receive this constitution that we are framing let us not burden it any further with such useless offices, therefore, I am opposed to a state geologist.

Mr. Hunt: I would say that we had a territorial geologist here a few years ago but that office was abolished by the legislature, as the records will show. It was not considered necessary or beneficial and for this reason was abolished.

Mr. Cobb: I agree with the gentleman from Yavapai, that this is one of the most important offices that the state could have, and in fact I would say just as important as judiciary or legislature, and will do more good than any office in the territory with reference to the great mining industry of the state, which industry is the largest in the territory.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 498-499)

[e941162] Mr. Roberts moved, seconded by Mr. Osborn, to strike out section 2; carried by the following vote:

Mr. Weinberger: I second the motion.

[e941463] Mr. Cunniff: I protest with emphasis against this. The whole delegation from Yavapai county is pledged to have this in the constitution. It is fully covered by the statutes of the federal government, but it should also be in this state constitution as it will enable the state to take care of and have jurisdiction over all matters that arise in the state and that should be settled by the state courts rather than the federal courts.

Mr. Weinberger: I still think it is unnecessary to include this in the state constitution.

Mr. Cunniff: The solid delegation from Yavapai county is pledged to place this in the constitution.

Mr. Weinberger: The federal laws are certainly above the state laws, as in the case of selling liquor, as in the case of selling liquor to Indians.

Mr. Webb: I desire to say that it may be much easier settled by including this in the constitution, but I think that it will have strong opposition since it is a legislative matter, and I am opposed to any legislative matter of this kind being placed in the constitution.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Lynch has explained the unfortunate condition of the Yavapai delegation in having some measure in their platform which the majority of the members of the convention were not elected upon in their platforms, and I agree with the gentlemen who have opposed this measure. It is in most part an international question, when you speak of the expelling of aliens.

Mr. Cunniff: There is no part of it that refers to expelling aliens, and you cannot construe the meaning of importing to include expelling.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): In the importation of goods I would say that there is some difference in the terms. Goods have to be brought here and cannot come without help, but aliens come without being brought and I think that it should be given to the state to prevent the importation of aliens and this does not refer to the expelling of them.

Mr. Ellinwood: Suppose Congress should change this law with regard to the importation of aliens, then what would you do with this law?

Mr. Keegan: I second the motion.

[e940486] Mr. Weinberger: I will say, although they are called "District Attorneys," at the present time, their jurisdiction only extends to the county, and I do not see any reason for change.

[e940489] Mr. Chairman: The motion is to strike out the word "district" and substitute there for the word "county." All in favor of this motion answer "aye;" contrary "no." The motion is carried, and the word "district" is stricken out, and "county" substituted there for.

[e940495] Mr. Cunningham: I move to insert the word "assessor" after the word "attorney."

Mr. Feeney: I second that motion.

[e940510] Mr. Orme: Make a division.

Mr. Cunningham: I have no objection to a division, but I think both of these officers should be elected.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen of the committee, all in favor of adding the word "assessor" after the word "attorney" will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no."

Mr. Orme: On that question of assessor, I wish to say a few words. It is a well-known fact that if an assessor is elected and does his duty, he never can be re-elected. He is not responsible to the board of supervisors in any way, shape or form, and if he does his duty he never could be re-elected. The board could not say "Mr. Assessor, you put that property at a wrong valuation." The assessor must be a qualified man, and it takes two years for him to become qualified, and if the board has no control over him he will make his arbitrary assessments in a way so he can be re-elected. Consequently, I think it would be a poor thing to have the assessor elected, as he would not make proper assessments.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): It has been my experience that the assessor who is appointed by the supervisors takes more interest in politics than any other man, and if he is going to take the interest, he should do it for himself, and not for the board of supervisors. I take exception to the statement that if he does his duty and assess everybody alike he will not be re-elected. He will not fail to be re-elected as long as he wants the job.

Mr. Wills: Mr. Orme has expressed my sentiments as to electing an assessor; I think he should be appointed by the board of supervisors.

Mr. Winsor: I want to add a word to Mr. Orme's statements. Mr. Orme is chairman of the Maricopa board of supervisors and has reason to know whereof he speaks. Where the assessor has been elected, from time immemorial he almost invariably uses his office to secure his re-election. It works this way: As the assessor goes around the county and assesses property of individuals he fails to find all of that property. For instance, if a man has 100 sheep on a range, he will see but 10 of them. He says: "That is all right," and hopes the owner will remember that; and he generally does. As the gentleman from Maricopa has said, when an assessor performs his duty fearlessly, they not only visit that performance of duty in punishment on the assessor, but they try to carry it to the board of supervisors who appointed the assessor. I have known assessors to be appointed by the supervisors, and in the performance of their duty incur the ire of large property owners, and demand was made when candidates for the board of supervisors were being elected afterward that they should refuse to appoint such an assessor on account of the injury worked on them in the performance of their plain duty. I am heartily in favor of the appointing of the assessor.

Mr. Webb: I think in nine times out of ten the office of the assessor is pledged before the election.

Mr. Orme: I have been on the board of supervisors of this county for many years, and I will say no man ever broached the matter to me in any shape or form, and I never gave any promise.

Mr. Webb: Well, perhaps I did make it too strong, but I want to say that the assessor by talking with the owners in assessing the property can arrive at a much more satisfactory understanding than the board of supervisors who sit in their office and arbitrarily raise or lower the assessment.

Mr. Ellinwood: I think this constitution ought certainly to create the office of assessor; it is one of the most important county offices.

Mr. Roberts: I cannot see that it would make a man infallible because he was appointed by the board of supervisors.

Mr. Webb: You will pardon a personal illustration. Frankly, I believe I can do an applicant for the position of assessor more good in my efforts to secure his appointment than to secure his election. In other words, I think my influence would go farther with the three men who compose the board of supervisors, than with the people as a whole, and I believe the assessor would think so and would be more apt to show me a favor in order to secure my influence.

Mr. Parsons: Why not apply that to all the officers?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 504-505)

[e940518] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen of the committee, the question is on adding after the word "attorney" the word "assessor." All in favor of this motion will answer "aye," as their names are called; and all those opposed will answer "no." Call the roll.

Roll call showed 28 "ayes" and 19 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the motion is carried.

[e940520] Mr. Winsor: Before we pass to section 4, I would like to ask what happens to the county superintendent of roads under this provision.

Mr. Weinberger: If I may be allowed to answer that question, the county superintendent of roads is appointed.

Mr. Ingraham: Though the county superintendent of roads is now appointed, there is a provision that hereafter he shall be elected.

[e940523] Mr. Colter: I make a motion that "county superintendent of roads" be added to paragraph 3, after the word "assessor."

Mr. Standage: I second that motion.

[e940526] The motion prevailed.

Mr. Winsor: I second that motion

[e940533] Mr. Sims: With the gentleman's permission I would like to add the words "clerk of the board of supervisors."

[e940535] Mr. Cunniff: I accept the amendment.

[e940557] Mr. Hunt: Make a division.

[e940561] [Editor's Note: Sims' amendment was originally proposed as an amendment to Cunniff's amendment. Dividing the question meant that each amendment was proposed independently of one another.]

(Editorial)

[e940564] Mr. Chairman: The question will first come up on the "surveyor." Those in favor will answer "aye;" contrary "no." The motion is carried.

[e940566] Mr. Chairman: [...] All in favor of inserting the word "clerk of the board of supervisors" will say "aye;" opposed "no." The chair is in doubt. The secretary will call the roll.

[e940569] Mr. Cunningham: Before the vote is had, it seems to me nothing more than right that the board of supervisors should have the right to discharge their clerk when he is not acting in accordance with the wishes of the board.

Mr. Cunniff: I agree with the gentleman from Cochise in the position that the board of supervisors ought to be allowed to appoint a man to work in harmony.

Mr. Osborn: Why would that not apply to the clerk of the superior court?

Mr. Cunningham: That is different. The clerk performs all the duties of the probate judge at present.

Mr. Osborn: And the clerk of the board performs early all of the duties of the board of supervisors.

[e940571] Roll call showed 7 "ayes" and 36 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e941598] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move the committee now arise and report progress, and ask leave to sit again this afternoon.

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

[e941601] The motion prevailed.

32.29 Monday, 21 November 1910, at 14:00 (s16150)

[e940145] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order.

[e940147] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 509)

[e940578] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will take up paragraph 4 of Substitute Proposition Number 40.

[Editor's Note: As the Committee continued on to consider Section 4, Section 3 was implicitly adopted.]

[e940586] Mr. Chairman: [...] We will take up paragraph 4 of Substitute Proposition Number 40.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 509)

[e940590] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I do not quite see the need of that in the constitution. I would ask the chairman of that committee the necessity of it. The state legislature can unquestionably do it and they may or may not with this in here, it seems to me. I move that it be stricken out.

Mr. Weinberger: I second the motion.

[e940592] The motion prevailed.

[e940595] Mr. Chairman: What will you do with paragraph 5?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 509)

[e940596] Mr. Hunt: I would like to ask, isn't that largely legislative?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 509)

[e940600] Mr. Franklin: I agree with the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Hunt, that that section is purely legislative, and that ought to be left to the people and the legislature, and I move to strike out all of paragraph 5.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second that motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 509-510)

[e940603] The motion prevailed.

[e940607] Mr. Baker: I move that the following be substituted as section 4 in this bill: "The legislature shall provide by general law for changing county seats in organized counties and it shall have no power to remove the county seat of any organized county."

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

[e940611] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I would suggest that [sic] the senior member from Maricopa that the only point that will be effected in this proposed amendment is covered, I think, in the legislative bill. Is it not, Mr. Chairman; you remember, I think?

Mr. Chairman: The recollection of the chair is that this section on special legislation is a verbatim copy of the proposition submitted by the legislative committee.

[e940614] Mr. Baker: Then it would read thus: "The legislature shall provide by general law for changing county seats in organized counties."

[e940617] Mr. Coker: I have a copy of the legislative law, Proposition Number 2, locating or changing county seats. It is a prohibition.

Mr. Baker: Then I have stricken that out by amendment.

[Editor's Note: Mr. Baker has the right to amend his own amendment.]

[e940619] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen of the convention, you have heard the motion.

Mr. Webb: I raise the same objection as have [sic, has] been raised to the two stricken out. It is purely legislative.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I desire to ask the gentleman from Maricopa, who offers this amendment, a question. Is it not a fact that the legislature without our incorporating this provision in our constitution would have that power?

Mr. Baker: I suppose the legislature would have the general power, but I can see no harm in saying that the legislature shall provide by general laws for removal of county seats, —provide a system for it.

[e940620] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa. All in favor will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The amendment is lost.

[e940621] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any objections to paragraph 6?

[e940624] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I understand there was a roll call demanded on striking out paragraph 5.

Mr. Sims: Mr. Chairman, I did, and I am sorry I was ignored in the matter.

[e940625] Mr. Chairman: The gentleman from Cochise has asked for a roll call on the question of striking out paragraph 5 of Substitute Proposition Number 40. All in favor of striking out paragraph 5 will signify by saying “aye;” as their names are called; those opposed say “no.” The secretary will call the roll.

[e940635] Roll call showed 30 “ayes” and 17 “nays.”

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried. Section 5 will be stricken out.

[e940640] Mr. Baker: I move to strike out paragraph 6.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

[e940644] Mr. Chairman: A motion has ben made and seconded that paragraph 6 be stricken out. All in favor will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The secretary will call the roll.

Mr. Baker: Let me call the attention of the members to this matter, because I am satisfied the moment you see it you will see that it is absolutely necessary for this to come out of this bill. I do not think any one of you can explain the meaning of the proposition. It is confounding and confusing. It provides that no territory shall be stricken from any county or new county created unless the majority of the voters shall approve. There is a confusion of terms. Furthermore, there is not a county in the territory but what one hundred of its inhabitants, or fifty, could not cut off a part of that territory from their county. It would only require a majority of those living within that part you want to cut off. The rest of the county would be absolutely at their mercy and helpless about the matter. As has already been argued by the gentleman from Graham county, it is absolutely and purely statutory. There is a system for the changing of county seats. They are generally based upon population. Sometimes they take the population. Sometimes they take the area, a number of miles a new county shall have, but it is a system. You have to work it out. It takes a legislative enactment to do the thing with any degree of fairness at all. It is purely legislative.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to ask the committee that prepared this from what constitution they got that authority.

Mr. Webb: I just checked it up with the Utah constitution. It was introduced originally as a verbatim copy of the Utah constitution, but in committee it was changed.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 511)

[e940653] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll. All in favor of striking out this paragraph will say "aye" when their names are called; those opposed will answer "no."

Roll call showed 41 "ayes" and 6 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried and paragraph 6 is stricken out.

[e940675] Mr. Connelly: Mr. Chairman, I move that it be referred back to the committee.

Mr. Curtis: I second the motion.

[e940678] Mr. Franklin: I rise to a point of order.

Mr. Chairman: What is your point of order?

Mr. Franklin: There is a motion before the house to recommend the adoption of this proposition as amended. The motion to refer does not take precedence over the motion to arise and report.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 511)

[e940680] Mr. Chairman: The chair will sustain the point of order.

[e940185] Mr. Chairman: Was there a second to that motion? The chair does not hear a second. If there is no second, section 2 will be considered adopted.

[e940187] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, in line 7 the word "always," I cannot see the import of that. I move that be stricken out.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e940189] The motion prevailed.

[e940190] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move an amendment to line 6. Following the word "powers" add the words "rights and powers not abrogated by this constitution."

Mr. Crutchfield: I second the motion.

[e940193] Mr. Baker: I would like to ask for information from the gentleman who makes this motion. What part of the constitution up to the present time—what propositions have we enacted up to this time yet—what proposed proposition—what is in the thought? Do we propose to abrogate any of the rights of these cities by virtue of the constitution we are going to make? I hardly think it is possible that we will pretend to make an effort along that line at all.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): If we have not abrogated any of the rights this won't do any harm, but if we find after going over this constitution that we have abrogated any of the rights I think this is a wise provision.

Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, didn't we pass a proposition here some time ago which said every law should be in effect unless it was contrary to the constitution? I think we did, and if we did that there is no use putting this in.

Mr. Roberts: Mr. Chairman, it strikes me that this whole article is purely legislative, and I will make a motion that when the committee arise it report and recommend that Proposition Number 52 be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Roberts, if you will move that section 2 be stricken out, I will second the motion.

Mr. Roberts: It strikes me that this whole thing is legislative.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen of the committee, the question is upon the adoption of the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Jones, inserting the word "rights and powers not abrogated by this constitution," after the word "powers" on line 6.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 512-513)

[e940205] Mr. Franklin: I move to amend by striking out section 2.

Mr. Roberts: I second the motion.

[e940206] Mr. Chairman: The motion has been made and seconded to the effect that the entire section 2 be stricken out. The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 18 "ayes" and 28 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is lost and the section is not stricken out.

[e940207] Mr. Chairman: [...] The question is now upon the insertion after the word "powers" of the words "not abrogated by this constitution," in line 6. The secretary will call the roll.

[Remarks by Crutchfield of Maricopa not found.]

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, it would seem to me that the gentleman from Maricopa will still persist in "seeing things." I cannot see what he sees. This provision is certainly plain. They shall have certain rights until otherwise provided by law. They have no rights excepting by law and when that law is changed then they no longer have the right. I think the gentleman is unduly exercised.

Mr. Sims: For the information of the gentleman from Maricopa I wish to call attention to the fact that this is an exact copy of the Oklahoma constitution, one of the prohibition states.

Mr. Cunniff: I should like to point out in regard to this question that all this section says is that every municipal corporation now existing within this state shall continue with all its present rights and powers until otherwise provided by law and no other words are necessary to convey or complete the idea including the idea in the amendment of Mr. Jones of Maricopa. I should like to make an amendment as soon as the one before the house is disposed of.

Mr. Crutchfield: I wish to say that will be unobjectionable to a prohibitionist but in this state, rights have been given to certain municipalities which are objectionable, and while it is a statement verbatim, probably from Oklahoma, it is entirely unsatisfactory to a prohibitionist in Arizona, to place in the constitution an objectionable principle.

[e940208] Mr. Chairman: The secretary will call the roll on the motion of Mr. Jones of Maricopa.

Roll call showed 7 "ayes" and 39 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The amendment is lost.

[e940209] Mr. Cunniff: I move that all be stricken out after the word "law" on line 7.

Mr. Wood: I second the motion.

[e940210] The motion prevailed.

Mr. Chairman: The sentences after the word "laws" are stricken out.

[e940211] Mr. Ingraham: I move that the whole of the second section be stricken out.

[e940212] [Editor's Note: It seems that this motion was not seconded. Moreover, since a vote had already been taken on whether to strike out section 2, it seems unlikely that this motion would have been in order.]

(Editorial)

[e940213] [Editor's Note: Since the Convention moved on to discuss Section 3, Section 2 was implicitly adopted as amended.]

(Editorial)

[e940214] Mr. Chairman: What will you do with section 3?

[e940215] Mr. Curtis: Mr. Chairman, if we are going to give to the people direct legislation this section is far from doing it. I have no fault to find with the section on the whole for I think it is fine, but as it is too far from the people and does not grant the very thing the convention is crying for, direct legislation, I move that the whole section be stricken out.

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, I second that motion.

[e940216] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that section 3 be stricken out. All those in favor of striking out section 3 will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 12 "ayes" and 35 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940217] Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I would like to amend section 3, by striking out all of that section from the word "state" in line 12.

Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I second that motion.

[e940218] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the remainder of the section from the word "state" in line 12 be stricken out.

Mr. Cunningham: I would like to ask how and why the gentleman can amend this section in that manner and have anything left.

[e940219] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask unanimous consent to change the word "any" to "and," in line 11.

[e940220] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections this correction will be made.

[e940221] Mr. Chairman: [...] Those in favor of striking out the section from the word "state" in line 12 will answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The chair is in doubt. Those in favor of the motion to strike out this part of the section will please rise. Now those opposed may rise.

Rising vote showed 23 in favor and 23 against.

[e940222] Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, let us first know what we are striking out. If you strike this out then you have no system at all. You might as well take away the whole right to form their own laws, and I object to striking out any of this section unless you strike out all.

Mr. Ellinwood: Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Baker, that if you strike out this you might as well strike out the whole thing for it is absolutely nothing when this part is stricken out.

Mr. Cunniff: I agree with the gentleman from Maricopa and the gentleman from Cochise, and I am opposed to striking out any of this section.

Mr. Ingraham: This appeals to me as being a very good measure all the way through and because it contains matters of detail does not mean that it is not a constitutional detail and it is all necessary and is just so in this instance.

Mr. Baker: I will state that the purpose of this measure is home government and this authorizes a charter government for the people in order that they do not have to go to the legislature for a charter, and this law prevails in Missouri, Oklahoma and California as well as other states and it is intended to provide self government.

Mr. Ellinwood: Once more I protest that if this section is abolished it destroys the right of self government in the cities and towns and leaves them without a means of a charter government until they appeal to a legislature. I would just illustrate that a charter for a city government often provides for parks and boulevards. In Bisbee we cannot have a park or a boulevard if we wanted it, but what we need is a subway to carry off the water, and we want a charter government provided for no so that every city or town of any size can provide for all conditions they have to meet.

[e940223] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, the question is on the motion to strike out all of section 3 from the word "state" in line 12. Those in favor of that motion will answer "aye;" those opposed will answer "nay." Call the roll.

Roll call showed 19 "ayes" and 28 "nays."

The motion is lost.

[e940224] Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend section 3 by striking out all beginning with the word "the," line 14, page 3, and insert the following: "The charter so ratified may be amended in the manner provided by the initiative and referendum section of this constitution and subject to such conditions and regulations as may be imposed by ordinance."

Mr. Hunt: I second that motion.

[e940225] Mr. Osborn: I would like to have the author of that amendment explain it.

Mr. Winsor: The initiative and referendum law has already been adopted by this convention, providing for such an ordinance and this I suggest will arrive at this same end.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, this provision is broader and I believe will be better. I am in favor of retaining it.

[e940226] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Yuma will answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." Call the roll.

Roll call showed 2 "ayes" and 45 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940227] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend on page 2, line 12, by striking out the word "freeholders."

Mr. Ingraham: I second that motion.

[e940228] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I would just like to say the reason for amending this by striking out the word "freeholders" is because I am a democrat and I do not believe in freeholders, and I do not think they have any right to hold any such office. I do not want any such clause in this constitution, and no such persons shall hold such office in this state

Mr. Sims: Now, Mr. Chairman, I do not see anything questionable in this for in some towns there are a much larger number of freeholders than any other class and I think it would be very fair to give them the right to act as members of this board.

Mr. Cunniff: I am not opposed to the qualified electors having this right for it is their right and the power should be theirs but I do not concede any such right to freeholders.

[e940229] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of striking out the words "freeholders," will answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The secretary will call the roll.

Roll call showed 13 "ayes" and 32 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940230] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I desire to offer an amendment to line 22, page 2, I move that the word "three" be changed to "four" for the reason that the amount of time given for publishing this law does not cover the number of times it shall appear in a publication.

Mr. Keegan: I second the motion.

[e940231] The motion failed to pass.

[e940232] Mr. Cunningham moved, seconded by Mr. Sims of Cochise, to amend line 13, page 3 by striking out the words "register of deeds" and inserting the words "county recorder"; carried.

[e940233] Mr. Cunningham moved, seconded by Mr. Sims of Cochise, to amend line 13, page 3 by striking out the words "register of deeds" and inserting the words "county recorder"; carried.

[e940234] Mr. Chairman: Are there any other amendments to that paragraph, if not we will proceed to the next section.

[Editor's Note: No further amendments were offered.]

[e940235] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any amendments to section 4?

[e940236] Mr. Webb: I move that we amend this section by changing the word "next" in line 2, page 4, to "last."

Mr. Winsor: I second that motion.

[e940237] The motion failed to pass.

[e940238] Mr. Chairman: Are there any other amendments? If not, we will proceed to paragraph 5.

[Editor's Note: No further amendments were offered.]

[e940239] Mr. Chairman: [...] If not, we will proceed to paragraph 5. Are there any corrections or alterations?

[e940240] Mr. Kingan: I would ask the committee why this is a majority of two-thirds? It seems to me that a majority of the qualified electors residing within the corporate limits is sufficient. That is the use of saying a two-thirds majority. I move the words "two-thirds" be stricken out.

Mr. Franklin: I second that motion.

[e940241] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman from Pima, for the reason that it would be much easier to grant a franchise to a monopoly under the present wording of two-thirds than it would to grant a franchise to a corporation, therefore I agree that the correction is very much preferable.

[e940242] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Pima to strike out the words “a two-thirds,” in line 10, page 4, and have the line read only “a majority.” Those in favor of the motion will say “aye;” those opposed “nay.” The motion is carried.

[e940243] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any other amendments or corrections?
[Editor’s Note: No further amendments were offered.]

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages
516-517)

[e940244] [Editor’s Note: The Committee proceeded to consider Section 6.]

(Editorial)

[e940245] Mr. Franklin: I move to amend line 21, page 4, after the word “said” by inserting the word “municipal.”

Mr. Cunniff: I second that motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 517)

[e940246] The motion prevailed.

[e940247] Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, I move that all of section 6 be stricken out.

Mr. Webb: I will second that motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 517)

[e940248] Mr. Weinberger: I would like to ask the gentleman’s reason.

Mr. Cobb: It is socialistic.

Mr. Weinberger: Do you not think that the city or town should own their own lights and power?

Mr. Cobb: Yes, but this goes too far.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 517)

[e940249] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of striking out section 6 will answer “aye;” those opposed “nay.” The motion is lost.

[e940250] [Editor’s Note: No further amendments were offered to Section 6.]

(Editorial)

[e940251] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any corrections or alterations to section 7?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 517)

[e940252] Mr. Short: I move you to amend by striking out the word "other" in line 23, page 4, where it first appears.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to ask the committee just what that means?

Mr. Chairman: Any second to the motion of the gentleman from Yuma?

Mr. Winsor: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 517)

[e940253] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the word "other" in line 23, page 4, be stricken out. Those in favor of the motion will answer "aye;" those opposed "nay."

Mr. Cunniff: I cannot tell how to vote until someone explains the language of that sentence.

Mr. Sims: Perhaps some lawyers can explain that term.

Mr. Cunniff: Does this mean franchise?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 517)

[e940254] Mr. Franklin: I think it would be more intelligible if the words "or other" were stricken out and the word "for the" inserted.

[e940255] Mr. Baker: Mr. Chairman, I think that the word "other" is very plausible and effective, and goes farther, and covers the meaning for the temporary license.

Mr. Franklin: I would like to know the meaning of the word "franchise." Is it a perpetual right or is it a temporary franchise?

Mr. Kingan: If that be true there is no possible way of granting to the people the right to own their own lights and other municipal properties.

Mr. Franklin: A franchise is a right.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to offer an amendment.

Mr. Chairman: There is an amendment before the house. The gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin, has an amendment before the house.

Mr. Franklin: I will re-state the amendment. Strike out the words "or other" and insert the words "for the."

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 517)

[e940256] Mr. Cunniff: I should like to offer an amendment to the amendment. I move that section 7 be amended by inserting the following in lieu of line twenty-two and that part of line 23 ending with the word "of," "no grant, extension or renewal of any right to use, by franchise or otherwise."

Mr. Chairman: The secretary will read the amendment of Mr. Cunniff.

Secretary (reading): "No grant, extension or renewal of any right to use by franchise or otherwise the street, alleys or other public grounds, etc."

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 517-518)

[e940257] Mr. Ellinwood: I think this section is correct as reported by the committee.

Mr. Franklin: I heard the learned gentleman from Pima quote Mr. Noah Webster as an authority against the initiative and referendum. He defines the word "franchise" as "a particular legal privilege; to enfranchise; to give liberty to." Under the meaning of the word, a franchise is a right, a grant of power to do something that the other inhabitants of the city have not the power to do, unless so authorized by the city. This means nothing except when the city grants a franchise to anyone it shall not be prohibited from the use of the street to which the right extends.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to point out that there are only two possible meanings: one, as an adjective, so this means a franchise use. If it is used as a noun according to the meaning that is set forth by the gentleman from Maricopa the use of the term here is a use—a franchise or some other kind of use—and therefore the language is not clear because "franchise" used as a noun is incorrectly used, as a franchise is not a use, and "franchise" is not recognized as an adjective. I would suggest that the amendment I offer clears up the meaning of the section.

[e940258] Mr. Chairman: The question is first on the amendment made by the gentleman from Yavapai. All in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940259] Mr. Chairman: The question is first on the amendment made by the gentleman from Yavapai. All in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost. The question is now upon the amendment of the gentleman from Maricopa.

Mr. Baker: I want to say that this is an exact copy of two or three other constitutions in other states.

[e940260] Mr. Chairman: All those in favor of this motion will answer "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940261] Mr. Ingraham: I wish to revert for a moment to section 1. The first expression used there, it seems to me, is not distinct and clear. If it be true that the county is a municipal corporation, the section does not say what it means. I move to amend so that it shall read "cities and towns shall not be incorporated by special law."

[e940262] Mr. Short: I rise to a point of order. I have an amendment before the committee to strike out the word "other."

[e940263] [Editor's Note: As the Committee proceeded to vote on Short's amendment, it is clear that his point of order was well taken.]

(Editorial)

[e940264] Mr. Chairman: All in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Yuma to strike out the word "other" in line 23, page 4, will say "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940265] [Editor's Note: No further amendments were offered to Section 7.]

[e940266] [Editor's Note: This blank document has been created in order to mimic the process of the Committee of the Whole proposing and considering individual recommendations relating to Substitute Proposition Number 52.]

(Editorial)

[e940267] Mr. Chairman: I move that when the committee arises, it recommend that Substitute Proposition Number 52 do pass as amended.

Mr. Keegan: I second the motion.

[Editor's Note: The Records' attribution of this motion to the Chairman (Cassidy) is an error. The Minutes records the motion as coming from Coker, and page 519 of the Records refers to the motion as 'the motion of the gentleman from Pinal, Mr. Coker.']

[e940268] Mr. Chairman: The motion is that when the committee arise it recommend the adoption of Substitute Proposition Number 52. Are there any remarks?

Mr. Crutchfield: On the question of adopting this proposition as a whole I wish to just say a word. I am not very particular about seeing what Washington has to say about our constitution, because in case we prepare a constitution that will be acceptable to our people, if it be turned down by the President and Congress, we will have done our duty, but if we adopt a constitution which is rejected by the people of Arizona, we will have to come back and do this all over again. I am tired of this, and I feel that when we get through we should have discharged our duty. I am afraid Section 2 will cause the prohibitionists to vote down the constitution, because it threatens in the constitution a municipal right they have upheld. I am not arguing for this as a prohibitionist, I am arguing for it as a communist and as a member of this convention and as a representative of the county from which I come.

Mr. Parsons: I want to ask the gentleman from Maricopa what part of section 2 he thinks interfered with the rights of prohibitionists.

Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that both gentlemen are out of order.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 519)

[e940269] Mr. Roberts: I wish to amend the motion so as to have the report provide that this Substitute Proposition Number 52 be indefinitely postponed, on the ground that it is purely legislative, and does not belong in the constitution.

Mr. Crutchfield: I second the motion.

[e940270] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Pinal, Mr. Coker, that the proposition be adopted as amended by this committee. All in favor of that motion will answer "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is carried.

[e940271] Mr. Hunt: I move the committee do now arise.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 519)

[e940273] [Editor's Note: This motion does not seem to have been seconded.]

(Editorial)

[e940272] Mr. Cunningham: I do not care to offer any amendment, but I think this committee should recommend that Proposition Number 52 for which this has been substituted, be indefinitely postponed.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 519)

[e940274] Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that out of order, as the adoption of a substitute automatically postpones the original proposition.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 519)

[e940275] Mr. Franklin: I appeal from the decision of the chair. I would like to have Mr. Roberts' motion put. The gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Crutchfield, seconded it.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen of the convention, the motion of the gentleman from Pinal has been amended to the effect that Substitute Proposition Number 52 as amended be indefinitely postponed.

[Editor's Note: It is not clear why Mr. Franklin frames this as an appeal from the decision of the chair, as his issue is different from Mr. Cunningham's. There appears to have been quite a lot of confusion at this point; Mr. Roberts' amendment ought to have been decided on before Mr. Coker's original recommendation.]

[e940276] Mr. Weinberger: I rise to a point of order. This question has already been settled.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 519)

[e940277] [Editor's Note: The Chair made no decision on this point of order.]

(Editorial)

[e940278] Mr. Chairman: All in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise that Substitute Number 52 be indefinitely postponed, answer "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940300] Petition from J. C. McIntosh and others of Bisbee, Ariz., read and referred to Committee of the Whole.

[e940582] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. The secretary will read the report on [the] first proposition.

[e940588] Mr. Chairman: The committee of the whole will come to order. The secretary will read the report on [the] first proposition.

[e940606] Secretary (reading): Proposition Number 15 by Mr. Moeur. Your committee on education begs to leave to report and respectfully recommends that committee substitute proposition be substituted therefor, and that committee Substitute [Proposition] Number 15 do pass.

[e940609] [Editor's Note: Proposition Number 15 was referred to the Committee of the Whole alongside the report from the Committee on Education.]

[e940612] [Editor's Note: Substitute Proposition Number 15 was referred to the Committee of the Whole alongside the report from the Committee on Education.]

(Editorial)

[e940616] [Editor's Note: The editors have created a blank version of Substitute Proposition Number 15 in order to replicate the process of the Committee of the Whole considering the document section by section. Creating a new version of the proposition also allows the Committee of the Whole to amend the document, as any changes they agree must also be accepted by the Convention.]

(Editorial)

[e940622] Mr. Chairman: If there is no objection, the proposition will be taken up, under the rules, section by section. Are there any amendments to section 1?

[e940626] Mr. Parsons: I move that line 1 and all of line 2 up to and including the word "people" to be stricken out, and the paragraph begin with the word "it" in line 2, making the letter "I" a capital. The introduction is not even legislative; it seems like a good old-fashioned Democratic speech.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I second the motion.

[e940628] Mr. Chairman: Are there any remarks? All those in favor of the motion will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The chair is in doubt. Those in favor will signify by rising; those opposed will signify by rising.

Rising vote showed 21 in favor and 17 against.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 523)

[e940631] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any amendments to paragraph 2?

[e940641] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any amendments to paragraph 2?

[e940645] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any amendments to paragraph 2? Paragraph 2 will be considered passed.

[e940647] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any amendments to paragraph 3?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 523-524)

[e940657] Mr. Sims: I move that one line 22, page 2, "the city superintendent of schools" be cut out.

Mr. Feeney: I second that motion.

[e940666] Mr. Moeur: I know very little about schools, and when I investigated this was the suggestion of every one of the teachers I went to. As they receive no pay I see no objection to it. They wanted a high school member put on because he would keep up with the latest methods.

Mr. Goldwater: The city over which I preside has no such officer as city superintendent of schools, and no provision for one.

Mr. Moeur: I would say we have a superintendent of all the schools of Phoenix.

Mr. Cunniff: I understand the city of Jerome has a city superintendent of schools.

Mr. Ingraham: I think technically this expression is incorrect. It is true the larger school districts have superintendents, but the superintendent is not the superintendent of the city school but of all the schools of the district, and the district may comprise lands outside the city, so technically this wording should be slightly changed. I have another criticism I wish to make of this matter, but I have not thought it out sufficiently to make an amendment, While it is a good idea to have men of practical experience in education, it seems this board consisting of eight, is too heavy with educators. My experience has been (and I have been principal in high schools and a teacher in college) that educators are liable to become theoretical, and they get away from the ground and up in the air, and a board like this ought to have some business men on it.

Mr. Sims: I would like to say that in Douglas the school district not only takes in the city of Douglas but a large scope of surrounding territory.

Mr. Parsons: While I agree with my colleague from Cochise County, I think he will agree with me that if he will look at the exhibit marked as the "Douglas schools," and the superintendent of schools would be known as the city superintendent of schools. But Mr. Chairman, I want to know if the word "ex-officio" is not used wrongly here.

[e940668] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule the motion is on the amendment to strike out on line 22 the phrase "the city superintendent of schools," and the gentleman will confine his remarks thereto. All in favor of this motion will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940677] Mr. Roberts: I move you that in line 22 the words commencing with line 22, "and" and ending with "legislature" on line 24 be stricken out.

Mr. Parsons: I second that motion.

[e940679] Mr. Chairman: Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Ingraham: I would like to ask a question. The number of this board is eight members?

Mr. Moeur: Yes sir.

Mr. Parsons: I would like to ask the gentleman another question. When you use the words "appointed by the governor" was it your intention that he should appoint a country superintendent who had already been elected, or appoint one from the body of electors?

Mr. Moeur: He was to appoint one from those already elected.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 524-525)

[e940683] Mr. Parsons: I move the word "designated" be substituted for the word "appointed."

[e940687] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule the amendment of Mr. Parsons is not in order.

[e940690] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule the amendment of Mr. Parsons is not in order. All those in favor of the amendment of the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Roberts, will answer "aye"; opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940696] Mr. Parsons: I renew my motion to substitute "designated" instead of "appointed" in line 23.

Mr. Wills: I second that motion.

[e940698] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that "designated" be substituted for "appointed." Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Kingan: I am opposed to that motion for this reason. I think the governor should be empowered to appoint these persons without the action of the legislature. If you use the word "designated" you will have to have the action of the legislature. These are officials who are to serve without pay. They are persons who already occupy positions of trust in the territory, and it seems idle to have their office confirmed by the legislature. Besides, the legislature is not in session except once in two years, and it may be necessary to have a man appointed without waiting that length of time. There you have the men already in positions of trust, it is sufficient to merely have the action of the governor. I mention that because I wish to offer an amendment after this is passed on.

Mr. Parsons: In reply to the gentleman from Pima, I desire to say I suggested this because my colleague had the idea it was giving the power to appoint a county superintendents of the state one who should become a member of the board of education.

[e940699] Mr. Chairman: All in favor of this motion will signify by saying, "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940700] Mr. Parsons: That would be inconsistent with the statement made before.

[e940701] Mr. Chairman: Are there any further amendments?

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, I favor cutting out "and confirmed by the legislature" in lines 23 and 24. It does not seem to me that that is necessary. I move the words be stricken out.

Mr. Kingan: I second the motion.

[e940702] The motion prevailed.

[e940704] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I move as an amendment to line 21 that the words "ex-officio" be stricken out. If these men are to be members of the board by appointment of the governor we do not need the words "ex-officio." They are not members of the board by virtue of their office.

Mr. Standage: I second the motion.

[e940705] Mr. Chairman: It is moved by the gentleman from Cochise, seconded by Mr. Standage, that the word "ex-officio" be stricken out.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I should think it would be ill advised to strike out that word because the governor, superintendent of public instruction, president of the university and members of the state normal schools should be ex-officio members of the board.

[e940706] Mr. Chairman: Any further remarks? It has been moved and seconded that the words "ex-officio" on line 21 be stricken out. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "no." The motion is lost. Any further amendments to paragraph 3?

[e940707] Mr. Sims: Mr. Chairman, I move that beginning on line 2 after the word "pay" all the balance of this paragraph be stricken out.

Mr. Cassidy: I second the motion.

[e940708] Mr. Hunt: I do not see the use of striking out that, because these members are serving without pay but their necessary expenses are paid.

Mr. Sims: Mr. Chairman, I take the position that it is absolutely legislative and has no part in the constitution.

[e940709] Mr. Coker: Mr. Chairman, I insist that the entire selection beginning at the word "law" in line 1 is also legislative, and I would amend the motion of the gentlemen from Cochise by asking that all be stricken out after the word "law."

Mr. Chairman: Where is the point?

Mr. Coker: After the word "law" in line 1, to include the members of the board to serve without pay—to strike out that entire sentence.

Mr. Curtis: I second the motion.

[e940710] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that this part is a little more legislative. The legislature would not be authorized to provide for salary. This part provides that they shall serve without pay.

Mr. Standage: Mr. Chairman, if the members of the board shall serve without pay-if that is left in there, there could be no provision made whereby they could get their expenses paid.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. Chairman, as the members of this board are not paid now, I do not see any necessity of saying they shall not be paid.

Mr. Sims: Mr. Chairman, I do not think the position of school trustee carries very much importance. I believe in Douglas we have the best schools anywhere in the United States, and we never pay for school trustees, and I do not think in the future you will have any difficulty in getting men to act as school trustees.

Mr. Moeur: When the board meets and you call a man away from his business you simply pay his expenses. No trustee gets any pay for serving in public.

Mr. Hunt: Mr. Chairman, I will ask the gentleman, I suppose this means travelling expenses.

Mr. Moeur: When the board meets and you call a man away from his business you simply pay his expenses. No trustee gets any pay for serving the public.

Mr. Hunt: Mr. Chairman, I will ask the gentleman, I suppose this means travelling expenses.

Mr. Moeur: Traveling expenses, but they receive no pay for their actual expenses, only their board and railroad fare.

Mr. Sims: No, I would not take that position.

Mr. Bolan: Mr. Chairman, the committee on education, in working this matter out, spent some time deciding to adopt this clause that we are amending, and we came to the conclusion after thinking the matter over carefully and working among ourselves that this was a necessary clause in this paragraph. I believe in regard to the expenses incurred by members attending this meeting that they should have their expenses paid, consequently I am opposed to striking out the section.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 526-527)

[e940711] Mr. Chairman: Any further remarks? The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pinal. Mr. Coker, seconded by Mr. Curtis to cut out all of the last sentences after the word "law" in line 1, on page 3. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

[e940712] Mr. Chairman: [...] The question is now on the motion offered by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Sims, seconded by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Cassidy, that all after the word "pay" on line 2 in that paragraph be stricken out. Those in favor of making this amendment will signify by saying "aye"; those opposed "no." The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 527)

[e940713] Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I move that the word "travelling" be inserted between the words "necessary" and "expenses" on line 2—"necessary travelling expenses." "Necessary expenses" is rather vague and might mean automobile hire, cigar, etc.

Mr. Ingraham: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 527)

[e940714] Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded that the word "travelling" be inserted between the words "necessary" and "expense." Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Coker: Mr. Chairman, I move an amendment that the words “and living” be inserted after the word “travelling.”

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 527)

[e940715] Mr. Chairman: Does the gentleman from Maricopa accept the amendment? The amendment is to add the words “and living” after the word “traveling.”

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Yes sir.

[e940716] Mr. Chairman: The question is to add on line 2, page 3—to add the words “traveling and living” between “necessary” and “expense.”

Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I do not see the necessity of passing those amendments. This means just what it says, but “all necessary expenses”—If you want to insert the words “all necessary traveling expenses incurred by the members attending the meeting” you would not have very good sense, and if you insert the words “living expenses,” I do not think it would help it out any. It can only be such expenses as are necessary. It could not intimate that automobile hire, cigars, etc., are necessary.

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, I understand that amendment was accepted by the mover.

Mr. Chairman: Yes.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 527-528)

[e940722] Mr. Franklin: I move to amend that by inserting the words “board and lodging” after “traveling expenses”, including all necessary traveling expenses “including board and lodging.”

[e940725] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. Chairman, I do not think the words “traveling” put in there excludes automobile hire because certainly if a man travels in an automobile it would come in as traveling expenses.

[e940727] Mr. Chairman: Any further amendments to the amendment? The motion is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, Mr. Franklin, that the words “board and lodging” be used instead of the words “and living.” Those in favor will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The motion is lost.

[e940729] Mr. Chairman: [...] The question is now in the insertion of the words “traveling and living” between the words “necessary” and “expenses” in line 2. Those in favor will signify by saying “aye;” opposed “no.” The motion is lost. (applause)

[e940730] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any further amendments to the paragraph? Any further amendments to paragraph 3? Paragraph 3 will be considered adopted as amended.

[e940731] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are there any amendments to paragraph 4?

[e940732] Mr. Weinberger: I move to strike all of lines 13, 14, and 15 commencing with "his."

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e940733] Mr. Moeur: Mr. Chairman, I know very well that the salary of the superintendent of public instruction has been fixed, and I feel that the salary is too small, I would like to make some amendment to this not to conflict with the other that he be allowed his traveling expenses in addition to his salary of twenty-five hundred dollars; this will be necessary because [sic] to get a capable man to fill the job. He incurs a great deal of expense and the salary of twenty-five hundred dollars is inadequate for men of his intelligence. I would like this convention to take some action whereby he can be allowed his travelling expenses in addition to his salary.

Mr. Lynch: Mr. Chairman, I would state that the state in any superintendent of schools does not travel around the state in any state that I know of. His office is at the capital and his business is there and he does not go to other places.

Mr. Standage: Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that I believe he does travel. It seems to me he is called to visit different schools and different places in the territory. I can remember he has been called to the schools I have been in, to deliver addresses, etc., and he has no way of getting compensation.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I agree with the gentleman from Maricopa that he does not travel, but it is in the summertime when he goes to the coast or to the mountains.

Mr. Weinberger: I will say that the constitution does not preclude the legislature from allowing travel expenses, and we might leave that matter to the legislature.

Mr. Bolan: Mr. Chairman, when they selected my fellow member, Dr. Moeur, on this educational committee, he gave this matter his attention, and we consider this one of the most important state offices we would have to elect this superintendent of schools. I am satisfied that every gentleman in this convention, whether he had children, or whether he has not, has this subject more or less at heart, consequently I believe that this allowing of expenses is not extravagant, and I am in favor of making some arrangement to increase his salary to more than twenty-five hundred.

Mr. Feeney: I seconded Mr. Weinberger's motion because I feel that it is not necessary every time we mention an officer in our constitution that we specify the wages. I will boost for higher wages at the proper time, but I feel that it is irrelevant here.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 528-529)

[e940734] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the amendment offered by Mr. Weinberger, seconded by Mr. Feeney, to strike out the last sentence in paragraph 4. All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The motion is carried. The sentence is stricken out.

[e940736] Mr. Short: I move an amendment in line 6 by striking out the words after "shall" and in line 7 up to "four" including "officials," making it read "The state superintendent of public instruction shall for two years next preceding," etc.

[e940737] Mr. Chairman: I would like to point out to the gentleman from Yuma that you will have to strike out the word "he" in line 8 also, Mr. Short.

Mr. Short: Yes, the word "he" will also be stricken out.

Mr. Chairman: The motion of the gentleman from Yuma is that in line 4 on page 3 all after the word "shall" be stricken out—all in line 7 up to and including the word "officials" and on line 2 the word "he," so the paragraph would read "The state superintendent of public instruction shall for two years next preceding his election—" I would suggest the word "shall" will have to be cut out—"have been engaged in educational work in some department of the public school system of Arizona."

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Chairman, the reason for striking out that clause as amended by the gentleman from Yuma is that Substitute Proposition Number 33 provides that a state superintendent of schools shall be elected for a term of two years, therefore it is unnecessary to repeat it here.

Mr. Moeur: Mr. Chairman, it strikes me as very unnecessary to strike out any of it. We are not voting on Proposition Number 33, and this makes it very plain, and I do not know that Proposition Number 33 is going to be adopted finally, therefore I am opposed to making any changes.

[e940738] Mr. Chairman: Any further remarks on that motion? It is moved by the gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Short, seconded by Mr. Jones of Maricopa, that the words on line 4, all the words after "shall" line 6 I should say, after the word "shall" to the end of that sentence, including the word "officials," be stricken out. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is carried. The words are stricken out. Any further amendments to paragraph 4?

[e940739] Mr. Cassidy: Mr. Chairman, I move that in line 9 the words "in some department of" be stricken out as unnecessary, making it read "engaged in educational work in the public school system of Arizona."

Mr. Weinberger: I second that motion.

[e940740] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the words "in some department of" in line 9 be stricken out. Are there any remarks?

Mr. Moeur: I object to that because a man might be working in the normal school, may teach in the University, therefore he is ineligible to the office; therefore I object to striking that out.

Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I think Mr. Cassidy will accept striking out all the words, "in some department of public schools system of Arizona, and he will have left, "He shall have been engaged in educational work in Arizona."

Mr. Cassidy: I do not care to accept this amendment. I feel that he should have been engaged in the work in connection with the public schools.

[e940741] Mr. Chairman: The motion is on striking out the words "In some department of" in line 9. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed "nay." The chair is in doubt. Those in favor will signify by rising.

Rising vote showed 14 in favor and 22 against.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940742] Mr. Bradner: Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out in line 7 after the words "state officials" up to line 8; "He shall have been engaged in educational work in some public school system of Arizona two years."

Mr. Chairman: I would like to point out that the words "he shall" have already been stricken out, so it now reads: The state superintendent of public instruction for two years next preceding his election have been engaged in educational work in some department of the public school system of Arizona.

Mr. Bradner: Strike out then the words "next preceding."

Mr. Chairman: That will not do.

Mr. Bradner: "For two years shall have been engaged."

Mr. Chairman: As I understand the amendment [it] is that the words "next preceding his election" be stricken out.

Mr. Roberts: I second that motion.

[e940746] Mr. Ellinwood: I move to strike out the whole sentence "for two years next preceding his election he shall have been engaged in educational work in some department of the public schools system of Arizona." I have gone over quite carefully these constitutions here and I find no such qualifications. It is perfectly possible that a gentleman who has engaged in the ministry, or who is now engaged in educational work, would be the most fit man. I find no other constitution in which school teachers alone can be elected.

[e940749] Mr. Moeur: I notice the gentleman from Cochise did not kick on having qualifications for lawyers who are to sit on the bench here.

Mr. Chairman: Any further remarks?

Mr. Parsons: In addition to what Mr. Ellinwood has said, I want to call attention to the fact that it might be as this territory develops we might feel equal to employing some gentleman who might come highly recommend from Harvard, who had not been at in our territory. We might want to go away and bring fresh blood in here, and I don't think we should shut the door against it.

Mr. Bolan: Mr. Chairman, I am in favor of this officer being elected from among the teachers of our state, and I should prefer they should have some experience, that is, at least two years, had training in teaching school. He might be one of the best educated men in the country, and not be thorough in regard to the conditions of our territory as some man who has had experience in the public schools.

Mr. Standage: I think any man who should be elected to the office of superintendent of public instruction should have had experience in Arizona. We have conditions here not similar to conditions in any of the other states. We require teachers coming from the east to pass rigid examinations. The teachers in the normal school are permitted to teach in the territory, thus making employment for all of the teachers, and I think the superintendent of public instruction should be elected from among the teachers of Arizona who have learned the conditions of Arizona.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I think it is rather surprising to hear the gentlemen of the bar talk about trusts when we read their judicial qualifications. (applause) If they have not sewed up the people here so they cannot import supreme or superior judge[s], then I cannot read their preposition [sic], and I think the qualifications here are certainly modest.

Mr. Sims: I take the proposition, Mr. Chairman, that I am opposed to creating a monopoly here at any time. I do not believe that the people here would elect a man for school superintendent who was not qualified, and if they made a mistake they would go after him with the recall.

Mr. Orme: Mr. Chairman, we have a very progressive school system, different from the east, and I think a man to be superintendent of public instruction should be very conversant with our schools and I am utterly opposed to importing anyone here to run our schools. We have as able educators in the territory of Arizona as they have in any state in the Union. We might as well let our judges come from other states.

Mr. Connelly: I believe we already have a qualification that he must be an elector of the territory, which means he shall have lived here at least one year. I am just republican enough to believe in patronizing home industry so far as school teachers are concerned.

Mr. Chairman: Are there any further remarks?

Mr. Wells: If there are no further amendments I would like to hear that section read as amended.

Mr. Chairman: The section now reads as follows: "The state superintendent shall for two years next preceding his election have been engaged in educational work in some department of the public school systems of Arizona. He shall be a member and secretary of the state board of education and ex-officio a member of all the other boards having control of public instruction in any state institution." The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood, to strike out the whole of the first sentence, so the paragraph would then begin with the word "he" on line 10, striking out the sentence "The state superintendent of public instruction," etc. The chair would like to say a word or two, and that is that if there were a provision like this in the constitution of other states there would not be a state university, of even second rate, in the educational world west of Buffalo, and the state universities west of Buffalo are some of the finest institutions because they import men from various places. This is a subject that has agitated the educational world ever since the time of Horace Mann, who was really the originator of public instruction in the country.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 531-532)

[e940751] Mr. Chairman: [...] Are you ready for the question? The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood, to strike out all that sentence. A roll call has been asked for. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye" as their names are called, opposed "no."

Roll call showed 25 "ayes" and 23 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried.

[e940752] Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried. That disposes of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise. Mr. Bradner, seconded by Mr. Roberts, to strike out "next preceding his election." The whole sentence is cut out.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman,—

Mr. Chairman: I am in error. The words "The state superintendent of public instruction" on line 6 are not stricken out, but the words "he shall" at the end of line 9, the beginning of line 10, are stricken out.

[e940758] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any further amendments to this paragraph? If not the paragraph will be considered adopted as amended.

[e940759] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any amendment to paragraph 5?

[e940761] Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend line 17 by striking out the word "four" and substituting the word "two."

Mr. Sims: I second the motion.

[e940762] Mr. Moeur: Mr. Chairman, I object to making the term less than four years. He has a great deal of work to do, and it will take him at least a year to get on to his job, and about the time he gets so he can run these schools economically he has to be reelected or another man elected in his place, and I believe four years is plenty short enough for the term.

[e940774] Mr. Osborn moved to amend by striking out all of line 16 and that part of line 17 ending with the word "years".

[e940770] Mr. Connelly moved, seconded by Mr. Jones of Maricopa, to amend by striking out lines 16, 17, 18, and 19...

[Editor's Note: The Records describe this amendment as striking out the entire section. However, as the Committee continues to amend the last paragraph of the section, the Minutes' account is clearly the more accurate account in this instance.]

[e940776] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the whole of the first paragraph in section 5 beginning on line 16 and ending on line 19 be stricken out. Are there any remarks on the motion? Those in favor striking out that entire paragraph will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The paragraph is stricken out. Any further amendments to section 5?

[e940779] [Editor's Note: Adopting Connelly's amendment to strike out the paragraph made Osborn's motion irrelevant.]

[e940782] [Editor's Note: Adopting Connelly's amendment to strike out the paragraph made Weinberger's motion irrelevant.]

(Editorial)

[e940786] Mr. Kingan: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me the same objections apply here to that part of lines 21 and 22, page 3, of this paragraph as to the requiring of appointment of regents to be confirmed by the legislature. It seems to me it will work a hardship in many cases, and will cripple the work of the universities. The board of regents is a small body. Suppose one were to die, another were to move away. The governor could not fill the vacancy until the legislature met, two years perhaps. I therefore move you, Mr. Chairman, that the following be stricken out beginning with the word "and" being next to the last word on line 21, and down to the word "legislature" on line 22 be stricken out.

Mr. Moeur: I second that motion.

[e940790] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Pima to strike out beginning at the end of line 21 and running on to line 22" and confirmed by the state legislature." The gentleman from Yuma, Mr. Ingraham.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, I am opposed to this for this reason. I consider the appointment of the board of regents a very important and serious matter. I came from the state of Michigan, and the regents of the University of Michigan are elected by the people, and a most remarkable thing has taken place in that state. The election of regents has been entirely taken out of politics, so I have known the Republican party in that state to nominate a Democrat on their ticket and elect him. It shows the attitude that the people of that state attach to their university and to the managing board of that institution, and that is the reason why the University of Michigan stands, perhaps, pre-eminent among the institutions of the middle west in education. Now it seems to me that if we are to have a great university here in Arizona, and I see no reason why we should not have, perhaps not great in numbers, but great in standing, in its value, and in the ability of its graduates. It does not take a large institution to make a great institution. The standing of some of our great universities. Now if the regents are to be appointed by the governor merely, it seems to me that the appointment will lack that balance, that measuring and weighing that will come if the governor's appointment must be submitted to ratification or rejection by the legislature. Now in regard to the criticism that was made by the gentleman from Pima that the legislature cannot always be in session, it seems to me, gentlemen, that we shall have to have a general provision in this constitution covering vacation appointments, just as there are in the United States Senate. The President makes vacation appointments, which stand until the Senate convenes. We must have such a provision here that the governor where he has the appointing power there must be provision for vacation appointments. It seems to me that in view of that necessary general provision, that we should not amend this to take away from the legislature this check upon the governor.

533-534)

[e940792] Mr. Chairman: Any further remarks? The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Pima, Mr. Kingan, seconded by Dr. Moeur, to cut out the phrase beginning at the end of lines 21 and 22 "and confirmed by the state legislature." All those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The chair is in doubt. All those in favor of the motion will signify by rising. The motion is carried. The words are stricken out.

[e940795] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any further amendments to offer to paragraph 5? If not, the section as amended will be considered adopted.

(Editorial)

[e940796] Mr. Chairman: [...] What will you do with paragraph 6? What is the pleasure of the committee in regard to that section?

[e940800] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move that on line 6, page 4, the word "six" be stricken out and the word "seven" be inserted in lieu thereof.

Mr. Short: I second that motion.

[e940805] Mr. Moeur: I would say that these people tell me that it is impossible to maintain school more than six months in some sections of Arizona where the snow gets very deep; therefore, I put that down but not really because I wanted to.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I do not believe there is any place in Arizona where the weather is so bad but that a child can go to school seven months in the year.

Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, I have had some experience is travelling in Arizona. I have gone over every line of railroad and most of the stage lines, and know there are periods in certain regions where it is practically impossible for the pupils to go to school more than six months in the snow, severe hail, etc. There are places where it would be absolutely impossible to maintain school seven months in the year.

Mr. Moeur: I understand you have to have a certain per cent of attendance or they cannot keep the school up.

Mr. Standage: Also in a small school where they have less pupils than fifteen they receive but five hundred dollars, and five hundred dollars will not permit these schools to run more than six months.

[e940807] Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded that the word "six" in line 6, page 4, be stricken out and the word "seven" be inserted in lieu thereof. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost. Any further amendments to the section?

[e940809] Mr. Goldwater: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask if on line 5 the word "all" really means "all" or does it mean "each."

Mr. Chairman: I think some correction is necessary there, but I do not think we need bother about it now. Any further amendments to the section? The section will be considered adopted as amended.

Mr. Parsons: I notice there is a change in the age at which compulsory attendance at school is required. I see it provides between the ages 8 and 16. Under our present law it is 6 and 13. I would like to ask the chairman of that committee if he has an explanation to make why this change was made.

Mr. Moeur: I would say I thought it was between 6 and 21.

Mr. Chairman: There are two ages—one in line 7 and one is line 11

Mr. Parsons: As I understand it now the compulsory law applies to children between the ages of 6 and 14. I see it is changed here too between 8 and 16, and unless there seems a very good reason for it I would like to offer and amendment to substitute "fourteen" for "sixteen"

Mr. Cooper: Mr. Chairman, I am not a member of the committee, but I am rather in favor of fixing the age of compulsory education at eight is this: I know personally a number of children who at the age of six years are and have been unable to attend school by reason of physical disability. They are not sufficiently developed at that age to stand the strain of beginning school at that time, and to compel them to go into school at the age of six might interfere seriously with their physical development, while an additional two years from 6 to 8 would develop their physical strength so they might go through with their education without being hampered by weak bodies.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Also in reference to those schools that are in those outlying districts where some children go a distance to school, six years will be quite young for a child to go some distance to school.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages
534-535)

[e940815] Mr. Standage: I think it should be left at six for this reason: There are some people that are perfectly able to go to school at six, and those who are not able to go it seems to me the school trustees are lenient an they do not force them, but I think the law should be six so that they could force those that are able to go. I would like to amend line 11 to read from 6 to 16.

Mr. Osborn: I second that motion

[e940817] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded to amend line 16 by eliminating the word "eight" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "six."

Mr. Colter: I think it should be left at eight because there is considerable difference of opinion as to whether it is best for a child to start to school before the age of eight.

Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that I don't think we need to rob the cradle. Eight years is young enough for a police officer to come and snatch a child from the cradle.

Mr. Standage: I would like to ask Mr. Cunningham if he ever saw anything like that happen in Arizona.

Mr. Feeny: As the father of children going to American schools, I want to say that we were tickled to death to have them go at four.

(Editorial)

[e940827] Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I move an amendment to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Maricopa that the word "eight" remain and that the maximum would be fourteen instead of sixteen.

Mr. Weinberger: I second the motion.

[Editor's Note: Although Parsons describes his changes as an "amendment to the amendment," Standage's and Parsons' amendments are voted on separately, demonstrating that the Chairman considered them to be separate amendments.]

(Editorial)

[e940831] Mr. Parsons: I will say, Mr. Chairman, that there is a law now that provides that if a child is not physically able to go to school it is not compelled to go, but in rural districts the boy after he gets to be fourteen years old gets pretty near to where he can do a man's work, and if he had eight years attendance at school I believe there are a great many families where they would rather their boys and girls had six months in school.

Mr. Colter: I object for this reason: If we should happen to pass a bill here compelling children not to do any work until they are fifteen years of age there would be one year they could neither go to school or work. I am strictly in favor of a child going to school and I think the law should be enforced, but if he doesn't go to school for goodness sake let him work.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): Mr. Colter made the point that I was going to make, that you had a year that the child could neither work nor go to school. I also want to call Mr. Parsons' attention to the fact that he has reversed himself when he says that he knows children at the age of fourteen who can do a man's work.

Mr. Parsons: Mr. Chairman, I said that I believed that in the rural districts there were many at the age of fourteen that were considered able to do a man's work.

Mr. Standage: I think the fact that boys are able to do the work when they are fourteen years old is a good reason for having it sixteen, for I have known people to take their children out of school to work then when they would have been better off if they had been in school.

[e940833] Mr. Chairman: The question is first on the motion offered by the gentleman from Maricopa, that is to cut out the word "eight" and insert the word "six." I do not want to put that motion before I say one word myself. I have a child six and a half years old, and I would defy the constitution of Arizona, or of the United States before I would send that child two miles over a country road in the mountains to school. All those in favor of the motion will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The motion is lost.

[e940834] Mr. Chairman: [...] The motion is now on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Parsons, to eliminate the word "sixteen" and substitute the word "fourteen." Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" contrary "no." The motion is lost. Are there any further amendments?

[e940837] Mr. Coker: Mr. Chairman, on line ten, referring to the same matter, which has just been voted upon, I think it is too restrictive. I think the ages should be left to the legislature. Therefore I move to strike out, after the word "body" in line 10, down to and including the word "years" on line 11, leaving it to the legislature to determine the maximum and minimum age, at which these children can be forced into attendance upon the public school.

Mr. Osborn: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 536-537)

[e940840] Mr. Coker moved, seconded by Mr. Osborn, to amend lines 10 and 11 page 4 by striking out the words "between the ages of eight and sixteen years"; lost.

[e940844] Mr. Connelly: Mr. Chairman, in line 11, where it says sixteen years, I move we strike out "16" and put in "15."

Mr. Parsons: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 537)

[e940847] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the word "sixteen" in line 11 be stricken out, and the word "fifteen" inserted in lieu thereof. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;"—

Mr. Colter: I want to amend that motion. Is it in order?

[e940848] Mr. Chairman: No, that will be out of order.

[e940852] Mr. Chairman: No, that will be out of order. All those in favor of cutting out "16" and inserting "15" will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 537)

[e940855] Mr. Colter: Everything is accomplished now that I was going to amend.

Mr. Chairman: Any further amendments?

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 537)

[e940864] Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, inasmuch as this matter is fully covered by statute at the present time, and it is purely legislative, I move you that all of this paragraph beginning with "and" and in line seven be stricken out.

Mr. Curtis: I second the motion.

[e940869] Mr. Chairman: It is moved and seconded that all this paragraph under discussion beginning with the word "and" on line seven, to the end of the paragraph be stricken out. Those in favor will signify by rising. Those opposed will signify by rising.

Rising vote showed 30 in favor and 14 against.

Mr. Chairman: The motion is carried, and that portion of the paragraph is stricken out beginning with the word "and" to the end of the paragraph.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 537)

[e940873] Mr. Chairman: [...] Any further amendments to the section? The section then will be passed.

[e940875] Mr. Chairman: [...] What is your pleasure with section 7?

[e940878] Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, I move that section 7 be stricken out.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 537)

[e940883] Mr. Osborn: I would like to say it seems to me that it is purely legislative and we are telling the legislature to do something that they can do if they want to, and there is a law on the statute books today that is in full force and effect.

Mr. Ingraham: The enabling act also says that provision shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of public schools, which shall be open to all children of said state.

Mr. Moeur: If the gentlemen of this convention want their children to go to school with colored children they have my permission, but I for one will never vote for white and colored children to attend the same school.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I think this should be in the constitution, and I do not think it comes in conflict with the Enabling Act, where it says schools shall be provided for the colored children as well as the white children.

[e940888] Mr. Roberts: Mr. Chairman, I move that section 7 be approved.

Mr. Weinberger: I second the motion.

[e940891] Mr. Chairman: The motion is on the amendment that the section be approved. Are you ready for the question? Those in favor of retaining this paragraph as it stands will signify by saying "aye;" those opposed no. The chair is in doubt. The secretary will please call the roll.

Mr. Coker: I am in favor of all but the last sentence.

Mr. Chairman: It can be amended.

Mr. Coker: I vote "aye;" with the understanding that the last sentence can be amended.

Mr. Cooper: I would ask for information; is that vote on the adopting of it as it is now?

Mr. Chairman: Yes, passing it as it is now.

Mr. Cooper: I vote "aye."

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that the provision should call for separate schools for Japanese and Chinese. I vote "no."

Mr. Short: I would explain my vote on this matter. I believe the provision is all right, if it could be carried out, but I do not understand how in small districts where you have a few colored children, and a few white children you are going to carry it out. Consequently, I vote "no."

[e940899] Roll call showed 22 "ayes" and 22 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940900] [Editor's Note: The Committee's report was referred to the Convention.]

(Editorial)

[e940903] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move that the committee now arise and report progress and ask leave to sit again this afternoon.

Mr. Wood: I second the motion.

[e940905] The president resumed the chair.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 539)

[e941692] Mr. Wood: Commencing at line 19, including line 20, after the word "purpose" is the exact wording of paragraph 16 of substitute proposition adopted yesterday, and since it contains this same sentence I move that this part be stricken out.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 539)

[e941696] The motion prevailed.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 539)

[e941701] Mr. Chairman: Any other amendments?

Mr. Feeney: I move its adoption.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 539)

[e940801] Mr. Ellinwood: Is the purpose of this bill to have all public institutions under one board of control or a special board of charities?

Mr. Winsor: That matter should be under the Committee on Executive, Impeachment and Removal from office. The legislative committee has not considered it at all.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): It does not seem to me that we provided for a board of control.

[e940858] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): My reason for this amendment is that the governor has a term of only two years and this office cannot be for a greater length of time.

Mr. Cunningham: The members of the committee discussed this matter but thought it were best to hold the public examiner for a greater term.

[e940508] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved and seconded that the word "four" be stricken out and the word "two" inserted in lieu thereof. Those in favor of this motion will answer "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

“The legislature or the people shall enact as equitable and sufficient employers' liability law or laws for the protection and safety of employees in all hazardous occupations.”

And recommends that same be adopted. Your committee further recommends that in the opinion of a majority of your committee the above words will meet all necessary requirements and limitations. That section 2 of said Proposition Number 88 with the above substitute adopted would be surplusage. That section 3,4,5, are fully covered by other provisions adopted or under consideration.

[e940889] Mr. Webb: I would like to ask the chairman of that committee what good this provision of the majority report would do.

Mr. Cunningham: I will state it is the feeling of the judiciary committee that if such measure were to go into our constitution this would be sufficient.

Mr. Webb: I would ask, will it accomplish anything at all?

Mr. Cunningham: I do not think it will.

[e940525] Mr. Short: Mr. Chairman, I move that when the committee arises to report to the convention that the minority report to be adopted.

Mr. Webb: I second that motion.

[e940529] Mr. Cunningham: Mr. Chairman, I offer an amendment to that motion, and move that when the committee arises it recommend the adoption of the majority report.

[e940531] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move that when the committee arises to report to the convention that it recommend that copies of the report of the committees, the majority and minority reports, be typewritten and placed on the desk for tomorrow morning.

Mr. Moore: I second the motion.

[e940534] Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, you have heard the motion to postpone consideration of these reports on Proposition Number 88 until tomorrow morning and that typewritten copies of the same be placed upon the desks. Those in favor of the motion will answer "aye;" those opposed "no." Call the roll.

Roll call showed 11 "ayes" and 29 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940906] Mr. Crutchfield: Mr. Chairman, the difference between the minority report and the majority report is the legality, constitutionality and detail parts of the proposition, and I would like to read from the United States Statutes: "To recover damage for personal injuries to an employee, or where such injuries have resulted in death, the fact that the employee may have been guilty of contributory negligence shall not bar recovery, but the damages shall be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employees," and from section 5: "Any contract, rule, regulation, or device whatsoever, the purpose or intent of which shall be to enable any common carrier to exempt itself from any liability created by this act, shall to that extent be void." Now, Mr. Chairman, to protect the rights of employees against corporations I think that this measure should be incorporated in the constitution.

Mr. Webb: No one has offered the slightest reason for adoption of the majority report, and the chairman has himself said that it was not good. I believe that if we can take any man's word upon the worth of the measure we certainly could depend upon the chairman of that committee, and when he declared that it is not good then why should we waver in the postponement of the entire proposition.

542-543)

[e940568] Mr. Coker: I move that when the committee arises that it recommend indefinite postponement of the majority report.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 543)

[e940570] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule that motion is out of order.

[e940915] Mr. Moeur: I do not see how we can get any satisfaction out of the consideration of this proposition without the printed copies.

Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that that question has been passed upon. Will the gentleman from Gila, Mr. Weinberger, take the chair?

Temporary Chairman: Mr. Cunniff is recognized.

Mr. Cunniff: I am in favor of the minority report. I am in favor of something more specific in the constitution of Arizona than the majority report prescribes, and I do not think that it should be left to the discretion of the legislature. Since it is a part of the statute law of the United States so do I think it should be in our own state laws. I have here a first report to the legislature of the state of New York by the commission appointed under Chapter 518 of the laws of 1909 to inquire into the question of employers' liability and other matters and from this I read: "In brief, that law placed upon the employer the liability to compensate the employee for all damages due in whole or in part to negligence or failure of duty of the employer, as at common law before a jury, and also takes away two of the employers' common law defenses, and modifies the third. Thus, the act provides that contributory negligence of the employee shall not bar the action, but the damages shall be decreased by the jury in proposition [sic, proposition] to the negligence." I am strictly against the majority report and very much in favor of the minority report.

[e940918] Mr. Chairman: The motion before the committee is on the adoption of the majority report. Call the roll.

Roll call showed 9 "ayes" and 37 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940928] Mr. Chairman: [...] The question now comes up on the adoption of the minority report, and it has been requested that it be considered section by section.

[e940936] [Editor's Note: Section 1 came up for consideration.]

(Editorial)

[e940940] Mr. Winsor: I move to strike out the word "legislature," in line 1, and substitute therefore "the legislative power of the state."

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e940942] Mr. Cassidy: It seems to me that this amendment of the gentleman from Yuma should not prevail. How can this convention instruct the people to enact a law? Yet the words "legislative power of the state" would mean the people, and it would mean the same thing as the people instructing themselves. I think it should stand just as it is.

[e940943] Mr. Winsor: I believe on second thought the gentleman is right, and I will withdraw my motion with the consent of my second.

[e940947] Mr. Webb: The same argument seems to me to apply to all this, if you instruct the first legislature. I move to strike out the first section, which certainly is of no effect and of no force. The second section is restrictive and is the only one which would have any effect.

[e940948] Mr. Winsor: I fully agree, as I have said several times lately, our instructions to the legislature may or may not be obeyed by that body, but we have instructed the legislature in a great many cases in which it was desired to embody the principle in the constitution, and, if possible to secure an enactment into law by the legislature, and if it is sense of the convention that such a law ought to exist on the statute books, I see no reason to make an exception in this case. Why should we make an exception in this matter when we have instructed the legislature in other cases?

Mr. Webb: I take the position we have not instructed them in many cases, and wherever it has been done, it was done against my advice, I ask my advocate of this why the second section, restrictive as it is, does not cover the matter.

Mr. Chairman: I should like to say in answer to the gentleman from Graham we are instructing the legislature, and I trust we will keep on instructing the legislature, and personally, just as a matter of curiosity I would like to see the legislature that will refuse to obey the mandate of this convention.

Mr. Webb: As to whether or not the instructions of this convention will be obeyed, depends on whether we have a friendly legislature. I do not think all the virtues are confined to this body, and I am willing to trust the legislature, and I am going on record to leave the matter to the legislature. The second section is restrictive and accomplishes all that the two sections can accomplish. I do not see any reason why you and I should say to the future legislature "do this." It is presumptuous.

[e940949] Mr. Chairman: The motion is that section 1 be stricken out. Those in favor will answer "aye" as their names are called; those opposed "no."

Roll call showed 23 "ayes" and 23 "nays."

Mr. Chairman: The motion is lost.

[e940955] Mr. Crutchfield: I move to amend section 1 by striking out all of lines 1, 2, 3, and 4, making a capital at the beginning of line 4, with the word "any," and after the word "corporation" in line 4, insert "shall be liable" adopting the remainder as a bill of rights. Also in place of the word "such" insert "any hazardous."

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I second the motion.

[e941009] Mr. Connelly: I am not in favor of striking out any of this, for the reason that if the legislature does follow our wishes and pass a law the courts cannot declare it unconstitutional, because we have in the constitution such a provision, whereas if we did not put in anything like this the courts can say it is unconstitutional. I am in favor of the "whole works."

Mr. Webb: Every time we mention anything specifically it is a restriction on the legislature. The legislature will be forced to comply with this. When new conditions arise, it may seem best to leave this out, and every time you specifically mention a thing, you restrict rather than empower the legislature.

Mr. Feeney: For twenty-five years labor has been knocking at the doors of the legislature for an employers' liability act, and has not gotten it, and this is one method of impressing it upon them that we want it. Gentlemen claim it would not be constitutional, but I would like to know what is constitutional and what is legislative; where should the line of demarcation go?

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I believe if this amendment is adopted, it does not make any difference whether the legislature enacts a law or not; under this the employers will be liable. Therefore I am in favor of the amendment.

Mr. Bolan: I would like to say a few words on this measure in defense of it. I am in favor of adopting this first paragraph just as it reads, because you fail to specify or name the conditions, and you might just as well cut out the rest of it. If you have this in the constitution, it specifies that the legislature shall do something in the matter of mine, smelter, street railway transportation and others of the most hazardous occupations.

[e940962] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of making this amendment will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "nays" have it, and the motion is lost.

[e940964] Mr Chairman: [...] Any further amendments to section 1?

Mr. Bolan: I move you that section 1 be adopted as it stands.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 545)

[e940967] The motion prevailed.

[e940969] Mr. Chairman: Section 1 is adopted. Are there any amendments to section 2?

[e940977] Mr. Ingraham: I wish to move an amendment. It seems to me that the expression in line 18 "less than complete and willful negligence" is not clear. I therefore would move to insert after the word "negligence" the following: "Except where such injury or death shall be caused wholly by the negligence of the employee killed or injured." That is as near as may be the phrase used near the close of section 1.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 545-546)

[e940979] Mr. Chairman: Those in favor of making the amendment will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "nays" have it and the motion is lost. Any other amendments?

[e940982] Mr. Wood: On line 18 after the word "negligence" I move to strike out "less" and "complete and willful negligence," as the expression reads "to any degree of negligence" and covers the whole thing it seems to me.

[e940986] Mr. Franklin: I would like some gentleman to explain to me a term I am not familiar with at all. I understand what the word "negligence" means, but I do not understand what anything less than negligence, or complete negligence means. This is evidently inserted for some reason. Now the terms are foreign to me and I would like some gentlemen to explain.

Mr. Bolan: I think I can. In a mine there may be men working underground on the same work, in practically the same place. Some men know it is dangerous and take precautions, refusing to go to work unless reasonably protected, while others are negligent and go willfully into a place of danger.

[e940990] Mr. Wood: I withdraw my motion.

[e940992] Mr. Cunningham: In the case mentioned by my colleague from Cochise, the miner assumes the risk, and he is not permitted to put up a defense. He is assuming the risk of a dangerous occupation.

Mr. Chairman: I will suggest if the gentleman will read this very proposition, he will see the assumption of risk is not permitted. I would say that this does not cover the case mentioned by the gentleman from Cochise. In underground work the risk is assumed by the employer, and there are many cases where strong, bullheaded men have been told by the foreman and by their fellow workmen not to work in certain places, for instance not to pick the roof without standing under a timber. When they are thus willfully negligent and are injured or killed, such men or their relatives should not be in a position to get a recompense.

Mr. Feeney: As a question of information: Would it not be much better if we absolutely and forever abolished the fellow-servant doctrine than write a section this way?

[e940994] Mr. Chairman: The chair rules that the question is on the adoption of section 2 as it stands. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." Section 2 is carried without amendment.

[e940997] Mr. Chairman: [...] The secretary will read the report of the minority in regard to sections 3, 4, and 5.

Secretary (reading): "That section 3 and 5 of said proposition are covered by Proposition Number 50, section 4, by the Committee on Labor.

[e941032] Mr. Connelly: I move that the minority report of this proposition be accepted.

Mr. Feeney: I second the motion.

[e941033] The motion prevailed.

[e941038] Mr. Hunt: I move when the committee arises it report back to the convention that this proposition do pass as amended by the elimination of sections 3, 4, and 5.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 547)

[e941042] Mr. Webb: I demand a division of the question, as I desire to vote against the first section for the reason that it has no force or effect.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 547)

[e941043] Mr. Connelly: I see no reason for a division; we have had a vote on this before.

Mr. Webb: I would like to call attention to Rule 28, that “any member may call for a division of a question if it can be divided so that when a part is taken away a substantial question is left for the decision of the convention.”

[e941045] Mr. Chairman: The chair will rule to save debate, this proposition may be divided. The question will first be on section 1. All those in favor of its adoption answer “aye;” opposed “no.” The secretary will call the roll.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 547)

[e941047] Mr. Goldwater: It seems to me entirely wrong that because some member wants a roll call, we should have one on a question [on] which we have already voted. I am going to vote the same way, but I want to protest against having a roll call.

[e941052] Roll call showed 29 “ayes” and 19 “nays.”

[e941054] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, as my good faith in demanding a roll call has been questioned, I would say that had not six or eight members changed their vote the proposition would not have failed to pass. I knew there were two members in their seats who were not here before and who would vote against the adoption of this section 1. I made the motion in good faith, expecting that the nays would have a majority.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 547)

[e941055] Mr. Chairman: All in favor of accepting the committee report, recommending that section 2 be adopted, answer “aye,” opposed “no.” The motion is carried.

[e941191] Mr. Connelly: I move you that we strike out section 3 and 5 and substitute therefore Proposition Number 50 as amended.

[Editor's Note: Sections 3 and 5 have already been struck out, along with Section 4. However, since Mr. Connelly does not seem to have been aware of this, we have added Section 4 back in to represent the way that he envisions the document looking at this stage.]

[e941194] Mr Chairman: We might just as well pass on Proposition Number 50 independently.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 547)

[e941123] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I move you Proposition Number 50 as amended be adopted.

Mr. Connelly: I second that motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 547)

[e941141] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the minority report, recommending the adoption of Proposition Number 50 as amended.

Mr. Cobb: I move as an amendment that the majority report be adopted.

Mr. Parsons: I second that motion.

[e941150] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the majority report. Those in favor will answer "aye;" opposed "no."

Mr. Crutchfield: Upon the question of striking out the last two lines as recommended by the majority report, I wish to say there are certainly conditions under which this waiver of the right to recover damages would be manifest, unjust, and should be declared void. Some companies are accustomed to provide an agreement that is really a prerequisite to employment, and if the employee[s] sign the contract waiving all right and claim to damages in the case of death or injury above a certain amount which they specify and provide for, and all these circumstances with many others seem to me to make it necessary to retain the second part of the proposition. I feel it would be a distinct loss, and I am therefore opposed to the majority report, and trust the proposition will stand adopted without amendment.

Mr. Jones (Maricopa): I would like to ask some member of the committee—one of the legal fraternity—if it is not a fact that this last sentence would be nullified anyway. If it is true, it would be unwise to put it in here, and I think the matter was discussed and that Judge Baker took that position, which I think is correct.

Mr. Cunningham: I did not have any intention of making any remarks upon any report made by the judiciary committee, and I feel as though the liberties of the people ought to be protected. The constitution of the United States guarantees to the people of the United States equal protection of the law. If we here intend to write in this constitution that a man who is injured cannot have the right to contract, then we are taking from him one of his constitutional rights—that of equal protection of the law. This is in violation of the constitution of the United States. It would be of absolutely no value at all to us to write it in here. We would simply be writing that which would have no effect whatever. It would be absolutely absurd and wrong for us to do it, and therefore I raise my voice in protection of the liberties of the people of Arizona.

Mr. Bolan: The gentleman is perfectly right in certain cases, but under certain conditions there has been injustice practiced upon people who have been injured; especially in railroad accidents. I know that many who are injured on railroads receive a small compensation when they should have received larger compensation if they received their just dues.

[e941213] Mr. Cobb moved, seconded by Mr. Parsons, to amend by recommending the adoption of the majority report; carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Baker, Cassidy, Cobb, Colter, Cooper, Cunningham, Curtis, Ellinwood, Franklin, Hutchinson, Jacome, Jones, F. A., Kingan, Kinney, Langdon, Lynch, Orme, Parsons, Pusch, Sims, R. B., Simms, Mit., Standage, Tuthill, Webb, Weinberger, Wells, Wills. Total 27.

Nays—Bolan, Bradner, Coker, Connelly, Crutchfield, Cunniff, Feeney, Goldwater, Ingraham, Jones, A. M., Keegan, Moore, Morgan, Roberts, Scott, Short, Winsor, Wood, Mr. President, Total 19.

Absent—Lovin, Moeur, Osborn.

Excused—Doe, Tovrea, White.

[e941337] Mr. Chairman: What is the pleasure of the committee?

Mr. Ellinwood: I move the adoption of the report. I would like to say a word on the subject. The American Association for Labor Legislation in its report for August says "the employers' liability act by which the court and jury take responsibility for accidents is not satisfactory because (a) A tedious and costly law-suit is necessary. (b) The court has power (sometimes wrongfully exercised) to non-suit the plaintiff. (c) Even in the case of recovery, one-half of the amount will be taken for expenses, which deters many workmen from bringing suit. We favor legislation without regard to negligence, for the reason that no other scheme of employers' liability act is economically sound, or ethically just." That is my position. This act was taken from an act recently passed in the State of New York, which went into effect on September 1, providing the workmen can take compensation fixed by the legislature at a certain definite amount (\$3,000 for death, and half-pay for eight years for injury, I think.) He can take it regardless of negligence if he wishes, or resort to the court and sue if he sees fit. If he does not limit the liability, he still has the right to come into court and sue.

[e941339] Mr. Short: I do not care whether this is taken from the State of New York, or the state of matrimony, or what not. The fact is that Proposition Number 50 says the legislature must not enact a law of this kind. It is not a matter of whether the employer wants to accept it, it is binding on him.

[e941451] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): In explanation of that report I would say that Saturday evening, I called a meeting of the suffrage and election committee, at which there were four members present including myself, and three decided to indefinitely postpone this proposition; therefore, that report was made that way.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 550)

[e941456] Mr. Ingraham: In explanation of the minority report I will say that a majority of the committee has signed the minority report.

[e941460] Mr. Weinberger: As this is a matter relative to elections, I do not see why we should take it up at this time. Why not take it up with the report of the committee on suffrage and election?

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I would say there is nothing on this line taken up in the report of the suffrage and election committee. Therefore, it can be taken up now, and thus save time.

Mr. Cassidy: I would like to inquire what the object of this proposition is? I do not know any candidate for office who has been required to pay any fee, nor have I heard anybody who wanted him to pay a fee. It seems to me it is a provision wholly unjustified by any circumstances or situation here in Arizona. It is simply encumbering the constitution just that much, if we put it in.

Mr. Ingraham: There is a law to that effect now, actually requiring the payment of fees to stand for office. Now the American principle for years and years has been that the office ought to seek the man, and while the country has grown away from that principle, I hope you will agree with me that it is unfortunate we have done so. Political life is so strenuous that a man must get out and fight his political battles just as he does his industrial battles. It seems to me we have gone to the other extreme in providing that a candidate must pay money before he can run, as the law says today. Also I believe such a law is absolutely unconstitutional, if it were contested, but in the nature of things it cannot well be contested. If you can charge a man $25.00 to stand for the office of sheriff or justice of the peace, you can charge him $250.00, or $25,000.00. The law is un-American in principle, and I believe is unconstitutional.

Mr. Weinberger: What law is it that requires the payment of a fee?

Mr. Ingraham: The direct primary.

Mr. Cassidy: This proposition, it seems to me, does not cover the case of a primary election at all. As I understand it, the word "election" is held by the courts not to mean a primary election, but an ordinary election, and for that reason it seems to me that would not cover the case of the gentlemen from Yuma.

Mr. Parsons: In reply to the gentlemen from Maricopa, I would call his attention to the last portion of this proposition, which not only says election, but says, "nor shall any fee ever be required by any political party or organization to have a name placed on the ballot." I want to add my mite to what the gentleman from Yuma has said. I believe it is un-American to require any man whose friends want him to run for office, to comply with any kind of financial or property qualification. I am in favor of a clear field and a fair fight.

Mr. Ellinwood: I am in favor of this on the ground that I am opposed to all sorts of capitation taxes; I believe in a tax on property.

[e941490] Mr. Winsor: I move when the committee arises it recommend that Proposition Number 91 do pass as amended by the majority report.

[e941497] Mr. Crutchfield: I move to amend that when the committee arises it recommend to the convention the adoption of the minority report.

Mr. Weinberger: I second the motion.

[e941521] Mr. Bolan: I would make an amendment in the third line after the word "language."

Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the minority report. Are you ready for the question?

Mr. Crutchfield: Just a word before we vote. I would like to call the attention of the convention to the fact that the proposition touches the men working underground or in other hazardous occupations, and people who cannot speak the English language are especially inadequate for that work; and that any alien labor over 20 per cent in any kind of employment would be contrary to the rights of American citizens. Sometimes, not twenty per cent, but 80 or 90 per cent have been alien laborers, who are brought here largely by going right over the laws against contract labor, and their further employment in such large numbers should be discouraged.

Mr. Ellinwood: I would like to say just a word to put myself on the record. I have lived under conditions such that probably I have had a better chance to observe this question of alien labor than any here. My opposition to this measure is based upon the constitutionality of the provision. It is in conflict with section 1 of the 14th amendment of the constitution of the United States, that "no person within the jurisdiction of the United States shall be denied the equal protection of the law." Now the only ground on which this could be sustained is the police power of the state, which allows laws relating to public health, public safety, or public morals. The legislature cannot under the guise of police power arbitrarily invade the rights of the people. I think this is in violation of the constitution.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I think this proposition as it stands goes too far. It says "no individual, corporation or association." If a farmer needed two days work, and an alien came along, he would be violating the law because [he] would have over 80 percent of his employees. He would have only one.

Mr. Baker: I do not wish to enlarge on what the gentleman has said upon the unconstitutionality of this law at all. I am thoroughly convinced that all this part of the section would be absolutely void and absolutely in conflict with the 14th amendment of the United States Constitution, and would simply make a laughing stock of us in one sense of the word. It is impossible that you could discriminate against laborers. Now, I cannot see that it is fair to work men underground and in hazardous places and deny the protection, and it looks to me that under the police power of the state it would not be void. The government has the right under the police power to protect the lives of men working underground, and that I wish to vote for, but the other part is unquestionably void in my mind, and I dislike very much to be driven to vote against a law a part of which I like because I am in conscience driven to vote against the minority report.

Mr. Bolan: I think all the gentlemen here who know me know I am heartily in sympathy with anything that is for the good of American labor. I have made it a point to inquire, since this bill came up, as to its legality both from lawyers, who are members of this convention, and outside, and I am perfectly satisfied in my mind that the part of this bill after the word "language" is unconstitutional. Therefore, I will regrettably have to vote against it.

Mr. Ingraham: It is plain to my mind that the first sentence is within the police power of the state, the purpose of it being to protect the lives and safety of men who are employed underground. A person who cannot understand the English language of course cannot be communicated with. He cannot understand orders, and he himself is in more danger than those who can understand the language, and he puts others working around him in danger likewise. It is also plain to me that the last sentence goes entirely beyond the police power of the state. It has been assumed that the second sentence applies to underground work; it does not, it is broader than that. It goes to the extent that any farmer who employs alien labor shall not employ more than 20 percent of alien labor. It is plainly void under the 14th amendment of the constitution. This was enacted soon after the Civil War, and the purpose was that the state should not discriminate against the negro. It was drawn in broader terms, so it applies to all persons, and would apply here.

[e941523] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the adoption of the minority report, that this proposition be adopted unamended. Those in favor will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "nays" have it.

[e941543] Mr. Winsor: I move you that the majority report be amended by adding the word "intelligently" after the word "language" in line 3, and adding the last sentence in paragraph 7: "any violation of this sentence shall be punished as provided by law."

[e941757] [Editor's Note: The Committee report as recorded in both the Records and the Minutes lists recommendations on Propositions Numbers 58 and 120. This is likely a mistake, as the Committee considered neither of these propositions in this session. Furthermore, Proposition Number 120 was indefinitely postponed on November 1, 1910, and Substitute Proposition Number 58 was not reported to the Convention by the Committee on Public Service Corporations until November 23, 1910. It seems likely that '120' was a mistake for '128,' which was taken up and postponed during this session, but does not appear in the report, whilst '58' was simply mistakenly inserted.]

[e940821] Mr. Weinberger: Mr. Chairman, I move that Substitute Proposition Number 6 be taken up first.

Mr. Short: I second that motion.

[e940824] Mr. Cassidy: The gentleman from Pinal, Mr. Coker, concurred with the report except as to section 1, and I move we consider the remainder, commencing at section 2.

Mr. Cunniff: I will second that motion.

Mr. Cobb: I accept that amendment, Mr. Chairman, and move that section 1 be made a special order for tomorrow morning.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 558-559)

[e940825] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved to take up the consideration of Substitute Proposition Number 6 with the exception of section 1, beginning at section 2, and that section 1 be made a special order for tomorrow. Those in favor of this motion will answer "aye," those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and it is so ordered.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 559)

[e940829] Mr. Webb: I move an amendment to the original proposition that it be placed at the head of the calendar for tomorrow morning.

Mr. Wills: I second that motion.

Mr. Chairman: Gentlemen, it has been moved by Mr. Cassidy, and amended by Mr. Webb that consideration of section 1 of Substitute Proposition Number 6 be made special order for tomorrow morning and placed at the head of the calendar. Call the roll.

[e940862] Mr. Chairman: If there are no objections it will be so considered.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 559)

[e940867] Mr. Osborn: Mr. Chairman, I move that the minority report be substituted for the majority report. There is more language in the majority report than in the minority report, which covers the grounds sufficiently.

[e940876] Mr. Webb: Mr. Chairman, I move you that section be stricken out.
Mr. Osborn: I second that motion.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Page 559)

[e940877] Mr. Jones (Yavapai): It seemed advisable to retain this section, respecting the use of the voting machine and I approve of retaining that section if we adopt that report

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I do not see why that should be done or why such a motion should prevail.

Mr. Cobb: In California, just recently, there was passed as amendment to the constitution and the amendment was exactly the same.

Mr. Webb: I think the legislature can attend to this matter and I can see nothing at all to be accomplished by retaining this section. It does not appeal to me as being very reasonable.

Mr. Cobb: I think it is very reasonable. Very recently several states have adopted voting machines and we may want to adopt one some time.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 559-560)

[e940879] Mr. Parsons: I offer an amendment that section 1 be adopted.

Mr. Cobb: I second that motion.

[e940882] Mr. Chairman: It has been moved by the gentlemen from Graham, Mr. Webb and seconded by Mr. Osborn of Maricopa, that section 1 be stricken out and the motion has been amended by Mr. Parsons and seconded by Mr. Cobb that the section be adopted. Those in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "nay." The motion is carried. What is your pleasure, gentlemen, with regard to this section?

(Editorial, Page 560)

[e940884] [Editor's Note: The Committee of the Whole considered Section 2.]

(Editorial)

[e940886] Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I move that section 2 of the majority report be stricken out and section 2 of the minority report be substituted, therefore.

Mr. Webb: I second the motion.

[e940890] Mr. Orme: I wish to amend that motion by moving that section 2 be adopted.

Mr. Crutchfield: I second that motion.

[e940893] Mr. Cunniff: I would like to point out that it is customary in constitutions, or that is in state constitutions from Massachusetts to Oklahoma, and I think it is positively necessary that they contain such a measure as the minority report contains, and I think that Arizona can safely follow this example.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): I would just like to state that the majority report has an error. This was a part of that report, but it was left out by the printer.

Mr. Chairman: The question is now upon the motion of Mr. Cunniff, seconded by Mr. Webb, to strike out section 2 of the majority report and inserting [sic, insert] section 2 of the minority report, and this motion was amended by Mr. Orme, seconded by Mr. Crutchfield, that the section be adopted.

Mr. Webb: Since this explanation I think that the gentleman from Maricopa will be willing to withdraw his motion.

[e940894] Mr. Chairman: Does the gentleman wish to withdraw?

Mr. Orme: I withdraw.

[e940895] Mr. Chairman: The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai, Mr. Cunniff, seconded by Mr. Webb, that section 2 of the minority report be inserted in lieu of section 2 of the majority report, and that section 2 of the majority report be stricken out.

Mr. Winsor: I object to the proposition as it is something I have not been able to decide upon.

Mr. Osborn: I would like to have explained what difference there is between section 2 of the majority report and that matter of qualified electors adopted today.

Mr. Cunniff: I am heartily in favor of adopting this section into the constitution and I will just say that the section which I have moved to have inserted in the majority report in lieu of section 2 of that report gives more to work upon, and is the very best measure to adopt. I hope that my motion prevails.

Mr. Ellinwood: I am heartily in favor of this section also. It seems to me that since we have already adopted the initiative and referendum, by which the voters are to pass on laws or a good many laws, that will be impossible for all classes to do so intelligently unless we have an educational qualification law. How in the name of common sense can the people pass intelligently upon their laws if they cannot vote intelligently, if they cannot speak the English language. I am strongly in favor of that section and hope that the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai will prevail.

Mr. Feeney: You have today voted that no man can go down into a mine who cannot read the English language or speak it. Are you going to say the man you will [sic, not] let engage in a hazardous occupation because he cannot read can go into a voting booth and run this country?

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, the serious objection I have to this minority [sic, report] is that I very seriously doubt that it conforms to the enabling act. This enabling act, as I read it, states that the educational qualification that is prescribed by the statutes of the territory of Arizona shall not [sic, shall be] be in effect, regarding especially the officers who are to be elected under the enabling act. I very much doubt if it is in the province of this convention to contravene the expressions of this enabling act, and to provide other qualifications than those prescribed. Unless I have further light upon that subject I do not propose to put anything into this constitution that is contrary to the enabling act.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to ask the gentleman from Maricopa if there is anything in the enabling act which prescribed what the qualifications of voters shall or shall not be after the adoption of the constitution?

Mr. Osborn: This provision does not go into effect until after we are admitted to statehood.

Mr. Colter: Mr. Chairman, does not the enabling act provide that the laws of 1901 shall be in effect at the first state election?

Mr. Osborn: The first state election? I believe that we are not admitted to statehood until after we hold the first state election, and after the state officers are elected the President issues a proclamation declaring Arizona a free and sovereign state. The first state election must be held under the provisions of the enabling act.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 560-561)

[e940897] Mr. Ellinwood: I move an amendment that the following be inserted in lieu of section 2 in the majority report, being the same as the minority report save and except the first sentence: "After the first State election of State officers every male person of the age of twenty-one years or over, possessing the following qualifications shall be entitled to vote in all general elections for all officers which thereafter may be elective by the people and upon all questions which may be submitted to the vote of the people. First, he must be a citizen of the United States, second, he shall have resided in this State one year, immediately preceding the election at which he offers to vote, in the town, country, or precinct, such time as may be prescribed by law. Third, he shall be able to read the Constitution of this State in English and write his name; Provided, that the provisions of this section not apply to any person prevented by physical disability from complying with this requisition.”

Mr. Osborn: I second the amendment.

[e940901] Mr. Weinberger: I would like to ask the gentleman from Cochise a question. We are going to have one election under the enabling act, and then we are going to have our first state election. Do you mean the election under the Enabling Act?”

Mr. Ellinwood: After the first state election. The qualifications of the first state election are provided in the enabling act.

Mr. Weinberger: The first state election will be the second election that we will have.

Mr. Ellinwood: The second election that we will have, yes.

Mr. Weinberger: And the present law will exist until after the second election?

Mr. Ellinwood: It certainly is.

Mr. Osborn: The President will not issue his proclamation until after the election for state officers.

Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, I think I can cure that all right. After the first election of state officers—

Mr. Ellinwood: That will fix it absolutely. If you will just change that in accordance with Mr. Cobb’s amendment. This minority report says on line 3 “that are now or hereafter may be elected by the people.” That is changed to “thereafter may be.”

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): Mr. Chairman, this clause in the constitution cannot have any effect on the election of the first state officers because it does not go into effect until after the President’s proclamation which comes after those officers are elected; therefore it is entirely unnecessary. It absolutely cannot apply to the election of the first state officers for the simple reason that the constitution does not go into effect until after.

[Speech by Ingraham of Yuma not located.]

[Speech by Ellinwood of Cochise not located.]

[Speech by Winsor of Yuma not located.]

Mr. Franklin: Mr. Chairman, I have lost the thread of this proposition in the argument. As I understand the position of the gentleman from Cochise that after the first state election of state officers we have the authority to prescribe the qualifications for electors, but so far as the election of state officers is concerned, their qualifications are prescribed by the enabling act. Is that true, Mr. Ellinwood?

Mr. Ellinwood: Yes, sir.

Mr. Franklin: I am heartily in accord with that. I believe the enabling act is clear in that respect, and I will vote for this amendment for this reason, and if we do anything else we are doing something repugnant to the very thing that gives us the authority to vote.

Mr. Winsor: May I ask a question? Mr. Franklin, do you wish the constitution to state all the qualifications of electors, closing the door against all other qualifications that might be proposed hereafter?

Mr. Franklin: I will state in reply that I wish the constitution of the state of Arizona to conform first to the provisions of the enabling act, which grants the authority to make it, and next to the wishes of the people of the State of Arizona.

Mr. Winsor: That does not answer my question.

Mr. Franklin: And I say the provisions here in this section are drastic enough to suit anybody.

Mr. Winsor: Do you wish to close the door so that no more qualifications may be made thereafter?

Mr. Franklin: I am not concerned about closing the door. What I am concerned [about] is that in the first state election the qualifications of electors for the first officers in the state election shall not be other than that [sic, those] prescribed by the enabling act. After that I am not particularly concerned

Mr. Osborn: It seems to me the only reason why the members of this convention would vote against an educational qualification is because they think Congress might turn the constitution down. The gentleman from Yuma seems to be very much exercised because he thinks that would be the one thing that Congress would look for. In reading the proceedings before the Senate committee I would say that in all those proceedings not once is mentioned the educational qualification, and it seems to me if Congress had been so much exercised over this educational qualification, Senate Beveridge at least would have made some inquiry into this thing.

Mr. Cunniff: Mr. Chairman, I am surprised at all this discussion, and also surprised at the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise. I have in hand the Michigan pamphlet on elections, and I will read just a few of the provisions: "Every male citizen of this state, who is a citizen of the United States, shall be entitled to vote at any election of the people." "He shall have resided in the state at least two years." "After the first day of January, 1903, the following persons, and no others." "Every male citizen of the United States, or male person who has declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the same." "No property qualifications shall be required for any person to vote or hold office." "Every person over the age of 21 years." There is no mention of state electors. This seems to have been drawn up in an intelligent way.

Mr. Franklin: I would like to ask the gentleman if the enabling act in these various states has prescribed qualifications for the election of the first state officers.

Mr. Cunniff: No.

Mr. Franklin: Arizona has done that.

Mr. Cunniff: That makes no difference. The constitution of Arizona goes into effect just as the constitution of the other states went into effect, and nothing can have any bearing whatsoever in regard to that election for state officers.

Mr. Jones (Yavapai): This convention has a sub-committee which was appointed by the president of this convention to draw up an ordinance covering the first election of state officers. That in itself is sufficient proof that this proposition is not supposed to cover the first state election.

Mr. Winsor: Mr. Chairman, I want to point out another defect and a conflict in the amendment proposed by the minority [of the] committee as amended by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood. Section 2 of the minority report states that "every male person over the age of 21 years possessing the following qualifications shall be entitled to vote," and the qualifications are named. Everyone possessing these qualifications is entitled to vote. If you will turn to section 8 you will find that no person under guardianship, non compos mentis or insane is entitled to vote. There is an absolute conflict of qualifications here.

Mr. Cobb: You will find that conflict in every constitution written in the United States.

Mr. Winsor: No, you won't. You will find the qualifications stated in the negative.

Mr. Webb: It seems to me that the two gentlemen from Yuma ought to abstain now, surely, when one has attempted to offer a further amendment, and it has not been entertained by the chair, for these defects can be corrected as soon as we have passed upon this question. I do not claim that the section will suit me altogether, but I am going to vote for it, and these small defects can be remedied as long as the question stands as it is now.

[Speech by Ingraham of Yuma not located.]

Mr. Chairman: The question before the house is on the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai to strike out section 2, of the majority report, of this Proposition Number 21, and substitute therefore section 2, of the minority report, and the motion has been amended by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood.

Mr. Cobb: Mr. Chairman, just a few words; here is the report of the proceedings before the Senate committee, and I wish to draw your attention to the distinction Senator Beveridge made between an educational qualification and so-called educational qualification as provided in the statutes of Arizona. All through these proceedings you will find it was not the educational qualification but it was the discretion placed in the hands of the registering officer. Mr. Morrison was being questioned. "The Chairman: It will disqualify them before they even get to the registration officer? Mr. Morrison: Yes, sir, they will not get there at all. Senator Hughes: That is, they do not possess the necessary educational qualifications? Mr. Morrison: That is it. The Chairman: No. Senator Hughes: That is what he says. Mr. Chairman: They do not possess the qualification named in this bill. Senator Hughes: That is the educational qualification of the bill. The Chairman: That is the so-called educational qualifications." They did not object to an educational qualification. But it was the discretion of the registration officer.

Mr. Cunniff: I would like to say one additional word strictly to the point. I cannot support the amendment if we do not provide for something behind us.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 562-565)

[e940907] Mr Chairman: All in favor of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Cochise, Mr. Ellinwood, manifest by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion is lost. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Yavapai to strike out section 2 of the majority substitute, and substitute therefore section 2 of the minority report.

(The Records of the Arizona Constitutional Convention of 1910, Pages 562-565)
