Anna's Fair Paper

- ① Build a Government of Ireland Act (no longer within UK)
- ② Democratically-mandated - what does it mean.
- ③ Confidence-building measures (not to be one-sided)

Note: that in regarding the question of confidence building measures in respect of one side.

Reynolds emphasizes the need for a default mechanism for North/South bodies.

Donn's want to clarify the position in respect of lines of responsibility & accountability of North-South bodies.

In response to the Fin Gal questioning of John Butler, Albert Reynolds indicated that the first reports to North-South bodies should be from London. [This needs to be challenged].

SDLP Paper

interesting response from Alan Farrow in respect of human rights - North-South - no structural codes - possibly complementary / harmonized North-South.
