After a three day's rest, the solons of the unlawfully; by Mr. Parsons of Morton, file 29, convention came together on Thursday of last in regard to who shall be deemed electors; week, nearly all of the members appearing in Mr. Miller, file 30, another prohibitive article their seats. Melette be invited to property, preamble to the constitution, were address the convention, and that Messrs. introduced. Robertson, Stevens and Purcell, be appointed a committee to escort him to the hall, which was carried. When the governor made his appearance he was received with applause. Thanking the convention for the courtesy and kindness extended to him by the people of will not submit it to the convention for several North Dakota, he said that in one sense he days. The salaries recommended are as folwas a foreigner in North Dakota. A resident lows: gevernor, $3,000; lieutenant governor, of South Dakota, the political conditions were such that he did not feel as though he should have anything to say with regard to the affairs of North Dakota. His personal and political interests were in the south, but he could not resist the feeling of interest with which he looked upon the constitutional convention of North Dakota. In looking beyond the territory to the halls of national legislation, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington were all as one, and he believed the time was now at hand when the people living west of the Mississippi valley will wield the directing influence in the policy and advancement of the nation. The governor laid particular emphasis upon the purification of the ballot. He thought the constitution should deal vigorously with this matter, and if he could have his way the man who sold his vote either as a citizen or a member of the legislature, would ever after be disfranchised; and a like penalty would be imposed upon the purchaser. This sentiment was loudly applauded. After the governor's remarks an informal recess was taken to allow the members to pay their respects to him. After recess Mr. Purcell offered a resolution empowering the joint commission of North and South Dakota to agree upon the exact location of the seventh standard parallel, which, after discussion, was laid over. On on reform of Sunday laws. On Friday when the convention met the resolution offered the day before by Mr. Purcell to settle which of the two lines shall be considered as the 7th standard parallel was adopted. Mr. Johnson offered the first article presented to the convention for adoption into the motion of Mr. Roger Allin, Mr. Wiley of Indiana was allowed to address the convention up-all troops of the state militia when on duty, and all officers of the military, executive legislative and judicial departments of the state government when traveling on official business, at a uniform rate of not to exceed one cent per mile, to be paid out of the state treasury as provided by law.

It was referred to the committee on corporations other than municipal. Mr. Griggs of Grand Forks, introduced an article intended to provide against the division of counties, the creation of new counties with less than 2000 population, and the removal of county seats except upon a two-thirds vote of the people, and then only once in four years. Mr. Wallace of Steele from the special committee on renting rooms for committee work made a on renting rooms for committee work made a report. Mr. Richardson introduced a resolution that all county officers shall remain in ofton that all county of the state of the county of the state of the county o fice till the expiration of the time for which they were elected.

At Saturday's session Mr. Johnson of Nelson, offered a long article containing 19 sections, of which the following is a synopsis: No corporation shall be created or have its charter extended, changed or amended by special laws, except those for charitable, edu-cational, penal or reformatory purposes, which are to remain under the patronage and control of the state. But the legislature shall provide by general laws for the organization of all cor-porations hereafter to be created; exclusive privileges not taken advantage of are declared invalid, and franchises of corporations are made subject to public use; no stocks or bonds shall be issued by any corporation except for money, property, or servi es actually render-ed; the legislature is empowered to alter or annul charters, if no injustice is thereby done; annut charters, it not nustice is thereby done; no official or employe of any railroad is permitted to furnish supplies or material to said corporation; annual reports to the public officials is required; railways are declared to be common carriers and subject to legislative control; discrimination and extortion in rates shall be presented by legislative prospersion. shall be prevented by legislative enactment, and just compensation must be rendered for public use of private property.

Mr. Parsons of Rolette, offered an article making Bismarck the temporary capital, and providing for its permanent location by a vote of the people. Mr. Camp presented an article providing for a board of pardons, to consist of the governor, attorney general, and judges of the supreme court, a two-thirds majority of which body will be required to decide in favor of pardon or commutation. Mr. Clark, by an article presented, wished the new constitution to provide that it shall be the duty of the general assembly to establish courts of arbitration whereby differences may be settled without submitting them to trial by jury except as a last resort. Mr. Rolfe offered an article to provide that taxes shall be uniform on real | Hope, N. D. and personal property assessed according to legislative enactment. Mr. Grey offered the following article:

The house of representatives shall consist of three times the number of members of the senate and the term of office shall be two years; three representatives shall be elected in each senatorial district at the first general election held after this constitution takes of fect, and every two years thereafter; in all elections of representatives afterward, each qualified voter may cast as many votes for one candidate as there are representatives to be elected, or may distribute the same or equal parts thereof among the candidates as he shall see fit, and the candidates highest in the votes

Mr. Bartlett wished to provide for a legislature of two houses, a senator from each county and a house consisting of from 75 to 150 members. Mr. Bartlett also offered an article to consider as fraudulent all ballots purporting to be a regular party ticket, but having other names printed thereon. He further proposed to empower the legislature to provide for the qualiacations of office holders. President Sprague the panacea for all ills of government. Monday was a very busy day with the convention. On motion of Mr. Parsons of Morton, the convention ordered the printing of 100 copies of the Australian bill as passed by the last legislature. Mr. Parsons of Rolette introduced file No. 20, an article dividing the trict. Mr. Wallace introduced file 21, providng that no money shall be paid out of the sury except upon warrants properly audi . sed; file 22, which relates to jurisdiction of mortgage, deed of trust, contract or other obligation for the purposes of taxation shall be deemed an interest in the property affected thereby; also file 24, to prevent the manufacure and sale of intoxicating liquors. Mr. Stevens introduced file 25, to provide a legislature of one house, of not less than 100 members; by Mr. Elliott, file 27, a prohibitive clause to be submitted as a separate article; also file 28, to punish any officer using public money

The convention has now got down to busi ness, and from this on hard work will be the order of the day.

The committee on executive has agreed on its report on the salaries of state officers, but $1,000-tauditor and commissioner of insurance. $2,500; secretary of state, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, commissioner of schools and public lands and attorney general general, $2,000 each. The committee also recommend that the railroad commission consist of three members, who shall be elected and whose salary shall be $2,000 each.

The joint commission for the adjustment of the debt and the division of property of the territory between the two states were in session several hours. The time was spent in discussing a basis of division. Caldwell of South Dakota proposed a division of public institutions be made as they now stand. South Dakota assuming indebtedness for those located in South Dakota, North Dakota assuming situtions be made as they now stand. South Dakota assuming indebtedness for those located in South Dakota, North Dakota assuming the debt of those in the north. This basis was approved very heartily by the members from the north who had been inclined toward making the division on the basis of value and money expended.

Mr. Miller of Richland, arrived on Saturday on a political mission, and it has transpired that be will not enter the republican convention against Gen. Allen, but should it appear that Gen. Allen cannot obtain the momination, in that case Mr. Miller will accept first place on the ticket, in which event Fancher will probably obtain the nomination for second place, though he has many warm friends who are urging him for governor. The political pot is beginning to bubble and boil, and many are the distinguished gentiemen who deem it necessary in these days to make a pilgrimage to Bismarck. The opinion seems to grow that Gen. Allen still stands the best show of carrying off the gubernatorial prize, but there is plenty of time between now and the assembling of the convention, and as the evidence seems to deepen that Smith Stimmel cannot carry Case county against Allen, there are many of the alliance men who favor dropping Stimmel and taking up either Miller or Fancher. Was it not for the fact that Milley does not wish to oppose Allen, there is but little doubt but that are could be easily nominated.
